486. Return or forfeiture of candidate's deposit at local authority or London mayoral election.

A candidate's deposit at an election for the return of an elected local authority mayor or for the return of London Mayor¹ is forfeited to the local authority² of the electoral area³ concerned or to the Greater London Authority⁴ (as the case may be) if a poll is taken and if, after the first calculation is completed⁵, the candidate is found not to have polled more than one-twentieth of the total number of first preference votes polled by all the candidates⁶.

Otherwise, the deposit must be returned, not later than the next day⁷ after that on which the result of the election is declared, to the person making it or to his personal representatives⁸. For these purposes, a deposit is to be treated as being returned on a day if a cheque for the amount of the deposit is posted on that day⁹. However, if the candidate is not shown as standing nominated in the statement of persons nominated or if proof of his death has been given to the returning officer¹⁰ before the first calculation is completed¹¹, the deposit must be returned¹² as soon as practicable after the publication of the statement or after his death, as the case may be¹³.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/(viii) Final Proceedings/D. ELECTIONS TO THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY FOR WALES/490. Return or forfeiture of candidate's deposit at Welsh Assembly election.

490. Return or forfeiture of candidate's deposit at Welsh Assembly election.

The deposit made at an Assembly election¹ must be: (1) returned to the person making it or his personal representatives, in the case of a candidate at a constituency election² or an individual candidate³ at a regional election⁴; (2) returned to the registered nominating officer of a registered political party⁵ which has submitted a party list⁶, in the case of regional election⁷; or (3) forfeited to the Secretary of State⁸.

Generally, a deposit must be returned not later than the next day after that on which the result or results of the election are declared⁹. For these purposes, the deposit must be treated as being returned on a day if a cheque for the amount of the deposit is posted on that day¹⁰.

However, if a poll is taken, the deposit must be forfeited in any case where, after the counting of the votes (including any recount), a candidate (in the case of a constituency election)¹¹ or an individual candidate or a registered political party (in the case of a regional election)¹² is found not to have polled more than one-twentieth of the total number of votes polled by all the candidates or, as the case may be, all the individual candidates and registered political parties¹³. If at an Assembly election a person is shown as standing nominated as a candidate at a constituency election¹⁴ or an individual or party list candidate at a regional election¹⁵ and, by virtue of such nomination, he is in breach of the requirements for inclusion in a party list¹⁶ or in breach of the requirements to be an individual candidate¹⁷, either his deposit¹⁸, or the deposit paid in respect of the group of party list candidates of which he is such a candidate¹⁹, must be forfeited²⁰.

If a candidate at a constituency election²¹ or an individual candidate or each and every candidate included on a party list at a regional election²² is not shown as standing nominated in the statement of persons nominated²³, or if notice of the poll is countermanded or the poll is abandoned by reason of a candidate's death²⁴, the deposit must be returned²⁵ as soon as practicable after the publication of the statement or after his death²⁶.

A. SEALING OF BALLOT PAPERS

493. Sealing up of ballot papers.

On the completion of the counting at a contested election or at a poll consequent on a parish meeting involving an appointment to office¹, the returning officer² must seal up in separate packets the counted and rejected ballot papers³.

The returning officer must not open the sealed packets of: (1) tendered ballot papers⁴; (2) the completed corresponding number lists (in the case of a parliamentary election or a local government election for a principal area, parish or community)⁵ or counterfoils (in the case of any other election)⁶; (3) certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll⁷; or (4) marked copies of the register of electors⁸ and lists of proxies⁹.

1 As to contested elections and polls consequent on a parish or community meeting involving an appointment to office see PARA 368 et seq ante. As to the deemed completion of the counting of the votes at a European parliamentary election in cases where the count has commenced before the close of the polling in the member state whose electors are the last to vote in the election see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 9(1), Sch 1 para 48(6); and PARA 471 ante. As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

In the case of a London Authority election, the appropriate returning officer in this context is the constituency returning officer (for the meaning of which see PARA 218 note 8 ante). In the case of a Welsh Assembly election, the appropriate returning officer in this context is the constituency returning officer (for the meaning of which see PARA 18 note 2 ante). See note 4 supra. As to the list of proxies see PARA 378 ante. There is no provision for voting by proxy at a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office and accordingly the reference to the list of proxies is omitted in that case: see the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 33(2). C. RETENTION AND INSPECTION OF ELECTION DOCUMENTS

503. Retention and inspection of documents relating to parliamentary elections.

The relevant registration officer¹ must retain for a year all documents relating to a parliamentary election² forwarded to him by a returning officer³; and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of the House of Commons or the High Court, the Crown Court or a magistrates' court⁴, must cause them to be destroyed⁵. All documents so forwarded (except ballot papers, the completed corresponding number lists⁶ and certificates as to employment on the day of the poll⁷) must be open to public inspection⁸. The relevant registration officer must, on request, supply to any person copies of or extracts from such description of the documents open to public inspection as is prescribed by regulations⁹; and a copy of the marked copies of the register, the postal voters list¹⁰, the list of proxies¹¹ and the proxy postal voters list¹² must, on request, be supplied to a registered party¹³ or to a person who was a candidate at the election in relation to the constituency for which he was a candidate¹⁴.

Any person entitled to be supplied¹⁵ with copies of the full register¹⁶ at a particular parliamentary election is also a person entitled¹⁷ to request¹⁸ that a relevant registration officer supply copies of the relevant part¹⁹ of the marked register or lists he is required to keep²⁰. The relevant registration officer must supply a copy of the relevant part of the marked register or lists where a request is duly made²¹, and if: (1) he is satisfied that the requestor needs to see the marks on the marked register or lists in order to achieve the purpose for which it is requested²²; and (2) he has received payment of a fee²³. If the relevant registration officer is not satisfied in accordance with head (1) above, he may treat the request for a marked register or list as a request for information in unmarked lists²⁴, or as a request for the published copy of the full register²⁵, or both²⁶.

Any person is entitled to request that the relevant registration officer make available for inspection a copy of any of the marked register or lists or such other documents relating to an election as the relevant registration officer is required by or under any enactment to retain for any period (except ballot papers, completed corresponding number lists and certificates as to employment on the day of the election)²⁷. The relevant registration officer must make the documents open to public inspection available for inspection under supervision not later than 10 days²⁸ after the date of receipt of a request that has been duly made²⁹. However, where a request has been made to inspect copies of the marked register or lists³⁰ and the relevant registration officer is not satisfied that the purposes of the requestor cannot be met by inspection of the full register, he must inform the requestor of his decision to this effect and he must provide the requestor with information concerning the availability of the published full register³¹. The relevant registration officer must, on request, supply free of charge copies of any documents open to public inspection to a person who has inspected those documents and who is entitled to be supplied with a copy of the marked register or lists³².

16 For the meaning of 'full register' see PARA 166 note 2 ante.

17 le subject to the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 117 (as added) and reg 119 (as added) (see note 20 infra).

18 A person whose entitlement to request copies of the marked register or lists under ibid reg 117(1) (as added) arises from being in a category of persons covered by reg 103 (as added) (supply of full register to elected representatives for electoral purposes: see PARA 182 ante), reg 105 (as added) (supply of full register to local constituency parties: see PARA 182 ante), reg 106 (as added) (supply of full register to registered political parties: see PARA 182 ante) or reg 108 (as added) (supply of full register to certain candidates: see PARA 182 ante) before a particular election, is entitled to request those documents regardless of whether he remains in a entitled category after that election for which the marked register or list was prepared: reg 117(2) (regs 116-120 added by SI 2006/2910).

20 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 117(1) (reg 117 as added: see note 18 supra). A request such as is mentioned in the text must be made in writing and must specify which of the marked register or lists (or the relevant part of the register or lists) are requested, state whether a printed copy of the records or lists is requested or a copy in data form, and state the purposes for which the marked register or lists will be used and why the supply or purchase of a copy of the full register or unmarked lists would not be sufficient to achieve that purpose: reg 117(3) (as so added). For the meaning of 'data form' see PARA 177 note 11 ante. Subject to any direction by the Secretary of State under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 52(1) (as amended) (discharge of registration duties: see PARA 156 ante), any duty on a relevant registration officer to supply records or lists under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt 7 (regs 116-120) (as added) imposes only a duty to provide that information in the form in which he holds it: reg 116(4) (reg 116 as added: see note 18 supra). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

A person who obtains a copy of any part of a marked register or list under reg 117 (as added) may use it only for the permitted purposes specified in reg 119(2) (as added), and any conditions specified therein (or which would apply to the use of the full register under whichever of the regulations (specified in note 15 supra) entitled that person to obtain that document) apply to such use: reg 117(6) (as so added). The conditions referred to in reg 117(6) (as added) apply to a person to whom the marked register or list, or any information contained in it (that is not contained in the edited register) has been so supplied or disclosed as they apply to the person to whom those regulations apply: reg 117(7) (as so added). For the meaning of 'edited register' see PARA 166 note 4 ante. Any person who has obtained or is entitled to obtain a copy of the marked register or lists under reg 117 (as added) may supply a copy of the marked register or lists to a processor for the purpose of processing the information contained therein, or procure that a processor processes and supplies to him any copy of the information in the marked register or lists which the processor has obtained under reg 117 (as added), for use in respect of the purposes for which that person is entitled to obtain any such copy or information (as the case may be): reg 117(8) (as so added). The processor may not disclose the information so supplied except to the person who supplied it to the processor or an employee of that person or a person who is entitled to obtain a copy of the full register under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended) or any employee of such a person: reg 92(9) (reg 92 added by SI 2002/1871); applied by the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 116(3) (as so added). As to references to an employee of any person who has access to a copy of the full register see PARA 177 note 6 ante; and for the meaning of 'processor' see PARA 177 note 11 ante (provisions applied by virtue of reg 116(3) (as so added)). Where a person obtains copies of the information in the marked register or lists in accordance with reg 117(1) (as added), the permitted purpose (as to which see PARA 176 note 18 ante) means either research purposes within the meaning of that term in the Data Protection Act 1998 s 33 (see CONFIDENCE AND DATA PROTECTION vol 8(1) (2003 Reissue) PARA 551) or electoral purposes: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 119(2) (reg 119 as added: see note 18 supra). In Pt 7 (as added), references to the 'marked register or lists' means any part of the marked copies of the full register, the postal voters list, the list of proxies and the proxy postal voters list, forwarded to the relevant registration officer either under the Representation of the People Act 1983 Sch 1 r 55(1)(b), (c) (as amended) (see PARA 494 ante) or under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 91 (as amended) (see PARA 495 ante): reg 116(1) (as so added).

21 Ibid reg 117(4) (as added: see note 18 supra).

22 Ibid reg 117(4)(a) (as added: see note 18 supra).

23 Ibid reg 117(4)(b) (as added: see note 18 supra). The fee referred to in the text must be calculated in accordance with reg 120 (as added): reg 117(4)(b) (as so added). Accordingly, the formula used for this purpose is the same as for calculation of the fee for sale of the full register and notices, set out in reg 111(5) (as added) (as to which see PARA 184 ante): reg 120 (reg 120 as added: see note 18 supra).

24 Ie under ibid reg 61 (as substituted) (see PARAS 378, 386 ante).

25 Ie in accordance with ibid reg 102 (as added and amended) (see PARA 182 ante).

26 Ibid reg 117(5) (as added: see note 18 supra).

27 Ibid reg 118(1) (reg 118 as added: see note 18 supra). The documents specified in the text are referred to in reg 118 (as added) and reg 119 (as added) as the 'documents open to public inspection': reg 118(1) (as so added). A request such as is mentioned in the text must be made in writing and must specify which documents are requested, the purposes for which the information in any document will be used, any reason why inspecting the full register or unmarked lists would not be sufficient to achieve that purpose (where the request is to inspect the marked register or lists), who will inspect the documents, the date on which they wish to inspect the documents, and whether they would prefer to inspect the documents in a printed or data form: reg 118(2) (as so added). Subject to any direction by the Secretary of State under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 52(1) (as amended) (discharge of registration duties: see PARA 156 ante), any duty on a registration officer to make records or lists available for inspection under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt 7 (as added) imposes only a duty to provide that information in the form in which he holds it: reg 116(4) (reg 116 as added: see note 18 supra).

A person who obtains a copy of or information in any document open to public inspection under reg 118 (as added) may use it only for the permitted purposes specified in reg 119 (as added), and any conditions specified in reg 119 (as added) or in reg 118(7) (as added), or which would apply to the use of the full register under reg 109 (as added and amended) (supply of full register to police forces and other agencies: see PARA 182 ante) where such a person has obtained a copy of that document under reg 118(8) (as added) (see the text and note 32 infra), apply to such use: reg 118(5) (as so added). The restrictions on the supply, disclosure and use of the full register in reg 94 (as added) (restrictions on supply of full register and disclosure of information from it by the registration officer and his staff: see PARA 176 ante) and reg 96 (as added and amended) (restrictions on use of full register or information contained in it: see PARA 176 ante) apply to documents open to public inspection, as they apply to the full register (reg 119(1) (reg 119 as added: see note 18 supra)), except that, where a person inspects information in accordance with reg 118(1) (as added), the permitted purpose (as to which see PARA 176 note 18 ante) means either research purposes within the meaning of that term in the Data Protection Act 1998 s 33 (see CONFIDENCE AND DATA PROTECTION vol 8(1) (2003 Reissue) PARA 551) or electoral purposes (Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 119(2) (as so added)).

28 For these purposes, any period of days must be calculated in accordance with ibid reg 56(6) (as amended) and reg 56(7) (see PARA 372 note 6 ante): reg 116(2) (as added: see note 18 supra).

29 Ibid reg 118(3) (reg 118 as added: see note 18 supra). Where inspection takes place by providing a copy of the records or lists on a computer screen or otherwise in data form, the relevant registration officer must ensure that the manner in, and equipment on, which that copy is provided do not permit any person consulting that copy to search it by electronic means by reference to the name of any person or to copy or transmit any part of that copy by electronic or any other means: reg 118(6) (as so added). Subject to reg 118(8) (as added) (see the text and note 32 infra), a person who inspects a copy of a document open to public inspection, whether a printed copy or in data form, may not make copies of any part of it, or record any particulars in it, except that a person who inspects a copy of the marked register or lists may make handwritten notes: reg 118(7) (as so added). The provision allowing copying that usually applies where a document is made available for inspection under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended) does not apply to any of the documents open to public inspection under reg 118 (as added): reg 7(6) (added by SI 2006/2910).

30 Ibid under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 118(2) (as added) (see note 27 supra).

31 Ibid reg 118(4) (as added: see note 18 supra). The text refers to the availability of the published full register for inspection in accordance with reg 43 (as amended) (publication of register: see PARA 164 ante).

32 Ibid reg 118(8) (as added: see note 18 supra). The text refers to entitlement to be supplied with a copy of the marked register or lists by virtue of being a person to whom reg 109 (as added and amended) (supply of full register to police forces and other agencies: see PARA 182 ante) applies: reg 118(8) (as so added). Where a copy of any information was supplied in the circumstances to which reg 118(8) (as added) applies, the permitted purpose means the purposes set out in reg 109(4) (as added) (see PARA 182 ante): reg 119(3) (as added: see note 18 supra). As to further conditions imposed regarding the use of information so obtained see note 27 supra.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/(ix) Disposal of Documents/C. RETENTION AND INSPECTION OF ELECTION DOCUMENTS/504. Retention and inspection of documents relating to certain local elections and local authority mayoral elections.

504. Retention and inspection of documents relating to certain local elections and local authority mayoral elections.

Following a local government election¹, the relevant registration officer² must retain for one year all documents relating to such an election forwarded to him³ by a returning officer⁴ and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of a county court, a Crown court, a magistrates' court or an election court⁵, must cause them to be destroyed⁶. The relevant registration officer⁷ must make available for inspection by members of the public such documents relating to a local government election as he is required by or under any enactment to retain for any period (except ballot papers, the completed corresponding number lists⁸ and certificates as to employment on the day of the poll)⁹. On request, the relevant registration officer must supply copies of or extracts from such description of the relevant election documents as is prescribed by regulations¹⁰; and a copy of the marked copies of the register¹¹, the postal voters list¹², the list of proxies¹³ and the proxy postal voters list¹⁴ must be supplied to a registered party¹⁵ or to a person who was a candidate at the election (in relation to the electoral area for which he was a candidate) or, at an election where a registered party submits a list of candidates¹⁶, to a person who was appointed as an agent for the candidates on the party's list¹⁷.

Any person entitled to be supplied¹⁸ with copies of the full register¹⁹ at a particular local government election is also a person entitled²⁰ to request²¹ that a relevant registration officer supply copies of the relevant part²² of the marked register or lists he is required to keep²³. The relevant registration officer must supply a copy of the relevant part of the marked register or lists where a request is duly made²⁴, and if: (1) he is satisfied that the requestor needs to see the marks on the marked register or lists in order to achieve the purpose for which it is requested²⁵, and (2) he has received payment of a fee²⁶. If the relevant registration officer is not satisfied in accordance with head (1) above, he may treat the request for a marked register or list as a request for information in unmarked lists²⁷, or as a request for the published copy of the full register²⁸, or both²⁹.

Any person is entitled to request that the relevant registration officer make available for inspection a copy of any of the marked register or lists or such other documents relating to an election as the relevant registration officer is required by or under any enactment to retain for any period (except ballot papers, completed corresponding number lists and certificates as to employment on the day of the election)³⁰. The relevant registration officer must make the documents open to public inspection available for inspection under supervision not later than 10 days³¹ after the date of receipt of a request that has been duly made³². However, where a request has been made to inspect copies of the marked register or lists³³ and the relevant registration officer is not satisfied that the purposes of the requestor cannot be met by inspection of the full register, he must inform the requestor of his decision to this effect and he must provide the requestor with information concerning the availability of the published full register³⁴. The relevant registration officer must, on request, supply free of charge copies of any documents open to public inspection to a person who has inspected those documents and who is entitled to be supplied with a copy of the marked register or lists³⁵.

Following a local authority mayoral election³⁶, or a poll consequent on a parish meeting taken on the question of appointment to any office³⁷, the proper officer of the appropriate local authority³⁸ must retain for six months among the records of the authority all documents relating to an election (or poll, as the case may be) which are forwarded to him by a returning officer³⁹, and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of the county court or election court, must cause them to be destroyed⁴⁰. The documents so forwarded to the proper officer (except ballot papers, counterfoils and certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll⁴¹) must be open to public inspection at such time and in such manner as may be determined by the authority of which he is an officer⁴². On request, the proper officer must supply copies of or extracts from the documents open to public inspection on payment of such fees, and subject to such conditions, as may be determined by the authority of which he is an officer⁴³.

However, the Secretary of State must not make such regulations unless he first consults the Electoral Commission (s 42(9)); and no such regulations may be made unless a draft of the statutory instrument containing the regulations has been laid before, and approved by resolution of, each House of Parliament (s 42(10)). Conditions which may be imposed for these purposes include conditions as to: (1) the purposes for which information contained in any document or part of a document which is supplied in pursuance of s 42(1)(b) may be used (s 42(5)(c)); and (2) the extent to which a person to whom a document or part of a document has been supplied may: (a) supply that document or part to any other person (s 42(6)(a)); (b) disclose to any other person any information contained in the document or part (s 42(6)(b)); and (c) use any such information for a purpose other than that for which the document or part was supplied to him (s 42(6)(c)). Regulations may also make provision as to the form in which any such document or part is supplied and for the payment of a fee in respect of the supply of a document or part: s 42(4). As to the regulations made see the text and notes 18-29 infra.

As to the effect of these provisions see note 7 supra.

12 For these purposes, a marked copy of the postal voters list is the copy of that list marked in accordance with provision corresponding to the Representation of the People Act 1983 Sch 1 r 31A(1) (as added) (see PARA 425 ante): Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 44(1), (10). As to the effect of this provision see note 7 supra.

As to the effect of this provision see note 7 supra.

17 Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 42(2). The Secretary of State may by regulations impose conditions in relation to the supply of any document or part of a document in pursuance of s 42(2): s 42(3)(c). Conditions which may be imposed for these purposes include conditions as to the extent to which a person to whom a document or part of a document has been supplied may: (1) supply that document or part to any other person (s 42(6)(a)); (2) disclose to any other person any information contained in the document or part (s 42(6)(b)); and (3) use any such information for a purpose other than that for which the document or part was supplied to him (s 42(6)(c)). Regulations may also make provision as to the form in which any such document or part is supplied and for the payment of a fee in respect of the supply of a document or part: s 42(4). Regulations may also impose conditions corresponding to those mentioned in 42(6) in respect of persons who have obtained a document or part of a document mentioned in s 42(2): (a) which was supplied to another person in pursuance of s 42(2); or (b) otherwise than in accordance with regulations under s 42: s 42(7). As to the regulations made see the text and notes 18-29 infra.

As to the effect of these provisions see note 7 supra.

18 Ie in accordance with the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 100 (as added) (supply of full register to Electoral Commission: see PARA 180 ante), reg 103 (as added) (supply of full register to elected representatives for electoral purposes: see PARA 182 ante), reg 105 (as added) (supply of full register to local constituency parties: see PARA 182 ante), reg 106 (as added) (supply of full register to registered political parties: see PARA 182 ante), reg 108 (as added) (supply of full register to certain candidates: see PARA 182 ante), reg 109 (as added and amended) (supply of full register to police forces and other agencies: see PARA 182 ante) or reg 113 (as added and amended) (sale of full register to government departments and other bodies: see PARA 184 ante).

19 For the meaning of 'full register' see PARA 166 note 2 ante.

20 Ie subject to the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 117 (as added) and reg 119 (as added) (see note 23 infra).

21 A person whose entitlement to request copies of the marked register or lists under ibid reg 117(1) (as added) arises from being in a category of persons covered by reg 103 (as added) (supply of full register to elected representatives for electoral purposes: see PARA 182 ante), reg 105 (as added) (supply of full register to local constituency parties: see PARA 182 ante), reg 106 (as added) (supply of full register to registered political parties: see PARA 182 ante) or reg 108 (as added) (supply of full register to certain candidates: see PARA 182 ante) before a particular election, is entitled to request those documents regardless of whether he remains in a entitled category after that election for which the marked register or list was prepared: reg 117(2) (regs 116-120 added by SI 2006/2910).

22 Ie within the meaning of the regulations specified in note 18 supra.

23 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 117(1) (reg 117 as added: see note 21 supra). A request such as is mentioned in the text must be made in writing and must specify which of the marked register or lists (or the relevant part of the register or lists) are requested, state whether a printed copy of the records or lists is requested or a copy in data form, and state the purposes for which the marked register or lists will be used and why the supply or purchase of a copy of the full register or unmarked lists would not be sufficient to achieve that purpose: reg 117(3) (as so added). For the meaning of 'data form' see PARA 177 note 11 ante. Subject to any direction by the Secretary of State under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 52(1) (as amended) (discharge of registration duties: see PARA 156 ante), any duty on a relevant registration officer to supply records or lists under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt 7 (regs 116-120) (as added) imposes only a duty to provide that information in the form in which he holds it: reg 116(4) (reg 116 as added: see note 21 supra).

A person who obtains a copy of any part of a marked register or list under reg 117 (as added) may use it only for the permitted purposes specified in reg 119(2) (as added), and any conditions specified therein (or which would apply to the use of the full register under whichever of the regulations (specified in note 18 supra) entitled that person to obtain that document) apply to such use: reg 117(6) (as so added). The conditions referred to in reg 117(6) (as added) apply to a person to whom the marked register or list, or any information contained in it (that is not contained in the edited register), has been so supplied or disclosed as they apply to the person to whom those regulations apply: reg 117(7) (as so added). For the meaning of 'edited register' see PARA 166 note 4 ante. Any person who has obtained or is entitled to obtain a copy of the marked register or lists under reg 117 (as added) may supply a copy of the marked register or lists to a processor for the purpose of processing the information contained therein, or procure that a processor processes and supplies to him any copy of the information in the marked register or lists which the processor has obtained under reg 117 (as added), for use in respect of the purposes for which that person is entitled to obtain any such copy or information (as the case may be): reg 117(8) (as so added). The processor may not disclose the information so supplied except to the person who supplied it to the processor or an employee of that person or a person who is entitled to obtain a copy of the full register under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended) or any employee of such a person: reg 92(9) (reg 92 added by SI 2002/1871); applied by the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 116(3) (as so added). As to references to an employee of any person who has access to a copy of the full register see PARA 177 note 6 ante; and for the meaning of 'processor' see PARA 177 note 11 ante (provisions applied by virtue of reg 116(3) (as so added)). Where a person obtains copies of the information in the marked register or lists in accordance with reg 117(1) (as added), the permitted purpose (as to which see PARA 176 note 18 ante) means either research purposes within the meaning of that term in the Data Protection Act 1998 s 33 (see CONFIDENCE AND DATA PROTECTION vol 8(1) (2003 Reissue) PARA 551) or electoral purposes: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 119(2) (as added: see note 21 supra). For the meaning of 'marked register or lists' see PARA 503 note 20 ante.

24 Ibid reg 117(4) (as added: see note 21 supra).

25 Ibid reg 117(4)(a) (as added: see note 21 supra).

26 Ibid reg 117(4)(b) (as added: see note 21 supra). The fee referred to in the text must be calculated in accordance with reg 120 (as added): reg 117(4)(b) (as so added). Accordingly, the formula used for this purpose is the same as for calculation of the fee for sale of the full register and notices, set out in reg 111(5) (as added) (as to which see PARA 184 ante): reg 120 (as added: see note 21 supra).

27 Ie under ibid reg 61 (as substituted) (see PARAS 378, 386 ante).

28 Ie in accordance with ibid reg 102 (as added and amended) (see PARA 182 ante).

29 Ibid reg 117(5) (as added: see note 21 supra).

30 Ibid reg 118(1) (reg 118 as added: see note 21 supra). The documents specified in the text are referred to in reg 118 (as added) and reg 119 (as added) as the 'documents open to public inspection': reg 118(1) (as so added). A request such as is mentioned in the text must be made in writing and must specify which documents are requested, the purposes for which the information in any document will be used, any reason why inspecting the full register or unmarked lists would not be sufficient to achieve that purpose (where the request is to inspect the marked register or lists), who will inspect the documents, the date on which they wish to inspect the documents, and whether they would prefer to inspect the documents in a printed or data form: reg 118(2) (as so added). Subject to any direction by the Secretary of State under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 52(1) (as amended) (discharge of registration duties: see PARA 156 ante), any duty on a registration officer to make records or lists available for inspection under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt 7 (as added) imposes only a duty to provide that information in the form in which he holds it: reg 116(4) (as added: see note 21 supra).

A person who obtains a copy of or information in any document open to public inspection under reg 118 (as added) may use it only for the permitted purposes specified in reg 119 (as added), and any conditions specified in reg 118(7) (as added) or in reg 119 (as added), or which would apply to the use of the full register under reg 109 (as added and amended) (supply of full register to police forces and other agencies: see PARA 182 ante) where such a person has obtained a copy of that document under reg 118(8) (as added) (see the text and note 35 infra), apply to such use: reg 118(5) (as so added). The restrictions on the supply, disclosure and use of the full register in reg 94 (as added) (restrictions on supply of full register and disclosure of information from it by the registration officer and his staff: see PARA 176 ante) and reg 96 (as added and amended) (restrictions on use of full register or information contained in it: see PARA 176 ante) apply to documents open to public inspection as they apply to the full register (reg 119(1) (reg 119 as added: see note 21 supra)), except that, where a person inspects information in accordance with reg 118(1) (as added), the permitted purpose (as to which see PARA 176 note 18 ante) means either research purposes within the meaning of that term in the Data Protection Act 1998 s 33 (see CONFIDENCE AND DATA PROTECTION vol 8(1) (2003 Reissue) PARA 551) or electoral purposes (reg 119(2) (as so added)).

31 For these purposes, any period of days must be calculated in accordance with ibid reg 56(6) (as amended) and reg 56(7) (see PARA 372 note 6 ante): reg 116(2) (as added: see note 21 supra).

32 Ibid reg 118(3) (reg 118 as added: see note 21 supra). Where inspection takes place by providing a copy of the records or lists on a computer screen or otherwise in data form, the relevant registration officer must ensure that the manner in, and equipment on, which that copy is provided do not permit any person consulting that copy to search it by electronic means by reference to the name of any person or to copy or transmit any part of that copy by electronic or any other means: reg 118(6) (as so added). Subject to reg 118(8) (as added) (see the text and note 35 infra), a person who inspects a copy of a document open to public inspection, whether a printed copy or in data form, may not make copies of any part of it, or record any particulars in it, except that a person who inspects a copy of the marked register or lists may make handwritten notes: reg 118(7) (as so added). The provision allowing copying that usually applies where a document is made available for inspection under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended) does not apply to any of the documents open to public inspection under reg 118 (as added): reg 7(6) (added by SI 2006/2910).

33 Ie under the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 118(2) (as added) (see note 30 supra).

34 Ibid reg 118(4) (as added: see note 21 supra). The text refers to the availability of the published full register for inspection in accordance with reg 43 (as amended) (publication of register: see PARA 164 ante).

35 Ibid reg 118(8) (as added: see note 21 supra). The text refers to entitlement to be supplied with a copy of the marked register or lists by virtue of being a person to whom reg 109 (as added and amended) (supply of full register to police forces and other agencies: see PARA 182 ante) applies: reg 118(8) (as so added). Where a copy of any information was supplied in the circumstances to which reg 118(8) (as added) applies, the permitted purpose means the purposes set out in reg 109(4) (as added) (see PARA 182 ante): reg 119(3) (reg 119 as added: see note 21 supra). As to further conditions imposed regarding the use of information so obtained see note 32 supra.

36 As to elections for the return of an elected local authority mayor see PARA 205 et seq ante.

37 At polls consequent on a parish meeting involving an appointment to office see PARA 207 et seq ante.

38 At a poll consequent on a parish meeting involving an appointment to office, the proper officer is the council of the district in which the parish is situate: Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 5, Schedule r 36(1). In the case of a local authority mayoral election, it is the local authority concerned: Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, reg 3(1), Sch 1 r 53(1). For the meaning of 'proper officer' generally see PARA 155 note 2 ante; but for the purposes of a poll consequent on a parish meeting, any references to a proper officer of a council means any officer appointed for the purpose by that council (Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 38(3)). For the meaning of 'local authority' for the purposes of a local authority mayoral election see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23.

39 As to the returning officer at a poll consequent on parish meeting see PARA 361 ante; and as to returning officers for local authority mayoral elections see PARA 359 et seq ante. As to the delivery of documents relating to such elections or polls see PARA 496 ante.

40 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 36(1); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 53(1).

41 As to certificates of employment on duty on the day of the poll see PARA 402 ante. There are no certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll at a poll consequent on a parish meeting, and accordingly the reference to such certificates is omitted in that case: see the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 36(2).

42 Ibid Schedule r 36(2); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 53(2).

43 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 36(3); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 53(3).

505. Retention and inspection of documents relating to London Authority elections.

The Greater London returning officer ('GLRO')¹ must retain or cause to be retained for six months all documents relating to a London Authority election² placed under his control³ by a constituency returning officer⁴; and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of a county court or an election court, he must cause them to be destroyed⁵. Those documents (except ballot papers, counterfoils and certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll⁶) must be open to public inspection at such time and in such manner as the Greater London Authority⁷ may determine, until they are destroyed⁸.

The constituency returning officer must keep for six months the documents which have been retained by him⁹ and then, unless otherwise directed by an order of a county court or an election court, he must cause them to be destroyed¹⁰. Those documents, until they are destroyed, must be open to public inspection at all reasonable hours¹¹.

On request, the GLRO and the constituency returning officer must supply copies of or extracts from such of the documents in their possession as are open to public inspection on payment of such fees and subject to such conditions as may be determined by the Greater London Authority¹².

As from a day to be appointed¹³, the relevant registration officer¹⁴ must make available for inspection by members of the public such documents relating to a London Authority election as he is required by or under any enactment to retain for any period (except ballot papers, the completed corresponding number lists¹⁵ and certificates as to employment on the day of the poll)¹⁶. On request, the relevant registration officer must supply copies of or extracts from such description of the documents as is prescribed by regulations¹⁷; and a copy of the marked copies of the register¹⁸, the postal voters list¹⁹, the list of proxies²⁰ and the proxy postal voters list²¹ must be supplied to a registered party²² or to a person who was a candidate at the election (in relation to the electoral area for which he was a candidate) or, in the case of an election at which a registered party submits a list of candidates, to a person who was appointed as an agent for the candidates on the party's list²³. The Secretary of State may by regulations impose conditions in relation to: (1) the inspection of any relevant election document which must be made available for public inspection²⁴; (2) the supply of any relevant election document or part of any such document which must be supplied on request²⁵; and (3) the supply of any relevant election document or part of a document which must be supplied on request to a registered party or a person who was a candidate or an agent for party list candidates²⁶. Conditions which may be imposed for the purposes of head (1) or head (2) above include conditions as to whether a person may take any copy of a document he is permitted to inspect, the manner in which any such copy is to be taken and the purposes for which information contained in any document or part of a document which is inspected or supplied for the purposes of public inspection may be used²⁷. Conditions which may be imposed for the purposes of head (2) or head (3) above include conditions as to the extent to which a person to whom a document or part of a document has been supplied may supply that document or part to any other person, disclose to any other person any information contained in the document or part and use any such information for a purpose other than that for which the document or part was supplied to him²⁸. Regulations may also make provision as to the form in which any such document or part is supplied and for the payment of a fee in respect of the supply of a document or part²⁹.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/ (x) Countermand or Abandonment of Poll on Death of Candidate/509. Countermand or abandonment of poll at a parliamentary election on the death of independent or party candidate or Speaker of House of Commons seeking re-election.

(x) Countermand or Abandonment of Poll on Death of Candidate

509. Countermand or abandonment of poll at a parliamentary election on the death of independent or party candidate or Speaker of House of Commons seeking re-election.

If, at a contested parliamentary election¹, proof is given to the satisfaction of the returning officer² before the result of the election is declared that one of the persons named or to be named in the ballot papers as an independent candidate has died³, then the parliamentary election rules⁴ apply to the election as if the candidate had not died⁵, but subject to the following provisions⁶. If only two persons are shown as standing nominated in the statement of persons nominated⁷, the returning officer must: (1) if polling has not begun, countermand the notice of poll⁸; (2) if polling has begun, direct that the poll is abandoned⁹; or (3) treat the election as an uncontested election¹⁰. However, if the majority of votes given at an election where an independent candidate has died is given to the deceased independent candidate¹¹, the usual provisions as to declaration of the result do not apply¹² and the returning officer must: (a) declare that the majority of votes has been given to the deceased candidate¹³; (b) declare that no member is returned¹⁴; and (c) give public notice¹⁵ of the total number of votes given for each candidate together with the number of rejected ballot papers under each head shown in the statement of rejected ballot papers¹⁶. If after the counting of the votes (including any recount) is completed at an election where an independent candidate has died, an equality of votes is found to exist between any candidates¹⁷, and any of those candidates is a deceased candidate, the deceased candidate must be ignored¹⁸. If, at a contested parliamentary election, proof is given to the satisfaction of the returning officer before the result of the election is declared that one of the persons named or to be named as a candidate in the ballot paper has died¹⁹, and that person is standing in the name of a registered political party²⁰, the returning officer must countermand notice of the poll²¹ or, if polling has begun, direct that the poll be abandoned²². If, at a contested parliamentary election, one of the candidates is the Speaker of the House of Commons seeking re-election²³ and proof is given to the returning officer's satisfaction before the result of the election is declared that that candidate has died²⁴, the returning officer must countermand notice of the poll²⁵ or, if polling has begun, direct that the poll be abandoned²⁶.

Where a poll is abandoned by reason of an independent candidate's death²⁷ or by reason of the death of a party candidate²⁸ or following the death of the speaker of House of Commons seeking re-election²⁹, the presiding officer³⁰ at a polling station must take the like steps (so far as not already taken) for the delivery to the returning officer of ballot boxes and other documents as he is required to take on the close of the poll³¹. The returning officer must dispose of ballot papers and other documents in his possession as he is required to do on the completion in due course of the counting of the votes³². However, it is not necessary for any ballot paper account to be prepared or verified³³ and the returning officer, without taking any step or further step for the counting of the ballot papers or of the votes³⁴, must seal up all the ballot papers, whether the votes on them have been counted or not, and counted and rejected ballot papers need not be sealed up in separate packets³⁵. The provisions of the parliamentary election rules as to the inspection, production, retention and destruction of ballot papers and other documents relating to a poll at an election apply to any such documents relating to a poll abandoned by reason of the death of a candidate³⁶. Ballot papers on which the votes were neither counted nor rejected must, however, be treated as counted ballot papers³⁷; and no order is to be made for the production or inspection of any ballot papers³⁸ or for the opening of a sealed packet of the completed corresponding number lists³⁹ or of certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll⁴⁰ unless the order is made by a court with reference to a prosecution⁴¹.

Where the poll at an election is taken together with the poll at another election, special provision is made and neither the countermand of the poll at one election nor the direction that polling be abandoned at that election is to affect the poll at the other election⁴².

UPDATE

442-512 Arrangements for counting the votes at elections of London Assembly members ... Fresh election following countermand or abandonment of poll on death of candidate

SI 2000/427 replaced: Greater London Authority Elections Rules 2007, SI 2007/3541.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/5. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/ (x) Countermand or Abandonment of Poll on Death of Candidate/510. Countermand or abandonment of poll on death of candidate at an election which is not a parliamentary election.

510. Countermand or abandonment of poll on death of candidate at an election which is not a parliamentary election.

If, at a contested election which is not a parliamentary election¹, proof is given to the satisfaction of the returning officer² before the result of the election is declared³ that one of the persons named or to be named as a candidate in the ballot papers⁴ has died⁵, then, except in the case of a Welsh Assembly regional election where the election continues to remain contested⁶, the returning officer must countermand notice of the poll or, if polling has begun, he must direct that the poll be abandoned⁷. Where such a poll is abandoned by reason of a candidate's death, the proceedings at or consequent on that poll must be interrupted, no further ballot papers are to be issued, and the presiding officer⁸ at any polling station must take the like steps (so far as not already taken) for the delivery to the returning officer⁹ of ballot boxes and other documents as he is required to take on the close of the poll in due course¹⁰.

The returning officer at such an election must dispose of ballot papers and other documents in his possession as he is required to do on the completion in due course of the counting of the votes¹¹. However, it is not necessary for any ballot paper account to be prepared or verified¹² and the returning officer, without taking any step or further step for the counting of the ballot papers or of the votes¹³, must seal up all the ballot papers, whether the votes on them have been counted or not, and counted and rejected ballot papers need not be sealed up in separate packets¹⁴. The provisions as to the inspection, production, retention and destruction of ballot papers and other documents relating to a poll at such an election (or to a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office, as the case may be)¹⁵ apply to any such documents relating to a poll abandoned by reason of the death of a candidate¹⁶. Ballot papers on which the votes were neither counted nor rejected must, however, be treated as counted ballot papers¹⁷; and no order may be made for the production or inspection of any ballot papers or for the opening of a sealed packet of the completed corresponding number lists (or counterfoils, as the case may be) or certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll¹⁸ unless the order is made by a court with reference to a prosecution¹⁹.

Where the poll at such an election is taken together with the poll at another election, special provision is made and neither the countermand of the poll at one election nor the direction that polling be abandoned at that election is to affect the poll at the other election²⁰.

1 As to contested elections generally see PARA 389 et seq ante. As to the provision made for the countermand or abandonment of the poll at a parliamentary election see PARA 509 ante. For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante. There is no provision made for the countermand or abandonment of the poll on the death of a candidate either at an election for the return of London members of the London Assembly or at a European parliamentary election; cf, in relation to regional elections for the National Assembly for Wales, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 16(1), Sch 5 para 65 (see the text and notes 2-19 infra). In the case of elections for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales, the election referred to is either a contested Assembly constituency election or a contested Assembly regional election. For the meanings of 'Assembly election', 'constituency election' and 'regional election' in this context see PARA 3 note 1 ante. As to vacancies arising in the seats of London members of the London Assembly see PARA 211 et seq ante; and as to vacancies arising in the office of member of the European Parliament ('MEP') see PARA 225 ante.

2 As to returning officers for local government elections (including local authority mayoral elections) see PARA 359 et seq ante; and as to the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office see PARA 361 ante. In the case of the election of a constituency member of the London Assembly, the appropriate returning officer in this context is the constituency returning officer (for the meaning of which see PARA 218 note 8 ante). For the purposes of an election for the return of the Mayor of London, it is the Greater London returning officer (for the meaning of which see PARA 218 note 7 ante); but see note 9 infra. For the meanings of 'constituency member' and 'election of a constituency member of the London Assembly' see PARA 10 ante. As to ordinary elections of constituency members of the London Assembly or an election for the return of the Mayor of London see PARA 206 et seq ante. For the purposes of Welsh Assembly elections, the appropriate returning officer is, in relation to an Assembly constituency election, the constituency returning officer and, in relation to an Assembly regional election, it is the regional returning officer. For the meanings of 'constituency returning officer' and 'regional returning officer' see PARA 18 note 2 ante.

3 At a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office, such proof must be given before the result of the poll is declared: Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 5, Schedule r 37(1).

4 At a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office, the reference is to a candidate who has not withdrawn: ibid Schedule r 37(1). At a Welsh Assembly regional election, the candidate referred to in the text may be either an individual candidate or a party list candidate: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 16(1), Sch 5 para 65(5). For the meanings of 'individual candidate' and 'party list candidate' in this context see PARA 237 note 23 ante.

5 As to the time at which the returning officer can be satisfied that a candidate satisfies this test see PARA 270 ante.

6 If, at a contested Welsh Assembly regional election, proof is given to the regional returning officer's satisfaction before the results of the election are declared that one of the persons named or to be named as a candidate on the ballot paper (whether as an individual or party list candidate) has died, but as a result of that death the election continues to remain contested, the notice of poll is not to be countermanded nor the poll abandoned and such a death has no effect upon the validity of the election and return of any candidate at the regional election: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(6). However, in these circumstances, the regional returning officer must take such steps as he considers reasonable to publicise, in the Assembly electoral region for which the election is held, the name of that candidate and the fact of his death, whether that candidate was an individual or party list candidate and, if he was a party list candidate, the name of the registered political party for which that person was such a candidate: Sch 5 para 65(7). The regional returning officer must, in particular, consider whether he should take the required steps to publicise by causing notices to be placed outside polling stations: Sch 5 para 65(7). For the meanings of 'Assembly constituency' and 'Assembly electoral region' for these purposes see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

7 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 37(1); Greater London Authority Elections (No 2) Rules 2000, SI 2000/427, r 3(1), (3), Sch 1 r 51(1)(a), Sch 3 r 56(1); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, reg 3(1), Sch 1 r 54(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(1)(a), (b), (5)(a), (b); Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, r 3, Sch 2 r 55(1); Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, r 3, Sch 2 r 55(1). In relation to a London Authority ordinary election, the countermand of a poll or the direction that a poll be abandoned has effect only in relation to the election for the return of a constituency member of the London Assembly or, as the case may be, the election for the return of the London Mayor, to which the countermand or direction relates: Greater London Authority Elections (No 2) Rules 2000, SI 2000/427, r 3, Sch 4 r 14. In the case of any election of a constituency member of the London Assembly, the constituency returning officer must inform the Greater London returning officer of the countermand or abandonment of the poll and of the name of the candidate who has died: Sch 1 r 51(1)(b). In the case of an ordinary Welsh Assembly election, where a constituency election has been postponed, the constituency returning officer must forthwith notify the regional returning officer for the Assembly electoral region in which the Assembly constituency is situated of the action that he has taken: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(1)(c). Where polling has begun and there is a contested Assembly regional election taking place in the Assembly electoral region in which the Assembly constituency is situated, the requirement to direct that the poll be abandoned is satisfied when the regional returning officer has received the notification of the result at a constituency election required by Sch 5 para 57(3) (see PARA 487 ante) in respect of each of the other Assembly constituencies in the Assembly electoral region (Sch 5 para 65(3)); and in such circumstances the subsequent election of a candidate for the Assembly constituency has no effect upon the validity of the election and return of any candidate at the regional election (Sch 5 para 65(4)). Where a Welsh Assembly regional election has been postponed, the regional returning officer must forthwith notify each constituency returning officer in the Assembly electoral region of the action that he has taken: Sch 5 para 65(5)(c).

As to the ordering of a fresh election following the countermand or abandonment of a poll on the death of a candidate see PARA 512 post.

8 As to the appointment of presiding officers and their clerks see PARA 398 ante.

9 In the case of an election for the return of the Mayor of London and in the case of a Welsh Assembly regional election, the items referred to in the text are to be delivered to the appropriate constituency returning officer (see PARA 410 ante; cf note 2 supra).

10 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 37(2); Greater London Authority Elections (No 2) Rules 2000, SI 2000/427, Sch 1 r 51(3), Sch 3 r 56(2); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 54(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(8); Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 r 55(2); Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, Sch 2 r 55(2). However, where at a Welsh Assembly ordinary election a voter is entitled to give two votes at a polling station but the poll in respect of which the voter is entitled to give one of those votes is abandoned as a result of a candidate's death, the steps required to be taken by the presiding officer at such a polling station by the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(8) must take place on the close of the poll: Sch 5 para 65(9)(a).

11 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 37(2); Greater London Authority Elections (No 2) Rules 2000, SI 2000/427, Sch 1 r 51(3), Sch 3 r 56(2); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 54(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(8); Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 r 55(3); Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, Sch 2 r 55(3).

12 Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 37(2)(a); Greater London Authority Elections (No 2) Rules 2000, SI 2000/427, Sch 1 r 51(3)(a), Sch 3 r 56(2)(a); Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, Sch 1 r 54(2)(a); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(8)(a); Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 r 55(4); Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, Sch 2 r 55(4). As to the preparation and verification of the ballot paper accounts see PARA 410 et seq ante.

13 This is subject to the proviso that where a voter at a Welsh Assembly ordinary election is entitled to give two votes at a polling station, but the poll in respect of which the voter is entitled to give one of those votes is abandoned as a result of a candidate's death, the constituency returning officer must first separate the ballot papers relating to the other Assembly election before sealing up the ballot papers: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Sch 5 para 65(9)(b).

18 As to certificates of employment on duty on the day of the poll see PARA 402 ante. There are no certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll at a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office and accordingly no reference is made to them in the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 37(3).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/ (x) Countermand or Abandonment of Poll on Death of Candidate/511. Poll abandoned or countermanded after postal ballot papers have been issued.

511. Poll abandoned or countermanded after postal ballot papers have been issued.

Where, after postal ballot papers have been issued¹, a poll is abandoned or countermanded by reason of the death of a candidate², the returning officer at the election³ must not take any step or further step to open covering envelopes⁴ or deal with their contents in accordance with the provisions governing the receipt of postal ballot papers⁵. He must⁶ treat all unopened covering envelopes and the contents of those which have been opened as if they were counted ballot papers⁷.

These provisions do not apply where postal ballot papers for more than one election have been issued together⁸.

1 As to the issue of postal ballot papers see PARA 411 et seq ante.

2 See PARAS 509-510 ante. There is no provision for the poll at a European parliamentary election to be abandoned or countermanded as mentioned in the text (although provision is made for the return of a deceased candidate's deposit in such a case: see PARA 492 ante), and the provisions set out in the text do not apply in that case.

3 As to the returning officers and elections referred to in the text see PARA 411 notes 1, 14-15 ante; and, in relation to the returning officer's functions connected with the issue and receipt of postal ballot papers at a Welsh Assembly regional election, see also PARA 412 note 1 ante.

SI 2000/427 replaced: Greater London Authority Elections Rules 2007, SI 2007/3541.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/5. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/ (4) THE BALLOT/ (x) Countermand or Abandonment of Poll on Death of Candidate/512. Fresh election following countermand or abandonment of poll on death of candidate.

512. Fresh election following countermand or abandonment of poll on death of candidate.

Where the poll at a parliamentary election¹ is countermanded or abandoned by reason of the death of an independent candidate who has polled a majority of the votes², the returning officer³ must not return the writ⁴, and the proceedings with reference to the election must be commenced afresh⁵ with the writ for the election taken to have been received on the first working day⁶ after the end of the period of seven days starting on the day of the original election⁷. No fresh nomination is necessary in the case of a person shown in the statement of persons nominated as standing nominated⁸, and no other nomination may be made⁹. The rule regarding the making of deposits does not apply¹⁰. Where the poll at a parliamentary election is countermanded or abandoned by reason of the death of a party candidate¹¹, the proceedings with reference to the election must be commenced afresh¹², with the writ for the election taken to have been received on the first working day¹³ after the end of the period of seven days starting on the day the proof of death is given to the returning officer¹⁴. No fresh nomination is necessary in the case of a person shown in the statement of persons nominated as standing nominated¹⁵; and no other nomination may be made except for a person standing in the name of the same registered political party in whose name the deceased candidate was standing¹⁶. Where the poll at a parliamentary election is countermanded or abandoned by reason of the death of the Speaker of the House of Commons seeking re-election¹⁷, the proceedings with reference to the election must be commenced afresh¹⁸, with the writ for the election taken to have been received on the first working day¹⁹ after the end of the period of seven days starting on the day the proof of death is given to the returning officer²⁰. In all cases where a fresh election is commenced following the death of an independent or party candidate or following the death of the speaker of House of Commons seeking re-election, the poll must be held on a day in the period which starts 15 working days after the day on which the writ is taken to have been received and ends 19 working days after that day²¹.

In the case of a local government election²², other than an election for the return of the London members of the London Assembly²³, but including an election for the return of a local authority mayor²⁴, if the poll is countermanded or abandoned for any reason or no person is or remains, or an insufficient number of persons are or remain, validly nominated to fill the vacancy or vacancies in respect of which the election is held, the returning officer²⁵ must order an election to fill any vacancy which remains unfilled to be held on a day appointed by him²⁶. That day must be within the period of 35 days²⁷ beginning with the day fixed as the day of election for the first-mentioned election²⁸. Where an election is so ordered to be held, the appropriate electoral rules²⁹ relating to the notice to be given of an election and the manner in which an election is to be conducted apply in relation to the election so ordered to be held as they applied or would have applied in relation to the election which has not been duly held or has failed or become void³⁰ and no fresh nomination is necessary in the case of a candidate who remains validly nominated for that election³¹. Where a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office is countermanded or abandoned by reason of the death of a candidate, the district council in which the parish is situated may by order make any appointment or make provision for the holding of a parish meeting or do such other thing as appears to it to be expedient in the circumstances³².

Where the poll at a Welsh Assembly election³³ is countermanded or abandoned by reason of the death of a candidate, all proceedings with reference to the election must be commenced afresh in all respects as if publication of the notice of election had been given 28 days after the day on which proof was given to the returning officer of the death³⁴, except that no fresh nomination is necessary in the case of a person shown in the statement of persons nominated as standing nominated³⁵.

There is no special provision for the poll at a European parliamentary election to be abandoned or countermanded³⁶.

Where the poll at an election is taken together with the poll at another election, special provision is made and neither the countermand of the poll at one election nor the direction that polling be abandoned at that election is to affect the poll at the other election³⁷.

(5) PILOT SCHEMES MODIFYING THE CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS

(i) Pilot Schemes regarding Voting and Campaigning at Local Government Elections

513. Pilot orders relating to schemes for voting and campaigning at local government elections.

Where a relevant local authority¹ submits to the Secretary of State² proposals for a pilot scheme to apply to particular local government elections³ held in the authority's area⁴ and those proposals are approved by the Secretary of State, either without modification⁵ or with such modifications as, after consulting the authority, he considers appropriate⁶, the Secretary of State must by order⁷ make such provision for and in connection with the implementation of the scheme in relation to those elections as he considers appropriate (which may include provision modifying or disappling any enactment)⁸. Such a scheme may make, in relation to local government elections in the area of a relevant local authority⁹, provision differing in any respect from that made under or by virtue of the Representation of the People Acts¹⁰ as regards one or more of the following, namely: (1) when, where and how voting at the elections is to take place¹¹; (2) how the votes cast at the elections are to be counted¹²; (3) the sending by candidates of election communications free of charge for postage¹³. Without prejudice to the generality of these provisions, such a scheme may make provision: (a) for voting to take place on more than one day (whether each of those days is designated as a day of the poll or otherwise) and at places other than polling stations¹⁴; or (b) for postal charges incurred in respect of the sending of candidates' election communications as mentioned in head (3) above to be paid by the authority concerned¹⁵.

1 For these purposes, 'relevant local authority' means, as respects England, a county council, a district council, a London borough council or the Greater London Authority and, as respects Wales, a county council or a county borough council: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(11). As to counties and districts in England, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 24 et seq; as to counties and county boroughs in Wales, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 37 et seq; as to London boroughs, and their councils, see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35-39, 59 et seq; and as to the Greater London Authority see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 79 et seq. A county council, a district council or a London borough council in England and a county council or a county borough council in Wales is referred to as a 'principal council': see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

3 ie including any such proposals which are submitted by a relevant local authority jointly with the Electoral Commission, in which case references to the authority must be read as references to the authority and the Commission: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1A) (added by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 158(1), Sch 21 para 16(1), (2)). For the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 17(2). As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante; and as to the involvement of the Commission in changes in electoral procedures see PARA 50 ante. See also the European Parliamentary and Local Elections (Pilots) Act 2004, which disapplied the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10 (as amended) for the purposes of making provision for the piloting of all-postal voting (or any other innovative voting method) in relation to European parliamentary elections for the 2004 elections only.

4 Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1)(a). For the meaning of 'local government area' see PARA 18 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of s 17(2).

5 For these purposes, 'modifications' includes additions, omissions and amendments (and 'modify' has a corresponding meaning): ibid s 17(2).

6 Ibid s 10(1)(b).

7 Where the Secretary of State makes any such order he must send a copy of the order to the authority concerned and to the Electoral Commission and that authority must publish the order in its area in such manner as it thinks fit: ibid s 10(5) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 21 para 16(1), (3)). In a case where any proposals are not jointly submitted under the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1A) (as added) (see note 3 supra), the Secretary of State must consult the Electoral Commission before making any such order: s 10(1A) (as added: see note 3 supra). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such order had been made.

8 Ibid s 10(1). For these purposes, 'enactment' includes any provision of an Act (including the Representation of the People Act 2000) and any provision of subordinate legislation (within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1232): Representation of the People Act 2000 s 17(2).

9 For this purpose, the reference to local government elections in the area of a relevant local authority is a reference to such elections either throughout that area or in any particular part or parts of it as the scheme may provide: ibid s 10(4).

10 For the meaning of 'the Representation of the People Acts' see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

11 Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(2)(a).

12 Ibid s 10(2)(b).

13 Ibid s 10(2)(c).

14 Ibid s 10(3)(a).

15 Ibid s 10(3)(b). Where a scheme makes provision for postal charges incurred in respect of the sending of candidates' election communications to be paid as mentioned in head (b) in the text, the Secretary of State's order under s 10(1) (see the text and notes 1-8 supra) may make provision for disapplying the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 75(1) (as amended) (restriction on third party election expenditure: see PARA 277 ante) in relation to the payment of such charges by the authority: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/5. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/(5) PILOT SCHEMES MODIFYING THE CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS/(i) Pilot Schemes regarding Voting and Campaigning at Local Government Elections/514. Evaluation by the Electoral Commission of pilot schemes relating to voting and campaigning at local government elections.

514. Evaluation by the Electoral Commission of pilot schemes relating to voting and campaigning at local government elections.

Once any local government elections¹ have taken place in relation to which a pilot scheme order applied², the Electoral Commission³ must prepare a report on the scheme⁴. Such a report must be prepared in consultation with the local authority concerned⁵; and that authority must provide the Commission with such assistance as it may reasonably require in connection with the preparation of the report (and such assistance may, in particular, include the making by the authority of arrangements for ascertaining the views of voters about the operation of the scheme)⁶. The report must, in particular, contain⁷: (1) a description of the scheme and of the respects in which the provision made by it differed from that made by or under the Representation of the People Acts⁸; (2) a copy of the order of the Secretary of State⁹; and (3) an assessment of the scheme's success or otherwise in facilitating voting at the elections in question¹⁰ and, if it made provision as respects the counting of votes cast at those elections, the counting of votes, or in encouraging voting at the elections in question or enabling voters to make informed decisions at those elections¹¹. If the Secretary of State so requests in writing, the report must also contain an assessment of such other matters relating to the scheme as are specified in his request¹². Once the Electoral Commission has prepared the report, it must send a copy of it to the Secretary of State and to the authority concerned, and that authority must publish the report in its area, in such manner as it thinks fit, by the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the declaration of the result of the elections in question¹³.

higher than it would have been if the scheme had not applied (ibid s 10(8)(a)); (2) voters found the procedures provided for their assistance by the scheme easy to use (s 10(8)(b)); (3) the procedures provided for by the scheme led to any increase in personation or other electoral offences or in any other malpractice in connection with elections (s 10(8)(c)); (4) those procedures led to any increase in expenditure, or to any savings, by the authority (s 10(8)(d)).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING ELECTIONS/(5) PILOT SCHEMES MODIFYING THE CONDUCT OF ELECTIONS/(i) Pilot Schemes regarding Voting and Campaigning at Local Government Elections/515. Revision of procedures following report on pilot schemes relating to voting and campaigning at local government elections.

515. Revision of procedures following report on pilot schemes relating to voting and campaigning at local government elections.

If it appears to the Secretary of State¹, in the light of any report on a pilot scheme regarding voting and campaigning at local government elections², that it would be desirable for provision similar to that made by the scheme to apply generally, and on a permanent basis, in relation to local government elections in England and Wales or to any particular description of such elections, he may by order³ make such provision for and in connection with achieving that result as he considers appropriate⁴. However, the power of the Secretary of State to make such an order is exercisable only on a recommendation of the Electoral Commission⁵. Such an order may except from the operation of any of its provisions any local government area⁶ specified in the order⁷; but, subject to that, such an order must make the same provision in relation to local government elections or, if it applies only to a particular description of such elections, in relation to elections of that description⁸, throughout England and Wales⁹.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

2 I.e. a report made under the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10 (as amended) (see PARA 514 ante). For the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante; definition applied by virtue of s 17(2).

3 Such an order must be made by statutory instrument; and no such order may be made unless a draft of the statutory instrument containing the order has been laid before, and approved by a resolution of, each House of Parliament: ibid s 11(3). When laying such a draft before either House of Parliament the Secretary of State must also lay before that House a copy of every report under s 10 (as amended) (see PARA 514 ante) which relates to a scheme making provision similar to that made by the order: s 11(4) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 158(1), Sch 21 para 17(1), (3)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such order had been made.

Rules made under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 36 (as amended) (local elections in England and Wales: see PARA 388 ante) may make such provision as the Secretary of State considers appropriate in connection with any provision made by such an order: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 11(6). However, nothing in s 11 (as amended) is to be taken as prejudicing the generality of any power contained in any other Act to make subordinate legislation (within the meaning of the Interpretation Act 1978: see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1232) with respect to elections of any description: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 11(7).

4 Ibid s 11(1). Such provision as is mentioned in the text may include provision modifying or disapplying any provision of an Act, including the Representation of the People Act 2000: s 11(1). As to the meaning of 'modify' for these purposes see PARA 513 note 5 ante.

5 Ibid s 11(1) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 21 para 17(1), (2)). As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante; and as to the involvement of the Commission in changes in electoral procedures see PARA 50 ante.

6 For the meaning of 'local government area' see PARA 18 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 17(2).

7 Ibid s 11(2)(a). An order which excepts any local government area as mentioned in the text must, if it would otherwise be treated for the purposes of the standing orders of either House of Parliament as a hybrid instrument, proceed in that House as if it were not such an instrument: s 11(5).

8 Ibid s 11(2)(b).

9 Ibid s 11(2). For the meanings of 'England' and 'Wales' see PARA 13 note 1 ante.

(ii) Pilot Schemes relating to Ballot Papers at Local Government Elections

516. Pilot orders relating to schemes for modifying ballot papers used at local government elections.

A local authority¹ may make a proposal that a pilot order be made applying to particular local government elections² held in its area³; and the Secretary of State⁴ may by order (a 'pilot order') make provision for the purposes of enabling ballot papers⁵ issued at such local government elections as are specified in the order to contain photographs of the candidates⁶. A pilot order may include such provision modifying or disapplying any enactment as the Secretary of State thinks is necessary or expedient for the purposes of the order⁷; but the Secretary of State must not make a pilot order unless he first consults the Electoral Commission⁸. A pilot order may make provision implementing the local authority's proposal either without modification or with such modifications as the Secretary of State and the local authority agree between them⁹. If the Secretary of State makes a pilot order he must send a copy of it to the local authority and to the Electoral Commission and the local authority must publish the order in its area in such manner as it thinks fit¹⁰.

As to counties and districts in England, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 24 et seq; as to counties and county boroughs in Wales, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 37 et seq; as to London boroughs, and their councils, see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35-39, 59 et seq; and as to the Greater London Authority see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 79 et seq. A county council, a district council or a London borough council in England and a county council or a county borough council in Wales is referred to as a 'principal council': see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23.

2 For these purposes, 'local government election' must be construed in accordance with the definition in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 203(1) (as amended) (see PARA 10 ante); and any reference to the area of a local authority must be construed in accordance with that definition: Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 32(10).

517. Evaluation by the Electoral Commission of pilot schemes for modifying ballot papers used at local government elections.

After any elections have taken place which were specified in a pilot order¹ enabling ballot papers to contain photographs of the candidates, the Electoral Commission² must prepare a report on the operation of the order³. The report must contain, in particular: (1) a description of the way in which the provision made by the order differed from the provisions which would otherwise have applied to the election or elections⁴; (2) a copy of the order⁵; (3) an assessment of the success or otherwise of the order in assisting voters to make informed decisions at the election or elections in question⁶; (4) an assessment of the success or otherwise of the order in encouraging voting at the election or elections in question⁷; (5) an assessment of whether the procedures provided for in the order operated satisfactorily⁸. The local authority concerned⁹ must give the Commission such assistance as the Commission may reasonably require in connection with the preparation of the report¹⁰. The assistance may include making arrangements for ascertaining the views of electors about the operation of the provisions of the order or reporting to the Commission allegations of electoral offences or other malpractice¹¹. The Commission must, before the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the declaration of the result of the election or elections in question¹², send a copy of the report to the Secretary of State¹³ and to the local authority¹⁴; and the local authority must publish the report in its area in such manner as it thinks fit¹⁵.

In making such an assessment, the Commission must also apply such other criteria as are specified in the order in relation to that assessment: s 33(6).

An assessment under head (4) in the text must include a statement of whether, in the opinion of the Commission, the turnout of voters was higher than it would have been if the order had not applied: s 33(4). In making such an assessment, the Commission must also apply such other criteria as are specified in the order in relation to that assessment: s 33(6).

8 Ibid s 33(2)(e). An assessment under head (5) in the text must include a statement of: (1) whether the candidates and their agents found the procedures provided for in the order easy to use (s 33(5)(a)); (2) whether the returning officer found those procedures easy to administer (s 33(5)(b)); (3) whether those procedures had any effect on the incidence of malpractice (whether or not amounting to an offence) in connection with elections (s 33(5)(c)); (4) the amount of any increase attributable to those procedures in the resources applied by the authority concerned to the election or elections (s 33(5)(d)). In making such an assessment, the Commission must also apply such other criteria as are specified in the order in relation to that assessment: s 33(6).

518. Revision of procedures following report on pilot schemes for modifying ballot papers used at local government elections.

If the Secretary of State¹ thinks, in the light of a report made² on the operation of a pilot order³ which enabled ballot papers at a local government election⁴ to contain photographs of the candidates, that it would be desirable for provision similar to that made by the order to apply generally, and on a permanent basis, in relation to: (1) parliamentary elections⁵; (2) local government elections in England and Wales⁶; or (3) any description of election falling within head (1) or head (2) above⁷, he may by order⁸ make provision for the purposes of enabling ballot papers issued at such elections as are specified in the order to contain photographs of the candidates⁹. However, the Secretary of State must not make such an order unless he first consults the Electoral Commission¹⁰.

8 The power to make such an order is exercisable by statutory instrument, but no such order may be made unless a draft of the instrument containing the order has been laid before and approved by a resolution of each House of Parliament: ibid s 34(6). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such order had been made.

9 Ibid s 34(2). Such an order may include such provision modifying or disapplying any enactment as the Secretary of State thinks is necessary or expedient for the purposes of the order and may create or extend the application of an offence: s 34(4). However, such an order must not create an offence punishable, on conviction on indictment, with imprisonment for a term exceeding one year or, on summary conviction, with imprisonment for a term exceeding 51 weeks or with a fine exceeding the statutory maximum: s 34(5). If such an order is made before the date of commencement of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 281(5) (not yet in force) (alteration of penalties for summary offences), then in relation to any offence committed before that date the reference in the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 34(5) to 51 weeks must be taken to be a reference to six months: s 34(8).

(i) General Framework for the Conduct of National and Regional Referendums

A. IN GENERAL

519. Referendums for which provision is made under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000.

Part VII of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000¹ applies to any referendum held throughout: (1) the United Kingdom²; (2) one or more of England³, Scotland, Wales⁴ and Northern Ireland⁵; or (3) any region in England for which a development agency has been established⁶. For these purposes, 'referendum' means a referendum or other poll held, in pursuance of any provision made by or under an Act of Parliament⁷, on one or more questions⁸ specified in or in accordance with any such provision⁹. The referendum period in such a case is such period as is provided for by or under that Act¹⁰; and where the date of the poll in the case of any such referendum falls to be fixed under any provision made by or under that Act, the date so fixed must not be earlier than 28 days after the end of the period of 14 days within which the Electoral Commission must determine an application for designation¹¹ made by a permitted participant¹².

1 Ie the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Pt VII (ss 101-129) (as amended).

2 Ibid s 101(1)(a). For the meaning of 'United Kingdom' see PARA 13 note 1 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'England' see PARA 13 note 1 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 13 note 1 ante. However, a poll held under the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 64 (poll held to ascertain views about whether or how any of the functions of the Welsh Ministers should be exercised: see PARA 554 post) is not to be taken to be a referendum to which the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Pt VII (as amended) applies: s 101(3); Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b).

5 Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 101(1)(b).

6 Ibid s 101(1)(c). The text refers to any region in England specified in the Regional Development Agencies Act 1998 s 1, Sch 1 (see TRADE AND INDUSTRY vol 97 (2010) PARAS 988-996).

7 See eg the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003; and PARA 547 et seq post. If the Secretary of State by order so provides, the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 101(2) applies to any specified Bill which has been introduced into Parliament before the making of the order as if it were an Act (s 101(4)(a)); and any specified provisions of Pt VII (as amended) apply, subject to any specified modifications, in relation to any specified referendum for which provision is made by the Bill (s 101(4)(b)). In s 101(4), 'specified' means specified in the order under s 101(4): s 101(5). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such order had been made. As to the meaning of 'modification' see PARA 39 note 9 ante. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante. As to local authority referendums, which fall outside the scope of the definition of 'referendum' given in s 101(2), see PARA 557 et seq post.

8 In ibid Pt VII (as amended), 'question' includes proposition (and 'answer' accordingly includes response): s 101(2)(b). As to the setting and approval of referendum questions see PARA 520 post.

9 Ibid s 101(2)(a). The Electoral Commission must, after each such referendum, prepare and publish, in such manner as the Commission may determine, a report on the administration of the referendum: see PARA 46 ante. As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante.

10 Ibid s 102(1), (3). However, in the case of a referendum to which an order under s 101(4) applies (see note 7 supra), the referendum period is such period, not exceeding six months, as may be specified in the order (s 102(4)) unless the referendum period in such a case would end after the date of the poll, in which case it ends instead on that date (s 102(5)).

11 Ie, subject to ibid s 103(2), the period of 14 days mentioned in s 109(3) (see PARA 522 post). As to designation of permitted participants as organisations to whom assistance is available see PARA 522 et seq post. For the meaning of 'permitted participant' see PARA 521 post.

If an order applies to the referendum under s 109(6) (Secretary of State may specify different periods of time in relation to applications for designation: see PARA 522 post), this period of 14 days must be read as referring to the period which is to apply instead: s 103(2).

12 Ibid s 103(1).

B. REFERENDUM QUESTIONS

520. Wording of referendum questions.

Where a Bill is introduced into Parliament which provides for the holding of a poll that would be a referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply² and the Bill specifies the wording of the referendum question³, the Electoral Commission⁴ must consider the wording of the question⁵, and must publish a statement of any views of the Commission as to the intelligibility of that question as soon as reasonably practicable after the Bill is introduced⁶ and in such manner as it may determine⁷.

Where the wording of such a question falls to be specified in subordinate legislation⁸ then, if a draft of the instrument in question is to be laid before Parliament for approval by each House, the Secretary of State⁹ must consult the Commission on the wording of the referendum question¹⁰ before any such draft is so laid¹¹ and he must, at the time when any such draft is so laid, lay before each House a report stating any views as to the intelligibility of that question which the Commission has expressed in response to that consultation¹². If the instrument in question is to be subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament, the Secretary of State¹³ must consult the Commission on the wording of the referendum question¹⁴ before making the instrument¹⁵ and he must, at the time when the instrument is laid before Parliament, lay before each House a report stating any views as to the intelligibility of that question which the Commission has expressed in response to that consultation¹⁶.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(i) General Framework for the Conduct of National and Regional Referendums/C. PERMITTED PARTICIPANTS/521. Meaning of 'permitted participant'.

C. PERMITTED PARTICIPANTS

521. Meaning of 'permitted participant'.

In relation to a particular referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply², a 'permitted participant' means³: (1) a registered party⁴ by whom a declaration has been made to the Electoral Commission⁵ in relation to the referendum⁶; or (2) any of the following by whom a notification has been given to the Commission⁷ in relation to the referendum, namely⁸: (a) any individual resident in the United Kingdom⁹ or registered in an electoral register¹⁰; or (b) a company registered under the Companies Act 1985 and incorporated within the United Kingdom or another member state which carries on business in the United Kingdom¹¹; (c) a trade union entered in the list kept under the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992¹²; (d) a building society¹³; (e) a limited liability partnership registered under the Limited Liability Partnerships Act 2000 which carries on business in the United Kingdom¹⁴; (f) a friendly society registered under the Friendly Societies Act 1974¹⁵ or a society registered (or deemed to be registered) under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act 1965¹⁶; and (g) any unincorporated association of two or more persons which does not fall within any of heads (b) to (f) above but which carries on business or other activities wholly or mainly in the United Kingdom and whose main office is there¹⁷.

For these purposes, a registered party makes a declaration to the Commission if the party makes a declaration to the Commission which identifies the referendum to which it relates¹⁸ and the outcome or outcomes¹⁹ for which the party proposes to campaign²⁰. Such a declaration must be signed by the responsible officers of the party²¹ and, if made by a minor party²², must be accompanied by a notification which states the name of the person who will be responsible for compliance on the part of the party with the financial controls which operate during a referendum²³. For these purposes, an individual or body²⁴ gives a notification to the Commission if he or it gives the Commission a notification which identifies the referendum to which it relates²⁵ and the outcome or outcomes for which the giver of the notification proposes to campaign²⁶. Such a notification: (i) if given by an individual, must state his full name²⁷ and his home address in the United Kingdom (or, if he has no such address in the United Kingdom, his home address elsewhere)²⁸ and must be signed by him²⁹; or (ii) if given by a body falling within any of heads (2)(b) to (2)(g) above, must state all such details in respect of the body as are required³⁰ to be given in respect of such a body as the donor of a recordable donation³¹ and the name of the person or officer who will be responsible for compliance on the part of the body with the financial controls which operate during a referendum³², and must be signed by the body's secretary or a person who acts in a similar capacity in relation to the body³³. If at any time before the end of the compliance period³⁴ any of the statements which are contained in a notification³⁵ (as it has effect for the time being) ceases to be accurate, the permitted participant by whom the notification was given must give the Commission a notification (a 'notification of alteration') indicating that that statement is replaced by some other statement contained in the notification of alteration³⁶ and conforming with the provision under which the original notification was given³⁷.

The Commission must maintain a register of all declarations made to it by a registered party³⁸ and of all notifications given to it by an individual or body³⁹. The register must be maintained by the Commission in such form as it may determine and must contain, in the case of each such declaration or notification, all of the information supplied to the Commission in connection with it⁴⁰. Where any such declaration or notification is made or given to the Commission⁴¹, it must cause all the information contained therein to be entered in the register (or, in the case of a notification of alteration, any change required as a consequence of the notification to be made in the register) as soon as is reasonably practicable⁴²; but the information which is to be so entered in the register in respect of a permitted participant who is an individual must not include his home address⁴³. The Commission must make a copy of the register so kept by it⁴⁴ available for public inspection during ordinary office hours, either at the Commission's offices or at some convenient place appointed by it⁴⁵, although the Commission may make other arrangements for members of the public to have access to the register's contents⁴⁶. If requested to do so by any person, the Commission must supply him with a copy of the register or any part of it⁴⁷ and the Commission may charge such reasonable fee as it may determine in respect of any inspection or access so allowed or any copy so supplied⁴⁸. Where any such register is held by the Commission in electronic form, any copy so made available for public inspection or so supplied must be made available, or (as the case may be) supplied, in a legible form⁴⁹.

NOTE 11--Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 54(2)(b) amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(i) General Framework for the Conduct of National and Regional Referendums/C. PERMITTED PARTICIPANTS/522. Power of Electoral Commission to designate permitted participants for assistance.

522. Power of Electoral Commission to designate permitted participants for assistance.

In respect of any referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply², the Electoral Commission³ may designate permitted participants⁴ as organisations⁵ to whom assistance is available⁶. Where there are only two possible outcomes⁷ in the case of such a referendum, the Commission may, in relation to each of those outcomes, designate one permitted participant as representing those campaigning for the outcome in question⁸; but the Commission otherwise must not make any designation in respect of the referendum⁹. Where there are more than two possible outcomes in the case of such a referendum, the Secretary of State¹⁰ may, after consulting the Commission, by order specify the possible outcomes in relation to which permitted participants may be designated¹¹. In such a case the Commission may, in relation to each of two or more outcomes specified in any such order, designate one permitted participant as representing those campaigning for the outcome in question¹²; but the Commission otherwise must not make any designation in respect of the referendum¹³.

A permitted participant seeking to be designated in this way must make an application for the purpose to the Electoral Commission¹⁴. An application for designation¹⁵ must be accompanied by information or statements designed to show that the applicant adequately represents those campaigning for the outcome at the referendum in relation to which the applicant seeks to be designated¹⁶ and it must be made within the period of 28 days¹⁷ beginning with the first day of the referendum period¹⁸. Where an application for designation has been so made to the Commission, the application must be determined by the Commission within the period of 14 days which begins with the day after the end of the period of 28 days¹⁹ beginning with the first day of the referendum period²⁰. If there is only one application in relation to a particular outcome at the referendum, the Commission must designate the applicant unless²¹: (1) it is not satisfied that the applicant adequately represents those campaigning for that outcome²²; or (2) it is prevented from making any designation²³ in respect of the referendum²⁴. If there is more than one application in relation to a particular outcome at the referendum, the Commission must designate whichever of the applicants appears to it to represent to the greatest extent those campaigning for that outcome unless²⁵: (a) it is not satisfied that any of the applicants adequately represents those campaigning for that outcome²⁶; or (b) it is prevented from making any designation²⁷ in respect of the referendum²⁸.

Subject to such reasonable terms and conditions as the universal service provider¹ concerned may specify², a designated organisation³ is entitled to send free of any charge for postage which would otherwise be made by a universal service provider⁴ either: (1) one unaddressed postal communication, containing matter relating to the referendum⁵ only and not exceeding 60 grammes in weight, to each place in the referendum area⁶ which, in accordance with those terms and conditions, constitutes a delivery point for these purposes⁷; or (2) one such postal communication addressed to each person entitled to vote at the referendum⁸. A designated organisation is also, subject as mentioned above, entitled to send free of any such charge for postage to each person entered in the list of proxies for the referendum one such postal communication for each appointment in respect of which that person is so entered⁹.

D. THE CAMPAIGN

(A) CONTROLS ON REFERENDUM EXPENSES

(a) In general

527. Meaning of 'referendum expenses'.

In relation to a referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply², 'referendum expenses' means expenses incurred by or on behalf of any individual or body³ which are expenses incurred for referendum purposes⁴ in respect of any of the matters set out in the following list⁵:

- 495 (1) referendum campaign broadcasts, including agency fees, design costs and other costs in connection with preparing or producing such broadcasts⁶;
- 496 (2) advertising of any nature (whatever the medium used), including agency fees, design costs and other costs in connection with preparing, producing, distributing or otherwise disseminating such advertising or anything incorporating such advertising and intended to be distributed for the purpose of disseminating it⁷;
- 497 (3) unsolicited material addressed to electors (whether addressed to them by name or intended for delivery to households within any particular area or areas), including design costs and other costs in connection with preparing, producing or distributing such material (including the cost of postage)⁸;
- 498 (4) any promotional material or other document providing information about the referendum or the issues or arguments⁹ involved, including design costs and other costs in connection with preparing or producing or distributing or otherwise disseminating any such document¹⁰;
- 499 (5) market research or canvassing conducted for the purpose of ascertaining polling intentions¹¹;
- 500 (6) the provision of any services or facilities in connection with press conferences or other dealings with the media¹²;
- 501 (7) the transport (by any means) of persons to any place or places with a view to obtaining publicity in connection with a referendum campaign, including the costs of hiring a particular means of transport for the whole or part of the period during which the referendum campaign is being conducted¹³;
- 502 (8) rallies and other events, including public meetings (but not annual or other party conferences) organised so as to obtain publicity in connection with a referendum campaign or for other purposes connected with a referendum campaign, including costs incurred in connection with the attendance of persons at such events, the hire of premises for the purposes of such events or the provision of goods, services or facilities at them¹⁴.

Nothing in heads (1) to (8) above is to be taken as extending to any expenses:

- 503 (a) in respect of any property¹⁵, services or facilities so far as those expenses fall to be met out of public funds¹⁶;
- 504 (b) incurred in respect of the remuneration or allowances payable to any member of the staff (whether permanent or otherwise) of the campaign organiser¹⁷; or
- 505 (c) incurred in respect of an individual by way of travelling expenses (by any means of transport) or in providing for his accommodation or other personal needs to the extent that the expenses are paid by the individual from his own resources and are not reimbursed to him¹⁸.

Where, in the case of any individual or body, either: (i) property is transferred to the individual or body¹⁹; or (ii) property, services or facilities is or are provided for the use or benefit of the individual or body²⁰, either free of charge or at a discount of more than 10 per cent²¹, and the property, services or facilities is or are made use of by or on behalf of the individual or body in circumstances such that, if any expenses were to be (or are) actually incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body in respect of that use, they would be (or are) referendum expenses actually incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body²², an amount of referendum expenses (the 'appropriate amount') is treated, for the purposes of the statutory provisions which govern the control of referendum expenses, as incurred by the individual or body during the period for which the property, services or facilities is or are so made use of²³. Where the whole or part of any such period falls within any period which is, in relation to the referendum to which the expenses relate, the referendum period²⁴, then such proportion of the appropriate amount²⁵ as reasonably represents the use made of the property, services or facilities during the referendum period is treated as incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during the referendum period²⁶ and, if a return falls to be prepared²⁷ in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during that period, the responsible person²⁸ must make a declaration of that amount²⁹, unless that amount is not more than £200³⁰. Where head (i) above applies, the appropriate amount is determined as being such proportion of either the market value of the property (where the property is transferred free of charge)³¹ or the difference between the market value of the property and the amount of expenses actually incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body in respect of the property (where the property is transferred at a discount)³², as is reasonably attributable to the use made of the property³³. Where head (ii) above applies, the appropriate amount is determined as being such proportion of either the commercial rate for the use of the property or the provision of the services or facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided free of charge)³⁴ or the difference between that commercial rate and the amount of expenses actually incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body in respect of the use of the property or the provision of the services or facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided at a discount)³⁵ as is reasonably attributable to the use made of the property, services or facilities³⁶. However, no amount of referendum expenses is to be regarded as so incurred in respect of: (A) the transmission by a broadcaster³⁷ of a referendum campaign broadcast³⁸; (B) the provision of any rights to assistance conferred³⁹ on a designated organisation (or persons authorised by such an organisation)⁴⁰; or (C) the provision by any individual of his own services which he provides voluntarily in his own time and free of charge⁴¹.

The Electoral Commission⁴² may prepare, and from time to time revise, a code of practice giving guidance as to the kinds of expenses which do, or do not, fall within the matters specified either in heads (1) to (8) above or heads (a) to (c) above⁴³. Once the Commission has prepared a draft of such a code, it must submit it to the Secretary of State for his approval⁴⁴; and he may approve a draft code either without modification or with such modifications as he may determine⁴⁵. The Secretary of State may also by order make such amendments to the matters specified either in heads (1) to (8) above or heads (a) to (c) above as he considers appropriate⁴⁶; and he may make such an order either where the order gives effect to a recommendation of the Electoral Commission⁴⁷ or after consultation with the Electoral Commission⁴⁸.

As to the meaning of 'modification' see PARA 39 note 9 ante. If the draft incorporates any such modifications, the Secretary of State must at the same time lay before each House a statement of his reasons for making them: Sch 13 para 3(5). If, within the 40-day period, either House resolves not to approve the draft, the Secretary of State must take no further steps in relation to the draft code (Sch 13 para 3(6)); but if no such resolution is made within the 40-day period, the Secretary of State must issue the code in the form of the draft laid before Parliament, and the code is to come into force on such date as the Secretary of State may by order appoint (Sch 13 para 3(7)). The Commission must arrange for the code to be published in such manner as it thinks appropriate: Sch 13 para 3(7). The prohibition in Sch 13 para 3(6) from taking further action in relation to a draft code does not prevent a new draft code from being laid before Parliament: Sch 13 para 3(8). For these purposes, the '40-day period', in relation to a draft code, means, if the draft is laid before one House on a day later than the day on which it is laid before the other House, the period of 40 days beginning with the later of the two days, and, in any other case, the period of 40 days beginning with the day on which the draft is laid before each House: Sch 13 para 3(8). Where any expenses are incurred in contravention of this restriction by a permitted participant that is a registered party⁶, the expenses do not count as referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant either for the purposes of the statutory provisions which impose financial limits on such expenditure⁷ or for the purposes of the statutory provisions which require returns as to such expenditure⁸.

Any payment made in respect of any such expenses by a person within head (1) or head (2) above must be supported by an invoice or a receipt unless it is not more than £200⁶; and where any such payment is made by a person within head (2) above, he must deliver to the responsible person both notification that he has made the payment⁷ and the supporting invoice or receipt⁸ as soon as possible after making the payment⁹.

530. Claims in respect of referendum expenses.

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², a claim for payment in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant³ during a referendum period⁴ is not payable unless the claim is sent⁵ to the responsible person⁶, or any other person authorised⁷ to incur the expenses⁸, not later than 30 days⁹ after the end of the referendum period¹⁰. Any claim so sent must be paid not later than 60 days after the end of the referendum period¹¹; but this is without prejudice to any rights of a creditor of a permitted participant to obtain payment before the end of the period so allowed¹².

A person commits an offence if, without reasonable excuse, he pays any claim for payment in respect of referendum expenses which by virtue of being statute-barred¹³ is not payable or if he makes any payment in respect of a claim after the end of the period allowed for the payment of claims¹⁴.

If the responsible person or other person to whom a claim for payment in respect of referendum expenses is sent fails or refuses to pay the claim within the period allowed¹⁵, where the claim¹⁶ is sent to the responsible person¹⁷ or to any other person with whose authority it is alleged that the expenditure was incurred¹⁸ within the period allowed before such claims are barred¹⁹, the claim is deemed to be a disputed claim²⁰. 532. General restriction on referendum expenses for individual or body that is not a permitted participant.

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², the total referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of any individual or body³ during the referendum period⁴ in the case of a particular referendum to which the general framework provisions apply⁵ must not exceed £10,000⁶ unless the individual or body is a permitted participant⁷.

Where, at any time before the beginning of any referendum period, any expenses falling within the matters which qualify as referendum expenses⁸ are incurred by or on behalf of an individual or body in respect of any property⁹, services or facilities¹⁰, but the property, services or facilities is or are made use of by or on behalf of the individual or body during the referendum period in circumstances such that, had any expenses been incurred in respect of that use during that period, they would¹¹ have constituted referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during that period¹², the appropriate proportion of those expenses¹³ is treated, for the purposes of imposing a general restriction on referendum expenses for an individual or body that is not a permitted participant¹⁴, as referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during that period¹⁵.

Where, during the referendum period, any referendum expenses are incurred in excess of the general restriction imposed on such expenses by or on behalf of any individual or body who is not a permitted participant, any such individual or any person who authorised the expenses to be incurred by or on behalf of such a body is guilty of an offence if he knew or ought reasonably to have known that the expenditure would be incurred in excess of that limit; and the body in question is also guilty of an offence¹⁶.

THE CAMPAIGN/(A) Controls on Referendum Expenses/(b) Financial Limits on Referendum Expenses/533. Special restrictions on referendum expenses for permitted participants.

533. Special restrictions on referendum expenses for permitted participants.

In relation to a referendum¹ held throughout the United Kingdom², the limit on referendum expenses³ incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant⁴ during the referendum period⁵ in the case of such a referendum is⁶:

- 506 (1) £5 million in the case of a person or body designated for assistance⁷;
- 507 (2) in the case of a registered party⁸ by which a declaration has been made in relation to the referendum⁹ but which has not been designated for assistance¹⁰:
- 19
- 34. (a) £5 million, if the party's relevant percentage¹¹ exceeds 30 per cent¹²;
- 35. (b) £4 million, if the party's relevant percentage is more than 20 per cent but not more than 30 per cent¹³;
- 36. (c) £3 million, if the party's relevant percentage is more than 10 per cent but not more than 20 per cent¹⁴;
- 37. (d) £2 million, if the party's relevant percentage is more than 5 per cent but not more than 10 per cent¹⁵;
- 38. (e) £500,000, if the party's relevant percentage is not more than 5 per cent or if it has no relevant percentage¹⁶; and
- 508 (3) £500,000 in the case of a person or body by whom a notification has been given in relation to the referendum¹⁷ but who has not been designated for assistance¹⁸.

In relation to a referendum which is not held throughout the United Kingdom¹⁹, the limit on referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant during the referendum period in the case of such a referendum is such amount as the Secretary of State²⁰ may by order prescribe²¹. Before making such an order, the Secretary of State must seek, and have regard to, the views of the Electoral Commission²²; but where he proposes to make such an order otherwise than in accordance with the views of the Commission, he must on laying a draft of a statutory instrument containing the order before each House of Parliament also lay before each House a statement of his reasons for departing from the views of the Commission²³.

Where, at any time before the beginning of any referendum period, any expenses falling within the matters which qualify as referendum expenses²⁴ are incurred by or on behalf of an individual or body in respect of any property²⁵, services or facilities²⁶, but the property, services or facilities is or are made use of by or on behalf of the individual or body during the referendum period in circumstances such that, had any expenses been incurred in respect of that use during that period, they would²⁷ have constituted referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during that period²⁸, the appropriate proportion of those expenses²⁹ is treated, for the purposes of imposing special restrictions on referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of permitted participants³⁰, as referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body during that period³¹.

Where, during the referendum period, any referendum expenses are incurred in excess of the special restrictions imposed on such expenses by or on behalf of any permitted participant, the permitted participant or other person who authorised the expenses is guilty of an offence if he knew or ought reasonably to have known that the expenditure would be incurred in excess of that limit; and the body or party in question is also guilty of an offence³².

(c) Returns as to Referendum Expenses

534. Returns as to referendum expenses.

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², where any referendum expenses are incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant³ during any referendum period⁴ and that period ends⁵, the responsible person⁶ must make a return in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant during that period⁷.

Such a return must specify the referendum to which the expenditure relates, and must contain⁸:

- 509 (1) a statement of all payments made in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant during the referendum period in question⁹;
- 510 (2) a statement of all disputed claims¹⁰;
- 511 (3) a statement of all the unpaid claims (if any) of which the responsible person is aware in respect of which an application has been made, or is about to be made, to a court for leave to pay the claim¹¹; and
- 512 (4) in a case where the permitted participant either is not a registered party¹² or is a minor party¹³, a statement of relevant donations¹⁴ received in respect of the referendum which complies with the relevant requirements for such statements¹⁵.

Such a return must be accompanied by:

- 513 (a) all invoices or receipts relating to the payments mentioned in head (1) above¹⁶; and
- 514 (b) in the case of any referendum expenses in relation to which an appropriate amount is treated as incurred by the permitted participant¹⁷, any declaration falling to be made with respect to those expenses¹⁸.

Where any referendum expenses are incurred at any time before the individual or body¹⁹ became a permitted participant, the requirement to make such a return does not apply in relation to such expenses but the return must be accompanied by a declaration made by the responsible person of the total amount of such expenses incurred at any such time²⁰.

A report must be prepared by a qualified auditor²¹ on such a return in respect of referendum expenses where, during any referendum period, the referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant exceeds £250,000²².

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², where any return as to referendum expenses falls to be prepared³ in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant⁴, and an auditor's report on it falls to be prepared also⁵, the responsible person⁶ must deliver the return to the Electoral Commission⁷, together with a copy of the auditor's report, within six months of the end of the relevant referendum period⁸. In the case of any other such return which falls to be prepared⁹, the responsible person must deliver the return to the Commission within three months of the end of the relevant referendum period¹⁰.

Where, after the date on which a return is so delivered to the Commission, leave is given by a court for any claim to be paid¹¹, the responsible person must, within seven days after the payment, deliver to the Commission a return of any sums paid in pursuance of the leave accompanied by a copy of the order of the court giving the leave¹².

536. Declaration made in relation to returns as to referendum expenses.

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², each return³ in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant⁴ must be accompanied by a declaration which is signed by the responsible person⁵ and which must state that the responsible person has examined the return in question⁶ and that, to the best of his knowledge and belief⁷, it is a complete and correct return as required by law⁸ and all expenses shown in it as paid have been paid by him or by a person authorised by him⁹. The declaration must also state, in a case where the permitted participant either is not a registered party¹⁰ or is a minor party¹¹, that all relevant donations¹² recorded in the return as having been accepted by the permitted participant are from permissible donors¹³ and that no other relevant donations have been accepted by the permitted participant¹⁴.

537. Public inspection of returns as to referendum expenses.

For the purposes of controlling referendum expenses¹ incurred for referendum purposes², where the Electoral Commission³ receives any return as to referendum expenses⁴, it must⁵, as soon as reasonably practicable after receiving the return, make a copy of the return, and of any documents accompanying it, available for public inspection⁶ and keep any such copy available for public inspection for the period for which the return or other document is kept by it⁷. If the return contains a statement of relevant donations⁸, the Commission must secure that the copy of the statement made available for public inspection does not include, in the case of any donation by an individual, the donor's address⁹.

Where the Commission is for the time being required to make available for public inspection a copy of any document in this way, it must make the copy available for public inspection during ordinary office hours, either at the Commission's offices or at some convenient place appointed by it¹⁰, although the Commission may make other arrangements for members of the public to have access to the document's contents¹¹. If requested to do so by any person, the Commission must supply him with a copy of the document or any part of it¹²; and the Commission may charge such reasonable fee as it may determine in respect of any inspection or access so allowed or any copy so supplied¹³. Where any such document is held by the Commission in electronic form, any copy so made available for public inspection or so supplied must be made available, or (as the case may be) supplied, in a legible form¹⁴.

At the end of the period of two years beginning with the date when any such return or other document is received by the Commission¹⁵, it may cause the return or other document to be destroyed¹⁶; but, if requested to do so by the responsible person¹⁷ in the case of the permitted participant concerned, it must arrange for the return or other document to be returned to that person¹⁸.

THE CAMPAIGN/(B) Controls on Donations received by certain Permitted Participants/538. Meaning of 'donation' in relation to certain permitted participants at a referendum.

(B) CONTROLS ON DONATIONS RECEIVED BY CERTAIN PERMITTED PARTICIPANTS

538. Meaning of 'donation' in relation to certain permitted participants at a referendum.

For the purposes of controlling donations at a referendum¹ to permitted participants² that either are not registered parties³ or are minor parties⁴, 'donation' means⁵, in relation to a permitted participant⁶: (1) any gift⁷ to the permitted participant⁸ of money or other property⁹; (2) any sponsorship provided in relation to the permitted participant¹⁰; (3) any money spent (otherwise than by or on behalf of the permitted participant) in paying any referendum expenses¹¹ incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant¹²; (4) any money lent to the permitted participant otherwise than on commercial terms¹³; (5) the provision otherwise than on commercial terms of any property, services or facilities for the use or benefit of the permitted participant (including the services of any person)¹⁴; (6) in the case of a permitted participant other than an individual, any subscription or other fee paid for affiliation to, or membership of, the permitted participant¹⁵.

Where anything would be a donation both by virtue of head (2) above and by virtue of any other provision mentioned in head (1) or heads (3) to (6) above, head (2) above applies in relation to that donation to the exclusion of the other provision¹⁶. Any donation whose value is not more than £200 is disregarded¹⁷; and none of the following is to be regarded as a donation: (a) any grant provided out of public funds¹⁸, other than a grant provided to a designated organisation¹⁹; (b) the provision of any rights to assistance conferred on a designated organisation (or person authorised by a designated organisation)²⁰; (c) the provision by an individual of his own services which he provides voluntarily in his own time and free of charge²¹; (d) any interest accruing to a permitted participant in respect of any donation which is sent back by the permitted participant²².

For these purposes, 'sponsorship' is provided in relation to a permitted participant if any money or other property is transferred to the permitted participant or to any person for the benefit of the permitted participant²³ and the purpose (or one of the purposes) of the transfer is, or must, having regard to all the circumstances, reasonably be assumed to be²⁴ either to help the permitted participant with meeting, or to meet, to any extent any defined expenses²⁵ incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant²⁶ or to secure that to any extent any such expenses are not so incurred²⁷. However, for these purposes: (i) the making of any payment in respect of any charge for admission to any conference, meeting or other event²⁸ or in respect of the purchase price of, or any other charge for access to, any publication²⁹; or (ii) the making of any payment in respect of the inclusion of an advertisement in any publication where the payment is made at the commercial rate payable for the inclusion of such an advertisement in any such publication³⁰, do not constitute sponsorship³¹.

1 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 519 ante.

5 le subject to ibid Sch 15 para 4 (see the text and notes 17-22 infra). For these purposes, 'donation' must be construed in accordance with Sch 1 paras 2-4 (see the text and notes 6-31 infra): Sch 15 para 1(5).

6 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1). In accordance with Sch 15 para 1(1) (see the text and notes 1-4 supra), 'permitted participant' does not for these purposes include a permitted participant which is a registered party other than a minor party: Sch 15 para 1(2), (3).

7 For these purposes, 'gift' includes bequest (and thus any form of testamentary disposition): ibid s 160(1), Sch 15 para 2(6)(b).

8 For these purposes, any reference to anything being given or transferred to a permitted participant or any other person is a reference to its being given or transferred either directly or indirectly through any third person: ibid Sch 15 para 2(6)(a). Anything given or transferred to any officer, member, trustee or agent of a permitted participant in his capacity as such (and not for his own use or benefit) is to be regarded as given or transferred to the permitted participant (and references to donations received by a permitted participant accordingly include donations so given or transferred): Sch 15 para 2(5).

9 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1)(a). Where: (1) any money or other property is transferred to a permitted participant pursuant to any transaction or arrangement involving the provision by or on behalf of the permitted participant of any property, services or facilities or other consideration of monetary value (Sch 15 para 2(2)(a)); and (2) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration so provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant is less than the value of the money or (as the case may be) the market value of the property transferred (Sch 15 para 2(2)(b)), the transfer of the money or property constitutes a gift to the permitted participant for the purposes of Sch 15 para 2(1)(a), but subject to Sch 15 para 2(4) (see the text and note 16 infra) (Sch 15 para 2(2)). The value of any donation falling within Sch 15 para 2(1)(a), other than money, must be taken to be the market value of the property in question: Sch 15 para 5(1). However, where Sch 15 para 2(1)(a) applies by virtue of Sch 15 para 2(2), the value of the donation must be taken to be the difference between: (a) the value of the money (or the market value of the property) in question (Sch 15 para 5(2)(a)); and (b) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant (Sch 15 para 5(2)(b)). For the meaning of 'market value' see PARA 304 note 26 ante. As to the meaning of 'property' see PARA 31 note 8 ante.

10 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1)(b). For these purposes, sponsorship provided in relation to the permitted participant is defined by Sch 15 para 3 (see the text and notes 23-31 infra): Sch 15 para 2(1)(b). The value of any donation falling within Sch 15 para 2(1)(b) is taken to be the value of the money or (as the case may be) the market value of the property, transferred as mentioned in Sch 15 para 3(1) (see the text and notes 23-27 infra); and accordingly any value in monetary terms of any benefit conferred on the person providing the sponsorship in question must be disregarded: Sch 15 para 5(3).

11 For the meaning of 'referendum expenses' see PARA 527 ante.

12 Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 15 para 2(1)(c). As to the meaning of references to referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant during the referendum period see PARA 533 note 5 ante. In relation to a permitted participant at a referendum, a donation to the permitted participant for the purpose of meeting referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant is referred to as a 'relevant donation': Sch 15 para 1(4).

13 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1)(d). In determining, for these purposes, whether any money lent to a permitted participant is so lent otherwise than on commercial terms (Sch 15 para 2(3)(a)), regard must be had to the total value in monetary terms of the consideration provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant in respect of the loan or the provision of the property, services or facilities (Sch 15 para 2(3)). The value of any donation falling within Sch 15 para 2(1)(d) or Sch 15 para 2(1)(e) (see head (5) in the text) is taken to be the amount representing the difference between: (1) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration that would have had to be provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant in respect of the loan or the provision of the property, services or facilities if the loan had been made or the property, services or facilities had been provided, on commercial terms (Sch 15 para 5(4)(a)); and (2) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration, if any, actually so provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant (Sch 15 para 5(4)(b)). Where such a donation confers an enduring benefit on the donee over a particular period, the value of the donation is determined at the time when it is made, but must be so determined by reference to the total benefit accruing to the donee over that period: Sch 15 para 5(5).

14 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1)(e). In determining, for these purposes, whether any property, services or facilities provided for the use or benefit of a permitted participant is or are so provided otherwise than on commercial terms (Sch 15 para 2(3)(b)), regard must be had to the total value in monetary terms of the consideration provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant in respect of the loan or the provision of the property, services or facilities (Sch 15 para 2(3)). See also note 13 supra.

15 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(1)(f).

16 Ibid Sch 15 para 2(4). In the circumstances mentioned in the text, the general provisions as to sponsorship (see the text and notes 23-31 infra) apply as well as the provision mentioned in head (2) in the text: Sch 15 para 2(4).

17 Ibid Sch 15 para 4(2). The value is determined in accordance with Sch 15 para 5 (see notes 9, 10, 13 supra). The Secretary of State may by order vary the sum for the time being specified in Sch 15 (as amended): see s 155; and PARA 304 note 36 ante. For this purpose, 'publication' means a publication made available in whatever form and by whatever means, whether or not to the public at large or any section of the public: Sch 15 para 3(5). The Secretary of State may by order made on the recommendation of the Electoral Commission amend Sch 15 para 3(2) or Sch 15 para 3(3) (see the text and notes 28-31 infra): Sch 15 para 3(4). PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(i) General Framework for the Conduct of National and Regional Referendums/D. THE CAMPAIGN/(B) Controls on Donations received by certain Permitted Participants/539. Restrictions on permitted participants at a referendum accepting certain donations.

539. Restrictions on permitted participants at a referendum accepting certain donations.

For the purposes of controlling donations¹ to permitted participants² at a referendum³, a relevant donation⁴ received by a permitted participant must not be accepted⁵ if: (1) the person by whom the donation would be made is not, at the time of its receipt by the permitted participant, a permissible donor⁶; or (2) the permitted participant is, whether because the donation is given anonymously or by reason of any deception or concealment or otherwise, unable to ascertain the identity of the person offering the donation⁷. A 'permissible donor' referred to in head (1) above is any of the following: (a) an individual registered in an electoral register⁸; (b) a company registered under the Companies Act 1985 and incorporated within the United Kingdom⁹ or another member state which carries on business in the United Kingdom¹⁰; (c) a registered party¹¹; (d) a trade union entered in the list kept under the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992¹²; (e) a building society¹³; (f) a limited liability partnership registered under the Limited Liability Partnerships Act 2000 which carries on business in the United Kingdom¹⁴; (g) a friendly society registered under the Friendly Societies Act 1974¹⁵ or a society registered (or deemed to be registered) under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act 1965¹⁶; and (h) any unincorporated association of two or more persons which does not fall within any of heads (a) to (g) above but which carries on business or other activities wholly or mainly in the United Kingdom and whose main office is there¹⁷.

Where any person (the 'principal donor') causes an amount (the 'principal donation') to be received by a permitted participant by way of a relevant donation either on behalf of himself and one or more other persons¹⁸ or on behalf of two or more other persons¹⁹, then for the purposes of the provisions relating to the controls on donations received by permitted participants at a referendum²⁰, each individual contribution by such person of more than £200²¹ is treated as if it were a separate donation received from that person²².

Where any person (the 'agent') causes an amount to be received by a permitted participant by way of a donation on behalf of another person (the 'donor')²³, and the amount of the donation is more than £200²⁴, the agent must ensure that, at the time when the donation is received by the permitted participant, the responsible person is given all such details in respect of the donor as are required to be included in donation reports²⁵.

A person commits an offence if, without reasonable excuse, he fails to comply with the provisions which impose controls on donations made through other persons or through agents²⁶.

2 For the meaning of 'permitted participant' see PARA 521 ante; but see also PARA 538 note 6 ante.

6 Ibid Sch 15 para 6(1)(a). The text refers to a permissible donor falling within s 54(2) (as amended) (see heads (a)-(h) in the text). For these purposes, any payment received by a designated organisation by virtue of s 110(2) (see PARA 523 ante) must be regarded as a donation received by the organisation from a permissible donor falling within s 54(2) (Sch 15 para 6(2)); and any relevant donation received by a permitted participant which is an exempt trust donation must be regarded as a relevant donation received by the permitted participant from a permissible donor (Sch 15 para 6(3)). However, any relevant donation received by a permitted participant from a trustee of any property (in his capacity as such) is regarded as being from a person who is not such a permissible donor if that donation is not: (1) an exempt trust donation; or (2) a relevant donation transmitted by the trustee to the permitted participant on behalf of beneficiaries under the trust who are either persons who, at the time of its receipt by the permitted participant, are such permissible donors or the members of an unincorporated association which at that time is such a permissible donor: Sch 15 para 6(4). In relation to donations received by a permitted participant other than a designated organisation (within the meaning given by s 110(5): see PARA 523 ante), references to a permissible donor falling within s 54(2) (as amended) do not include a registered party: Sch 15 para 1(6). UPDATE

NOTE 10--Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 54(2)(b) amended: SI 2009/1941.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(i) General Framework for the Conduct of National and Regional Referendums/D. THE CAMPAIGN/(B) Controls on Donations received by certain Permitted Participants/540. Acceptance or return of donations received by permitted participants at a referendum.

540. Acceptance or return of donations received by permitted participants at a referendum.

The provisions which require a registered party¹ to: (1) take all reasonable steps to identify a donor in order to ascertain whether he is a permissible donor²; and (2) where a donor is unidentifiable or impermissible, to return the donation to its source or to send it to the Electoral Commission³ or subject it to forfeiture on the application of the Commission⁴, apply, subject to minor modification, for the purposes of controlling donations⁵ to permitted participants⁶ at a referendum⁷ in relation to a permitted participant and any relevant donation⁸ received by a permitted participant as they apply in relation to a registered party and a donation received by a registered party⁹.

Accordingly, where a donation is received by a permitted participant¹⁰ and it is not immediately decided that the permitted participant should (for whatever reason) refuse the donation¹¹, all reasonable steps must be taken forthwith by or on behalf of the permitted participant party to verify (or, so far as any of the following is not apparent, ascertain) the identity of the donor, whether he is a permissible donor, and (if that appears to be the case) all such details in respect of the donor as are required to be included in donation reports¹². If a permitted participant receives a donation which it is prohibited from accepting¹³, or which it is decided that the permitted participant should for any other reason refuse¹⁴, then the donation, or a payment of an equivalent amount, must be sent back to the person who made the donation or any person appearing to be acting on his behalf¹⁵ (unless the permitted participant is unable to ascertain the identity of the person by whom the donation was made¹⁶, in which case the required steps¹⁷ must be taken in relation to the donation)¹⁸, within the period of 30 days beginning with the date when the donation is received by the permitted participant¹⁹. Unless the donation is so returned (or such steps are taken in relation to the donation) within the period of 30 days so mentioned²⁰, and unless a record can be produced of the receipt of the donation and of the return of the donation or the equivalent amount (or of the required steps being taken in relation to the donation, as the case may be)²¹ then, for these purposes, a donation received by a permitted participant is taken to have been accepted by the permitted participant²².

In England and Wales²³, a magistrates' court may, on an application made by the Commission, order the forfeiture by the permitted participant of an amount equal to the value of any donation²⁴ received by a permitted participant which²⁵ the permitted participant is prohibited from accepting²⁶ but which has been accepted by the permitted participant²⁷. The standard of proof in proceedings on such an application is that applicable to civil proceedings²⁸; and such an order may be made whether or not proceedings are brought against any person for an offence connected with the donation²⁹. Where such an order (a 'forfeiture order') is made by a magistrates' court³⁰, the permitted participant may, before the end of the period of 30 days beginning with the date on which any forfeiture order is made, appeal to the Crown Court³¹. Such an appeal is by way of a rehearing; and the court hearing such an appeal may make such order as it considers appropriate³². The standard of proof in relation to a rehearing on such an appeal remains that applicable to civil proceedings³³; and an appropriate order may be made whether or not proceedings are brought against any person for an offence connected with the donation³⁴. Any amount forfeited by an order made either on application or on appeal³⁵ must be paid into the Consolidated Fund³⁶, although this does not apply: (a) where an appeal is made³⁷, before the appeal is determined or otherwise disposed of³⁸; and (b) in any other case, before the end of the period of 30 days beginning with the date on which any forfeiture order is made³⁹.

9 Political Parties, Referendums and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 15 para 7(1). Accordingly, in the application of ss 56-60 (as amended) for these purposes: (1) s 56(1) has effect as if the reference to the particulars relating to a donor which would be required to be included in a donation report by virtue of ss 62, 63, Sch 6 para 2 (as amended) (identity of donors (quarterly reports): see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS), if the donation were a recordable donation within the meaning of Sch 6 (as amended) (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS), were construed as a reference to the particulars which are required to be included in a return by virtue of Sch 15 para 10(1)(c) (see PARA 542 post); and (2) the provisions of s 56(3), (4) have effect as if the reference to the treasurer of a registered party were construed as a reference to the responsible person in relation to the permitted participant: Sch 15 para 7(2). For the meaning of 'responsible person' in relation to a registered party see PARA 521 note 23 ante; and for the meaning of 'responsible person' in relation to an individual or body which is not a registered party see PARA 521 note 32 ante.

10 Ibid s 56(1)(a) (as applied: see the text and notes 1-9 supra).

11 Ibid s 56(1)(b) (as applied: see the text and notes 1-9 supra). Where a donation is received by a permitted participant in the form of an amount paid into any account held by the permitted participant with a financial institution, it is taken for these purposes to have been received by the permitted participant at the time when the permitted participant is notified in the usual way of the payment into the account: s 56(6) (as so applied).

12 Ibid s 56(1) (as applied and modified: see the text and notes 1-9 supra). The text refers to the details in respect of the donor that are required to be reported by virtue of Sch 15 para 10(1)(c) (see PARA 542 post).

16 Ie unless the donation falls within ibid s 54(1)(b), which is in similar terms to Sch 15 para 6(1)(b) (see PARA 539 ante).

17 For these purposes, the required steps are as follows: (1) if the donation was transmitted by a person other than the donor, and the identity of that person is apparent, to return the donation to that person (ibid s 57(1)(a) (as applied: see the text and notes 1-9 supra)); (2) if head (1) supra does not apply but it is apparent that the donor has, in connection with the donation, used any facility provided by an identifiable financial institution, to return the donation to that institution (s 57(1)(b) (as so applied)); and (3) in any other case, to send the donation to the Electoral Commission (s 57(1)(c) (as so applied); s 160(1)). Any reference to returning or sending a donation to any person or body includes a reference to sending a payment of an equivalent amount to that person or body (s 57(2) (as so applied)); and any amount sent to the Electoral Commission in pursuance of head (3) supra must be paid by it into the Consolidated Fund (s 57(3) (as so applied); s 160(1)). In the case of a permitted participant which is not a body corporate: (1) proceedings under s 58 (as applied) or s 59 (as applied) must be brought against or by the party in its own name (and not in that of any of its members) (s 60(5)(a) (as so applied)); (2) for the purposes of any such proceedings any rules of court relating to the service of documents apply as if the permitted participant were a body corporate (s 60(5)(b) (as so applied)); and (3) any amount forfeited by an order under s 58 (as applied) or s 59 (as applied) must be paid out of the funds of the permitted participant (s 60(5)(c) (as so applied)). Accordingly, in relation to each relevant donation accepted by the permitted participant where the value of the donation:

- 515 (1) is more than £5,000⁸; or
- 516 (2) when added to the value of any other donation or donations made by the same donor (whether or not falling within head (1) above), is more than that amount⁹, the statement must record¹⁰: (a) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value¹¹; (b) the date when the donation was accepted by the permitted participant¹²; (c) the information about the donor which is, in connection with recordable donations to registered parties, required to be recorded in donation reports¹³; (d) the total value of any relevant donations, other than those falling within head (1) or head (2) above, which are accepted by the permitted participant¹⁴; and (e) such other information as may be required by regulations made by the Electoral Commission¹⁵.

Where a relevant donation has been received from a person who is not a permissible donor (an 'impermissible donor')¹⁶, the statement must record: (i) the name and address of the donor¹⁷; (ii) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value¹⁸; (iii) the date when the donation was received, and the date when, and the manner in which, it was dealt with in accordance with the provisions which regulate the handling of relevant donations made by impermissible donors¹⁹; (iv) such other information as is required by regulations made by the Commission²⁰. Where a relevant donation has been received from a person whose identity cannot be ascertained²¹, the statement must record: (A) details of the manner in which the donation was made²²; (B) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value²³; (C) the date when the donation was received, and the date when and the manner in which it was dealt with in accordance with the provisions which regulate the handling of relevant donations made by persons whose identity cannot be ascertained²⁴; and (D) such other information as is required by regulations made by the Commission²⁵.

543. Restriction on publication etc of promotional material by central and local government etc.

No material which: (1) provides general information about a referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions² apply; (2) deals with any of the issues raised by any question³ on which such a referendum is being held⁴; (3) puts any arguments for or against any particular answer⁵ to any such question⁶; or (4) is designed to encourage voting at such a referendum⁷, is to be published⁸ during the period of 28 days ending with the date of the poll (the 'relevant period')⁹ by or on behalf of any Minister of the Crown, government department or local authority¹⁰ or any other person or body whose expenses are defrayed wholly or mainly out of public funds¹¹ or by any local authority¹². However, this restriction on publication does not apply to: (a) material made available to persons in response to specific requests for information or to persons specifically seeking access to it¹³; (b) anything done by or on behalf of the Electoral Commission¹⁴ or a designated person or body¹⁵ to whom assistance is available¹⁶; (c) the publication of information relating to the holding of the poll¹⁷; or (d) the issue of press notices¹⁸.

(A) COUNTING OFFICERS

545. Chief counting officers and counting officers for referendums.

In relation to any referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply², there must be a chief counting officer for the referendum, who is either the chairman of the Electoral Commission³ or, if the chairman of the Commission appoints some other person to act as chief counting officer for the referendum, the person so appointed⁴. The chief counting officer for the referendum must appoint a counting officer for each relevant area in Great Britain⁵; and the local authority⁶ in the case of each such area must place the services of its officers at the disposal of the counting officer for the area for the purpose of assisting him in the discharge of his functions⁷.

Each counting officer must certify the number of ballot papers counted by him⁸ and the number of votes cast in favour of each answer⁹ to a question¹⁰ asked in the referendum¹¹, as respects the votes cast in the area for which he is appointed¹². The chief counting officer must certify the total number of ballot papers counted¹³ and the total number of votes cast in favour of each answer to a question asked in the referendum¹⁴, in the whole of the referendum area¹⁵.

'Referendum area' means the parts or part of the United Kingdom, or (as the case may be) the region in England, throughout which the referendum is held as mentioned in s 101(1) (see PARA 519 ante): s 128(9)(c). 546. Orders regulating conduct of referendums.

The Secretary of State¹ may by order² make such provision as he considers expedient for or in connection with regulating the conduct of referendums³ to which the general framework provisions apply⁴. However, such an order does not apply in relation to any referendum in relation to which specific provision is made by any other enactment for or in connection with regulating any matters relating to the conduct of the referendum, except to such extent (if any) as may be provided by that enactment⁵.

Before making such an order, the Secretary of State must consult the Electoral Commission⁶.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

2 Such an order may, in particular, make provision for the creation of offences and apply (with or without modification) any provision of any enactment; and different provision may be so made in relation to different parts of the United Kingdom: Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 129(2). 547. Framework for the holding of referendums on regional assemblies.

Within the general framework provisions which apply to certain referendums held in England¹, the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 provides for the holding of referendums about the establishment of elected assemblies for certain regions of England (except London) ('assembly referendums')². The Act also requires the Secretary of State to hold referendums ('local government referendums') in areas with two tiers of local authorities regarding the government's proposed options for single-tier local government in those areas³. Provision is made for the polls at such referendums to be combined⁴.

The Act also makes provision for the Electoral Commission⁵ to give advice in connection with the establishment of assemblies⁶; for questioning the number of ballot papers or votes cast in a referendum⁷; for reviewing the structure of local government in regions where the holding of a referendum is under consideration⁸; and for the payment of grant in connection with the activities of regional chambers⁹.

547-553 Referendums on Regional Assemblies

Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 repealed: Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 Sch 7 Pt 4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(i) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Referendums on Regional Assemblies/548. Regional assembly referendums.

548. Regional assembly referendums.

The Secretary of State¹ may by order cause a referendum² to be held in a region specified in the order³ about the establishment of an elected assembly for that region⁴. The date of the referendum must be specified in the order⁵; and, for the purposes of the general framework provisions which apply to certain referendums⁶, the Secretary of State must by order determine the referendum period for such a referendum⁷. However, the Secretary of State must not make an order to hold a referendum unless each of the following two conditions is satisfied in relation to the region⁸, namely: (1) that the Secretary of State has considered the level of interest in the region in the holding of such a referendum⁹; and (2) that the Boundary Committee for England¹⁰ has made recommendations in relation to the region¹¹. If a referendum is held in a region in pursuance of such an order¹² and a majority of the votes cast in the referendum is against there being an elected assembly for the region¹³, no further such order may be made in relation to the region until the end of the period of seven years starting with the day on which the referendum was held¹⁴.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 519 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 12(5).

3 The Secretary of State may make the order at any time during the period of two years starting with the date on which he gives a direction under ibid s 13 (see PARA 553 post) in relation to the region so long as before he makes the order he has no cause to think that the level of interest has changed materially: s 1(6). A change in the level of interest is material if the changed level is one at which the Secretary of State (disregarding factors relating to any other region) thinks he would not have given a direction under s 13: s 1(7). If the Secretary of State has cause to think that the level of interest has changed materially as mentioned in s 1(6), that provision does not apply but he must not make an order under s 1(1) (see the text and note 4 infra) unless, for the purposes of s 1(4) (see the text and note 9 infra), he considers views expressed and information and evidence provided to him and such published material as he thinks appropriate: s 1(8).

As to the power of a Minister of the Crown to make provision, under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 129 (see PARA 546 ante), regulating the conduct of referendums for or in connection with an assembly referendum see the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 12; and as to rules so made see the Regional Assembly and Local Government Referendums Order 2004, SI 2004/1962, art 3, Sch 1 Pt I (rr 1-19) (general provisions; ballot packs), Sch 1 Pt II (rr 20-35) (return of ballot papers), Sch 1 Pt III (rr 36-54) (receipt by the counting officer of ballot papers), Sch 1 Pt IV (rr 55-59) (the count), Sch 1 Pt V (rr 60-61) (final proceedings), Sch 1 Pt VI (rr 62-65) (disposal of documents).

5 Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 1(2). The Secretary of State may by order vary or revoke an order under s 1 if he thinks it is not appropriate for a referendum to be held on the date specified in the order: s 1(9).

6 Ie for the purposes of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Pt VII (ss 101-129) (as amended), which (inter alia) imposes limits on expenditure and controls on the publication of referendum-related material during the referendum period (see PARA 519 et seq ante).

549. Local government referendums.

If the Secretary of State¹ makes an order² to cause a referendum³ to be held in a region about the establishment of an elected assembly for that region⁴, he must by order cause a referendum to be held in each county area⁵ in the region about the government's proposals for the structure of local government in that area⁶.

The government's proposals for the structure of local government: (1) are such of the recommendations of the Boundary Committee for England made in pursuance of a direction⁷ as the Secretary of State thinks appropriate subject to such modifications (if any) as he proposes to make⁸; and (2) must include at least two options for structural change⁹ in relation to each county area in the region¹⁰.

The date of a referendum held in pursuance of such an order must be specified in the order¹¹ and must be the same date as the date specified in the order to cause a referendum to be held in a region about the establishment of an elected assembly for that region¹². For the purposes of the general framework provisions which apply to certain referendums¹³, the Secretary of State must by order also determine the referendum period for such a referendum¹⁴.

If in any proceedings any certificate given by a person appointed for the purpose as to the number of votes cast in favour of any option in a referendum held in a county area in pursuance of an order causing such a referendum to be held is declared or held to be invalid¹⁵, the Secretary of State may by order cause a further referendum to be held in that county area¹⁶.

5 A county area is an area in the region in relation to which both a county council and one or more district councils have functions (ibid s 2(3)); but if the government's proposals for a county area include an option providing for a local authority whose area includes any part of the area of more than one county area, the county area for these purposes is the combined area of each of those county areas (s 2(4)).

An order under the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 2(2) must not be made before the end of the period of six weeks starting with the day on which the Secretary of State receives the recommendations of the Boundary Committee for England in pursuance of a direction under s 13(1) or s 16(4) (see PARA 553 post): s 2(7). As to the Boundary Committee for England see PARA 60 et seq ante. The Secretary of State by order may vary an order under s 2(2) and he must revoke such an order if he revokes the order under s 1 (see PARA 548 ante): s 2(8). Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. Role of the Electoral Commission at referendums on regional assemblies and structure of local government.

552. Role of the Electoral Commission at referendums on regional assemblies and structure of local government.

The Electoral Commission¹ may do anything it thinks necessary or expedient for the purpose of encouraging voting at referendums² to be held in pursuance of an order made in respect of an assembly or local government referendum³.

If the Secretary of State⁴ makes an order⁵ to cause a referendum to be held in a region about the establishment of an elected assembly for the region⁶ and, before the appropriate day⁷, the Commission has not designated an organisation in relation to each possible outcome of the referendum⁸, the Commission may take such steps as it thinks appropriate to provide for persons entitled to vote in the referendum⁹ such information as the Commission thinks is likely to promote awareness among those persons about the arguments for and against each answer¹⁰ to the referendum question¹¹. If the Secretary of State makes an order¹² to cause a referendum to be held about the government's proposals for the structure of local government¹³, the Commission may take such steps as it thinks appropriate to provide for persons entitled to vote in the referendum such information as the Commission thinks is likely to promote awareness among those persons about the arguments relating to the options in those proposals¹⁴. Information provided in pursuance of these provisions must be provided by the means the Commission thinks is most likely to secure (in the most cost effective way) that the information comes to the notice of all persons entitled to vote in the referendum¹⁵.

A Minister of the Crown (with the consent of the Treasury¹⁶) may by order make provision for the payment by the Commission of: (1) the charges in respect of services properly rendered or expenses properly incurred by a counting officer¹⁷ in connection with a referendum held in pursuance of an order¹⁸; and (2) the sum equal to any increase in the superannuation contributions required to be paid by a local authority in respect of any person in consequence of a fee paid as part of a counting officer's charges under head (1) above¹⁹. Such an order may include provision as to: (a) the services and expenses or descriptions of services and expenses in respect of which payment may be made²⁰; (b) the maximum amount to be paid or reimbursed in respect of such services and expenses or descriptions of services and expenses²¹; (c) payments in advance²²; (d) accounts to be submitted²³.

Provision is made also for the Commission to give advice in pursuance of a direction issued by the Secretary of State in relation to a region in which a referendum has been held in pursuance of an order regarding the establishment of an elected assembly for the region²⁴ and where the Secretary of State proposes that an elected assembly is established for the region²⁵.

547-553 Referendums on Regional Assemblies

Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 repealed: Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 Sch 7 Pt 4.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(1) NATIONAL AND REGIONAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Referendums on Regional Assemblies/553. Local government reviews.

553. Local government reviews.

If the Secretary of State¹ is considering whether to cause a referendum² to be held in a region about the establishment of an elected assembly for the region³, he may direct the Boundary Committee for England⁴: (1) to carry out a local government review of the region⁵; (2) to make recommendations as to the matters considered by the review⁶. However, the Secretary of State must not give a direction unless he has considered the level of interest in the region in the holding of a referendum⁷. Such a direction may require the Boundary Committee to start the review not later than a specified date⁸ and/or to make its recommendations not later than a specified date⁹. However, the Secretary of State must not give a direction containing such requirements unless he has consulted the Boundary Committee as to the dates he proposes to specify¹⁰.

A review conducted in pursuance of a direction as mentioned in head (1) above is carried out by the Boundary Committee under specified provisions of the Local Government Act 1992, subject to modifications¹¹.

The recommendations made by the Boundary Committee in pursuance of a direction as mentioned in head (2) above must include at least two options for structural change in relation to each county area in the region¹². At any time after he receives the recommendations, the Secretary of State may direct the Boundary Committee to supply him with additional information or advice¹³ or reject one or more of the options¹⁴. If the Secretary of State rejects one or more of the options, he may direct the Boundary Committee either: (a) to make different recommendations¹⁵; or (b) to carry out a further local government review of the region and to make further recommendations¹⁶.

If a referendum has been held in the region¹⁷ and the Secretary of State proposes that an elected assembly is established for the region¹⁸, he may by order give effect to all or any of the recommendations of the Boundary Committee made to him in pursuance of a direction under head (1) or head (2) above or under head (a) or head (b) above¹⁹. Specified provisions of the Local Government Act 1992 apply, subject to modifications, for the purposes of implementing such recommendations²⁰.

1 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 519 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 12(5).

3 As to such a referendum see PARA 548 ante.

4 Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 13(1). As to the Boundary Committee for England see PARA 60 et seq ante. A direction under s 13 may be varied or revoked by a subsequent direction: s 13(10).

5 Ibid s 13(1)(a). A local government review is a review to consider appropriate structural change for the region and whether any boundary changes should be made in the region in connection with or to facilitate the carrying out of the structural change: s 14(1), (3). The Boundary Committee must not consider any boundary change in relation to: (1) any area in the region which is not the area of a relevant local authority unless it has the effect that any part of the area of a relevant local authority becomes part of the area of a local authority which is not a relevant local authority (s 14(1), (5)(a)); or (2) any area outside the region (s 14(1), (5)(b)). Relevant local authorities are the county council and district council for any area in the region in relation to which both councils have functions: s 14(1), (4). The Council of the Isles of Scilly is not a relevant local authority for these purposes but the Secretary of State may by regulations make such provision as he thinks appropriate in relation to the Isles of Scilly in consequence of anything done under or by virtue of Pt 2 (ss 13-20): s 20. As to districts and counties in England and their councils see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 24 et seq. As to the Council of the Isles of Scilly see PARA 10 ante; and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 36.

In carrying out its functions under Pt 2, the Boundary Committee must: (a) assume that there is an elected assembly for the region (s 14(1), (8)(a)); (b) recommend structural change for so much of the area of the region as is comprised of the areas of all of the relevant local authorities in the region (s 14(1), 4(8)(b)); (c) have regard to the need to reflect the identities and interests of local communities (s 14(1), (8)(c)); (d) have regard to the need to secure effective and convenient local government (s 14(1), (8)(d)); (e) have regard to guidance issued by the Secretary of State (s 14(1), (8)(e)). The Boundary Committee may require a public body to give it such information as it reasonably requires in connection with its functions under Pt 2 (s 14(1), (6)); and a public body must comply with such a requirement (s 14(1), (7)). The Secretary of State may pay to the Electoral Commission such amount as he decides is the amount required by it to enable the Boundary Committee to carry out its functions under Pt 2 (s 19(1)); and such payment must be treated as income received by the Commission for the purposes of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 1(6), Sch 1 para 14 (see PARA 39 ante) (Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 19(2)). As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante.

6 Ibid s 13(1)(b).

7 Ibid s 13(2). If at any time the Secretary of State is considering whether to cause a referendum to be held in two or more regions he may consider (for the purpose of deciding in respect of which (if any) regions to give a direction) any differences in the levels of interest in the different regions in the holding of a referendum: s 13(3). For these purposes, the Secretary of State must consider views expressed and information and evidence provided to him and such published material as he thinks appropriate: s 13(4). For the purposes of deciding in respect of which (if any) regions to give a direction the Secretary of State may also consider: (1) the effects he thinks the carrying out of a local government review will have on the relevant local authorities (taken as a whole) in the region (s 13(5)(a)); (2) differences in the effects he thinks the carrying out of local government reviews will have on the relevant local authorities (taken as a whole) in different regions (s 13(5)(b)); (3) the implications for the Boundary Committee of the making of directions in respect of two or more regions at the same time or in close proximity of time (s 13(5)(c)); (4) the resources needed for the Boundary Committee to carry out local government reviews (s 13(5)(d)); (5) whether the Boundary Committee has made any recommendations in respect of a region in pursuance of an earlier direction under s 13 (s 13(5)(e)). For the purposes of heads (1) and (2) supra, the Secretary of State must have regard (in particular) to the number of relevant local authorities in a region and the number of people living in the areas of those authorities and he must ignore any effect of the implementation of recommendations of the Boundary Committee following a review: s 13(6). The number of people living in an area is taken to be the most recent estimate of that number published by the Office for National Statistics: s 14(1), (2).

8 Ibid s 13(8)(a).

10 Ibid s 13(9).

11 See s 15. The provisions of the Local Government Act 1992 specified in the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 15 apply to a review carried out by the Boundary Committee in pursuance of a direction under s 13 as they apply to a review carried out by it under the Local Government Act 1992 Pt II (ss 12-27) (as amended) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 54 et seq), subject to the modifications specified in the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 15.

12 Ibid s 16(1), (2). 'County area' must be construed in accordance with s 2(3) (see PARA 549 note 5 ante): s 16(7).

13 Ibid s 16(3)(a).

15 Ibid s 16(4)(a).

16 Ibid s 16(4)(b). If the Secretary of State acts under s 16(4)(b), then s 13(8)-(10) (see the text and notes 8-10 supra), s 14(3)-(8) (see note 5 supra), s 15 (see the text and note 11 supra) and s 16 apply for the purposes of the further review and recommendations: s 16(5). For these purposes, it is immaterial whether the Secretary of State has considered any of the matters in s 13(5) (see note 7 supra): s 16(6).

17 Ie in pursuance of an order under ibid s 1 (see PARA 548 ante).

18 Ibid s 17(1).

19 Ibid s 17(2). Such an order may give effect to a recommendation with or without modifications: s 17(3). If the Secretary of State believes that there has been a mistake in the preparation of such an order and that the mistake cannot be rectified by a subsequent such order, he may by order make such provision as he thinks is necessary or expedient to rectify the mistake: s 17(5).

20 Ibid s 17(4). The text refers to such provisions of the Local Government Act 1992 s 17 (as amended) (see PARA 92 ante) as are applied and modified under the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 17(4). The provisions of the Local Government Act 1992 specified in the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 18 apply, with modifications, to the implementation under s 17 of recommendations made by the Boundary Committee as they apply to the implementation of recommendations carried out under the Local Government Act 1992 Pt II (ss 12-27) (as amended) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 54 et seq): see the Regional Assemblies (Preparations) Act 2003 s 18.

(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS

(i) Rules of Conduct for Local Referendums

557. Conduct of a local authority referendum.

For the purposes of conducting a referendum held by a local authority under the Local Government Act 2000 on proposals for the operation of executive arrangements involving certain forms of executive¹, certain of the following statutory provisions which apply for the purposes of elections are applied with modifications, namely: (1) the Representation of the People Act 1983²; (2) the Representation of the People Act 2000³; (3) the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986⁴; and (4) the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001⁵.

Additional modifications to those provisions apply where the voting at such a referendum is to take place by post only⁶.

¹ I.e. a referendum held under the Local Government Act 2000 s 27 or by virtue of regulations or an order under Pt II (ss 10-48) (as amended) (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 314).

² See the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2; the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2; and PARA 583 et seq post.

At the date at which this volume states the law, the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 (including various of the provisions that are so applied and modified for the purposes of conducting a local authority referendum and for establishing relevant offences) have been amended by the Electoral Administration Act 2006. However, as the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 2 and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 2 provide no guidance as to how those amendments should be incorporated into the scheme for conducting a local authority referendum, nor as to how any new provisions that have been added may be relevant, the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 that are applied and modified are set out in this title in their unamended state: see PARA 583 et seq post.

At the date at which this volume states the law, the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 2000 that are so applied and modified for the purposes of providing for absent voting in relation to a local authority referendum have been amended extensively by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 in order to: (1) require that absent voting applications contain an applicant's signature and date of birth (see s 14; and PARA 372 et seq ante); (2) allow certain detained mental patients to vote in person at polling stations who were previously prevented from doing so (see s 35; and PARA 368 ante); (3) replace the absent voters list with the postal voters list and the proxy postal voters list (see s 74(1), Sch 1 Pt 7; and PARA 372 et seq ante); and (4) make general provision for anonymous entries in the register of electors (see s 10(2), Sch 1 Pt 1; and PARA 378 et seq ante). However, as the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 1 and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 1 provide no guidance as to how those amendments should be incorporated into the scheme for conducting a local authority referendum, nor as to how any new provisions that have been added may be relevant, the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 2000 that are applied and modified are set out in this title in their unamended state: see PARA 595 et seq post.

4 le the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, r 5, Sch 2 (as amended): see the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 3; the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 3; and PARA 578 et seq post. The 'LGA Referendum Rules' means so much of the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214 (as amended) as are applied (with or without modification), in relation to a referendum taking place in England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8 and, in relation to a referendum taking place in Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 2(1); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 2(1).

At the date at which this volume states the law, the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214 (as amended) apply only for the purposes of an election where the last date for the publication of the notice of election for that election was prior to 27 March 2007; for all other purposes those rules have been replaced, as from 2 January 2007, by the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304: see r 1; and PARA 388 et seq ante. The rules contained in r 3, Sch 2 differ from those that were previously applied and modified for the purposes of conducting a local authority referendum; they include, with relevant alterations and exceptions, the amendments made to the parliamentary elections rules by provisions of the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (as to which see notes 2, 3 supra) and make particular provision for: (1) security measures (ie security markings on ballot papers, the replacement of counterfoils on ballot papers with corresponding number lists, and the requirement for absent voting applications to contain an applicant's signature and date of birth) (see the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 rr 16-18, 22 et seq; and PARA 391 et seq ante); (2) alterations as to the circumstances in which a person may give a tendered vote (see Sch 2 rr 38, 39; and PARA 408 ante); (3) increased amounts of information and accessibility of information to be provided by officers to electors (see Sch 2 rr 22, 25 et seq; and PARAS 394, 411 et seq ante); (4) changes as to the persons who may be admitted to a polling station and the count (see Sch 2 rr 30, 44; and PARAS 402, 431 ante); (5) transmission of information to a presiding officer of alterations to the electoral register taking effect on the day of the poll (see PARA 396 et seq ante); (6) anonymous entries in the register of electors (see PARA 394 et seq ante); (7) changes regarding the retention and inspection of election documents after the poll (see PARA 493 et seq ante); and (8) consequential amendments made to all the existing forms (see PARA 391 et seq ante). However, as the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 3 and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 3 provide no guidance as to how the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 should be applied and modified in order to provide a scheme for conducting a local authority referendum, the provisions of the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 (as amended; revoked for most purposes) are set out in this title as applied and modified by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 3 and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 3: see PARA 578 et seq post.

5 le the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt IV (regs 50-63) (as amended) (absent voters: see PARA 372 et seq ante) and Pt V (regs 64-91) (issue and receipt of postal ballot papers: see PARA 411 et seq ante): see the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 4; the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 4; and PARA 597 et seq post.

At the date at which this volume states the law, the provisions of the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pts IV, V (as amended) that are so applied and modified have been amended extensively by the Representation of the People (England and Wales) (Amendment) (No 2) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/2910, in order to: (1) provide for anonymous registration in the register of electors (see regs 19-22; and PARA 376 et seq ante); (2) replace references to counterfoils attached to ballot papers with references to the corresponding number list (see reg 30; and PARAS 414, 418 ante); (3) reflect the requirement that persons wishing to vote by post, by proxy or by postal proxy must provide their signature and date of birth when applying (see regs 31-34; and PARA 368 et seq ante); (4) specify the contents of the record of personal identifiers that the registration officer must keep and provide to a returning officer at an election (see reg 35; and PARA 371 ante); (5) specify the procedure upon receipt of postal ballot papers for verifying the personal identifiers provided in postal voting statements (see reg 39; and PARA 428 ante); (6) revise and update the lists of health care professionals and others who may attest applications for proxy votes (see reg 42; and PARAS 373, 377 ante, 600 post); (7) make provision to remove the restriction on certain detained mental patients voting in person at polling stations (see regs 43-44; and PARA 372 et seq ante); (8) set out the procedure by which a cancelled postal ballot paper should be retrieved from a ballot box (see reg 45; and PARAS 427, 429 ante); (9) make provision for the marked list of postal voters and the list of proxy postal voters to be marked to record receipt of a postal voting statement (see regs 48-53; and PARA 414 et seq ante); (10) make provision for the supply and inspection of unmarked lists of absent voters in advance of an election (see regs 55-56; and PARAS 378, 386 ante); (11) make provision requiring relevant registration officers to supply or disclose information in documents that have been used or marked at an election (see reg 59; and PARA 504 ante); (12) remove references to Maundy Thursday as a day to be ignored in certain timetables (see reg 60; and PARA 372 et seq ante); (13) provide for persons who make a request to set out the circumstances which require the sending of their ballot papers to an address that is different from the address that must be stated in the application (see reg 61; and PARAS 372, 376, 383 ante); (14) provide for the registration officer to notify a person when he is removed from the record of proxies who are entitled to vote by post (see reg 62; and PARAS 375, 381, 384 ante); (15) amend the list of persons who may be present at proceedings on the issue and receipt of postal ballot papers (see reg 63; and PARAS 414, 425 ante); (16) provide that a ballot paper envelope does not need to be marked with the number of the ballot paper where the ballot paper envelope contains a window through which the number of the ballot paper can be displayed (see reg 64; and PARA 416 ante); and (17) make amendments following the replacement of the declaration of identity with a postal voting statement (see reg 65; and PARA 411 et seq ante). However, as the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 4 and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 4 provide no guidance as to how those amendments should be incorporated into the scheme for conducting a local authority referendum, nor as to how any new provisions that have been added may be relevant, the provisions of the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pts IV, V (as amended) that are applied and modified are set out in this title in their unamended state: see PARA 597 et seq post.

A poll consequent on a parish or community meeting¹, taken on any question arising at the meeting², is conducted in accordance with rules made by the Secretary of State³. Subject to any adaptations, alterations or exceptions made by those rules, the provisions of the rules with respect to the elections of parish or community councillors⁴, and certain provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983⁵, apply in the case of a poll so taken⁶.

² As to when such a poll may be demanded see PARA 586 post. Where the question involves an appointment to office, the poll is akin to an election; the conduct of such polls is considered in this title alongside the conduct of other types of election: see PARA 207 et seq ante.

559. Conduct of local poll under the Local Government Act 2003.

A local authority¹ may conduct a poll² to ascertain the views of those polled about: (1) any matter relating to services provided in pursuance of the authority's functions or the authority's expenditure on such services³; or (2) any other matter if it is one relating to the authority's power⁴ to promote the economic, social or environmental well-being of its area⁵. It is for the local authority concerned to decide who is to be polled and how the poll is to be conducted⁶ but, in conducting such a poll, a local authority must have regard to any guidance issued by the appropriate person on facilitating participation in such a poll by such of those polled as are disabled people⁷.

1 For these purposes, 'local authority' means: (1) in relation to England, a county council, a district council, a London borough council, the Greater London Authority, the Common Council of the City of London in its capacity as a local authority, the Council of the Isles of Scilly (Local Government Act 2003 s 116(5)(a)); and (2) in relation to Wales, a county council or a county borough council (s 116(5)(b)). A. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS

(A) IN GENERAL

560. Proposals for which a referendum is required.

Under the Local Government Act 2000¹, local authorities² are able to make arrangements for the discharge of their functions by executives ('executive arrangements')³. Where an authority's proposals for an executive⁴ involve an elected mayor⁵ or where regulations so prescribe, the authority: (1) must hold a referendum on its proposals before taking any steps to implement them⁶; and (2) must draw up and send to the Secretary of State, in relation to England, or the National Assembly for Wales, in relation to Wales, an outline of the fall-back proposals⁷ that it intends to implement if the proposals for the operation of executive arrangements are rejected in a referendum⁸.

A referendum may be held, in such circumstances as may be prescribed, on whether a local authority should operate executive arrangements involving a form of executive for which a referendum is required: (a) following receipt by the local authority of a valid petition from local government electors⁹; (b) following a direction to the local authority from the Secretary of State, in relation to England, or the National Assembly for Wales, in relation to Wales¹⁰; or (c) following an order made by the Secretary of State or the Assembly (as the case may be) which requires every local authority, or every local authority falling within any description of authority specified in the order, to hold such a referendum¹¹. In the event of any failure by an authority to take any action which may or must be taken by the authority under the provisions which relate to any of the procedures under head (a) or head (b) above¹², the Secretary of State, in relation to England, or the National Assembly for Wales, in relation to Wales, may take that action¹³.

(B) PETITION TO LOCAL AUTHORITY CALLING FOR A REFERENDUM TO BE HELD

561. Petitions calling for local authority referendum.

An authority¹ must hold a referendum² where it receives a valid petition³, but it is not required to hold such a referendum where it receives a petition which is not a valid petition⁴. A petition may be presented to a local authority either by properly addressing, pre-paying and posting it, or by delivering it, to any office of the authority (in relation to England) or to the authority's principal office (in relation to Wales)⁵.

1 Ie, in relation to England, a district or a London borough council (Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 1(2)); and, in relation to Wales, a county or county borough council (Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 2(1)). See LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23.

2 Ie, in relation to England, by virtue of the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, Pt II (regs 3-17) (as amended) or, in relation to Wales, by virtue of the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, Pt II (regs 3-17) (as amended).

3 For these purposes, 'valid petition' has the meaning given by the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 9(1), in relation to England, and by the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 9(1) (as amended), in relation to Wales (see PARA 565 post): Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 3; Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3.

4 Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 6(1); Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 6(1). The requirement set out in the text is, in relation to England, subject to the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 7 (see PARA 563 post) and reg 19 (see PARA 573 post) and, in relation to Wales, subject to the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 7 (see PARA 563 post), reg 8(8) (see PARA 564 post) and reg 19 (see PARA 573 post).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Preparing for the Referendum/A. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS/(B) Petition to Local Authority calling for a Referendum to be Held/562. Verification number for petitions calling for local authority referendum.

562. Verification number for petitions calling for local authority referendum.

In relation to England¹, in each year², the proper officer³ of each authority⁴ must, within the period of 14 days beginning with 15 February, publish the number that is equal to 5 per cent of the number of local government electors⁵ for the authority's area shown in the revised version of the register or, as the case may be, the registers having effect for that area on that 15 February⁶. The number so published in each year is to be used for verification purposes⁷ in relation to any petition presented to the authority in the period of 12 months beginning with 1 April in that year⁸, unless the number published is less than the number published in the preceding year, in which case the number to be used for verification purposes, in relation to any petition presented to the authority in the period beginning on the date of publication of the lesser number and ending immediately before 1 April in that year, must be that lesser number⁹. As soon as reasonably practicable after the publication of the verification number, the authority must publish in at least one newspaper circulating in its area a notice containing a statement¹⁰: (1) that the authority's proper officer has published the number that is equal to 5 per cent of the number of local government electors shown in the electoral register or registers having effect on 15 February in that year¹¹; (2) of the number so published¹²; (3) that the number so published is to have effect for the purposes of determining the validity of petitions presented after 31 March in the year of publication and before 1 April in the following year, unless a different number has effect¹³ because the number published is less than the number published in the preceding year¹⁴; (4) the effect of the provision¹⁵ that applies where the number published is less than the number published in the preceding year¹⁶; and (5) of the address of the authority's principal office¹⁷.

In relation to Wales¹⁸, for the purposes of each petition period¹⁹, the proper officer²⁰ of each authority²¹ must, within the period of 14 days beginning with the verification date²², publish the number that is equal to 10 per cent of the number of local government electors for the authority's area shown in the revised version of the registers having effect for the area on the verification date²³. The number so published is to be used for verification purposes²⁴ in relation to any petition presented to the authority during the petition period that is to commence seven months after the verification date to which that number relates²⁵. As soon as reasonably practicable after the publication of a verification number, the authority must publish in at least one newspaper circulating in its area a notice containing a statement²⁶: (a) that the authority's proper officer has published the number that is equal to 10 per cent of the number of local government electors shown in the electoral register or registers having effect for the authority's area on the date that²⁷ is the verification date²⁸; (b) of the number so published²⁹; (c) that the number so published will have effect for the purposes of determining the validity of petitions presented to the authority during the petition period for that authority that will commence seven months after the verification date referred to in head (a) above³⁰; (d) of the dates on which that petition period for the authority will commence and end³¹; and (e) of the address of the authority's principal office³².

6 Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 4(1) (reg 4 substituted by SI 2001/760). Where the whole of the period of 12 months beginning with 1 April in any year to which the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 4(1) (as substituted) applies falls within a moratorium period, reg 4(1) (as substituted) does not apply as respects the years in which part of that period of 12 months falls: reg 4(2) (as so substituted). For these purposes, 'moratorium period', in relation to a local authority's area and a petition in England, means the period of 48 months commencing with the day on which a referendum was last held under the Local Government Act 2000 Pt II (ss 10-48) (as amended) (arrangements with respect to executives etc: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT VOL 69 (2009) PARA 303 et seq): Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 3.

In connection with the discharge of the duty imposed by reg 4(1) (as substituted), the proper officer may require an electoral registration officer to provide him with information relevant to the number that is to be so published; and an electoral registration officer who receives such a request must comply with it within the period of seven days beginning with the day on which the request is received: reg 4(5) (as so substituted). As to electoral registration officers see PARA 154 et seq ante.

7 In relation to England, 'verification purposes' means the purposes of establishing whether a petition is a valid petition by establishing the matters mentioned in ibid reg 8(3) (see PARA 564 post) or under reg 9(1)(a) (see PARA 565 post): reg 3. For the meaning of 'valid petition' see PARA 561 note 3 ante.

8 Ibid reg 4(3) (as substituted: see note 6 supra). 'Verification number', in relation to a petition, means the number to be used for verification purposes by virtue of reg 4 (as substituted): reg 3.

17 Ibid reg 5(e).

18 For the meaning of 'Wales' see PARA 13 note 1 ante.

19 Ie subsequent to the first such period (as to which see the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 4(1), (2) (reg 4 substituted by SI 2003/398)). For these purposes, 'petition period' has the meaning given by the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3A (as added): reg 3 (definition added by SI 2003/398). Accordingly, the local government electorate for an authority's area in Wales may present petitions to that authority during a petition period, whose duration is six months: Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3A(1), (2) (reg 3A added by SI 2003/398). Periods subsequent to the first (as to which see the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3A(3) (as so added)), commence on the date that is 12 months before the date on which each subsequent ordinary local government elections are to be held: reg 3A(4) (as so added). If part or the whole of one or more of an authority's petition periods as so determined are to fall within a moratorium period, that petition period, or those petition periods (which, for these purposes, are to be treated as a single petition period), commence on the date during that moratorium period that is 12 months before the earliest date on which a second (or subsequent) referendum may lawfully be held in the area of that authority: reg 3A(5) (as so added). Where an authority does not receive a valid petition during a petition period so determined, the date on which the next petition period for that authority commences is the date that is 12 months before the date on which the next ordinary local government elections are to be held: reg 3A(6) (as so added). However, this provision does not apply where part or the whole of a petition period determined in accordance with reg 3A(6) (as added) will fall within a year in which part or the whole of a petition period determined in accordance with reg 3A(5) (as added) falls: reg 3A(7) (as so added). Where an authority does not receive a valid petition during a petition period determined in accordance with reg 3A(5) (as added) and, by virtue of reg 3A(7) (as added), reg 3A(6) (as added) does not apply, the next petition period for that authority commences on the date that is 12 months before the date on which the ordinary local government elections which are subsequent to the next ordinary local government elections are to be held: reg 3A(8) (as so added). For these purposes, 'moratorium period', in relation to Wales, means the period of five years commencing on the date on which an authority holds a referendum under the Local Government Act 2000 Pt II (as amended) (arrangements with respect to executives etc: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 303 et seq): Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3 (definition substituted by SI 2003/398). As to ordinary local government elections see PARA 204 et seq ante.

20 For the meaning of 'proper officer' see PARA 155 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3.

21 For the meaning of 'authority' in relation to Wales see PARA 561 note 1 ante.

22 In relation to Wales, 'verification date' means the date that is seven months before the commencement of a petition period: Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 3 (definition added by SI 2003/398).

23 Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 4(3) (as substituted: see note 19 supra). The proper officer may, in connection with the discharge of the duty imposed by reg 4(3) (as substituted), make a request in writing to an electoral registration officer to provide the proper officer with information relevant to the number that is to be so published; and an electoral registration officer who receives such a request must comply with it within the period of seven days beginning with the day on which the request is received: reg 4(5) (as so substituted).

24 In relation to Wales, 'verification purposes' means the purposes of establishing whether a petition is a valid petition: ibid reg 3. For the meaning of 'valid petition' see PARA 561 note 3 ante.

25 Ibid reg 4(4) (as substituted: see note 19 supra). 'Verification number', in relation to a petition, means the number to be used for verification purposes by virtue of reg 4(4) (as substituted): reg 3 (definition substituted by SI 2003/398).

Post-announcement and post-direction petitions calling for local authority referendum.

563. Post-announcement and post-direction petitions calling for local authority referendum.

In relation to a petition received after an authority¹ has given notice of its intention to hold a referendum and of the date on which that referendum will be held² on proposals which involve a directly elected mayor, the authority is not required³ to hold a referendum or to take any steps other than⁴ steps to secure that the proper officer⁵ as soon as reasonably practicable after the receipt of the petition notifies the petition organiser⁶ and (in relation to England) the Secretary of State or (in relation to Wales) the National Assembly for Wales of the receipt of the petition, that the petition is a post-announcement petition⁷ and that the authority proposes to take no further action in relation to it and notifies the petition organiser that he may, within the period of two months beginning with the date of the notice, request the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) to consider the exercise of any power conferred in relation to referendums which follow a direction to the local authority from the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be)⁸.

Where a petition is received by an authority after it has received a direction to hold a referendum⁹ and before it has given notice of the date on which the referendum is to be held pursuant to the direction, and the constitutional change¹⁰ proposed in the petition is the same as that in relation to which the direction requires the referendum to be held, the authority must take no further action in relation to the petition and must as soon as reasonably practicable¹¹ notify the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) and the petition organiser: (1) of the receipt of the petition¹²; and (2) that it proposes to take no further action in relation to the petition because it proposes the same constitutional change as that in relation to which the referendum is to be held pursuant to the direction¹³.

Where a petition is received by an authority after it has received a direction to hold a referendum¹⁴ and before it has given notice of the date on which the referendum is to be held pursuant to the direction¹⁵ and the constitutional change proposed in the petition is not the same as that in relation to which the direction requires the referendum to be held¹⁶, the authority must secure that the proper officer determines¹⁷ whether the petition is a valid petition¹⁸. Where the proper officer determines that a petition of such a description is not a valid petition, the proper officer must publicise the invalid petition¹⁹ but, subject to that, the authority must take no further action in relation to the petition²⁰ and the date of the direction is to be²¹ the date of the proper officer's determination²².

1 For the meaning of 'authority' see PARA 561 note 1 ante.

As well as the steps set out in the text and notes 5-8 infra, the authority is also required to take the steps specified, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 12 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 12 (public inspection of petitions: see PARA 567 post).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Preparing for the Referendum/A. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS/(B) Petition to Local Authority calling for a Referendum to be Held/564. Amalgamation of petitions calling for local authority referendum.

564. Amalgamation of petitions calling for local authority referendum.

Where more than one petition relating to the same area has been prepared, those petitions may, at any time before their presentation to the authority¹, be amalgamated; and those petitions must then be treated for all other purposes related to such petitions² as a single petition³. Where constituent petitions amalgamated in this way do not propose the same constitutional change⁴, the amalgamated petition must not be entertained by the authority unless it is accompanied by a statement, signed by the petition organiser⁵ in relation to the amalgamated petition, that the amalgamated petition is presented with the agreement of the petition organiser of each of the constituent petitions⁶.

Where an authority receives more than one petition relating to the same area, the proper officer⁷ must, if satisfied as to their validity⁸, amalgamate those petitions⁹; and those petitions must then be treated¹⁰ as a single petition¹¹. However, the proper officer must not amalgamate petitions if he is satisfied that the first petition received by the authority¹² contains a number of signatures of local government electors for the authority's area that equals or exceeds the verification number¹³ and is, in other respects, a valid petition¹⁴. The proper officer: (1) must not amalgamate petitions that do not propose the same constitutional change unless the proper officer has obtained in writing the agreement of the petition organiser of each petition that would, after amalgamation, be a constituent petition¹⁵; and (2) must inform each petition organiser whose agreement is required for the purposes of head (1) above of the consequences of amalgamation¹⁶.

Petitions must be amalgamated in the order in which they are received except that, where more than one petition is received on the same day: (a) the petition that contains the greatest number of signatures must be treated as the first to be received¹⁷; (b) the petition that proposes the same constitutional change as that proposed in the petition identified in accordance with head (a) above must be treated as the second to be received and, if there is more than one such petition, those petitions must be treated as received in sequence, beginning with the petition that contains the greater number of signatures¹⁸; and (c) any other petitions must be treated as received in the following order: (i) the petition that contains the greatest number of signatures¹⁹; (ii) the petition, if any, that proposes the same constitutional change as the petition identified in accordance with head (i) above²⁰; (iii) the petition that contains the next greatest number of signatures²¹; (iv) the petition, if any, that proposes the same constitutional change as the petition identified in accordance with head (iii) above²²; (v) the petition that contains the next greatest number of signatures²³, and so on²⁴.

In relation to Wales, where an authority receives more than one petition on the same day and those petitions each contain a number of signatures of local government electors for the authority's area that equals or exceeds the verification number and are, in other respects, valid petitions and those petitions do not propose the same constitutional change, that authority must make a determination as to the petition in relation to which it will hold a referendum²⁵. Before making such a determination the authority in Wales must take into account the outcome of any prior consultation undertaken by that authority²⁶ and, if the authority considers it necessary, undertake further consultation with the local government electors for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area²⁷.

Where an amalgamated petition results from the combination of constituent petitions which do not propose the same constitutional change, the amalgamated petition must be treated²⁸ as proposing that the authority should operate executive arrangements under which the proposed form of executive is not specified²⁹.

1 For the meaning of 'authority' see PARA 561 note 1 ante.

2 I.e., in relation to England, for the purposes of the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, Pt II (regs 3-17) (as amended) or, in relation to Wales, for the purposes of the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, Pt II (regs 3-17) (as amended).

4 For these purposes, constitutional changes must be treated as the same if they propose executive arrangements under which the executive takes the same form or if the proposed form of executive is not specified: Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 8(8); Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 8(11).

LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS/(B) Petition to Local Authority calling for a Referendum to be Held/565. Formalities and validity of petitions calling for local authority referendum.

565. Formalities and validity of petitions calling for local authority referendum.

A petition¹ is a valid petition if: (1) it is signed by not less than the verification number²; (2) it satisfies the requirements as to formalities³; and (3) it is presented to the authority⁴ to which it is addressed, in relation to England, on a day other than one that falls within a moratorium period⁵ or, in relation to Wales, on a day that falls within a petition period⁶ for that authority⁷. In determining whether the petition satisfies the requirements of head (1) above: (a) where a person signs a petition but the information regarding his name and address⁸ is not included, or is not included in a legible form, that person's signature must be disregarded⁹; (b) if a person signs a petition more than once, that person's second or subsequent signature must be disregarded¹⁰; and (c) any signature on a petition which bears a date earlier than twelve months (in relation to England) or six months (in relation to Wales) before the petition date¹¹ must be disregarded¹². A petition is not invalid by reason only of a failure to satisfy any requirement as is mentioned in head (2) above if the constitutional change¹³ in relation to which the referendum is sought can be ascertained¹⁴.

A petition must on each sheet state the name of the authority to whom it is addressed¹⁵ and the constitutional change in relation to which the referendum is sought¹⁶, as well as containing a statement in the prescribed terms¹⁷ or in terms to similar effect¹⁸. In relation to each person who signs a petition, the following information must be given: (i) that person's first name and surname and address¹⁹; and (ii) the date on which that person signs the petition²⁰. A petition must contain, or must be accompanied by a statement that contains, the name and full address of the person (the 'petition organiser'²¹) to whom correspondence relating to the petition is to be sent²². Where petitions are amalgamated before they are presented to the authority, the petition organiser of each of the constituent petitions must determine the identity of the person (whether or not that person is the petition organiser of any of the constituent petitions) who is to be the petition organiser for the purposes of the amalgamated petition²³; and the petition organiser of the amalgamated petition must notify the authority of his name and full address²⁴.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Preparing for the Referendum/A. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS/(B) Petition to Local Authority calling for a Referendum to be Held/570. Action taken before local authority referendum in consequence of a valid petition.

570. Action taken before local authority referendum in consequence of a valid petition.

Before the holding of a referendum following a petition¹, the authority² must: (1) where the petition does not specify, or is treated as not specifying, the form proposed for the authority's executive³, decide which form the executive is to take⁴ and decide the extent to which specified functions⁵ are to be the responsibility of the executive⁶; or (2) where the petition specifies the form proposed for the authority's executive, decide the extent to which the specified functions are to be the responsibility of the executive⁷. Before holding such a referendum, the authority must also: (a) draw up proposals for the operation of executive arrangements⁸; and (b) draw up outline fall-back proposals⁹. Before drawing up proposals under head (a) or head (b) above, the authority must take reasonable steps to consult the local government electors¹⁰ for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area¹¹.

The authority's proposals under head (a) above must include such details of the executive arrangements as the Secretary of State (in relation to England) or the National Assembly for Wales (in relation to Wales) may direct¹², a timetable with respect to the implementation of the proposals¹³, and details of any transitional arrangements which are necessary for the implementation of the proposals¹⁴. In drawing up proposals under head (a) above, the authority must consider the extent to which the proposals, if implemented, are likely to assist in securing continuous improvement in the way in which the authority's functions are exercised, having regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness¹⁵.

The authority's proposals under head (b) above, where the authority is not then operating executive arrangements or alternative arrangements¹⁶, must include such details of the executive arrangements or alternative arrangements to which they relate as the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) may direct¹⁷, and a timetable with respect to the implementation of detailed fall-back proposals which are based on the outline fall-back proposals in the event that the proposals that are to be the subject of the referendum are rejected¹⁸; and the authority's proposals may include, as outline fall-back proposals, any proposals¹⁹ approved by the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be)²⁰. Where the authority is then operating executive arrangements or alternative arrangements, the proposals under head (b) above are to consist of a summary of those arrangements²¹.

Not later than two months before the date on which the referendum is to be held, the authority must send to the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) a copy of the proposals drawn up under heads (a) and (b) above²² and a statement which describes the steps which the authority took to consult the local government electors for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area and the outcome of that consultation and the extent to which that outcome is reflected in the proposals²³.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(ii) Preparing for the Referendum/A. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM ON PROPOSALS FOR ARRANGEMENTS/(C) Direction to Local Authority requiring a Referendum to be Held/573. Action following receipt of direction to hold local authority referendum.

573. Action following receipt of direction to hold local authority referendum.

On receipt of a direction to hold a local authority referendum¹ from the Secretary of State² (in relation to England) or the National Assembly for Wales³ (in relation to Wales) in which a relevant matter is specified⁴, the authority⁵ to which the direction is given must immediately⁶: (1) abandon any arrangements made for the holding of a referendum, whether in consequence of a petition⁷ or an earlier direction by the Secretary of State or by the Assembly (as the case may be), to the extent that those arrangements are inconsistent with the arrangements necessary to conduct the referendum required by the direction⁸; (2) abandon all action in respect of any petition received on or before the day on which it receives the direction⁹; (3) draw up¹⁰ proposals for the operation of executive arrangements¹¹; (4) draw up¹² outline fall-back proposals¹³; and (5) make arrangements for the holding of a referendum on the proposals drawn up in accordance with head (3) above, to the extent required to supplement any arrangements that may continue by virtue of head (1) above¹⁴.

Where, on the day on which the direction is received, the authority is in possession of the first petition submitted¹⁵ to it¹⁶ and has not complied with the requirement as to validity¹⁷ in relation to it¹⁸, the authority must satisfy itself as to the validity of the petition¹⁹ and, subject to head (b) below, the direction is of no further effect²⁰. Where, in a case to which these circumstances apply: (a) the authority is satisfied that the petition is valid, it must publicise the petition in accordance with the requirements as to valid petitions²¹ and the direction²² must be treated as revoked with effect from the date on which the required notice is so given²³; (b) the authority is satisfied that the petition is invalid, it must publicise the petition in accordance with the requirements as to invalid petitions²⁴ and the direction²⁵ must be treated as effective from the date on which the required notice is so given²⁶. On receipt of a direction²⁷ in which either the outline fall-back proposals²⁸ or the detailed fall-back proposals²⁹ are specified, the authority to which the direction is given must immediately take the steps necessary to give effect to the direction³⁰.

Where the authority to which a direction³¹ has been given receives a petition submitted³² to it³³, the petition is received before it has given notice of the date on which the referendum is to be held pursuant to the direction³⁴, the petition proposes a constitutional change³⁵ different from that in relation to which the direction requires a referendum to be held³⁶ and the proper officer determines³⁷ that the petition is a valid petition³⁸, the direction must be treated as revoked with effect from the date of the proper officer's determination³⁹. In such a case, the authority must notify the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) and the petition organiser⁴⁰ of the date of the proper officer's determination⁴¹.

In drawing up proposals for the operation of executive arrangements under head (3) above, the authority must: (i) where the direction specifies details, a form of executive or a timetable, include those details, that form of executive or that timetable⁴²; (ii) where the direction requires regard to be had to principles or matters, have regard to those principles or matters⁴³; (iii) where the direction requires consultation with specified persons, or in a specified manner or about specified matters, consult those persons, in that manner or about those matters, as the case may be⁴⁴; (iv) consider the extent to which its proposals, if implemented, are likely to assist in securing continuous improvement in the way in which its functions are exercised, having regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness⁴⁵; (v) subject to heads (i) to (iv) above, decide which form the executive is to take⁴⁶, decide the extent to which the specified functions⁴⁷ are to be the responsibility of the executive⁴⁸ and take reasonable steps to consult the local government electors for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area⁴⁹.

The authority's outline fall-back proposals under head (4) above, where the authority is not then operating executive arrangements or alternative arrangements: (A) may not be drawn up before the authority has taken reasonable steps to consult the local government electors for, and other interested persons in, its area⁵⁰; (B) must include such details of the executive arrangements or alternative arrangements to which they relate as the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) may direct⁵¹; (C) must include a timetable with respect to the implementation of the detailed fall-back proposals in the event that the proposals that are to be the subject of the referendum are rejected⁵²; and (D) may include, as the authority's outline fall-back proposals, any proposals approved⁵³ by the Secretary of State or the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be)⁵⁴. Where the authority is then operating executive arrangements or alternative arrangements, the authority's outline fall-back proposals under head (4) above are to consist of a summary of those arrangements⁵⁵.

In drawing-up proposals under either head (3) or head (4) above, an authority must comply with any directions given by the Secretary of State or by the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be)⁵⁶ and must have regard to any guidance for the time being issued by the Secretary of State or by the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be)⁵⁷.

Not later than two months before the date on which the referendum is to be held, the authority must send to the Secretary of State or to the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) a copy of the proposals drawn up under heads (3) and (4) above⁵⁸ and a statement which describes the steps which the authority took to consult the local government electors for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area and the outcome of that consultation and the extent to which that outcome is reflected in the proposals⁵⁹.

The proper officer¹ must, as soon as reasonably practicable after the proposals date², publish in at least one newspaper circulating in the area of the local authority³ a notice which contains⁴:

- 517 (1) a statement that relevant proposals have been sent to the Secretary of State⁵ (in relation to England) or to the National Assembly for Wales⁶ (in relation to Wales)⁷;
- 518 (2) a description of the main features of the proposals and of the outline fall-back proposals⁸;

 - 46. (h) of the procedures for obtaining a copy of the proposals and outline fall-back proposals¹⁹.

Unless the notice that is required to be published in this way (the 'first notice') is published less than 56 days before the date of the referendum, the proper officer must publish a second notice containing the particulars which were specified for inclusion in the statement contained in the first notice²⁰. The second notice must be published in the same newspaper or newspapers as were used for the publication of the first notice²¹, and not more than 55 days before the date of the referendum and not less than 28 days before that date²².

The authority must make available for inspection throughout the referendum period²³, at the address and times stated in the notice, and free of charge, a copy of the proposals and outline fall-back proposals; and it must secure that sufficient copies are available for persons who wish to obtain copies²⁴. The authority may also provide (whether or not in pursuance of any duty to do so) any other factual information relating to the proposals, the outline fall-back proposals and the referendum so far as it is presented fairly²⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'proper officer' see PARA 155 note 2 ante (definition applied, in relation to England, by virtue of the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 2(1); and, in relation to Wales, by virtue of the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 2(1)).

2 In relation to England, and in relation to a referendum other than a further referendum, 'proposals date' means the date on which proposals are sent to the Secretary of State under the Local Government Act 2000 s 25 (proposals involving a form of executive for which a referendum is required: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 312) or under regulations under s 30 (different executive arrangements: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 311) or s 33 (alternative arrangements: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 366) or under an order under s 36 (referendum following order: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 318) or under the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 17 (action before referendum: see PARA 570 ante) or reg 19 (action on receipt of direction: see PARA 573 ante); and, in relation to a further referendum, 'proposals date' means the day which falls two months before the day on which the further referendum is held: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 2(1). In relation to Wales, and in relation to a referendum other than a further referendum, 'proposals date' means the date on which proposals are sent to the National Assembly for Wales under the Local Government Act 2000 s 36 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 318) or under the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 17 (see PARA 570 ante) or reg 19 (see PARA 573 ante); and, in relation to a further referendum, 'proposals date' means the day which falls two months before the day on which the further referendum is held: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 2(1). As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante; and as to the National Assembly for Wales see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

For these purposes, 'referendum' means a referendum held under the Local Government Act 2000 s 27 (referendum in case of proposals involving elected mayor: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 314) or by virtue of regulations or an order made under any provision of Pt II (ss 10-48) (as amended) (arrangements with respect to executives etc: see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 303 et seq); and 'further referendum' means a referendum held in pursuance of an order under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 21(3) or the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 17(3) (procedures subsequent to referendum petitions: see PARA 864 post): Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 2(1); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 2(1). 4 Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 4(1); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 4(1).

In relation to England only, the proper officer of an authority must, by notice in writing and at least 14 days before he publishes a notice in accordance with the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 4(1), advise, if he is the proper officer of a county council, the proper officer of the council of each district comprised in the county or, if he is the proper officer of the council of a district comprised in an area for which there is a county council, the proper officer of the council of the county in which the district lies and each of the other district councils in that county, that he intends to publish such a notice and of the date of the referendum to be held in his area: reg 4(2). It is then the duty of each proper officer to whom notice has been given under reg 4(2), and whose council is considering the holding of a referendum in its area, to consider whether it would be reasonably practicable to combine that referendum with the one of which such notice has been given; and each such officer must reply to the notice within seven days of its receipt, indicating whether his authority wishes to combine its referendum with that to which the notice under reg 4(2) refers: reg 4(3).

5 Ie, in relation to England, proposals sent to the Secretary of State under the Local Government Act 2000 s 25, involving a form of executive for which a referendum is required (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 312), or proposals under regulations under s 30 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 311) or s 33 (see

6 Ie, in relation to Wales, proposals sent to the National Assembly for Wales under an order under the Local Government Act 2000 s 36 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 318) or under the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 17(3) (see PARA 570 ante) or reg 19(1) (see PARA 573 ante): Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 4(1)(a).

7 Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 4(1)(a); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 4(1)(a).

UPDATE

576-585 Public notice of local authority referendum and proposals ...
Disturbances at local authority referendum meetings

SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

579. Definition of 'referendum expenses' for purposes of local authority referendum.

In relation to a local authority referendum¹, 'referendum expenses' means expenses incurred by or on behalf of any individual or body during the referendum period² which are expenses incurred for referendum purposes³ in respect of any of the matters set out in the following list⁴:

- 520 (1) advertising of any nature (whatever the medium used), including agency fees, design costs and other costs in connection with preparing, producing, distributing or otherwise disseminating such advertising or anything incorporating such advertising and intended to be distributed for the purpose of disseminating it⁵;
- 521 (2) unsolicited material addressed to electors (whether addressed to them by name or intended for delivery to households within any particular area or areas), including design costs and other costs in connection with preparing, producing or distributing such material (including the cost of postage)⁶;
- 522 (3) any published promotional material or other document providing information about the referendum or the issues or arguments⁷;
- 523 (4) market research or canvassing conducted for the purpose of ascertaining polling intentions⁸;
- 524 (5) the provision of any services or facilities in connection with press conferences or other dealings with the media⁹;
- 525 (6) the transport (by any means) of persons to any place or places with a view to obtaining publicity in connection with a referendum campaign, including the costs of hiring a particular means of transport for the whole or part of the referendum period¹⁰;
- 526 (7) rallies and other events, including public meetings organised so as to obtain publicity in connection with a referendum campaign or for other purposes connected with a referendum campaign, including costs incurred in connection with the attendance of persons at such events, the hire of premises for the purposes of such events or the provision of goods, services or facilities at them¹¹.

Nothing in heads (1) to (7) above is to be taken as extending to any expenses:

- 527 (a) in respect of any property, services or facilities so far as those expenses fall to be met out of public funds¹²;
- 528 (b) incurred in respect of the remuneration or allowances payable to any member of the staff of the campaign organiser¹³; or
- 529 (c) incurred in respect of an individual by way of travelling expenses (by any means of transport) or in providing for his accommodation or other personal needs to the extent that the expenses are paid by the individual from his own resources and are not reimbursed to him¹⁴.

Where property, services or facilities is or are provided for the use or benefit of any person, either free of charge or at a discount of more than 10 per cent of the commercial rate for the use of the property or for the provision of the services or facilities¹⁵, and the property, services or facilities is or are made use of by or on behalf of that person in circumstances such that, if any expenses were to be (or are) actually incurred by him or on his behalf in respect of that use, they would be (or are) referendum expenses actually incurred by him or on his behalf¹⁶, an amount of referendum expenses (the 'appropriate amount') is treated, for the purposes of the statutory provisions which govern the control of referendum expenses, as incurred by that person during the period for which the property, services or facilities is or are made so use of, unless that amount is not more than £200¹⁷. For these purposes, the appropriate amount is determined as being such proportion of either the commercial rate for the use of the property or the provision of the services or facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided free of charge)¹⁸ or the difference between that commercial rate and the amount of expenses actually incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body in respect of the use of the property or the provision of the services or facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided at a discount)¹⁹, as is reasonably attributable to the use made of the property, services or facilities²⁰. However, no amount of referendum expenses is to be regarded as so incurred in respect of the provision by any individual of his own services which he provides voluntarily in his own time and free of charge²¹.

1 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'referendum period' see PARA 576 note 23 ante.

3 'For referendum purposes' means in connection with the conduct or management of any campaign conducted with a view to promoting or procuring a particular outcome in relation to any question asked in the referendum, or otherwise in connection with promoting or procuring any such outcome; and 'referendum campaign' means a campaign conducted with a view to promoting or procuring a particular outcome in relation to the question to be asked in a referendum: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 6(1); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 6(1). 580. General restriction on local authority referendum expenses.

The total referendum expenses¹ incurred or treated as incurred² by or on behalf of any individual or body must not exceed the referendum expenses limit³, which is defined as the aggregate of £2,000 and such amount as is found by multiplying by five pence the number of entries in the relevant register⁴.

Where any referendum expenses are incurred in excess of the referendum expenses limit, a person who knew or reasonably ought to have known that that limit would be exceeded, or who, without reasonable excuse, authorises another person to exceed that limit, is guilty of an offence⁵.

¹ For the meaning of 'referendum expenses' for these purposes see PARA 579 ante; and for the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

² I.e. in accordance with the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 7 in relation to England or the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 7 in relation to Wales (see PARA 579 ante).

However, this provision does not affect the right of any creditor who, when the expense was incurred, was ignorant of that expense being in contravention of the restriction on referendum expenses: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 6(7); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 6(7).

584. Rooms for public meetings promoting a particular result in the local authority referendum.

Any person is entitled, for the purpose of holding a public meeting to promote a particular result in the local authority referendum¹, to use free of charge at reasonable times during the campaign period² any meeting room³ situated in the voting area⁴, the expense of maintaining which is payable wholly or mainly out of public funds or out of any rate, or by a body whose expenses are so payable⁵. For the purposes of determining rateable occupation, a hereditament⁶ is to be treated as unoccupied if it would otherwise be treated as occupied by reason only of the use of it for the holding of public meetings promoting a particular result in the referendum⁷.

The person by whom, or on whose behalf, a public meeting is convened in a meeting room in pursuance of this right may be required to defray any expenses incurred in preparing, warming, lighting and cleaning the room and providing attendance for the meeting and restoring the room to its usual condition after the meeting⁸. That person must also defray the cost of repairing any damage done to the room or to the premises in which it is situated, or to the furniture, fittings or apparatus in the room or premises⁹. A person is not entitled to exercise this right to use meeting rooms for public meetings except on reasonable notice¹⁰; and the provisions entitling him to use such rooms do not authorise any interference with the use of a meeting room either for the purposes of the person maintaining it or under a prior agreement for its letting for any purpose¹¹.

The lists maintained in England by a county council, district council or London borough council, and in Wales by a county council or county borough council, of meeting rooms which candidates at a parliamentary election in any constituency are entitled to use¹² have effect for the purposes of the referendum¹³; and any person is entitled, before the referendum, at all reasonable hours to inspect those lists or a copy of them¹⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

2 For these purposes, the 'campaign period' means the period of 25 days ending with the day before the date of the referendum: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 96(1A) (added in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI

Where the day or last day on which anything is required or permitted to be done by or in pursuance of the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt II (ss 67-119) (as amended, applied and modified) is a Saturday or Sunday, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, a bank holiday or a day appointed for public thanksgiving or mourning (s 119(1), (2) (s 119(2) substituted by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 19(4); and the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 119 applied and modified in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2)): (1) the requirement or permission is deemed to relate to the first day thereafter which is not one of those days (Representation of the People Act 1983 s 119(1)(a) (as so applied and modified)); (2) in computing any period of not more than seven days for the purposes of Pt II (as amended), any of the days so mentioned must be disregarded (s 119(1)(b) (as so applied and modified)); and (3) in computing any period referred to in s 96(1A) (as added, applied and modified) or s 97(2A) (as added, applied and modified) (see PARA 585 post) any of the days so mentioned must be disregarded (s 119(1)(c) (as so applied and modified)). For these purposes, 'bank holiday', in relation to any election, means a day which is a bank holiday in the part of the United Kingdom in which the constituency or, as the case may be, electoral area is situated: s 119(3) (substituted by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 19(4); and as so applied and modified).

If a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting is required to be taken¹, the chairman of the meeting must notify the council of the area² in which the parish or community is situate of the fact³; and the chairman of the meeting must give the returning officer⁴ such particulars as will enable him to give notice of the poll⁵.

For referendums¹ by or in respect of a county in England² or a county or county borough in Wales³, the council may divide a voting area⁴ into polling districts, and may alter any polling district; and for referendums held by or in respect of a London borough or a district⁵, the London borough or the district council may divide the London borough or the district or any voting area thereof into polling districts, and may alter any polling district⁶.

Any power to constitute polling districts for the purpose of referendums must be exercised so that electors from any parliamentary polling district⁷ wholly or partly within the voting area can, in the absence of special circumstances, be allotted to a polling station within the parliamentary polling place for that district unless the parliamentary polling place is outside the voting area⁸.

591. Counting officer's functions, and assistance for counting officers at local authority referendum.

Functions conferred for the purposes of local authority referendums¹ on the counting officer² must be exercised in each voting area³ by the person who is for the time being the returning officer at local government elections of councillors for that area under the Representation of the People Act 1983⁴. It is the counting officer's general duty at the referendum to do all such acts and things as may be necessary for effectually conducting the referendum in the manner provided by the rules⁵.

The counting officer may appoint persons (known as 'polling observers'⁶) to attend at polling stations for the purpose of detecting personation⁷; and he may by writing under his hand appoint one or more persons to discharge all or any of his functions⁸.

The returning officer must appoint an office for the purpose of the poll⁵.

Any public notice required to be given by a returning officer for these purposes must be given by the notice being posted in some conspicuous place or places in the parish or community, and may also be given in such other manner as the returning officer thinks desirable for publicising it⁶.

C. MANNER OF VOTING AT REFERENDUM OR POLL

(A) VOTING OPTIONS

595. Manner of voting at a local authority referendum.

A person entitled to vote as an elector at a referendum¹ may vote in person at the polling station allotted to him under the appropriate rules², unless he is entitled as an elector to an absent vote at the referendum³. If he is entitled as an elector to vote by post at the referendum, he may vote by post⁴. If he is entitled to vote by proxy at the referendum, he may so vote unless, before a ballot paper has been issued for him to vote by proxy, he applies at the polling station allotted to him under the appropriate rules for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person, in which case he may vote in person there⁵. If he is not entitled as an elector to an absent vote at the referendum⁶ but he cannot reasonably be expected to go in person to the polling station allotted to him under the appropriate rules by reason of the particular circumstances of his employment, either as a constable or by the counting officer⁷, on the date of the poll for a purpose connected with the referendum⁸, he may vote in person at any polling station in the voting area⁹.

A local authority¹⁰ may determine, in relation to a referendum which it is to hold¹¹, that the votes in the referendum are to be cast only by postal ballot¹². Where such a determination is made, no polling station is to be used at the referendum¹³ and any person who, but for the determination, may vote in person, either as a person entitled to vote in the referendum or as proxy, may only vote by post¹⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 576 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 12, Sch 4 para 1 (Sch 4 applied and modified in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1). As to the provisions that are so applied and modified see PARA 557 ante.

2 The 'appropriate rules', in the case of a referendum, means the LGA Referendum Rules within the meaning of, in relation to England, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298 (as amended) and, in relation to Wales, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870: Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 1 (as applied and modified: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'LGA Referendum Rules' see PARA 557 note 4 ante.

3 Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 2(1), (2) (as applied and modified: see note 1 supra). For the purposes of Sch 4 (as amended, applied and modified) and the Representation of the People Act 1983, so far as it has effect in relation to England and Wales, a person entitled to vote as an elector at a local government election is entitled as an elector to vote by post or entitled to vote by proxy at the referendum if he is shown in the absent voters list for the referendum as so entitled; and references in those provisions to entitlement as an elector to an absent vote at a local government election are references to entitlement as an elector to vote by post or entitlement to vote by proxy at the referendum: Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 2(7) (as so applied and modified). For these purposes, the 'absent voters list' means the list kept under Sch 4 para 5(1) (as applied and modified) (see PARA 601 post): Sch 4 para 1(1) (as so applied and modified).

However, nothing in Sch 4 para 2(1)-(5) (as applied and modified) (see the text and notes 4-9 infra) applies to: (1) a person to whom the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 7 (as substituted and amended) (deemed residence for persons in mental hospitals who are not detained offenders or on remand: see PARA 134 ante) applies and who is liable, by virtue of any enactment, to be detained in the mental hospital in question (Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 2(6)(a) (as so applied and modified)); or (2) a person to whom the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 7A (as added and amended) (deemed residence for persons on remand: see PARA 135 ante) applies (Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 2(6)(b) (as so applied and modified)), whether he is registered by virtue of that provision or not; and such a person may only vote by post or by proxy (where he is entitled as an elector to vote by post or, as the case may be, by proxy at the referendum) (Sch 4 para 2(6) (as so applied and modified)). As to applications to vote by proxy see PARA 597 et seq post.

11 In relation to a referendum held in Wales, the function of making a determination under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 10(1) is not to be the responsibility of an executive of a local authority operating executive arrangements: reg 10(3). In such a case, the references in those Regulations and any reference in the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000, the Representation of the People Act 2000, the Representation of the People Act 1983, rules under s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 388 ante), the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, or any enactment relating to the qualification or disqualification for election to, or membership of, a local authority: (1) to polling day, the day or date of the poll or the date fixed for the poll, continue to have effect, in respect of that referendum, as references to the date of the referendum; and (2) to the close of the poll, continue to have effect, in respect of that referendum, as references to 10 pm on the day of the referendum: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 10(1)(c); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 10(1)(c). A poll consequent on a parish or community meeting¹ is a poll of those entitled to attend the meeting as local government electors, and must be taken by ballot in accordance with rules made by the Secretary of State².

1 As to how polls consequent on a parish or community meeting come about see PARA 586 ante.

2 See the Local Government Act 1972 s 99 (as amended), Sch 12 paras 18(5), 34(5); and PARA 586 ante. As to the rules that have been made see the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1 (as amended); and PARA 388 ante. Those rules make no provision for postal voting in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting.

(B) ABSENT VOTING AT A LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM

(a) Applications relating to a Particular Period or an Indefinite Period

597. Application for absent vote at referendums for a particular period or for an indefinite period.

Where a person applies to the registration officer¹ to vote by post at a local authority referendum² (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application), the registration officer must grant the application³ if he is satisfied that the applicant is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁴ and if the application meets the prescribed requirements⁵.

Where a person applies to the registration officer to vote by proxy⁶ at referendums (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application), the registration officer must grant the application⁷ if he is satisfied that the applicant is eligible to vote by proxy at referendums to which the application relates⁸, if he is satisfied that the applicant is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁹, and if the application meets the prescribed requirements¹⁰. For these purposes, a person is eligible to vote by proxy at referendums:

- 530 (1) if he is or will be registered as a service voter¹¹;
- 531 (2) if he cannot reasonably be expected to go in person to the polling station allotted or likely to be allotted to him under the appropriate rules¹² or to vote unaided there¹³, by reason of blindness or other physical incapacity¹⁴;
- 532 (3) if he cannot reasonably be expected to go in person to that polling station by reason of the general nature of his occupation, service or employment or that of his spouse or civil partner, or by reason of his or his spouse's or his civil partner's attendance on a course provided by an educational institution¹⁵; or
- 533 (4) if he cannot go in person from his qualifying address to that polling station without making a journey by air or sea¹⁶.

Such an application¹⁷ must state: (a) the full name of the applicant¹⁸; (b) the address in respect of which the applicant is registered or has applied to be (or is treated as having applied to be) registered in the register¹⁹; (c) in the case of a person applying to vote by post, the address to which the ballot paper should be sent²⁰; and (d) in the case of an application to vote by proxy, the grounds on which the elector claims to be entitled to an absent vote²¹. The application must be made in writing and must be signed and dated by the applicant²². Such an application which is made for an indefinite period or the period specified in the application must state that it is so made²³ and must specify all or any of the referendums or elections in respect of which it is made²⁴. Where an application is made by an elector to vote by proxy, it must include an application for the appointment of a proxy which meets the prescribed requirements²⁵.

Where the registration officer grants an application to vote by post, he must notify the applicant of his decision²⁶; and where he refuses an application, he must notify the applicant of his decision and of the reason for it²⁷.

1 For these purposes, a reference to the registration officer, in relation to a local authority, is a reference to the relevant registration officer appointed under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 8 (as amended) (see PARA 154 ante); and for the purpose of the exercise of a registration officer's functions in relation to the referendum, s 52(1)-(4) (as amended) (discharge of registration duties: see PARAS 155-156 ante) and s 54(1), (3), (4) (as amended) (payment of expenses of registration: see PARA 158 ante) have effect: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8(1)(m); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8(1)(m). For the meaning of 'authority' see PARA 561 note 1 ante. The registration officer must supply free of charge as many forms for use in connection with applications made under the provisions relating to absent voting as appear to that officer reasonable in the circumstances to any person who satisfies that officer of his intention to use the forms in connection with a referendum or referendums: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 4(1) (applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870).

2 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 576 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 12, Sch 4 para 1 (Sch 4 applied and modified in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1). As to the provisions that are so applied and modified see PARA 557 ante.

3 Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 3(1) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). Such an application must be disregarded for the purposes of any particular referendum if it is received by the registration officer after 5 pm on the eleventh day before the date of the poll at that referendum; and where a registration officer disregards an application for the purposes of any particular referendum, he must notify the applicant of this: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, regs 56(1), 57(5) (both amended by SI 2006/752). The Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, regs 56, 57 (both as amended) are applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870.

In computing a period of days for the purposes of the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 56 (as applied and modified), Saturday, Sunday, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday or a bank holiday is disregarded: reg 56(6) (as so applied and modified). 'Bank holiday' means a day which is a bank holiday under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 321) in England and Wales: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 56(7) (as so applied and modified).

4 Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 3(1)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). As to the register of local government electors see PARA 160 et seq ante.

5 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(1)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). For these purposes, a reference to anything being prescribed must be construed as a reference to its being provided for by a provision of subordinate legislation applied, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8(1)(k); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8(1)(k). Accordingly, the text refers to the requirements set out in the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt IV (regs 50-63) (as amended, applied and modified).

6 As to voting by proxy for an elector at a referendum see PARA 602 et seq post.

7 Representation of the People Act 2000 Sch 4 para 3(2) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). Such an application must be disregarded for the purposes of a particular referendum if it is received by the registration officer after 5 pm on the sixth day before the date of the poll at that referendum: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 56(2) (amended by SI 2006/752; and applied and modified (see note 3 supra)). Where a registration officer disregards an application for the purposes of any particular referendum, he must notify the applicant of this: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 57(5) (as amended, applied and modified: see note 3 supra). Where the day or last day of the time allowed by the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended, applied and modified) for the doing of any thing falls on a Saturday or Sunday, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday or a bank holiday, that time must be extended until the next following day which is not one of those days: reg 8(1), (3) (reg 8 applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870). Subject to the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 56(6) (as applied and modified), in computing any period of not more than 7 days for these purposes a Saturday or Sunday, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Maundy Thursday, Good Friday or a bank holiday must be disregarded: reg 8(2), (3) (as so applied and modified). 'Bank holiday' means a day which is a bank holiday under the Banking and Financial Dealings Act 1971 (see TIME vol 97 (2010) PARA 321) in England and Wales: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 8(4) (as so applied and modified).

9 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(2)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra).

10 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(2)(c) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). As to the prescribed requirements see note 5 supra. As to applications made by an elector to appoint a person as proxy to vote for him see PARA 602 et seq post.

11 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). As to registration as a service voter see PARA 140 et seq ante.

12 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(b)(i) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra). For the meaning of the 'appropriate rules' see PARA 595 note 2 ante.

13 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(b)(ii) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra).

14 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra).

15 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(c) (amended by the Civil Partnership Act 2004 s 261(1), Sch 27 para 164(1), (2); and applied and modified (see note 2 supra)).

16 Ibid Sch 4 para 3(3)(d) (as applied and modified: see note 2 supra).

17 Applications relating to absent voting must comply with such requirements as are relevant to the application: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 51(1) (reg 51 applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870).

18 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 51(2)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra).

19 Ibid reg 51(2)(b) (amended by SI 2006/752; and applied and modified (see note 17 supra)).

20 Ibid reg 51(2)(d) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra).

21 Ibid reg 51(2)(e) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra). For these purposes, a reference to a person voting as an elector is to be construed as a reference to a person voting on their own behalf; and a reference to a person's entitlement as an elector to an absent vote is to be construed as a reference to a person's entitlement to vote by post on their own behalf or to vote by proxy: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8(1)(h), (i); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8(1)(h), (i).

22 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 51(3) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra). The requirement in the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended, applied and modified) that any application, notice or objection should be in writing is satisfied where (apart from the usual meaning of that expression) the text of it is transmitted by electronic means, is received in legible form, and is capable of being used for subsequent reference: reg 5 (regs 5, 6 applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870). A requirement in the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341 (as amended) for an application, notice or objection to be signed is satisfied (as an alternative to the signature given by hand) where there is both an electronic signature incorporated into or logically associated with a particular electronic communication and the certification by any person of such a signature: reg 6(1) (as so applied and modified). For these purposes, an electronic signature is so much of anything in electronic form as is incorporated into or otherwise logically associated with any electronic communication or both and purports to be so incorporated or associated for the purpose of being used in establishing the authenticity of the communication, the integrity of the communication or both (reg 6(2) (as so applied and modified)); and an electronic signature incorporated into or associated with a particular electronic communication is certified by any person if that person (whether before or after the making of the communication) has made a statement confirming that the signature, a means of producing, communicating or verifying the signature or a procedure applied to the signature, is (either alone or in combination with other factors) a valid means of establishing the authenticity of the communication, the integrity of the communication or both (reg 6(3) (as so applied and modified)).

In relation to England only, the registration officer may satisfy himself that an application for an absent vote meets the requirement that it has been signed by the applicant by referring to any signature previously provided by the applicant to the registration officer or the counting officer: reg 51A (added by SI 2006/752; and applied and modified in relation to England by virtue of SI 2001/1298). For the meaning of 'counting officer' see PARA 591 note 2 ante.

23 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 51(4)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra).

24 Ibid reg 51(4)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 17 supra).

25 See ibid regs 51(6), 52 (as applied and modified); and PARA 603 post.

26 Ibid reg 57(1) (amended by SI 2006/752; and applied and modified (see note 3 supra)).

27 Ibid reg 57(4) (as applied and modified: see note 3 supra). In the context of elections, a right of appeal lies to the county court from certain decisions of the registration officer disallowing a person's application to vote by proxy or by post as elector: see PARA 189 et seq ante.

598. Record of those entitled to an absent vote at referendums for a definite period or for an indefinite period.

The registration officer¹ must keep a record of those whose applications for an absent vote at referendums² for a definite period or for an indefinite period³ have been granted showing⁴: (1) whether their applications were to vote by post or proxy for an indefinite or a particular period (specifying that period)⁵; (2) whether their applications were in respect of referendums and elections⁶; (3) in the case of those who may vote by post, the addresses provided by them in their applications as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be sent⁷; and (4) in the case of those who may vote by proxy, the names and addresses of those appointed as their proxies⁸. The registration officer must make available for inspection at his office a copy of the records so kept⁹ and any person may make a copy (whether handwritten or by other means) of the whole or any part of them¹⁰.

The registration officer must remove a person from the record: (a) if he applies to the registration officer to be removed¹¹; (b) in the case of any registered person, if he ceases to be registered or registered at the same qualifying address or ceases to be, or becomes, registered in pursuance of¹² a service declaration¹³ or a declaration of local connection¹⁴; (c) in the case of any person shown in the record as voting by proxy, if the registration officer gives notice that he has reason to believe there has been a material change of circumstances¹⁵; or (d) in the case of a person who applied to vote by post or proxy for a particular period, once that period has expired¹⁶. Where a person is removed from the record under any of heads (a) to (d) above, the registration officer must notify him of this and the reason for it¹⁷.

A person shown in the record as voting by post may subsequently alter his choice by applying to the registration officer to vote by proxy instead (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application); and, if the registration officer would be required to grant that application to vote by proxy¹⁸, the registration officer must amend the record accordingly¹⁹. Equally, a person shown in the record as voting by proxy may subsequently alter his choice by applying to the registration officer to vote by post instead (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application); and, if the application meets the prescribed requirements, the registration officer must amend the record accordingly²⁰.

Where a person applies to the registration officer¹ to vote by post at a particular referendum², the registration officer must grant the application³ if he is satisfied that the applicant is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁴ and if the application meets the prescribed requirements⁵. Where a person applies to the registration officer to vote by proxy⁶ at a particular referendum, the registration officer must grant the application⁷ if: (1) he is satisfied that the applicant's circumstances on the date of the poll will be or are likely to be such that he cannot reasonably be expected to vote in person at the polling station allotted or likely to be allotted to him under the appropriate rules⁸; (2) he is satisfied that the applicant is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁹; and (3) the application meets the prescribed requirements¹⁰.

A person who is included in the record kept of those entitled to an absent vote in respect of referendums either for a particular period or for an indefinite period¹¹, may, in respect of a particular referendum, apply to the registration officer¹² for his ballot paper to be sent to a different address from that shown in the record¹³ or to vote by proxy¹⁴, if he is shown in the record so kept as voting by post at referendums of the kind in question¹⁵; and the registration officer must grant such an application if¹⁶, in the case of any application, it meets the prescribed requirements¹⁷ and, in the case of an application to vote by proxy, the registration officer is satisfied that the applicant's circumstances on the date of the poll will be or are likely to be such that he cannot reasonably be expected to vote in person at the polling station allotted or likely to be allotted to him under the appropriate rules¹⁸.

Such an application¹⁹ must state: (a) the full name of the applicant²⁰; (b) the address in respect of which the applicant is registered or has applied to be (or is treated as having applied to be) registered in the register²¹; (c) in the case of a person applying to vote by post, the address to which the ballot paper should be sent²²; and (d) in the case of an application to vote by proxy, the grounds on which the elector claims to be entitled to an absent vote²³. Additionally, in relation to England, an application for a ballot paper to be sent to a different address from that shown in the record must set out why the applicant's circumstances will be or are likely to be such that he requires his ballot paper to be sent to that address²⁴. Such an application which is made for a particular referendum must identify the referendum in question²⁵ and must state that it is made for a particular referendum²⁶. The application must be made in writing and must be signed and dated by the applicant²⁷. Where an application is made by an elector to vote by proxy, it must include an application for the appointment of a proxy which meets the prescribed requirements²⁸.

Where the registration officer grants an application to vote by post, he must notify the applicant of his decision²⁹; and where he refuses an application, he must notify the applicant of his decision³⁰.

1 As to the meaning of references to the registration officer for these purposes see PARA 597 note 1 ante. The registration officer must supply free of charge as many forms for use in connection with applications made under the provisions relating to absent voting as appear to that officer reasonable in the circumstances to any person who satisfies that officer of his intention to use the forms in connection with a referendum or referendums: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 4(1) (applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870). 600. Additional requirements for applications for a proxy vote at a particular referendum.

An application to vote by proxy at a particular referendum¹ must set out why the applicant's circumstances on the date of the poll for that referendum will be or are likely to be such that he cannot reasonably be expected to vote in person at his allotted polling station². Where such an application is made on the grounds of the applicant's physical incapacity³ and is made after 5 pm on the sixth day before the date of the poll at the referendum for which it is made⁴, such an application must be attested and signed by⁵:

- 534 (1) a registered medical practitioner⁶;
- 535 (2) a nurse registered on the register maintained by the Nursing and Midwifery Council⁷ by virtue of qualifications in nursing⁸;
- 536 (3) a Christian Science practitioner⁹;
- 537 (4) the person registered as carrying on a residential care home¹⁰, where the applicant states that he is resident in such a home¹¹;
- 538 (5) the matron or other person in charge of residential accommodation provided by a local authority¹², where the applicant states that he is resident in such accommodation¹³; or
- 539 (6) the warden of premises forming one of a group of premises provided for persons of pensionable age or physically disabled persons for which there is a resident warden, where the applicant states that he resides in such premises¹⁴.

A person who qualifies by virtue of head (1), (2) or (3) above may not attest an application for this purpose unless he is treating the applicant for the physical incapacity specified in the application or the applicant is receiving care from him in respect of that incapacity¹⁵. The person attesting the application must state: (a) his name and address and the qualification by virtue of which he attests the application and, where the person who attests the application is a person who qualifies by virtue of head (1), (2) or (3) above, that he is treating the applicant for the physical incapacity specified in the application or the applicant is receiving care from him in respect of that incapacity¹⁶; (b) that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the applicant is suffering from the physical incapacity specified in the application and that he cannot reasonably be expected to go in person to his allotted polling station or to vote unaided there by reason of that incapacity¹⁷; and (c) that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the physical incapacity specified in the application is likely to continue either indefinitely or for a period specified by the person attesting the application¹⁸. In addition¹⁹, the person who attests the application must state, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the date upon which the applicant became physically incapacitated²⁰.

However, the provisions as to attestation²¹ do not apply where the application is based on the applicant's blindness and the applicant is registered as a blind person by the local authority²² which is specified in the application²³ or where the application states that the applicant is in receipt of the higher rate of the mobility component of a disability living allowance²⁴ because of the physical incapacity specified in the application²⁵.

601. Absent voters list at a local authority referendum.

In respect of each local authority referendum¹, the registration officer² must keep a special list (called the 'absent voters list') which consists of two lists³. The first is a list⁴ of: (1) those whose applications to vote by post at that particular referendum⁵ have been granted, together with the addresses provided by them in their applications as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be sent⁶; and (2) those who are for the time being shown in the record kept of those entitled to an absent vote at referendums either for a particular period or for an indefinite period⁷ as voting by post at particular referendums of the kind in question⁸, together with the addresses provided by them in their applications⁹ as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be sent¹⁰. As soon as practicable after the sixth day¹⁷ before the day of the poll at a referendum, the registration officer must publish the absent voters list by making a copy of it available for inspection at his office¹⁸ and any person may make a copy (whether handwritten or by other means) of the whole or any part of it¹⁹.

However, the elector⁴ cannot have more than one person at a time appointed as proxy to vote for him at referendums held in the same voting area⁵; and a person is not capable of being appointed to vote or voting as proxy if he is subject to any legal incapacity⁶ (age apart⁷) to vote at that referendum as elector⁸ or if he is neither a Commonwealth citizen⁹ nor a citizen of the Republic of Ireland¹⁰ nor a relevant citizen of the Union¹¹.

A person is not capable of voting as proxy at any local authority referendum unless on the date of the poll he has attained the age of 18¹². A person is not entitled to vote as proxy at the same referendum held in any voting area¹³ on behalf of more than two electors of whom that person is not the spouse, civil partner, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, child or grandchild¹⁴.

597-658 Application for absent vote at referendums for a particular period or for an indefinite period ... Declaration of result at local authority referendum

SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/C. MANNER OF VOTING AT REFERENDUM OR POLL/(B) Absent Voting at a Local Authority Referendum/(c) Voting as Proxy at a Referendum/603. Applications for appointment to vote as proxy at a referendum.

603. Applications for appointment to vote as proxy at a referendum.

Where the elector¹ applies to the registration officer² for the appointment of a proxy to vote for him at a local authority referendum³ (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application⁴), the registration officer must make the appointment if the application meets the prescribed requirements⁵ and he is satisfied that the elector is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁷ and shown in the record kept of those entitled to an absent vote at referendums either for a particular period or for an indefinite period⁸ as voting by proxy at such referendums⁹, and that the proxy is capable of being, and willing to be, appointed to vote as proxy at such referendums¹⁰.

Where the elector applies to the registration officer for the appointment of a proxy to vote for him at a particular referendum¹¹, the registration officer must make the appointment if the application meets the prescribed requirements¹² and he is satisfied that the elector¹³ is or will be registered in the register of local government electors¹⁴ and is or will be entitled to vote by proxy at that referendum by virtue of that application¹⁵, and that the proxy is capable of being, and willing to be, appointed¹⁶.

Such an application¹⁷ must state: (1) the full name of the applicant¹⁸; and (2) the address in respect of which the applicant is registered or has applied to be (or is treated as having applied to be) registered in the register¹⁹. The application must be made in writing and must be signed and dated by the applicant²⁰. An application which is made for an indefinite period or the period specified in the application must identify those elections or referendums in respect of which it is made²¹ and must state that it is made for an indefinite period or for a period specified in the application²². An application which is made for a particular referendum must identify the referendum in question²³ and must state that it is so made²⁴. Where the poll at one election or referendum falls on the same day as the poll at another election or referendum, the same application may be used for both²⁵. An application for the appointment of a proxy must state also the full name and address of the person whom the applicant wishes to appoint as his proxy, together with his family relationship, if any, with the applicant²⁶. If the application is signed only by the applicant, it must contain a statement by him that he has consulted the person so named and that the person is capable of being and willing to be appointed to vote as his proxy²⁷. If the application is signed also by the person to be appointed, it must contain a statement by that person that he is capable of being and willing to be appointed to vote as the applicant's proxy²⁸.

The appointment of a proxy is to be made by means of a proxy paper in the prescribed form issued by the registration officer²⁹.

Where the registration officer grants an application for the appointment of a proxy, he must confirm in writing to the elector that the proxy has been appointed, his name and address, and the duration of the appointment³⁰. Where he refuses an application, he must notify the applicant of his decision and of the reason for it³¹.

1 For the meaning of 'elector' in this context see PARA 602 note 4 ante.

2 As to the meaning of references to the registration officer for these purposes see PARA 597 note 1 ante. The registration officer must supply free of charge as many forms for use in connection with applications made under the provisions relating to absent voting as appear to that officer reasonable in the circumstances to any person who satisfies that officer of his intention to use the forms in connection with a referendum or referendums: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 4(1) (reg 4 applied and modified, in relation to England, by SI 2001/1298; and, in relation to Wales, by SI 2004/870).

3 For the meaning of 'referendum' see PARA 576 note 2 ante; definition applied by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 12, Sch 4 para 1 (Sch 4 applied and modified in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1). 5 For these purposes, a reference to anything being prescribed must be construed as a reference to its being provided for by a provision of subordinate legislation applied, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8(1)(k); Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8(1)(k). Accordingly, the text refers to the requirements set out in the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, Pt IV (regs 50-63) (as amended, applied and modified). An application referred to in the text must be disregarded for the purposes of a particular referendum if it is received by the registration officer after 5 pm on the sixth day before the date of the poll at that referendum; and where a registration officer disregards an application for the purposes of any particular referendum, he must notify the applicant of this: regs 56(2), 57(5) (both amended by SI 2006/752). Where an application under Sch 4 para 4(2) (as applied and modified) is made on the grounds of the applicant's physical incapacity and the applicant became physically incapacitated after 5 pm on the sixth day before the date of the poll at the referendum for which it is made, an application under Sch 4 para 6(8) (as applied and modified) made by virtue of that application must be refused if it is received after 5 pm on the day of the poll at the referendum for which it is made: Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 56(3A) (added by SI 2006/752; and applied and modified (see note 5 supra)). 604. Duration of appointment to vote as proxy at a referendum.

The appointment of a proxy at a local authority referendum¹ may be cancelled by the elector² giving notice to the registration officer³. The appointment also ceases to be in force⁴:

- 540 (1) on the issue of a proxy paper appointing a different person to vote for him at a referendum or referendums, whether in the same voting area⁵ or elsewhere⁶; and
- 541 (2) where the appointment was for a particular period, once that period expires⁷.

The appointment otherwise remains in force for the particular referendum for which the appointment was made⁸ or, where the appointment was made for a particular period or for an indefinite period, while the elector is shown as voting by proxy in the record kept of those entitled to an absent vote at referendums either for a particular period or for an indefinite period⁹, in pursuance of the same application¹⁰ in respect of which he was included in that record¹¹.

Where the appointment of a proxy is cancelled by the elector or otherwise ceases to be in force, the registration officer must notify the elector that the appointment has been cancelled or, as the case may be, notify him that the appointment has ceased and the reason for it¹². Where the appointment of a proxy is cancelled by notice given to the registration officer¹³ or ceases to be in force¹⁴ or is no longer in force for a particular period or for an indefinite period¹⁵, the registration officer¹⁶ must notify the person whose appointment as proxy has been cancelled, expired, ceases to be or is no longer in force (unless the registration officer has previously been notified by that person that he no longer wishes to act as proxy)¹⁷ and must remove his name from the record of names and addresses of those appointed as proxies¹⁸.

606. Application by person to vote by post as proxy at referendum.

Where a person applies to the registration officer¹ to vote by post either as proxy at local authority referendums² (whether for an indefinite period or for a particular period specified in his application)³ or as proxy at a particular referendum⁴, the registration officer must grant the application⁵ if: (1) the registration officer is satisfied that the elector⁶ is or will be registered in the register of local government electors⁷; and (2) there is in force an appointment of the applicant as the elector's proxy to vote for him at referendums of the kind in question or, as the case may be, the referendum concerned⁸; and (3) the application meets the prescribed requirements⁹.

Such an application¹⁰ must state: (a) the full name of the applicant¹¹; (b) the proxy's address, together with the name of the elector for whom he will act as proxy and the elector's address in respect of which the elector is registered or has applied to be (or is treated as having applied to be) registered in the register¹²; (c) the address to which the ballot paper should be sent¹³; and (d) the grounds on which the elector claims to be entitled to an absent vote¹⁴. The application must be made in writing and must be signed and dated by the applicant¹⁵. An application which is made for an indefinite period or the period specified in the application must state that it is so made¹⁶ and must specify all or any of the elections or referendums in respect of which it is made¹⁷. An application which is made for a particular referendum must state that it is so made¹⁸ and must identify the referendum in question¹⁹. Where the poll at one election or referendum falls on the same day as the poll at another election or referendum, the same application may be used for both²⁰.

Where the registration officer grants an application to vote by post, he must notify the applicant of his decision²¹; and where he refuses an application, he must notify the applicant of his decision and give the reason for it²².

614. Issue of official poll cards at referendum.

The counting officer at a local authority referendum¹ must, as soon as practicable, send to electors and their proxies an official poll card². However, such a card need not be sent to any person as an elector³ if he is placed on the absent voters list⁴ for the referendum or to any person as a proxy if he is entitled to vote by post as proxy⁵ at the referendum⁶. An elector's official poll card must be sent or delivered to his qualifying address and a proxy's card to his address as shown in the list of proxies⁷. The official poll card must set out the name of the council and of the voting area⁸, the elector's name, qualifying address and number on the register⁹ and the date and hours of the poll and situation of the elector's polling station¹⁰. The official poll card must be in the prescribed form or a form to the like effect¹¹. (B) VOTES GIVEN FOR REFERENDUM OR POLL AT POLLING STATION

615. Provision and allotment of polling stations for use at referendum or poll.

The counting officer at a local authority referendum¹ or the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting² must provide a sufficient number of polling stations³ and allot the electors to the polling stations in such manner as he thinks most convenient, subject to the following requirements⁴. The polling station allotted to electors from any parliamentary polling district⁵ wholly or partly within the electoral area⁶ (in the case of such a referendum) or within the parish or community⁷ (in the case of such a poll) must, in the absence of special circumstances, be in the parliamentary polling place for that district⁸. One or more polling stations may be provided in the same room⁹. However, the counting officer or returning officer (as the case may be) must also provide each polling station with such number of compartments as may be necessary in which the voters can mark their votes screened from observation¹⁰.

The counting officer or returning officer (as the case may be) may use free of charge for the purpose of taking the poll or counting the votes: (1) a room in a school maintained or assisted by a local education authority¹¹ or a school in respect of which grants are made out of moneys provided by Parliament to the person or body of persons responsible for the management of the school¹²; or (2) a room the expense of maintaining which is payable out of any rate¹³. The counting officer or returning officer (as the case may be) must make good any damage done to, and defray any expense incurred by the persons having control over, any such room by reason of its being used for the purpose of taking the poll or counting the votes¹⁴.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/ (B) Votes given for Referendum or Poll at Polling Station/616. Equipment of polling stations.

616. Equipment of polling stations.

The counting officer at a local authority referendum¹ or the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting² must provide each presiding officer³ with such number of ballot boxes and ballot papers as in the counting officer's or returning officer's opinion (as the case may be) may be necessary⁴. Every ballot box must be so constructed that the ballot papers can be put in it, but cannot be withdrawn from it, without the box being unlocked⁵.

The counting officer or returning officer (as the case may be) also must provide each polling station⁶ with:

- 542 (1) materials to enable voters to mark the ballot papers⁷;
- 543 (2) instruments for stamping on them the official mark⁸;
- 544 (3) copies of the register of electors for the electoral area⁹ (in the case of such a referendum) or for the parish or community¹⁰ (in the case of such a poll) or such part of it as contains the names of the electors allotted to the station¹¹; and
- 545 (4) (in the case of a referendum) the parts of any special lists¹² prepared for the referendum corresponding to the register of electors or the part of it provided under head (3) above¹³.

A notice in the specified form, giving directions for the guidance of the voters in voting¹⁴, must be printed in conspicuous characters and exhibited inside and outside every polling station¹⁵. In the case of a referendum, there must also be: (a) inside each polling station, at least one large version of the ballot paper, provided by the presiding officer and displayed for the assistance of voters who are partially-sighted¹⁶; and (b) in every compartment of every polling station¹⁷, a notice which instructs voters how many votes they may give¹⁸.

In relation to a local authority referendum at which voting is by post only (as to which see PARA 595 et seq ante), the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 23 (as amended, applied and modified) is omitted: see, in relation to England, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 10, Sch 4; and, in relation to Wales, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 10, Sch 4. The counting officer at a local authority referendum must also provide each polling station with a device of such description as may be prescribed for enabling voters who are blind or partially-sighted to vote without any need for assistance from the presiding officer or any companion: Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 23(3A)(b) (Sch 2 r 23(3A) added by SI 2001/81; and applied and modified (see note 4 supra)). On the right-hand side of the device there must be tabs of equal size which:

- 77 (1) must all be capable of being positioned on the ballot paper so that each one is above one of the spaces to the right of the answers to the question on which the vote is to be marked (the 'relevant space') (Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 23(7), (8) (as so added, applied and modified));
- 78 (2) must be worded, with each word on a tab being in raised form and capable of being clearly identified by touch, so that, when the device is positioned over a ballot paper, the word on each tab corresponds to that of the answer which is to the left of the relevant space covered by the tab in question (Sch 2 r 23(7), (9), (10) (as so added, applied and modified)); and
- 79 (3) must each be capable of being lifted so as to reveal the relevant space and so that there is sufficient room to allow a voter to mark a cross on that space (Sch 2 r 23(7), (11) (as so added, applied and modified)).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/ (B) Votes given for Referendum or Poll at Polling Station/619. Appointments for the counting of votes at referendum or poll.

619. Appointments for the counting of votes at referendum or poll.

The counting officer at a local authority referendum¹: (1) must appoint and pay such persons as may be necessary for the purpose of the counting of the votes²; and (2) must appoint persons to observe the counting of the votes and the verification of the ballot paper account ('counting observers')³. For the purpose of assisting the counting officer in the discharge of his functions under head (2) above, a petition organiser⁴ may, not less than the fifth day before the date of the poll⁵, by notice in writing to the counting officer, nominate persons who, in the opinion of the petition organiser, are suitable for appointment as counting observers; and the notice must also contain the address of each nominee⁶. The counting officer must not, without good cause, decline to appoint as a counting observer a person nominated by a petition organiser⁷. However, the counting officer may limit the number of counting observers so that the number is the same in the case of each petition organiser and the number allowed to a petition organiser is not (except in special circumstances) less than the number obtained by dividing the number of clerks employed on the counting by the number of petition organisers⁸. If a counting observer dies or becomes incapable of acting the counting officer may appoint another counting observer in his place⁹.

A petition organiser may do any act or thing which any counting observer of his, if appointed, would have been authorised to do or may assist any such counting observer in doing any such act or thing¹⁰. Where any act or thing is required or authorised to be done by the appropriate rules¹¹ in the presence of the counting observers, the non-attendance of any such observer or observers at the time and place appointed for the purpose does not, if the act or thing is otherwise duly done, invalidate the act or thing done¹². Any notice required to be given to a counting observer by the counting officer may be delivered at, or sent by post to, the address stated in the nomination¹³.

622. Keeping of order at referendum or poll; adjournment in case of riot.

It is the duty of the presiding officer¹ to keep order at his polling station². If a person misconducts himself in the polling station, or fails to obey the lawful orders of the presiding officer, he may immediately, by order of the presiding officer, be removed from the polling station by a constable in or near that station, or by any other person authorised in writing by the counting officer (in relation to a local authority referendum)³ or by the returning officer (in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting)⁴ to remove him; and the person so removed may not, without the permission of the presiding officer, again enter the polling station during the day⁵. Any person so removed, may, if charged with the commission in the polling station of an offence, be dealt with as a person taken into custody by a constable for an offence without a warrant⁶. However, the powers of keeping order so conferred are not to be exercised so as to prevent a voter who is otherwise entitled to vote at a polling station from having an opportunity of voting at that station⁷.

Where the proceedings at any polling station are interrupted or obstructed by riot or open violence, the presiding officer must adjourn the proceedings until the following day⁸ and forthwith give notice to the counting officer or to the returning officer (as the case may be)⁹. The hours of the poll on the day to which it is adjourned are the same as for the original day and references to the close of the poll are to be construed accordingly¹⁰.

The presiding officer¹ must regulate the number of voters to be admitted to the polling station at the same time². He must exclude all other persons except³: (1) any petition organiser in relation to a local authority referendum⁴ or the proposer of the resolution in respect of which the poll consequent on a parish or community meeting is taken⁵, as the case may be; (2) the polling observers appointed to attend at the polling station⁶; (3) the clerks appointed to attend at the polling station⁷; (4) the constables on duty⁸; (5) the companions of voters with disabilities⁹; and (6) at a local authority referendum, the elected mayor¹⁰, if any, of the council in respect of which the referendum is held¹¹.

At a local authority referendum, each voter must vote at the polling station allotted to him¹² with the exception of constables on duty and persons employed by the counting officer¹³, who may be admitted to vote in person elsewhere than at his own polling station, but only on production and surrender of a certificate as to his employment in the prescribed form, or a form to like effect¹⁴. The certificate must be signed by an officer of police of or above the rank of inspector or by the counting officer, as the case may be¹⁵. The certificate when surrendered must forthwith be cancelled¹⁶.

The counting officer (in relation to a local authority referendum) or the returning officer¹⁷ (in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting) must make such arrangements as he thinks fit to ensure that every person attending at a polling station (otherwise than for the purpose of voting or assisting a voter who has an incapacity or as a constable on duty there) has been given a copy in writing of the statutory provisions relating to the requirement of secrecy that apply to such attendance¹⁸.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/ (B) Votes given for Referendum or Poll at Polling Station/625. Voting procedure at a referendum or poll.

625. Voting procedure at a referendum or poll.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², a ballot paper must be delivered to a voter who applies for one and, immediately before delivery³:

- 546 (1) the ballot paper must be stamped with the official mark⁴;
- 547 (2) the number and name of the elector as stated in the copy of the register of electors must be called out⁵;
- 548 (3) the number of the elector must be marked on the counterfoil⁶;
- 549 (4) a mark must be placed in the register of electors against the number of the elector to denote that a ballot paper has been received but without showing the particular ballot paper which has been received⁷; and
- 550 (5) in the case of a person applying for a ballot paper as proxy⁸, a mark must also be placed against his name in the list of proxies⁹.

On receiving the ballot paper, the voter must forthwith proceed into one of the compartments in the polling station and there secretly mark his paper¹⁰. The voter must then fold his paper up in such a way as to conceal his vote and he must then show to the presiding officer¹¹ the back of the paper, so as to disclose the official mark, and put the ballot paper so folded up in the ballot box in the presence of the presiding officer¹². The voter must vote without undue delay and must leave the polling station as soon as he has put his ballot paper into the ballot box¹³.

It is an offence to interfere or attempt to interfere with a voter when he is recording his vote¹⁴.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², on the application of a voter who is incapacitated by blindness or other physical cause from voting in the manner directed by the rules³, or who declares orally that he is unable to read, the presiding officer⁴ must, in the presence of the polling observers (if any)⁵, cause the vote of the voter to be marked on a ballot paper in manner directed by the voter, and the ballot paper to be placed in the ballot box⁶.

The name and number⁷ on the register of electors of every voter whose vote is marked in pursuance of this rule, and the reason why it is so marked, must be entered on a list which is called the 'list of votes marked by the presiding officer'⁸. However, this is subject to the proviso, in the case of a person voting as proxy for an elector⁹, that the number to be entered together with the name of the voter must be the number of the elector¹⁰.

Voting at a referendum or poll by persons with disabilities.

628. Voting at a referendum or poll by persons with disabilities.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², if a voter makes an application to the presiding officer³ to be allowed, on the ground of blindness or other physical incapacity or inability to read⁴, to vote with the assistance of another person by whom he is accompanied (called the 'companion'), the presiding officer must require the voter to declare, orally or in writing⁵, whether he is so incapacitated by his blindness or other incapacity, or by his inability to read⁶, as to be unable to vote without assistance⁷.

If the presiding officer is satisfied that the voter is so incapacitated, and is also satisfied by a written declaration made by the companion of the voter with disabilities⁸ that the companion is a qualified person and has not previously assisted more than one voter with disabilities⁹ to vote at the referendum or poll, he must grant the application, and then anything required to be done to or by the voter in connection with the giving of his vote may be done to, or with the assistance of, the companion¹⁰. The name and number in the register of electors¹¹ of every voter whose vote is given by a companion, and the name and address of the companion¹², must be entered on a list (which is called the 'list of voters with disabilities assisted by companions' in the case of a local authority referendum or the 'list of blind voters assisted by companions' in the case of a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting)¹³. The declaration made by the companion must be in the prescribed form¹⁴ and must be made before the presiding officer at the time when the voter applies to vote with the assistance of a companion and must forthwith be given to the presiding officer who must attest and retain it¹⁵. No fee or other payment may be charged in respect of the declaration¹⁶.

629. Tendered ballot papers at a referendum or poll.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², if a person who represents himself to be a particular elector named on the register³ applies for a ballot paper after another person has voted in person either as the elector or his proxy, the applicant, on satisfactorily answering the questions permitted by law to be asked at the poll⁴, is entitled to mark a ballot paper (called a 'tendered ballot paper') in the same manner as any other voter⁵.

A tendered ballot paper must be of a colour differing from the other ballot papers⁶ and, instead of being put into the ballot box, it must be given to the presiding officer⁷ and endorsed by him with the name of the voter and his number in the register of electors⁸, and set aside in a separate packet⁹. The name of the voter and his number on the register of electors must be entered¹⁰ on a list (called the 'tendered votes list')¹¹.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², a voter who has inadvertently dealt with his ballot paper in such manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a ballot paper may, on delivering it to the presiding officer³ and proving to his satisfaction the fact of the inadvertence, obtain another ballot paper in place of the ballot paper so delivered (the 'spoilt ballot paper')⁴. The spoilt ballot paper must be immediately cancelled⁵.

Procedure on close of poll at a referendum or poll.

631. Procedure on close of poll at a referendum or poll.

As soon as practicable after the close of the poll at a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², the presiding officer³ must, in the presence of the polling observers (if any)⁴, make up into separate packets, sealed with his own seal and the seals of such polling observers (if any) as desire to affix their seals⁵:

- 551 (1) each ballot box in use at his station, sealed so as to prevent the introduction of additional ballot papers and unopened (but with the key attached)⁶;
- 552 (2) the unused and spoilt ballot papers, placed together⁷;
- 553 (3) the tendered ballot papers⁸;
- 554 (4) the marked copies of the register of electors and (in the case of a referendum) of the list of proxies⁹;
- 555 (5) the counterfoils of the used ballot papers and (in the case of a referendum) the certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll¹⁰; and
- 556 (6) the tendered votes list¹¹, the list of voters with disabilities assisted by companions¹², the list of votes marked by the presiding officer¹³, a statement of the number of voters whose votes are so marked by the presiding officer under the heads 'physical incapacity' and 'unable to read', and the declarations made by the companions of voters with disabilities¹⁴.

The presiding officer must deliver the packets or cause them to be delivered to the counting officer¹⁵ (in relation to a local authority referendum) or to the returning officer¹⁶ (in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting), to be taken charge of by him; but if the packets are not delivered by the presiding officer personally to the counting officer or to the returning officer (as the case may be), the arrangements for their delivery require the approval of that counting officer or that returning officer (as the case may be)¹⁷.

The marked copies of the register of electors and (in the case of a referendum) of the list of proxies must be in one packet but must not be in the same packet as the counterfoils of the used ballot papers and (in the case of a referendum) the certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll¹⁸. The packets must be accompanied by a statement (the 'ballot paper account') made by the presiding officer showing the number of ballot papers entrusted to him, and accounting for them under the heads of ballot papers issued and not otherwise accounted for, unused ballot papers, spoilt ballot papers, and tendered ballot papers¹⁹.

640. Instructions for voting by post at local authority referendum.

In order to vote at a local authority referendum¹, a postal voter² is instructed³ to:

- 561 (1) sign the declaration of identity in the presence of a person known to him, who then must sign the declaration as a witness, adding his or her name and address;
- 562 (2) record his vote on the ballot paper, according to the instructions given;
- 563 (3) put the ballot paper in the small envelope marked 'A' and seal it, then put the envelope marked 'A', together with the declaration of identity, in the larger envelope marked 'B' and return it without delay, so that it is received by the counting officer not later than the close of the poll⁴.

The voter is reminded that if he receives more than one ballot paper for the same referendum it is illegal to vote more than once (otherwise than as proxy) at the same referendum and that, at the election in question, he cannot vote in person at a polling station, even if he receives an official poll card⁵.

Instructions are also given in the event of a postal voter inadvertently spoiling the ballot paper⁶.

641. Spoilt postal ballot papers at local authority referendum.

At a local authority referendum¹, if a postal voter² has inadvertently dealt with his postal ballot paper³ in such manner that it cannot conveniently be used as a ballot paper or if he has inadvertently dealt with his declaration of identity in such a manner that it cannot be conveniently used as a declaration of identity, he may return the spoilt ballot paper⁴ or, as the case may be, the spoilt declaration of identity either by hand or by post to the counting officer⁵. On receipt of any such documents, the counting officer must issue another postal ballot paper (or, as the case may be, ballot papers) except where those documents are received after 5 pm on the day of the poll⁶, in which case he may only issue another postal ballot paper (or, as the case may be, ballot papers) if the postal voter returned the documents by hand⁷. Any such postal ballot paper or declaration of identity, whether spoilt or not, which has been returned must be immediately cancelled⁸; and, as soon as practicable after cancelling those documents, the counting officer must make up those documents in a separate packet and he must seal the packet⁹. If, on any subsequent occasion, documents are cancelled in this way, the sealed packet must be opened and the additional cancelled documents included in it and the packet must be again made up and sealed¹⁰.

The counting officer must enter in a list kept for the purpose (the 'list of spoilt postal ballot papers'): (1) the name and number of the elector as stated in the register¹¹; (2) the number of the replacement postal ballot paper (or papers) issued¹²; and (3) where the postal voter whose ballot paper is spoilt is a proxy¹³, his name and address¹⁴.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/6. PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/(C) Votes given by Postal Ballot at a Local Authority Referendum/(a) Issue of Postal Ballot Papers at a Local Authority Referendum/642. Lost postal ballot papers at local authority referendum.

642. Lost postal ballot papers at local authority referendum.

At a local authority referendum¹, where a postal voter², by the fourth day before the day of the poll, claims either to have lost or not to have received his postal ballot paper³ or the declaration of identity⁴ or one or more of the envelopes supplied for their return⁵, he may apply (whether or not in person) to the counting officer⁶ for a replacement ballot paper⁷. The voter must include evidence of his identity with any such application⁸.

Where a postal voter exercises his entitlement to a replacement ballot paper, he must return the other documents which he has received and which have not been lost⁹. Any such postal ballot paper or declaration of identity which has been returned must be immediately cancelled¹⁰; and, as soon as practicable after cancelling those documents, the counting officer must make up those documents in a separate packet and he must seal the packet¹¹. If, on any subsequent occasion, documents are cancelled in this way, the sealed packet must be opened and the additional cancelled documents included in it and the packet must be again made up and sealed¹².

Where the application for a replacement ballot paper is received by the counting officer before 5 pm on the day of the poll and the counting officer is satisfied as to the voter's identity and he has no reason to doubt that the postal voter has either lost or has not received the original postal ballot paper (or the declaration of identity or one or more of the envelopes provided for their return), he must issue another postal ballot paper or, as the case may be, postal ballot papers¹³. However where the application is received by the counting officer after 5 pm on the day before the day of the poll, he may only issue another postal ballot paper or, as the case may be, other ballot papers if the postal voter applied in person¹⁴.

The counting officer must enter in a list kept for the purpose (the 'list of lost postal ballot papers'): (1) the name and number of the elector¹⁵ as stated in the register¹⁶; (2) the number of the replacement postal ballot paper issued¹⁷; and (3) where the postal voter whose ballot paper is lost is a proxy¹⁸, his name and address¹⁹.

Such a notice must specify the time and place at which such an opening is to take place⁶.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/(C) Votes given by Postal Ballot at a Local Authority Referendum/(b) Receipt of Postal Ballot Papers at a Local Authority Referendum/649. Opening of covering envelopes at local authority referendum.

649. Opening of covering envelopes at local authority referendum.

At a local authority referendum¹, when a postal voters' ballot box² is opened, the counting officer³ must count and record the number of covering envelopes⁴ and then open separately each covering envelope (including any other envelope⁵ which has been found to contain a ballot paper envelope⁶, declaration of identity or ballot papers)⁷.

Where the covering envelope does not contain the declaration of identity separately, the counting officer must open the ballot paper envelope to ascertain whether the declaration of identity is inside⁸. Where a covering envelope does not contain both a declaration of identity (whether separately or not) and a ballot paper envelope (or, if there is no ballot paper envelope, a ballot paper or ballot papers), the counting officer must mark the covering envelope 'provisionally rejected', attach its contents (if any) and place it in the receptacle for rejected votes⁹.

However, where a covering envelope (including any other envelope¹⁰ which has been found to contain a ballot paper envelope, declaration of identity or ballot papers) contains both a declaration of identity and a ballot paper envelope (or, if there is no ballot paper envelope, a ballot paper or ballot papers)¹¹, the counting officer must satisfy himself that the declaration of identity is a valid declaration of identity (that is, that it has been duly signed by the voter and authenticated by a witness who has signed the declaration and given his name and address)¹². Where the counting officer is not so satisfied, he must mark the declaration 'rejected', attach to it the ballot paper envelope (or, if there is no such envelope, the ballot paper or ballot papers) and show it to the counting observers¹³ (and, if any of them objects to his decision, he must add the words 'rejection objected to') before placing the declaration in the receptacle for rejected votes¹⁴. The counting officer must then examine the number (or numbers) on the declaration of identity against the number (or numbers) on the ballot paper envelope and, where they are the same, he must place the declaration in the receptacle for declarations of identity¹⁵ and the ballot paper envelope in the receptacle for ballot paper envelopes¹⁶. Where the number (or numbers) on a valid declaration of identity is (or are) not the same as the number (or numbers) on the ballot paper envelope or where that envelope has no number on it (or only one number when the declaration of identity has more than one), the counting officer must open the envelope¹⁷. Where the ballot paper envelope has been opened in this way or where it has been opened¹⁸ in order to ascertain whether the declaration of identity is inside¹⁹, the counting officer must place: (1) in the postal ballot box²⁰, any ballot paper the number on which is the same as the number (or one of the numbers) on the valid declaration of identity²¹; (2) in the receptacle for rejected votes, any other ballot paper, with the valid declaration of identity attached and marked 'provisionally rejected'²²; (3) in the receptacle for rejected votes, any valid declaration of identity marked 'provisionally rejected' where there is no ballot paper or, in the case of a declaration on which the number of more than one ballot paper appears, where there is not a sufficient number of ballot papers and, in such a case, he must mark the declaration to indicate which ballot paper is missing²³; (4) in the receptacle for declarations of identity, any valid declaration not disposed of under head (2) or head (3) above²⁴. Heads (1) to (4) above also apply where there is a valid declaration of identity but no ballot paper envelope²⁵.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/D. POLLING/(C) Votes given by Postal Ballot at a Local Authority Referendum/(b) Receipt of Postal Ballot Papers at a Local Authority Referendum/651. Conclusion of postal ballot procedure at local authority referendum.

651. Conclusion of postal ballot procedure at local authority referendum.

In respect of any local authority referendum¹, the counting officer² must keep two separate lists of rejected postal ballot papers³: (1) in the first list, he must record the ballot paper number of any postal ballot paper for which no valid declaration of identity was received with it⁴; (2) in the second list, he must record the ballot paper number of any postal ballot paper which is entered on a valid declaration of identity where that ballot paper is not received with the declaration of identity⁵.

Where the counting officer receives a valid declaration of identity without the postal ballot paper (or papers or, as the case may be, all of the papers) to which it relates, he may, at any time prior to the close of the poll, check the list kept under head (1) above to see whether the number (or numbers) of a postal ballot paper to which the declaration relates is entered in that list⁶. Where the counting officer receives a postal ballot paper without the declaration of identity to which it relates, he may, at any time prior to the close of the poll, check the list kept under head (2) above to see whether the number of that ballot paper is entered in that list⁷. The counting officer must conduct either such check as soon as practicable after the receipt of packets from every polling station in the voting area⁸ in question following the close of poll⁹. Where the ballot paper number in the list matches that number on a valid declaration of identity or, as the case may be, the postal ballot paper, the counting officer must retrieve that declaration or paper¹⁰. As soon as practicable after the completion of this procedure, the counting officer must make up into separate packets the contents of: (a) the receptacle of rejected votes¹¹; (b) the receptacle of declarations of identity¹²; (c) the receptacle of rejected ballot paper envelopes¹³; and (d) the lists of spoilt and lost postal ballot papers¹⁴, and he must seal up the packets¹⁵. Any document in those packets marked 'provisionally rejected' must be deemed to be marked 'rejected'¹⁶.

The counting officer must then take the appropriate steps under the provisions governing the receipt of postal ballot papers¹⁷ as though any document earlier marked 'provisionally rejected' had not been so marked, and he must amend the document accordingly¹⁸.

652. Attendance at counting of votes at a referendum or poll.

As soon as practicable after the close of the poll, the counting officer¹ (in relation to a local authority referendum²) or to the returning officer³ (in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting⁴) must make arrangements for counting the votes in the presence of the counting observers (if any)⁵; and he must give notice to them in writing of the time and place at which the count of the votes will begin⁶.

In relation to a local authority referendum, no person may attend the counting of votes for any voting area⁷ unless he is⁸: (1) the counting officer for that area⁹; (2) a person appointed by the counting officer¹⁰; (3) the elected mayor¹¹, if any, of the authority in respect of which the referendum is held¹²; (4) a petition organiser¹³; or (5) permitted by the counting officer for that area to attend the count¹⁴. In relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, no person other than the returning officer and his clerks¹⁵ and the proposer of the resolution in respect of which the poll is taken¹⁶ may be present at the counting of the votes, unless permitted by the returning officer to attend¹⁷. The counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must make such arrangements as he thinks fit to ensure that every person attending at the counting of the votes (other than any constable on duty at the counting) has been given a copy in writing of the statutory provisions relating to the requirement of secrecy that apply to such attendance¹⁸.

The counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must give the counting observers all such reasonable facilities for overseeing the proceedings, and all such information with respect to them, as he can give them consistently with the orderly conduct of the proceedings and the discharge of his duties in connection with them¹⁹.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/E. COUNTING OF THE VOTES AT REFERENDUM OR POLL/653. The count at a referendum or poll.

653. The count at a referendum or poll.

The counting officer at a local authority referendum¹ and the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting² must, in the presence of the counting observers³, open each ballot box and count and record the number of ballot papers in it⁴ and verify each ballot paper account⁵. At a referendum, the counting officer must also count such of the postal ballot papers as have been duly returned and record the number counted⁶. The counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must not count the votes given on any ballot papers until: (1) in the case of ballot papers from a ballot box, they have been mixed with the ballot papers from at least one other ballot box⁷; and (2) in the case of postal ballot papers, they have been mixed with the ballot papers from at least one ballot box⁸.

While counting and recording the number of ballot papers and counting the votes, the counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must keep the ballot papers with their faces upwards and take all proper precautions for preventing any person from seeing the numbers printed on the back of the papers⁹; and he must not count any tendered ballot paper¹⁰. He must verify the ballot paper account by comparing each ballot paper account with the number of ballot papers recorded by him¹¹, and the unused and spoilt ballot papers¹² in his possession and the tendered votes list¹³ (opening and resealing the packets containing the unused and spoilt ballot papers and the tendered votes list)¹⁴. He must draw up a statement as to the result of the verification, which any counting observer present at the verification may copy¹⁵.

The counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must, so far as practicable, proceed continuously with counting the votes, allowing only time for refreshment, except that he may¹⁶ exclude the hours between seven in the evening and nine on the following morning¹⁷. During the time so excluded, the counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must take proper precautions for the security of the papers and documents¹⁸.

In relation to a local authority referendum at which voting is by post only (as to which see PARA 595 et seq ante), the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 39 (as applied and modified) is further modified: see, in relation to England, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 10, Sch 4; and, in relation to Wales, the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 10, Sch 4. 6 Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 39(1)(c) (as applied and modified: see note 4 supra). For these purposes, a postal ballot paper is not taken to be duly returned unless it is returned to the counting officer by hand or by post or to a polling station by hand (Sch 2 r 39(3A) (added by SI 2001/81; and as so applied and modified)) and unless it reaches the counting officer or a polling station in the voting area in question before the close of the poll and with the declaration of identity, duly signed and authenticated, also returned in like manner so that it reaches him or the polling station before that time (Sch 2 r 39(3) (substituted by SI 2001/81; and as so applied and modified)). For the meaning of 'voting area' see PARA 582 note 2 ante. As to the declaration of identity see PARA 632 ante. As to the means by which a postal voter may validly return a postal ballot paper or declaration of identity see further PARA 646 ante. There is no provision for absent voting at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting and accordingly the provisions as to postal ballots do not apply in that case.

7 Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 39(2)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 4 supra); Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 27(1)(c). At a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, where two such polls have been taken together, the returning officer must separate the ballot papers relating to each poll and count and record the number of ballot papers relating to each poll (Schedule r 27(1)(b)); and he must then mix together the whole of the ballot papers relating to the poll or each poll, as the case may be, which were contained in the ballot boxes (Schedule r 27(1)(c)). While separating the ballot papers, the returning officer must keep the ballot papers with their faces upwards and take all proper precautions for preventing any person from seeing the numbers printed on the back of the papers: Schedule r 27(3).

8 Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 39(2)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 4 supra). There is no provision for absent voting at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting (see note 6 supra) and accordingly the provision set out in head (2) in the text does not apply in that case.

At a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, during the time excluded as mentioned in the text, it is provided that the returning officer must place the ballot papers and other documents relating to the poll under his own seal: Schedule r 27(6)(a). However, this provision does not apply in the case of a referendum: see the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 3 Table 3; and the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 3 Table 3.

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/E. COUNTING OF THE VOTES AT REFERENDUM OR POLL/654. Rejected ballot papers at a referendum or poll.

654. Rejected ballot papers at a referendum or poll.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², any ballot paper: (1) which does not bear the official mark³; or (2) on which votes are given for more than one answer (at a referendum) or for and against the same question (at a poll)⁴; or (3) on which anything is written or marked by which the voter can be identified except the printed number on the back⁵; or (4) which is unmarked or void for uncertainty⁶, is void and not counted⁷. However, a ballot paper on which a vote is marked elsewhere than in the proper place⁸, or otherwise than by means of a cross⁹, or by more than one mark¹⁰, is not for such reason deemed to be void if an intention that a vote is for one only of the answers (at a referendum) or for and against any question (at a poll) clearly appears, and the way the paper is marked does not itself identify the voter and it is not shown that he can be identified by it¹¹.

The counting officer¹² at a local authority referendum or the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting¹³ (as the case may be) must endorse the word 'rejected' on any ballot paper which is not to be counted and must add to the endorsement the words 'rejection objected to' if an objection is made by a counting observer¹⁴ to his decision¹⁵. The counting officer or the returning officer (as the case may be) must draw up a statement showing the number of ballot papers rejected under the several heads of: (a) want of official mark¹⁶; (b) voting for more than one answer (at a referendum) or for and against the same question (at a poll)¹⁷; (c) writing or mark by which the voter could be identified¹⁸; (d) unmarked or void for uncertainty¹⁹.

At a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, it is provided that, where the voter is entitled to vote on more than one question, a ballot paper is not to be deemed to be void for uncertainty as respects any vote as to which no uncertainty arises and that vote is to be counted: Schedule r 29(2). 597-658 Application for absent vote at referendums for a particular period or for an indefinite period ... Declaration of result at local authority referendum

SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

659. Action to be taken where proposals at local authority referendum are approved.

If the result of a referendum held following a petition¹ or in pursuance of a direction² is to approve the proposals that were the subject of the referendum, the authority³ must implement the proposals that were the subject of the referendum in accordance with the timetable included in the proposals⁴.

Where the authority is then operating executive arrangements that take a form that differs from those that were the subject of the referendum, the authority is required to pass a resolution⁵ for the purpose of enabling the authority to operate the executive arrangements that were the subject of the referendum⁶.

5 Ie the Local Government Act 2000 s 29 (see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 309) applies as it applies for the purpose of enabling an authority to operate executive arrangements in other circumstances as if, for references to the arrangements, there were substituted references to the different executive arrangements that were the subject of the referendum: see, in relation to England, the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (England) Regulations 2000, SI 2000/2852, reg 23(b) (as substituted: see note 4 supra); and, in relation to Wales, the Local Authorities (Referendums) (Petitions and Directions) (Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/2292, reg 23(b).

PROCEDURE FOR CONDUCTING REFERENDUMS/(2) LOCAL REFERENDUMS/(iii) The Referendum/F. FINAL PROCEEDINGS FOR THE REFERENDUM OR POLL/(A) Following a Local Authority Referendum/660. Action where proposals at local authority referendum are rejected.

660. Action where proposals at local authority referendum are rejected.

If the result of a referendum held following a petition¹ or in pursuance of a direction² is to reject the proposals that were the subject of the referendum³: (1) the authority⁴ may not implement those proposals⁵; and (2) if the authority is not then operating alternative arrangements or executive arrangements⁶, it must draw up detailed fall-back proposals which are based on its outline fall-back proposals⁷. Detailed fall-back proposals must comprise the details (if any) specified in a direction⁸ and such other details of the executive arrangements or alternative arrangements to which they relate as the Secretary of State (in relation to England) or the National Assembly for Wales (in relation to Wales) may direct⁹ as well as details of any transitional arrangements which are necessary for the implementation of the fall-back proposals¹⁰. In drawing up detailed fall-back proposals, the authority must comply with any directions given by the Secretary of State (in relation to England) or by the National Assembly for Wales (in relation to Wales)¹¹; and, where those proposals involve executive arrangements, the authority must, unless a direction has been given in relation to that matter, decide the extent to which the specified functions¹² are to be the responsibility of the executive¹³. Except to the extent that detailed fall-back proposals involving executive arrangements or alternative arrangements are specified in a direction¹⁴, the authority must: (a) before drawing up proposals in accordance with head (2) above, take reasonable steps to consult the local government electors¹⁵ for, and other interested persons in, the authority's area¹⁶; and (b) in drawing up those proposals, consider the extent to which the proposals, if implemented, are likely to assist in securing continuous improvement in the way in which the authority's functions are exercised, having regard to a combination of economy, efficiency and effectiveness¹⁷. Where detailed fall-back proposals are drawn up in accordance with head (2) above, the authority must send a copy of them to the Secretary of State (in relation to England) or the National Assembly for Wales (in relation to Wales)¹⁸.

If, when the referendum results in a rejection of the proposals that were the subject of the referendum, the authority is then operating executive arrangements, it must continue to operate those arrangements until it is authorised or required to operate different executive arrangements or authorised to operate alternative arrangements in place of its existing executive arrangements¹⁹; and, if the authority is then operating alternative arrangements, it must continue to operate those arrangements until it is authorised to operate different alternative arrangements or authorised or required to operate executive arrangements in place of its existing alternative arrangements²⁰.

The authority must implement detailed fall-back proposals in accordance with the timetable²¹.

At a local authority referendum¹ or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting², on the completion of the counting³, the counting officer⁴ (at a referendum) and the returning officer (at a poll)⁵ must seal up in separate packets the counted and rejected ballot papers⁶. The sealed packets of tendered ballot papers⁷ or of counterfoils⁸ or of marked copies of the register of electors⁹ must not be opened by the returning officer or the counting officer (as the case may be)¹⁰.

Special provision is made for the sealing of the contents of receptacles used for the purposes of postal voting at a local authority referendum¹¹.

H. PILOT SCHEMES REGARDING VOTING AND CAMPAIGNING AT LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUMS

666. Pilot schemes submitted by principal councils regarding the conduct of a local authority referendum.

Where a relevant local authority¹ submits to the Secretary of State² proposals for a pilot scheme to apply to particular local authority referendums³ held in the authority's area⁴ and those proposals are approved by the Secretary of State, either without modification or with such modifications as, after consulting the authority, he considers appropriate⁵, the Secretary of State must by order⁶ make such provision for and in connection with the implementation of the scheme in relation to those referendums as he considers appropriate (which may include provision modifying or disapplying any enactment)⁷. Such a scheme may make, in relation to local authority referendums in the area of a relevant local authority, provision differing in any respect from that made under or by virtue of the Local Government Act 2000⁸ as regards one or more of the following, namely: (1) when, where and how voting at the referendums is to take place⁹; (2) how the votes cast at the referendums are to be counted¹⁰; (3) the sending by any campaign organiser¹¹ of referendum communications free of charge for postage¹². Without prejudice to the generality of these provisions, such a scheme may make provision: (a) for voting to take place on more than one day (whether each of those days is designated as a day of the poll or otherwise) and at places other than polling stations¹³; or (b) for postal charges incurred in respect of the sending of campaign organisers' referendum communications as mentioned in head (3) above to be paid by the authority concerned¹⁴.

1 For these purposes, 'relevant local authority' means, as respects England, a county council, a district council or a London borough council and, as respects Wales, a county council or a county borough council: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(11) (s 10 applied and modified, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1; and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 1). As to counties and districts in England, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 24 et seq; as to counties and county boroughs in Wales, and their councils, see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 37 et seq; as to London boroughs, and their councils, see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARAS 30, 35-39, 59 et seq; and as to the Greater London Authority see LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 79 et seq. A county council, a district council or a London borough council in England and a county council or a county borough council in Wales is referred to as a 'principal council': see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23.

2 As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

3 Ie including any such proposals which are submitted by a relevant local authority jointly with the Electoral Commission, in which case references to the authority must be read as references to the authority and the Commission: Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1A) (added by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 158(1), Sch 21 para 16(1), (2); and applied and modified (see note 1 supra)). As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

4 Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 1 supra).

5 Ibid s 10(1)(b) (as applied and modified: see note 1 supra).

6 Where the Secretary of State makes any such order he must send a copy of the order to the authority concerned and to the Electoral Commission, and that authority must publish the order in its area in such manner as it thinks fit: ibid s 10(5) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 21 para 16(1), (3); and applied and modified (see note 1 supra)). In a case where any proposals are not jointly submitted under the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 10(1A) (as added, applied and modified) (see note 3 supra), the Secretary of State must consult the Electoral Commission before making any such order: s 10(1A) (as added, applied and modified: see notes 1, 3 supra).

667. Evaluation by the Electoral Commission of pilot schemes relating to voting and campaigning at local authority referendums.

Once any local authority referendums¹ have taken place in relation to which a pilot scheme order applied², the Electoral Commission³ must prepare a report on the scheme⁴. Such a report must be prepared in consultation with the local authority concerned⁵; and that authority must provide the Commission with such assistance as it may reasonably require in connection with the preparation of the report (and such assistance may, in particular, include the making by the authority of arrangements for ascertaining the views of voters about the operation of the scheme)⁶. The report must, in particular, contain⁷: (1) a description of the scheme and of the respects in which the provision made by it differed from that made by or under the Local Government Act 2000⁸; (2) a copy of the order of the Secretary of State⁹; and (3) an assessment of the scheme's success or otherwise in facilitating voting at the referendums in question¹⁰ and, if it made provision as respects the counting of votes cast at those referendums, the counting of votes, or in encouraging voting at the referendums in question or enabling voters to make informed decisions at those referendums¹¹. If the Secretary of State so requests in writing, the report must also contain an assessment of such other matters relating to the scheme as are specified in his request¹². Once the Commission has prepared the report, it must send a copy of it to the Secretary of State and to the authority concerned, and that authority must publish the report in its area, in such manner as it thinks fit, by the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the declaration of the result of the referendums in question¹³.

10 An assessment of the scheme's success or otherwise in facilitating voting at the referendums in question must include a statement by the authority concerned as to whether, in its opinion: (1) the turnout of voters was higher than it would have been if the scheme had not applied (ibid s 10(8)(a) (as applied and modified: see note 4 supra)); (2) voters found the procedures provided for their assistance by the scheme easy to use (s 10(8)(b) (as so applied and modified)); (3) the procedures provided for by the scheme led to any increase in personation or other electoral offences or in any other malpractice in connection with referendums (s 10(8)(c) (as so applied and modified)); (4) those procedures led to any increase in expenditure, or to any savings, by the authority (s 10(8)(d) (as so applied and modified)).

7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

(1) INJUNCTIONS AND ORDERS

668. Jurisdiction of court to grant injunction or order.

The High Court has a general jurisdiction to grant an injunction in all cases in which it appears to the court to be just and convenient to do so; and any such order may be made unconditionally or upon such terms and conditions as the court thinks just¹. However, this general power has been exercised rarely when called upon in cases relating to elections. For instance, the court has refused to grant injunctive relief where the administrative authority of a political party has intervened by the deselection of candidates and the imposition of new candidates at an election²; and the court declined to grant an injunction where a candidate broke his agreement with the other candidate not to use polling agents at the election³.

Although jurisdiction is conferred on the High Court to make orders before an election in restraint of false statements made in relation to a candidate⁴, the guiding principle otherwise is that the court should be extremely slow to intervene in the machinery of an election before it has taken place, and should do so only in exceptional circumstances⁵. Nevertheless, where a candidate was alleged to be telling untruths about himself in nomination papers so that he was in breach of the Representation of the People Act 1983⁶, it was held that the court had jurisdiction to entertain proceedings for an injunction to restrain the breach⁷.

2 Choudhry v Triesman [2003] EWHC 1203 (Ch), [2003] 22 LS Gaz R 29, (2003) Times, 2 May (candidates replaced after internal investigation by the Labour Party concluded that the selection procedures in the claimants' wards were 'unsound'; on the facts, the candidates failed to obtain injunctive relief in the form of a mandatory injunction and declaratory relief to the effect that their selections be allowed to stand and to ensure that their names were presented to the returning officer). It is possible that an injunction may be granted restraining a candidate who has not been regularly adopted by a local political association as its official candidate from acting as though he had been officially adopted and campaigning on that basis as the official candidate: see Noonan v De Pinna (1953) Times, 18 November, where the judge, after deciding that the meeting at which the candidate had been adopted had been irregularly convened, said that the question whether an injunction should be granted was one of convenience and decided not to grant an injunction.

3 See Ainsworth v Lord Muncaster (1885) 2 TLR 108, in which Cave J stated that an injunction ought to be refused if only because the public had an interest in the proper conduct of elections. As to how far the public interest in the conduct of elections allows the court to intervene by way of injunction or order under general powers where allegedly-fraudulent devices are used see the text and notes 6-7 infra; and PARA 726 post.

7 Spencer v Huggett [1997] 30 LS Gaz R 30 (it was held that the court had jurisdiction to entertain proceedings for an injunction to restrain the breach, despite the fact that it constituted a crime, on the basis that the public wrong being alleged interfered with the plaintiff candidate's private right to stand at an election untainted by corruption or, alternatively, that the plaintiff would suffer special damage from such interference with that public right; application refused in this case). 668 Jurisdiction of court to grant injunction or order

NOTE 1--Supreme Court Act 1981 now cited as Senior Courts Act 1981: Constitutional Reform Act 2005 Sch 11 para 1 (in force 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(1) INJUNCTIONS AND ORDERS/669. Interim or perpetual injunctions restraining false statements about candidates before or during election.

669. Interim or perpetual injunctions restraining false statements about candidates before or during election.

A person making or publishing any false statement of fact before or during an election¹ in relation to a candidate's personal character or conduct at an election² may be restrained by interim or perpetual injunction by the High Court or the county court from any repetition of that false statement or of a false statement of a similar character in relation to the candidate³. The false statement of fact may or may not be such as would sustain an action for defamation⁴. For the purpose of granting an interim injunction, prima facie proof of the falsity of the statement is sufficient⁵; but an interim injunction ought not to be granted where justification is pleaded in answer to an action for libel unless the court is satisfied that the defendants have no reasonable prospect of success at the trial⁶.

The public interest which limits the right of organs of central or local government to sue for libel⁷ is sufficiently strong to justify extending the limitation to cover a political party and those putting themselves forward for office or to govern⁸.

1 Before or during a parliamentary, local government, Welsh Assembly or European election. For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

2 The making or publishing of such a statement is an illegal practice: see PARA 683 post.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(3); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 72(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 71(2). The text refers to 'any false statement of fact as mentioned above' but it is not clear whether the phrase 'as mentioned above' attaches to those words which limit the false statement to having been made or published before or during an election for the purpose of affecting the return of any candidate at the election and/or the words which refer simply to false statements relating to personal character or conduct (illegal practice of making false statements: see PARA 683 post). In Ellis v National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, Middleton and Southall (1900) 109 LT Jo 493, it was said that for an injunction to be granted the statement must be made before or during an election and for the purpose of affecting a candidate's return. In Mills v Drummond (1934) 78 Sol Jo 192, an injunction was granted restraining the defendants from issuing statements to the effect that the plaintiff was the sort of person to use or had used his position as chairman of a local authority's entertainments committee to further the showing or exploitation of wild animals at circuses of which the defendant strongly disapproved, whether or not the furtherance was for his own personal gain. In Fairbairn v Scottish National Party 1979 SC 393, an injunction was granted because the statement complained of was reasonably capable of bearing the innuendo that the candidate, who prior to the election was a member of Parliament, had failed to deal with correspondence and had thereby failed to perform his duties as such.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(3) is notable for conferring an explicit power to take out an injunction while an election campaign is in progress; in practice, the court's general jurisdiction to grant an injunction has been exercised sparingly whilst an election campaign has been ongoing (see PARA 668 ante).

4 Louth Northern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 103 at 165. A statement, though false or unjustifiable or derogatory, is not prohibited by the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(1) (false statements as to candidates as an illegal practice: see PARA 683 post) if it simply deals with the political position or reputation of a candidate, and does not relate to his personal character or conduct; accordingly, a statement that a candidate is a communist was held not to be within the corresponding provision relating to municipal elections (Burns v Associated Newspapers Ltd (1925) 89 JP 205).

5 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(3); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 72(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 71(2). See eg Bayley v Edmunds, Byron and Marshall (1895) 11 TLR 537, CA.

7 See Derbyshire County Council v Times Newspapers Ltd [1993] AC 534, [1993] 1 All ER 1011, HL (it would place an undesirable fetter on freedom of speech and be contrary to the public interest if organs of central or local government were favoured with the right to sue for libel).

8 Goldsmith v Bhoyrul [1998] QB 459, [1997] 4 All ER 268 (a political party, even when set up as a corporation, has no right at common law to maintain an action for defamation).

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(i) Validity of and Irregularities at Elections/670. Effect of breaches of election rules by returning officer.

(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES

(i) Validity of and Irregularities at Elections

670. Effect of breaches of election rules by returning officer.

No election¹ is to be declared invalid by reason of any act or omission by the returning officer² or any other person in breach of his official duty in connection with the election or otherwise of the appropriate elections rules³ if it appears to the tribunal having cognisance of the question that the election was so conducted as to be substantially in accordance with the law as to elections, and that the act or omission did not affect its result⁴. The function of the court in exercising this jurisdiction is not assisted by consideration of a standard of proof but, having regard to the consequences of declaring an election void, there must be a preponderance of evidence supporting any conclusion that the result was affected⁵. Where breaches of the elections rules, although trivial, have affected the result, that by itself is enough to compel the court to declare the election void even though it has been conducted substantially in accordance with the law as to elections⁶. Conversely, if the election was conducted so badly that it was not substantially in accordance with the law as to elections, the election is vitiated, irrespective of whether the result was affected or not⁷.

If, owing to a mistake in the notice of election, some candidates are misled into delivering their nomination papers too late and they are rejected by the returning officer for being late, the election will be avoided⁸. On the other hand, failure to comply with the timetable as respects the publication of the notice of the election⁹ does not render the election void if the result of the election has not been affected by it¹⁰. The wrongful rejection of the nomination of a candidate will avoid an election¹¹. The inclusion on a ballot paper of the name of a candidate who has withdrawn will avoid an election if the number of votes given to that candidate might affect the result¹¹. The marking of the faces of a number of ballot papers with the electors' numbers in the register before delivering them to the voters will not, if the result is unaffected, avoid the election¹³; but the marking in this way of all the ballot papers would avoid the election¹⁴. Failure to open or close the poll at a polling station at the correct time¹⁵ will not avoid an election provided that it can be shown that the result was not affected¹⁶. Failure to count or record the number of ballot papers in each box or mix the whole of the ballot papers before counting¹⁷, or failure to comply strictly with the provisions as to forwarding documents after the close of the poll¹⁸, is not sufficient to avoid the election. The exposure of a few ballot papers by the voters themselves would not invalidate an election in the absence of a conspiracy to nullify the law relating to elections¹⁹.

Where votes were wrongly rejected and the inclusion of such votes would have resulted in a tie (which is then determined by the returning officer by lot: see PARA 441 et seq ante), such a tie is a 'result' for these purposes: Ruffle v Rogers [1982] QB 1220, [1982] 2 All ER 157, CA. (ii) Illegal Practices

674. Practices which are illegal.

Certain acts or omissions (mainly but not exclusively made by the candidate or election agent) which contravene controls placed on the election campaign constitute illegal practices; these include: (1) meeting election expenses by accepting donations not provided to the candidate or election agent¹; (2) knowingly incurring an expense in excess of the maximum amount of election expenses²; (3) paying election expenses otherwise than through the election agent³; (4) paying statute-barred claims for election expenses⁴; (5) paying election expenses out of time⁵; (6) failing to make the return or declaration as to election expenses⁶; (7) making an inaccurate return as to election expenses⁷; (8) failing to deliver or send the required returns or declarations of expenses authorised by the election agent⁸; (9) disturbing a meeting⁹; (10) making a false statement concerning the personal character or conduct of a candidate for the purpose of affecting the return of any candidate¹⁰; (11) knowingly publishing a false statement as to the withdrawal of a candidate for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of another candidate¹¹; (12) consenting to multiple nominations for candidacy at a European parliamentary election¹².

Some illegal practices arise also from the commission of an offence¹³; and a candidate or election agent who is personally guilty of making an illegal payment or employment is guilty also of an illegal practice¹⁴.

Meeting election expenses by accepting donations not provided to candidate or election agent.

675. Meeting election expenses by accepting donations not provided to candidate or election agent.

In the case of any candidate¹ at an election², any money or other property³ provided (whether as a gift or loan) by any person other than the candidate or his election agent⁴ and for the purpose of meeting election expenses⁵ incurred by or on behalf of the candidate, must be provided to the candidate or his election agent⁶; and any person who provides any money or other property in contravention of this restriction is guilty of an illegal practice⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. The reference in the text is to an 'individual candidate' for the purposes of: (1) a regional election for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales (National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 39(1)); or (2) European parliamentary elections (European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 42(1)). For the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a Welsh Assembly regional election see PARA 237 note 23 ante; and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a European parliamentary election see PARA 237 note 32 ante.

2 In the case of a parliamentary election, an Authority election, an election under the local government Act (see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 202(1); and PARA 3 note 1 ante), a constituency or regional election for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales or a European parliamentary election. For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; for the meaning of 'Authority election' see PARA 10 ante; and for the meaning of 'election under the local government Act' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. However, the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 71A (as added) does not apply at an election under the local government Act which is not a local government election (see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(2) (as amended); and PARA 681 post); and, in relation to an election of parish councillors in England or of community councillors in Wales, the provisions of s 90(1), Sch 4 (both as amended) apply instead: see s 90(1) (b) (as amended); and PARA 678 post. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/A. IN GENERAL/676. Election expenses knowingly incurred by candidate or election agent in excess of financial limits.

676. Election expenses knowingly incurred by candidate or election agent in excess of financial limits.

Where any election expenses¹ are incurred in excess of any maximum amount specified under the provisions which limit such expenses², any candidate³ or election agent⁴ who incurred, or authorised the incurring of, the election expenses and knew or ought reasonably to have known⁵ that the expenses would be incurred in excess of that maximum amount is guilty of an illegal practice⁶.

The provisions which establish this offence as an illegal practice⁷ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'election expenses' see PARA 274 ante.

2 See, in relation to a parliamentary or local government election, the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 76(2) (as amended) and s 76(2A) (as added), in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 45(3), or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 47(4); and see PARA 278 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference in the text is to a constituency candidate (at a constituency election) or to an individual candidate (at a regional election): see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 45(1). For the meanings of 'Assembly election', 'constituency election' and 'regional election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a Welsh Assembly regional election see PARA 237 note 23 ante. At a European parliamentary election, the reference is to an 'individual candidate': see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 47(1). 5 In previous enactments of the provision set out in the text, the word 'knowingly' was used and it was held that the word meant knowing at the time payment was made, or the expense incurred, that it was an election expense; and if, when the total of those expenses was added up, the total was in excess of the maximum, then the offence was complete; it was not necessary to prove that when a particular payment was made or expense incurred the candidate or election agent was aware that the maximum amount had been exceeded: Northumberland, Berwick-upon-Tweed Division Case (1923) 7 O'M & H 1 at 19-20; Oxford Borough Case (1924) 7 O'M & H 49 at 67.

As to excuses and the right to apply for relief see PARA 693 et seq post; and as to the consequences of illegal practices see PARA 886 et seq post.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 76(1B) (as added) does not apply at an election under the local government Act which is not a local government election: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(2) (as amended); and PARA 681 post. For the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. Payment of election expenses otherwise than by or through candidate's election agent.

677. Payment of election expenses otherwise than by or through candidate's election agent.

No payment¹, of whatever nature, may be made² either by a candidate³ at an election⁴ or by any other person, in respect of election expenses incurred by or on behalf of the candidate⁵ unless it is made by or through the candidate's election agent⁶; and a person who makes any payment in contravention of this prohibition is guilty of an illegal practice⁷.

1 As to the meaning of 'payment' see PARA 275 note 2 ante.

2 In subject to exceptions set out, in relation to a parliamentary or local government election, in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 73(5) (as substituted and amended), in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, in the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 41(4) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, in the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 43(5) (see PARA 275 ante).

3 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. The reference in the text is to an 'individual candidate' for the purposes of: (1) a regional election for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales (National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 41(1)); or (2) European parliamentary elections (European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 43(1)). However, the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 73 (as amended) does not apply at an election under the local government Act which is not a local government election (see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(2) (as amended); and PARA 681 post); and, in relation to an election of parish councillors in England or of community councillors in Wales, the provisions of s 90(1), Sch 4 (both as amended) apply instead: see s 90(1) (b) (as amended); and PARA 678 post. Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 43(6). The making of such a payment as is mentioned in the text remains an illegal practice even if the money is repaid (York County, East Riding, Buckrose Division Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 110 at 116), but where a payment was made through a person other than the election agent by mistake and the money was returned and the transaction was genuine and honest, it was held that no offence had been committed (Monmouth Boroughs Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 166 at 170). IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/A. IN GENERAL/678. Payment of statute-barred claims for election expenses or of claims out of time.

678. Payment of statute-barred claims for election expenses or of claims out of time.

An election agent¹ who pays a claim for election expenses² which is submitted to him later than 21 days after the day on which the result of the election is declared³ or who makes a payment after the expiry of the 28 days limit⁴ is guilty of an illegal practice⁵. However, except in the case of a European parliamentary election, if the election court reports that it has been proved to the court by the candidate that any payment was made by an election agent without the candidate's sanction or connivance⁶, the candidate's election is not void, nor is he subject to any incapacity by reason only of that payment having been made in contravention of the prohibition on the payment of a claim that is statute-barred or out of time⁷.

At an election of parish councillors in England or of community councillors in Wales⁸, if any person makes a payment⁹ in contravention of the provision which bars any claim against any person in respect of any election expenses incurred by or on behalf of a candidate which is not sent in¹⁰ within 14 days after the day of election or the provision which bars the payment of any election expenses so incurred 21 days after the day of election¹¹, he is guilty of an illegal practice, but a candidate is not liable nor is his election void for any such illegal practice committed without his consent or connivance¹².

In the case of a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is to a candidate or his election agent at a constituency election, or an individual candidate or his election agent at a regional election: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 47(1). 3 I.e. in contravention of, in relation to a parliamentary or local government election, the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 78(1) (as amended), in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 47(1) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 48(1) (see PARA 280 ante).

As to excuses and the right to apply for relief see PARA 693 et seq post; and as to the consequences of illegal practices see PARA 886 et seq post. The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 78 (as amended) does not apply at an election under the local government Act which is not a local government election: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(2) (as amended); and PARA 681 post.

6 In the case of a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is to the sanction or connivance of a candidate at a constituency election or of an individual candidate at a regional election: see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 47(4).

9 As to the meaning of 'payment' see PARA 275 note 2 ante.

10 It is not clear whether the claim must be in the possession of the person within the 14 days or merely have been dispatched within that time. However, to the extent that 'send' is synonymous with 'transmit', the latter construction is the correct one: see Mackinnon v Clark [1898] 2 QB 251 at 257, CA, per A L Smith LJ.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/A. IN GENERAL/679. Failure to make required financial returns or declarations as to election expenses.

679. Failure to make required financial returns or declarations as to election expenses.

If a candidate¹ or election agent² fails to comply with the requirements of the provisions governing returns as to election expenses³ or declarations as to election expenses⁴, he is guilty of an illegal practice⁵. A return which is defective, in that it omits certain election expenses or gives erroneous figures, also constitutes an illegal practice⁶. However, the delivery of the return and election agent's declaration separately and at different times but both within the prescribed period is apparently not an offence⁷.

At an election of parish councillors in England or of community councillors in Wales⁸, if the candidate fails to make the required return and declaration as to election expenses⁹, he is guilty of an illegal practice¹⁰.

680. Failure to deliver or send returns or declarations of expenses authorised by election agent.

If a person fails to deliver or send any declaration or return or a copy of it as required by the provisions which prohibit the incurring of election expenses¹ by any person other than the candidate², his election agent³ and persons authorised in writing by the election agent⁴, he is guilty of an illegal practice⁵.

The provisions which establish this failure as an illegal practice⁶ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections⁷.

TEXT AND NOTES 6, 7--SI 2002/185 replaced: Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/1024. 1983 Act s 75 no longer applies to local authority mayoral elections.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. Paying or incurring expenses at elections under the Local Government Act 1972 where election agent not required.

681. Paying or incurring expenses at elections under the Local Government Act 1972 where election agent not required.

At an election under the Local Government Act 1972¹ which is not a local government election², the general statutory provisions relating to election expenses³ have no application⁴. If a candidate at such an election or any person on his behalf knowingly pays any sum or incurs any expense, whether before, during or after that election, on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of the election, he is guilty of an illegal practice⁵.

1 See PARA 10 note 2 ante. In the application of the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt II (ss 67-119) (as amended) to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, 'election under the local government Act' is deemed to include a reference to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting (as to which see PARA 207 et seq ante): Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 6(g).

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/A. IN GENERAL/682. Disturbing election or referendum meetings.

682. Disturbing election or referendum meetings.

Any person who at certain lawful public meetings¹ acts, or incites others to act, in a disorderly manner for the purpose of preventing the transaction of the business for which the meeting was called together is guilty of an illegal practice². If a constable reasonably suspects any person of committing an offence under this provision, he may, if requested so to do by the chairman of the meeting, require that person to declare to him immediately his name and address³. If that person refuses or fails so to declare his name and address or gives a false name and address, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine⁴.

The provisions which establish this illegal practices⁵ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales⁶ and for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections⁷.

1 In certain political meetings held, in relation to a parliamentary election, in a parliamentary constituency or, in relation to a local government election, in the electoral area for that election or, in relation to a Welsh Assembly constituency election, in the Assembly constituency for which the election is held or, in relation to a Welsh Assembly regional election, in the Assembly electoral region for which the election is held or, in relation to a European Parliamentary election, in a European Parliamentary electoral region: see PARA 343 ante.

The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 1 on the standard scale: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 97(3) (as so amended); the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 69(3); and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 68(3). Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/A. IN GENERAL/683. False statements as to candidates.

683. False statements as to candidates.

A person¹ who, before or during an election², for the purpose of affecting the return of any candidate³ at the election, makes or publishes any false statement⁴ of fact in relation to the candidate's personal character or conduct is guilty of an illegal practice, unless he can show that he had reasonable grounds for believing, and did believe⁵, the statement to be true⁶. The false statement of fact need not be defamatory at common law⁷, so long as it is a statement which is calculated to influence the electors, as, for instance, a statement made in a hunting county that the candidate has shot a fox or a statement made to promoters of total abstinence that the candidate has taken a glass of wine⁸; but it is essential that it should relate to the personal rather than the political character or conduct of the candidate⁹. It is irrelevant whether the statement complained of has or has not been provoked by a statement of a similar character made on the part of an opponent¹⁰. The words of the statement will be interpreted according to their real and true meaning, and not necessarily according to their literal sense¹¹. However, a candidate at an election (other than a European parliamentary election) is not liable, nor is his election to be avoided, for any illegal practice relating to such false statements committed by his agent other than his election agent¹², unless: (1) it can be shown that the candidate or his election agent has authorised or consented to the committing of the illegal practice by the other agent or has paid for the circulation of the false statement constituting the illegal practice¹³, or (2) an election court finds and reports that the candidate's election was procured or materially assisted in consequence of the making or publishing of such a false statement¹⁴.

Any person who before or during an election (other than a European parliamentary election) knowingly publishes a false statement of the withdrawal of a candidate¹⁵ at the election for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of another candidate is guilty of an illegal practice¹⁶; but the candidate is not liable, nor may his election be avoided, for any such illegal practice committed by his agent other than his election agent¹⁷.

2 Ie a parliamentary election, an Authority election, an election under the local government Act (see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 202(1); and PARA 3 note 1 ante), a constituency or regional election for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales or (except for the provisions set out in the text and notes 12-17 infra) a European parliamentary election. For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; for the meaning of 'Authority election' see PARA 10 ante; and for the meaning of 'election under the local government Act' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference in the text is to a constituency candidate (at a constituency election) or to an individual candidate or any or all of a group of party list candidates (at a regional election): see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 72(1). For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of references to a group of party list candidates and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' for these purposes see PARA 237 note 23 ante. At a European parliamentary election, the reference is to any registered party or individual candidate: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 71(1). For the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a European parliamentary election see PARA 237 note 32 ante.

4 The statement may be oral or written: Cumberland, Cockermouth Division Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 155.

5 The belief must in each case depend on the character and nature of the information given: Sunderland Borough Case, Storey v Doxford (1896) 5 O'M & H 53 at 65.

6 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 72(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 71(1). As to remedy by way of interim or perpetual injunction to restrain a person from any repetition of a false statement or of a false statement of a similar character in relation to the candidate see PARA 669 ante. As to whether statute bars a plea of qualified privilege as respects defamatory statements by or on behalf of a candidate at an election see the Defamation Act 1952 s 10 (prospectively amended); and PARA 335 ante.

7 In some senses the words of the provision are narrower and in some senses wider than is consistent with the law of libel: St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case (1895) 5 O'M & H 89 at 101, 103-104.

8 Sunderland Borough Case, Storey v Doxford (1896) 5 O'M & H 53 at 62 per Pollock B. This is not of course a decision that such words could not in any circumstances bear a defamatory meaning at common law, but that it is not necessary to give them such a defamatory meaning in order to bring them within the provision.

9 Cumberland, Cockermouth Division Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 155 at 164; Sheffield, Attercliffe Division Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 218; Fairbairn v Scottish National Party 1979 SC 393. Cf Anon (1897) reported in Jelf's Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Acts (3rd Edn) 215; but see also Bayley v Edmunds, Byron and Marshall (1895) 11 TLR 537, CA, where a charge that the candidate 'hypocritically feeling in his conscience that he was doing wrong for the purpose of making large profits for himself, locked out his workmen for a certain length of time, and that then, some time afterwards, he found that his conscience reproved him, and resolved he would starve them no longer', was held to be within the provision. A statement that a candidate would not pay his hotel bill or debts is within the provision: Davies v Ward (1910) Times, 18 January. On the other hand a statement that a candidate is a communist is not within the provision: Burns v Associated Newspapers Ltd (1925) 89 JP 205. The words 'radical traitors' were held to be not within the provisions, as being a statement of opinion rather than of fact: Ellis v National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, Middleton and Southall (1900) 44 Sol Jo 750. See also Sunderland Borough Case (1896) 5 O'M & H 53 at 62, where it was said that a mere argumentative statement of the conduct of a public man, even though in respect of his private life, is not always, and in many cases certainly would not be, within this provision; and DPP v Edwards [2002] EWHC 636 (Admin), [2002] All ER (D) 314 (Mar), where it was found that the statement '[K] whilst sitting as chairman of housing hands his son-in-law's company a £125,000 building contract' did relate to the personal conduct of K because it clearly attributed personal and private motives to the decision to allocate the contract to the company and a distinction is made between an act of the authority through the committee assigning contracts, which was a public act, and the role that K might have had in the decision-making process that led to the allocation of the contract, which was not.

10 Monmouth Boroughs Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 166 at 173.

11 Silver v Benn (1896) 12 TLR 199 at 200, DC (where Kay LJ speaks of 'what the passage meant to convey'). The question to be determined is what in the circumstances is the true meaning which the reader would place upon the statements: Louth, Northern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 103 at 154-157. The true meaning will depend on the occasion of the publication, the persons publishing, the person attacked and the readers intended to be addressed: Louth, Northern Division Case supra at 158; and see Sheffield, Attercliffe Division Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 218 at 223. This is inconsistent, however, with dicta in Ellis v National Union of Conservative and Constitutional Associations, Middleton and Southall (1900) 44 Sol Jo 750, where the published statement was construed literally and the question of innuendo was disregarded. But in Fairbairn v Scottish National Party 1979 SC 393 the court took account of the innuendo that the words were reasonably capable of bearing.

12 As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante; and as to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante. In the application of the provision set out in the text to an election where the candidate is not required to have an election agent (as to which see PARA 238 note 3 ante), the reference to an illegal practice committed by an agent of the candidate is to be taken as a reference to an illegal practice committed without the candidate's knowledge and consent and the reference to the election agent is omitted: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 106(7). In the case of a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is to, in the case of an individual candidate, his agent other than his election agent but, in the case of a party list candidate, the agent of any or all of the candidates on the list other than their election agent: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 72(2).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/B. ILLEGAL PAYMENT, EMPLOYMENT OR HIRING/685. Illegal payment or employment by candidate or election agent.

B. ILLEGAL PAYMENT, EMPLOYMENT OR HIRING

685. Illegal payment or employment by candidate or election agent.

The following are illegal payments or employments: (1) payment to induce the corrupt withdrawal of a candidate¹; (2) payment to an elector or proxy for the exhibition of election notices²; (3) the employment of a paid canvasser³; (4) the provision of money for any prohibited payment⁴; (5) the provision of money in excess of the maximum allowed for election expenses⁵.

A person guilty of an offence of illegal payment or employment is liable, on summary conviction, to a fine⁶; but a candidate⁷ or election agent⁸ who is personally guilty of an offence of illegal payment or employment is guilty of an illegal practice⁹.

8 As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante; as to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante; and as to the appointment of the election agent of a registered party or for an individual candidate at a European parliamentary election see PARA 246 ante.

If an offence of illegal payment or employment is committed with the candidate's knowledge and consent at an election where candidates are not required to have election agents (as to which see PARA 238 note 3 ante), the candidate is guilty of an illegal practice: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 175(2) (as so amended). Any person who corruptly induces or procures another person to withdraw from being a candidate¹ at an election² in consideration of a payment or promise of payment, and any person withdrawing in pursuance of the inducement or procurement, is guilty of an illegal payment³.

Illegal payments for exhibition of election notices.

687. Illegal payments for exhibition of election notices.

For the purposes of promoting or procuring the election of a candidate¹ at an election², no payment or contract for payment may be made to an elector or proxy for an elector on account of the exhibition of, or the use of any house, land, building or premises for the exhibition of, any address³, bill⁴ or notice, unless it is the ordinary business of the elector or proxy as an advertising agent⁵ to exhibit for payment bills and advertisements and the payment or contract is made in the ordinary course of that business⁶. If any payment or contract for payment is knowingly made in contravention of this provision either before, during or after an election, the person making the payment or contract, and if he knew it to be in contravention of this provision, any person receiving the payment or being a party to the contract, is guilty of an illegal practice⁷.

The provisions which establish this illegal practice⁸ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales⁹.

688. Illegal employment of paid canvassers.

If, for the purpose of promoting or procuring a candidate's election or promoting or procuring electoral success for a party¹, a person is, either before, during or after an election², engaged or employed for payment or promise of payment as a canvasser, the person so engaging or employing him and the person so engaged or employed are guilty of illegal employment³.

A person who is lawfully engaged or employed for payment for some lawful purpose is not, however, deprived of the ordinary right of a citizen to canvass, and he may therefore canvass so long as it is not for his canvassing that he is paid⁴. Although the payment of canvassers is illegal, there is nothing illegal in the payment of the expenses of a canvass⁵.

The provisions which establish this illegal practice⁶ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales⁷.

Providing money for prohibited payment or for expenses incurred in excess of the maximum amount.

689. Providing money for prohibited payment or for expenses incurred in excess of the maximum amount.

It is an illegal payment if any person knowingly provides money for any payment which is contrary to the provisions governing elections¹, or for any expenses incurred in excess of the maximum amount so allowed², or for replacing any money expended in any such payment or expenses, except where the payment or the incurring of the expenses may have been previously allowed³ to be an exception⁴.

The provisions which establish such activity as an illegal practice⁵ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales⁶.

It is thought that the prohibition in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 75 (as amended) (expenses incurred by outsiders in publicising a candidate or in promoting political debate at an election: see PARA 277 ante) is not a prohibition on a payment of money.

Relief in respect of failure to deliver or send returns or declarations of expenses authorised by election agent.

C. RELIEF

690. Relief in respect of failure to deliver or send returns or declarations of expenses authorised by election agent.

If a person fails to deliver or send any declaration or return as to election expenses¹ or a copy of it as required, he is guilty of an illegal practice².

The court before which a person is convicted may, however, if it thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity imposed by virtue of the conviction³.

A candidate at a parliamentary⁴ or local government⁵ or Welsh Assembly election⁶ is not liable, nor is his election avoided, for such an illegal practice committed by an agent without his consent or connivance⁷. Where any act or omission of an association or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, is an offence declared to be an illegal practice by this provision, any person who at the time of the act or omission was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the association or body, or who was purporting to act in any such capacity, is to be deemed to be guilty of that offence, unless he proves that the act or omission took place without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the offence as he ought to have exercised having regard to the nature of his functions in that capacity and to all the circumstances⁸.

The provisions which establish this illegal practice⁹ have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections¹⁰.

690 Relief in respect of failure to deliver or send returns or declarations of expenses authorised by election agent

TEXT AND NOTES 9, 10--SI 2002/185 replaced: Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/1024. 1983 Act s 75 no longer applies to local authority mayoral elections.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/C. RELIEF/691. Relief in respect of returns or declarations as to election expenses.

691. Relief in respect of returns or declarations as to election expenses.

In respect of contraventions of the statutory requirements¹ regarding returns or declarations as to election expenses², a candidate³ at an election⁴ or his election agent⁵ may apply for relief to the High Court, an election court or a county court⁶. Where a person makes such an application he must notify the Director of Public Prosecutions of it, who may attend the hearing of it and make representations at the hearing in respect of it⁷. Relief may be granted to a candidate in respect of any failure to deliver the return and declarations as to election expenses, or any part of them, or in respect of any error or false statement in them⁸. Relief may be granted to an election agent in respect of the failure to deliver the return and declarations which he was required to deliver, or any part of them, or in respect of any error or false statement in them⁹. The candidate may apply for relief on the ground that the failure, error or false statement arose by reason of his illness¹⁰, or of the absence, death, illness¹¹ or misconduct of his election agent or sub-agent or of any clerk or officer of that agent¹², or by reason of inadvertence or any reasonable cause of a like nature¹³, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant¹⁴. The election agent may apply for relief on the ground that the failure, error or false statement arose by reason of his illness¹⁵ or of the death or illness of any prior election agent of the candidate or of the absence, death, illness or misconduct of any sub-agent, clerk or officer of an election agent of a candidate¹⁶ or by reason of inadvertence, or any reasonable cause of a like nature¹⁷, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant¹⁸.

After such notice of an application in the parliamentary constituency¹⁹ or local government area²⁰ or the Welsh Assembly constituency or Assembly electoral region²¹ or the European parliamentary electoral region²² (as the case may be) as the court considers fit, and on production of such evidence of the grounds stated in the application and of the good faith of the application, and otherwise, as it considers fit, the court may make such order for allowing an authorised excuse for the failure, error or false statement as it considers just²³. Where, on such an application, it appears to the court that any person who is or has been an election agent or sub-agent²⁴ has refused or failed to make such return or to supply such particulars as will enable the candidate and his election agent respectively²⁵ to comply with the statutory provisions as to returns or declarations as to election expenses²⁶, the court, before making an order allowing an authorised excuse, must order that person to attend before it²⁷. On the attendance of that person, the court must, unless he shows cause to the contrary, order him to make the return and declaration or to deliver a statement of the particulars required to be contained in the return as it considers just, within such time, to such person and in such manner as it may direct, or may order him to be examined with respect to the particulars²⁸. If a person fails to comply with any order of the court, it may order him to pay a fine²⁹.

An order allowing an authorised excuse may make the allowance conditional upon the making of the return and declaration in a modified form or within an extended time, and upon the compliance with such other terms as to the court seem best calculated for carrying into effect the objects of the statutory provisions relating to the matter³⁰. Such an order relieves the applicant for the order from any liability or consequences under the provisions governing elections³¹ in respect of the matter excused by the order³². Where it is proved to the court by the candidate at a parliamentary or local government or Welsh Assembly election that any act or omission of the election agent in relation to the return and declarations was without the candidate's sanction or connivance, and that the candidate took all reasonable means for preventing the act or omission, the court must relieve the candidate from the consequences of his election agent's act or omission³³. The date of the order, or, if conditions and terms are to be complied with, the date at which the applicant fully complies with them, is called, for the purpose of a parliamentary or local government or Welsh Assembly election, 'the date of the allowance of the excuse'³⁴.

1 As to the requirement to prepare and send returns and declarations as to election expenses where the expenses are authorised by an election agent see PARA 284 et seq ante; and as to the requirement to prepare and send returns and declarations as to election expenses in relation to an election of parish or community councillors, at which an election agent is not required, see PARA 300 ante. As to a failure to meet the requirements for such financial returns or declarations see PARA 679 ante; and as to a failure to deliver or send such returns or declarations see PARA 680 ante.

2 For the meaning of 'election expenses' see PARA 274 ante. For the meaning of 'return as to election expenses' see PARA 286 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of 'declaration as to election expenses' see PARA 287 note 2 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference in the text is to a constituency candidate (at a constituency election) or an individual candidate (at a regional election): see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 56(1). 691 Relief in respect of returns or declarations as to election expenses

NOTE 7--Reference to solicitor now to solicitor or authorised person: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 86(1A) (amended by Legal Services Act 2007 Sch 21 para 49(a)). 'Authorised person' means a person (other than a solicitor) who, for the purposes of the Legal Services Act 2007, is an authorised person in relation to an activity which constitutes the exercise of a right of audience (within the meaning of that Act) (see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 512 NOTE 3): Representation of the People Act 1983 s 86(1B) (added by Legal Services Act 2007 Sch 21 para 49(b)).

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/C. RELIEF/692. Relief in respect of returns or declarations as to election expenses at parish or community council elections.

692. Relief in respect of returns or declarations as to election expenses at parish or community council elections.

If the candidate at an election of parish or community councillors¹ applies to the High Court, an election court or the county court² and shows that any failure to make the required return and declaration as to election expenses³ or either of them, or any error or false statement in them, has arisen by reason of his illness⁴ or absence⁵, or the absence, death, illness or misconduct of any agent, clerk or officer⁶, or inadvertence or any reasonable cause of a like nature⁷ and not by reason of any want of good faith on his part⁸, then, after such notice of the application as the court considers fit⁹ and on production of such evidence of the grounds stated in the application and of the good faith of the applicant and otherwise as it considers fit¹⁰, the court may make such order allowing the authorised excuse for the failure, error or false statement as it considers just¹¹. An appeal lies to the High Court from any such order made by a county court¹².

1 As to the election of parish or community councillors see PARA 207 et seq ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante.

2 The jurisdiction vested in the county court may be exercised otherwise than in open court: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(1)(b) (as amended), Sch 4 para 9(a).

The order may make the allowance conditional on compliance with such terms as to the court seem best calculated for carrying into effect the objects of Sch 4 (as amended) (see PARA 299 ante), and the order relieves the applicant from any liability or consequence under the Representation of the People Act 1983 in respect of the matters excused by the order: Sch 4 para 7(2). The date of the order, or if conditions and terms are to be complied with, the date on which the applicant fully complies with them, is called for this purpose 'the date of the allowance of the excuse': Sch 4 para 7(3).

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/C. RELIEF/693. Relief in respect of illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring.

693. Relief in respect of illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring.

If any act or omission of any person is likely to constitute an illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring¹, an application for relief may be made in all cases to an election court or to the High Court², although an application for relief in respect of payment of a claim for election expenses sent in late, or the payment of such expenses after time³, may be made to a county court⁴.

Where a person makes such an application he must notify the Director of Public Prosecutions of it and the Director or his assistant or representative may attend at the hearing and make representations at the hearing in respect of it⁵. If under the circumstances it seems to the court to be just that either the offender or any other person should not be subject to any of the consequences of the act or omission constituting the offence, the court may make an order allowing the act or omission to be an exception from the statutory provisions making it an illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring, and thereupon no person is subject to any of the consequences of the act or omission⁶. An applicant for such relief must show to the court by such evidence as to the court seems sufficient⁷: (1) that any act or omission of any person would be, but for the provisions allowing relief, by reason of being in contravention of the provisions governing elections⁸, an illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring⁹; (2) that the act or omission arose from inadvertence¹⁰, or from accidental miscalculation or from some other reasonable cause¹¹ of a like nature, and in any case did not arise from any want of good faith¹²; and (3) that such notice of the application has been given in the parliamentary constituency¹³ or area of the authority¹⁴ or the Welsh Assembly constituency or Assembly electoral region¹⁵ or the European parliamentary electoral region¹⁶ or the voting area¹⁷ (as the case may be) for which the election or referendum was held, as to the court seems fit¹⁸.

1 There is no relief under this provision in respect of any corrupt practice: Norwich Case, Birbeck v Bullard (1886) 4 O'M & H 84, 54 LT 625; Cheltenham Case, Smythies and Claridge v Mathias, Davies' Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 194 at 223. UPDATE

NOTE 2--SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(ii) Illegal Practices/C. RELIEF/694. Inadvertence as ground for relief in respect of illegal practice, etc.

694. Inadvertence as ground for relief in respect of illegal practice, etc.

'Inadvertence' means negligence or carelessness where the circumstances show an absence of bad faith¹. Inadvertence may proceed from the applicant not knowing what was done or not knowing that it was wrong².

Ignorance of the law may in certain circumstances amount to inadvertence³. If a non-qualified person consults a legally qualified person and receives bad advice, he is not to be penalised on that account, but if he acts on the advice of non-qualified persons in the hope that his action is legal and it is not, he is liable to be refused relief for taking the risk⁴. Similarly, relief will be granted if a person is misled by a textbook on election law⁵. If any person, after reading the text of a statute or regulations, fails to understand an obscure or difficult point, he may be relieved, but not if the matter is set out clearly⁶; relief in such cases may be more readily granted where the legislation is new⁷. On the other hand relief granted to a candidate or other person on the ground of ignorance might be refused to an election agent on the ground that it was his duty to acquaint himself with the law⁸. Relief has been granted to an applicant who claimed that he had been misled by his parliamentary experience and had not appreciated that a difference existed between parliamentary and local government election law⁹.

The fact that the election contest was severe is not a ground for allowing payments of expenses in excess of the maximum¹⁰. However, where inadvertence on the part of an election agent was caused mainly by the stressful and unpleasant media attention directed towards her as a result of allegations made against the candidate, relief was granted for a failure on the part of the agent to return a properly-witnessed declaration¹¹.

See Clark v Butcher [2001] All ER (D) 396 (Nov), QBD (although it was not desirable simply to rely on a returning officer's circular as to the maximum expenses, and the applicants' approach to calculating the maximum expenses and apportionment had been somewhat lacking, the applicants' conduct amounted to nothing more than inadvertence and the respondents had failed to show that there had been a lack of good faith).

2 Stepney Borough Case, Rushmere v Isaacson (1892) as reported in 4 O'M & H 178 at 182, Day 116 at 120 per Cave J.

3 Nichol v Fearby [1923] 1 KB 480, a decision relating to a failure to make a return of election expenses (as to which see PARA 680 ante). In Nichol v Fearby supra at 498, McCardie J expressed the view that dicta must be deemed overruled which did not allow for ignorance of the law to fall within the word 'inadvertence' (he had earlier cited dicta to such effect in Walsall Borough Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 123 at 128 per Pollock B and at 129 per Hawkins J and in West Bromwich Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 256 at 289 per Bucknill J). In Nichol v Fearby supra at 498-499, McCardie J found support for the preferred view that ignorance of the law may amount to inadvertence in Stepney Borough Case, Rushmere v Isaacson (1892) as reported in 4 O'M & H 178 at 182, Day 116 at 120 per Cave J; Southampton Borough Case (1895) 5 O'M & H 17 at 26 per Bruce J; West Bromwich Case supra at 287 per Ridley J; and Ex p Caine (1922) 39 TLR 100, DC. A candidate whose express instructions had been disregarded by his election agent has been excused in respect of an excessive expenditure beyond the authorised maximum¹. Special statutory provision is made by which, in certain cases where there are joint candidates at a local government election, excess election expenses are to be deemed to have arisen from a reasonable cause².

697. Applications for relief in respect of illegal practice, etc which have been refused.

Relief has been refused in respect of the payment of a voter's railway fare to enable him to go and vote¹; in respect of a libellous placard containing an unjustifiable attack on the candidate's opponent²; and where the offence was conducted on a considerable scale or was likely to influence the election³. It is doubtful if relief would be refused merely because the applicant had committed more than one offence⁴.

Relief has been refused where the applicant failed to convince the court that he and his agents had taken all reasonable steps to ensure a proper election campaign and to prevent the commission of illegal practices⁵; where there was a wholesale disregard of election law⁶; and where the evidence on the affidavits was conflicting⁷.

698. Time of application for relief in respect of illegal practice, etc.

An application for relief in respect of an illegal practice may be made at any time¹. It may be made before the poll², or after the withdrawal of an election petition³, or when an election petition is threatened⁴, or after the issue of a writ claiming penalties⁵. The application must be made promptly after the discovery of the act or omission or it may be refused on the ground of delay⁶. If an election petition has been presented, the court will usually decline to adjudicate upon an application for relief by the successful candidate whose election is questioned by the petition, and the court may either refuse the application or adjourn the hearing until the petition has been heard⁷. In some cases, however, especially where the act complained of is trivial and not likely in itself to have affected the result of the election, the court will be prepared to adjudicate even though the result is that the grant of relief puts an end to the petition⁸.

699. Notice of application for relief.

A court may make an order granting relief only after such notice of the application is given as the court considers fit¹. As well as notice being given to the Director of Public Prosecutions², notice should be given to each of the candidates and to the returning officer and there should be public advertisement in newspapers circulating in the area for which the election is held³. It is not necessary to give notice by posters⁴ but the notice must be given a sufficient time before the application is intended to be made⁵. The notice must give sufficient information as to the relief sought⁶. Less notice is required when relief is asked during the trial of an election petition⁷.

Unless an application for relief¹ is made to an election court, it must be supported by affidavit². If there is more than one applicant, there should be a joint affidavit by all the applicants³. The evidence must bring the case clearly within the statutory provisions⁴. The court will not act on an unsworn medical certificate that a candidate is too ill to swear an affidavit⁵. A corroborative affidavit in support of the applicant should also be obtained⁶.

On an application for relief¹, a candidate², the returning officer³, an elector⁴ or a committee of electors⁵ may appear to consent or oppose. If the opposition is founded on facts not appearing on evidence filed in support of the application, the parties opposing should be prepared with affidavits of such facts⁶.

The applicant will in general have to bear the cost of his application⁷. The applicant may also be ordered to pay the costs of the opposition⁸. A returning officer will not be awarded his costs if he appears unnecessarily⁹.

703. Voting offences which are illegal practices.

A person is guilty of an offence constituting an illegal practice¹:

- 5 (1) if he votes² in person or by post, whether as an elector or as proxy, or applies to vote by proxy or by post as elector, at a parliamentary³ or local government election⁴, or at parliamentary or local government elections, or at a Welsh Assembly election or at Welsh Assembly elections, or at a European parliamentary election⁵, knowing that he is subject to a legal incapacity⁶ to vote at the election or, as the case may be, at elections of that kind⁷;

- 7 (3) if he votes, whether in person or by post, as proxy for some other person at a parliamentary or local government election or at a Welsh Assembly election or at a European parliamentary election, knowing that that person is subject to a legal incapacity to vote⁹;
- 8 (4) if he votes as elector otherwise than by proxy: (a) more than once in the same constituency at any parliamentary election or more than once in the same electoral area¹⁰ at any local government election or more than once in the same Assembly constituency at any Welsh Assembly election or more than once in the same electoral region¹¹ at any European Parliamentary election¹²; (b) in more than one constituency at a general election or in more than one electoral area at an ordinary election of councillors for a local government area¹³ which is not a single electoral area or in more than one Assembly constituency at an ordinary Welsh Assembly election or in more than one electoral region at a European parliamentary election¹⁴; or (c) in any constituency at a general election or in any electoral area at an ordinary election of councillors for a local government area which is not a single electoral area or in any Assembly constituency at a Welsh Assembly election or in any electoral region at a European parliamentary election, when there is in force an appointment of a person to vote as his proxy at the election in some other such constituency or electoral area¹⁵;
- 9 (5) if he votes as elector in person either: (a) at a parliamentary or local government election or Welsh Assembly election or European parliamentary election at which he is entitled to vote by post¹⁶; or (b) at a parliamentary or local government election or Welsh Assembly election or European parliamentary election, knowing that a person appointed to vote as his proxy at the election either has already voted in person or is entitled to vote by post at that election¹⁷;
- 10 (6) if he applies for a person to be appointed as his proxy to vote for him at parliamentary elections in any constituency or at Assembly elections in any Assembly constituency or at European parliamentary elections in any electoral region without applying for the cancellation of a previous appointment of a third person then in force in respect of that or another constituency or that or another electoral region or without withdrawing a pending application for such an

- appointment in respect of that or another constituency or that or another electoral region¹⁸;
- 11 (7) if he votes as proxy for the same elector either: (a) more than once in the same constituency at any parliamentary election or more than once in the same electoral area at any local government election or more than once in the same Assembly constituency at any Welsh Assembly election or more than once in the same electoral region at any European parliamentary election¹⁹; or (b) in more than one constituency at a parliamentary general election or in more than one electoral area at an ordinary election of councillors for a local government area which is not a single electoral area or in more than one Assembly constituency at an ordinary Welsh Assembly election or in more than one electoral region at a European parliamentary election²⁰;
 - 12 (8) if he votes in person as proxy for an elector at a parliamentary or local government or Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election at which he is entitled to vote by post as proxy for that elector²¹;
 - 13 (9) if he votes in person as proxy for an elector at a parliamentary or local government or Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election knowing that the elector has already voted in person at the election²²;
 - 14 (10) if he votes²³ at a parliamentary election in any constituency or at a local government election in any electoral area or at a Welsh Assembly election²⁴ or at a European parliamentary election in any electoral region as proxy for more than two persons of whom he is not the spouse, civil partner, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, child or grandchild²⁵;
 - 15 (11) if he knowingly induces or procures some other person to do an act which is, or but for that other person's want of knowledge would be, one of the foregoing offences²⁶.

The court before which a person is convicted of one of these offences may, however, if it thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity for voting²⁷. A candidate at a parliamentary, local government or Welsh Assembly election is not liable, nor is his election avoided, for any such illegal practice of any agent of his other than an offence of knowingly inducing or procuring some other person to do an act which is, or but for that other person's want of knowledge would be, such an illegal practice²⁸.

If any person votes, or induces or procures any person to vote, at an election under the local government Act²⁹ which is not a local government election³⁰, knowing that he or that person is prohibited by any enactment from voting at that election, he is guilty of an illegal practice³¹. A candidate is not, however, liable nor is his election avoided for any such illegal practice committed without his knowledge or consent³².

The provisions which establish these voting offences as illegal practices have been applied and modified in relation to extending the rights of citizens and nationals of accession states to register and be registered as local government electors and European parliamentary electors³³, for the purposes of local authority referendums in England³⁴ and in Wales³⁵ and for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections³⁶.

2 For these purposes, a person who has applied for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person, or who has marked, whether validly or not, and returned a ballot paper issued for the purpose of voting by post, is deemed to have voted: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(6); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 29(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 24(7). In relation to an ordinary Welsh Assembly election, where a person is entitled to give two votes in an Assembly constituency (whether in person as elector or by proxy, or by post as elector or by proxy) he votes once in relation to each Assembly election for which his votes are given: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 29(9). 6 For these purposes, references to a person being subject to a legal incapacity to vote do not, in relation to things done before polling day at the election or first election for which they are done, include his being below voting age if he will be of voting age on that day: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 29(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 24(1). In the case of Authority elections, head (4) in the text does not have effect; but a person is guilty of an offence if he votes as an elector otherwise than by proxy: (1) more than once at the same election of the Mayor of London (Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(2A)(a) (s 61(2A) added by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 17, Sch 3 paras 1, 10(1), (2))); (2) more than once at the same election of the London members of the London Assembly at an ordinary election (Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(2A)(b) (as so added)); (3) more than once in the same Assembly constituency at the same election of a constituency member of the London Assembly (s 61(2A)(c) (as so added)); (4) in more than one Assembly constituency at the same ordinary election (s 61(2A)(d) (as so added)); or (5) in any Assembly constituency at an ordinary election, or an election of the Mayor of London held under the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 16 (filling a vacancy in the office of London Mayor: see PARA 211 ante), when there is in force an appointment of a person to vote as his proxy at the election in some other Assembly constituency (Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(2A)(e) (as so added)). For the meaning of 'Authority election' see PARA 10 ante. A person is guilty of an offence if, on any occasion when elections to the European Parliament are held in all the member states under the 1976 Act concerning the election of the representatives of the European Parliament by direct universal suffrage (OJ L278, 08.10.76, p 5) (the '1976 Act') art 10 (amended and renumbered by EC and Euratom Decision 2002/772 (OJ L283, 21.10.2002, p 1)), annexed to ECSC, EEC and Euratom Decision 76/787 (OJ L278, 08.10.76, p 1) (as to which see PARA 6 ante), he votes as an elector more than once in those elections, whether in the United Kingdom or elsewhere: European Parliamentary Elections Act 2002 s 9(1) (amended by the European Parliamentary Elections (Common Electoral Principles) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/1374, reg 2(1), (2)). This provision is expressed to be without prejudice to any enactment relating to voting offences, as applied by regulations under the European Parliamentary Elections Act 2002, to elections of members of the European Parliament ('MEPs') held in the United Kingdom and Gibraltar: s 9(2) (amended by the European Parliamentary Elections (Combined Region and Campaign Expenditure) (United Kingdom and Gibraltar) Order 2004, SI 2004/366, art 3(1), (4)). Provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983, as applied by regulations under the European Parliamentary Elections Act 2002, have effect in relation to an offence under s 9 (as amended) as they have effect in relation to an offence under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 61(2); in particular, s 61(7) (see the text and notes 27-28 infra) and s 178 (as substituted) (prosecution of offences committed outside the United Kingdom: see PARA 883 post) apply: European Parliamentary Elections Act 2002 s 9(3), (4).

704. Contravention of prohibition on broadcasting from outside United Kingdom with intent to influence certain elections.

An offence under the provisions which prohibit broadcasting from outside the United Kingdom with intent to influence elections¹ is an illegal practice². The court before which a person is convicted of such an offence may, however, if it thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity which may be imposed by virtue of it being an illegal practice³.

Where any act or omission of an association or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, is an illegal practice under these provisions, any person who at the time of the act or omission was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the association or body, or was purporting to act in any such capacity, is deemed to be guilty of the illegal practice unless he proves that the act or omission took place without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the illegal practice as he ought to have exercised having regard to the nature of his functions in that capacity and to all the circumstances⁴.

The provisions which establish this offence as an illegal practice have been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales⁵.

704 Contravention of prohibition on broadcasting from outside United Kingdom with intent to influence certain elections

NOTE 5--SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(iii) Offences which are also Illegal Practices/705. Contravention of prohibition on issuing imitation poll cards at certain elections.

705. Contravention of prohibition on issuing imitation poll cards at certain elections.

No person, for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of any candidate¹ at a parliamentary² or European parliamentary³ or Welsh Assembly election⁴ or at certain local government elections⁵, may issue any poll card or document so closely resembling an official poll card as to be calculated to deceive⁶; and an offence under this provision is an illegal practice⁷. The court before which a person is convicted of such an offence may, if it thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity imposed by virtue of its being an illegal practice⁸.

Where any act or omission of an association or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, is an illegal practice under these provisions, any person who at the time of the act or omission was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the association or body, or was purporting to act in any such capacity, is deemed to be guilty of an illegal practice, unless he proves that the act or omission took place without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the illegal practice as he ought to have exercised having regard to the nature of his functions in that capacity and to all the circumstances⁹.

The provisions which establish this offence as an illegal practice¹⁰ have been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums in England and in Wales¹¹ and for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections¹².

5 This provision applies to any local government election in relation to which rules made under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 388 ante) require an official poll card to be sent to electors in a form prescribed by the rules: s 94(2) (added by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 36(2)). (iv) Corrupt Practices

707. Practices which are corrupt.

The following are corrupt practices¹: (1) making false statements in support of the nomination of candidates at elections²; (2) issuing false certificates authorising a description to be used by a candidate at an election³; (3) incurring certain expenses without the authorisation of the election agent⁴; (4) making a false declaration as to such expenses⁵; (5) making a false declaration as to election expenses⁶; (6) bribery⁷; (7) treating⁸; (8) undue influence⁹.

Some offences may also constitute corrupt practices¹⁰.

3 See PARA 709 post.

4 See PARA 710 post.

5 See PARA 710 post.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(iv) Corrupt Practices/A. IN GENERAL/708. Making false statements in connection with the nomination of candidates at elections.

708. Making false statements in connection with the nomination of candidates at elections.

A person is guilty of a corrupt practice¹ if, at any parliamentary² or local government election³ or at any Welsh Assembly⁴ or European parliamentary election⁵, he causes or permits to be included in a document delivered or otherwise furnished to a returning officer⁶ for use in connection with the election⁷: (1) a statement of the name or home address of a candidate⁸ at the election which he knows to be false in any particular⁹; or (2) (except in the case of a European parliamentary election) anything which purports to be the signature of an elector¹⁰ who proposes, seconds or assents to, the nomination of such a candidate¹¹ but which he knows was not written by the elector by whom it purports to have been written¹² or, if written by that elector, was not written by him for the purpose of signifying that he was proposing, seconding, or (as the case may be) assenting to, that candidate's nomination¹³. In relation to a parliamentary election, a person is also guilty of a corrupt practice if he causes or permits to be included in a document delivered or otherwise furnished to a returning officer for use in connection with the election a certificate authorising¹⁴ the use by a candidate of a description if he knows that the candidate is standing in another constituency¹⁵ in which the poll is to be held on the same day as the poll at the election to which the certificate relates¹⁶.

A person is guilty of a corrupt practice if, at any parliamentary or local government election, he makes in any document in which he gives his consent to his nomination as a candidate¹⁷: (a) a statement of his date of birth¹⁸; or (b) a statement as to his qualification for being elected at that election¹⁹, which he knows to be false in any particular²⁰. In relation to a parliamentary election only, a person is also guilty of a corrupt practice if he makes in any document in which he gives his consent to his nomination as a candidate a statement that he is not a candidate at an election for any other constituency the poll for which is to be held on the same day as the poll at the election to which the consent relates²¹, which he knows to be false in any particular²².

3 Ie except for the purposes of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 65A(1)(c) (as added) (see the text and notes 14-16 infra) and s 65(1A)(c) (as added) (see the text and notes 21-22 infra): s 65A(2)(b) (s 65A added by the Representation of the People Act 2000 s 15(1), Sch 6 paras 3, 5; and the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 65A(2)(b) amended by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 23(1), (4)). Any amendment effected by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 23(1), (2), (4) has no effect in relation to an election for which the date of the poll specified in the notice of election issued in relation to that election is on or before 2 May 2007: see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (Commencement No 2, Transitional and Savings Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3412, art 6, Sch 2 para 1. In R v Duffy (1994) 15 Cr App Rep (S) 677, CA (which pre-dated the offence set out in the text) a failure to perfect the consent to nomination form was held to be essentially a technical offence and, even where that failure formed part of a reprehensible plan, the Court of Appeal declined to use it as a peg on which to criminalise the behaviour; the facts of the case disclosed that a candidate had arranged for a fellow candidate's nomination in order to split his opponent's vote but that the latter's consent to nomination form had contained defects which were not necessary to the mischievous purpose (the candidate's signature had not been witnessed properly and the address given had related to the accused rather than to the candidate); and it was held that the conduct, however reprehensible, was permissible under the law as it stood and that the judge at first instance had erred in giving a custodial sentence on the basis that the irregularity amounted to a fraud on the electorate when a substantial financial penalty would have been more appropriate.

710. Incurring election expenses without due authorisation or making false declaration as to such expenses.

If a person¹ incurs, or aids, abets, counsels or procures any other person to incur, any expenses in contravention of the statutory provision which prohibits the incurring of expenses other than by the candidate², his election agent³ and persons authorised in writing by the election agent⁴, or if he knowingly makes the required declaration as to such expenses⁵ falsely, he is guilty of a corrupt practice⁶. The court before which a person is convicted may, however, if it thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity imposed by virtue of the conviction⁷.

A candidate at a parliamentary⁸ or local government or Welsh Assembly election⁹ is not liable, nor is his election avoided, for such an corrupt practice committed by an agent without his consent or connivance¹⁰.

Where any act or omission of an association or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, is an offence declared to be a corrupt practice by this provision, any person who at the time of the act or omission was a director, general manager, secretary or other similar officer of the association or body, or who was purporting to act in any such capacity, is to be deemed to be guilty of that offence, unless he proves that the act or omission took place without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all such diligence to prevent the commission of the offence as he ought to have exercised having regard to the nature of his functions in that capacity and to all the circumstances¹¹.

The provisions which establish this corrupt practice¹² have been applied with modifications for the purposes of local authority mayoral elections¹³.

710 Incurring election expenses without due authorisation or making false declaration as to such expenses

TEXT AND NOTES 12, 13--SI 2002/185 replaced: Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/1024. 1983 Act s 75 no longer applies to local authority mayoral elections.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(iv) Corrupt Practices/A. IN GENERAL/711. False declarations as to election expenses.

711. False declarations as to election expenses.

If a candidate¹ or election agent² at a parliamentary³ or local government election⁴, or at a Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election, knowingly⁵ makes the required declaration as to election expenses⁶ falsely, he is guilty of a corrupt practice⁷. Before any defendant may be so convicted, the tribunal of fact must be satisfied: (1) that the defendant made a declaration as to election expenses as required⁸; (2) that such declaration was false, in that expenses which should have been included were omitted or expenses which were included were understated, or both⁹; and (3) that the defendant knew such declaration to be false, either because the defendant knew that expenses which should have been included were omitted or because the defendant knew that expenses which were included were understated, or both¹⁰.

1 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. In the case of a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is to a candidate at a constituency election or to an individual candidate at a regional election (see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 51(2); and PARA 286 ante) or to each candidate on a regional list submitted by a registered party at a regional election (see art 52(1); and PARA 286 ante). For the meanings of 'Assembly election', 'constituency election' and 'regional election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; and for the meaning of references to a group of party list candidates and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' for these purposes see PARA 237 note 23 ante. In the case of a European parliamentary election, the reference is to an individual candidate: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 51(1). For the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a European parliamentary election see PARA 237 note 32 ante. As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

2 As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante; as to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante; and as to the appointment of the election agent of a registered party or for an individual candidate at a European parliamentary election see PARA 246 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante.

5 The word 'knowingly' is levelled at an offence based on moral turpitude, and guilt must be proved: see Cork, Eastern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 318 at 347.

6 I.e., in relation to a parliamentary or local government election, under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 82 (as amended) or, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, under the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 51 (candidates at a constituency election and individual candidates at a regional election) or art 52 (party list candidates) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, under the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 52 (see PARA 286 ante) or, in relation to an election of parish councillors in England or of community councillors in Wales (where election agents are not required), under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 90(1)(b), Sch 4 para 3 (as amended) (see PARA 300 ante). As to the election of parish and community councillors see PARA 207 et seq ante. For the meanings of 'England' and 'Wales' see PARA 13 note 1 ante. For the meaning of 'declaration as to election expenses' see PARA 287 note 2 ante.

7 Ibid s 82(6), Sch 4 para 5; National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, arts 51(5), 52(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 52(6). At a European parliamentary election, it is also a corrupt practice for a candidate to make falsely the statement required by reg 53(1) (personal expenses incurred by candidate on party list: see PARA 285 note 29 ante): reg 53(2). As to the consequences of a corrupt practice see PARA 885 et seq post.

A candidate or election agent who knowingly makes a false declaration as to election expenses is also guilty of an offence under the Perjury Act 1911: see s 5(b) (false statutory declarations: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 717) and s 16(1) (dual liability: see CRIMINAL LAW, EVIDENCE AND PROCEDURE vol 11(2) (2006 Reissue) PARA 725).

9 R v Jones, R v Whicher [1999] 2 Cr App Rep 253 at 258, CA, per Lord Bingham CJ.

B. BRIBERY

712. Bribery.

A person¹ is guilty of a corrupt practice if he is guilty of bribery at an election². A person is guilty of bribery if he, directly or indirectly, by himself³ or by any other person on his behalf⁴:

- 16 (1) gives any money⁵ or procures any office⁶ to or for any voter⁷ or to or for any other person⁸ on behalf of any voter or to or for any other person in order to induce⁹ any voter to vote or refrain from voting¹⁰; or
- 17 (2) corruptly¹¹ does any such act as aforesaid on account of any voter having voted or refrained from voting¹²; or
- 18 (3) makes any such gift or procurement as aforesaid to or for any person in order to induce that person to procure, or endeavour to procure, the return of any person at an election¹³ or the vote of any voter¹⁴, or if upon or in consequence of any such gift or procurement as aforesaid he procures or engages, promises or endeavours to procure the return of any person at an election (or registered party at a European parliamentary election) or the vote of any voter¹⁵.

1 As to the meaning of 'person' see PARA 110 note 1 ante.

2 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(1). The text refers to a parliamentary election, an Authority election, an election under the local government Act (see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 202(1); and PARA 3 note 1 ante), a constituency or regional election for the return of members of the National Assembly for Wales or a European parliamentary election. For the meanings of 'constituency election' and 'regional election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; for the meaning of 'Authority election' see PARA 10 ante; and for the meaning of 'election under the local government Act' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante; and as to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante. Bribery at a parliamentary or local government election was an offence at common law but the offence is now covered in the express statutory provisions. As to votes struck off for bribery see PARA 840 post; and as to the consequence of a corrupt practice see PARA 885 et seq post.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113 has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. For these purposes, the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt II (ss 67-119) (as amended, applied and modified) (see PARA 238 et seq ante), prohibiting payments and contracts for payments, do not affect the right of any creditor, who, when the contract was made or the expense was incurred, was ignorant of that contract or expense being in contravention of those provisions: s 116 (applied and modified in relation to England by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2; and in relation to Wales by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2). For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

3 Personal corruption ought not to be charged except upon good grounds (Tewkesbury Case, Collins v Price (1880) 3 O'M & H 97 at 99; cf Canterbury Borough Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 103 at 104), otherwise the petitioner will be penalised in costs (Salisbury Case, Rigden v Edwards and Grenfell (1880) 44 LT 193, 3 O'M & H 130; Sandwich Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 158). Where a candidate in person gives tickets to voters, and the tickets are exchangeable for money when presented to that candidate's agent, the court may find the agent personally guilty of bribery: Canterbury Case (1853) 2 Pow R & D 14 at 15 (in this case each voter was allowed to name two others for coloured tickets, and the parliamentary committee avoided the election). Where the candidate has not appointed another person as election agent, it is the more easy to establish personal bribery against that candidate: Cashel Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 286 at 288.

4 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2); and see note 2 supra. A corrupt act done with a view to the betrayal of the candidate on whose behalf it purports to be done is not bribery for which he can be held liable: Stafford Borough Case (1869) 21 LT 210 at 212, 1 O'M & H 228 at 231.

5 'Giving money' includes giving, lending, agreeing to give or lend, offering, promising or promising to procure or to endeavour to procure any money or valuable consideration: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(i); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(3)(a); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2)(i); and see note 2 supra. See further PARA 713 post.

6 'Procuring an office' includes giving, procuring, agreeing to give or procure, offering, promising or promising to procure or to endeavour to procure, any office, place or employment: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(ii); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(3)(b); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2)(ii); and see note 2 supra. A seat on a town council may be the means of bribery within this provision, because it is an office of honour and dignity and the natural and fair object of reasonable ambition on the part of many electors: Waterford Borough Case (1870) 2 O'M & H 24 at 25; Roberts v Hogg 1971 SLT 78.

7 For this purpose, 'voter' also includes any person who has or claims to have a right to vote: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(7); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(8); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(7); and see note 2 supra. The fact that the voter was ineligible for voting does not necessarily prevent it being bribery: Lichfield Case, Anson v Dyott (1869) 20 LT 11, 1 O'M & H 22; Guildford Case (1869) 19 LT 729, 1 O'M & H 13.

8 There must be distinct evidence that the gift was made to the third person with a view to bribing a particular voter: Clare County Case (1860) Wolf & B 138. Where money was alleged to have been distributed to non-voters in the expectation that they would spend it in drink at the public-houses and thus indirectly influence the votes of the publicans, O'Brien J said 'this was not contemplated as being within the Act': Youghal Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 291 at 294.

9 If the act is done for the purpose of so inducing the voter, it is no answer to say that the bribe was unsuccessful: Henslow v Fawcett (1835) 3 Ad & El 51 at 58; Harding v Stokes (1837) 2 M & W 233 at 235; Sulston v Norton (1761) 3 Burr 1235.

10 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(a); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(2)(a); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2)(a); and see note 2 supra. There must be an inducement to vote or to refrain from voting for a particular person: Cooper v Slade (1856) 6 E & B 447 at 456; revsd on the facts (1858) 6 HL Cas 746. See also Oldham Case (1869) 20 LT 302 at 311, 1 O'M & H 151 at 165; Cork, Eastern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 318 at 363.

11 'Corruptly' imports intention: Wallingford Case (1869) 19 LT 766 at 767-768, 1 O'M & H 57 at 58. 'Corruptly' does not mean wickedly, immorally or dishonestly or anything of that sort (Bewdley Case (1869) 19 LT 676 at 678, 1 O'M & H 16 at 19), but doing something knowing that it is wrong (Bradford Case (No 2) (1869) 19 LT 723 at 724, 1 O'M & H 35 at 37), and doing it with the object and intention of doing that thing which the statute intended to forbid (Norfolk, Northern Division Case (1869) 21 LT 264 at 268, 1 O'M & H 236 at 242).

12 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(b); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(2)(b); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2)(b); and see note 2 supra.

13 References to procuring the return of any person at an election include, in the case of an election of the London members of the London Assembly at an ordinary election, references to procuring the return of candidates on a list of candidates submitted by a registered political party for the purposes of that election: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(iii) (added by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 17, Sch 3 paras 1, 30). For the meaning of 'London member' see PARA 10 note 5 ante. As to references to a registered political party submitting a list of candidates to be London members of the London Assembly at an ordinary election see PARA 237 note 14 ante. As to London Assembly ordinary elections see PARA 206 ante; and LONDON GOVERNMENT vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 88 et seq.

14 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2)(c); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(2)(c); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2)(c); and see note 2 supra. This provision, originally enacted in 1854, was directed against any such extensive bribery as might amount to a purchase of a seat and against corrupt agreements with persons whose local influence would enable them to control the return: Coventry Case, Berry v Eaton and Hill (1869) 1 O'M & H 97 at 102. Under the different conditions in which elections are now contested, this provision does not appear to be of much practical importance.

15 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(2); and see note 2 supra. As to bribery by receipt of a bribe see PARA 722 post.

713. Consideration for a bribe.

The consideration for a bribe need not be money; it may be any money or valuable consideration¹. The gift or promise of refreshments may amount to both treating and bribery². Treating, however, will not as a rule be regarded as bribery if it takes the form of refreshment to be consumed at the moment and not pocketed, reserved or promised for future enjoyment, although whether it is or is not to be regarded as bribery will depend on the circumstances³.

Loans may be as much bribery as absolute gifts⁴. Excessive payments may amount to bribery⁵. An offer to bribe is as bad as actual bribery, but it is more difficult to prove⁶. Colourable employment of any person to render valueless services is bribery⁷.

1 See PARA 712 note 5 ante. Permission to shoot rabbits on the candidate's estate was held to be bribery in Launceston Case (1874) 30 LT 823 at 825 et seq, 2 O'M & H 129 at 133.

The unconditional payment, or promise of payment, to a voter of his travelling expenses is not bribery¹, but the payment or promise of payment to a voter of his travelling expenses on the condition, express or implied, that he would vote for a particular candidate is bribery².

The mere payment of travelling expenses after the poll and without proof of any previous promise to a voter who has come of his own accord and voted is not bribery, although it is an illegal payment³. The payment of a sum of money ostensibly as travelling expenses but in excess of the mere travelling expenses may be bribery even though it is paid unconditionally⁴. The payment of a substitute to do the voter's work while he votes is bribery⁵.

715. Time off to allow for voting may constitute bribery.

Payments by an employer to his employees in respect of time lost while voting at elections have in certain cases been held to constitute bribery¹. It is expressly provided, however, that nothing in the statutory provisions which relate to the election campaign² makes it illegal for an employer to permit electors or their proxies to absent themselves from his employment for a reasonable time³ for the purpose of voting at the poll at a parliamentary⁴, Welsh Assembly⁵ or European parliamentary election⁶, without having any deduction from their salaries or wages on account of their absence⁷, if the permission is, so far as practicable without injury to the employer's business, given equally to all persons alike who are at the time in his employment⁸ and if the permission is not given with a view to inducing any person to give his vote in a particular way at the election⁹, and is not refused to any person for the purpose of preventing him from giving his vote in a particular way at the election¹⁰. This provision must not be construed as making illegal any act which would not be illegal apart from it¹¹.

716. Payments for past services may constitute bribery.

Payments for past services may in special circumstances amount to bribery. Thus payment on a balance due which had not been paid until an election occurred, and was then made by a person not liable for the debt and for the avowed purpose of inducing an elector to vote, was held to be bribery¹. The promise of payment of an outstanding account on condition that the elector should forbear from voting for the opposing candidate as previously promised by him has been held to be bribery². The payment of a just claim, however, will not lightly be taken to be bribery³.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(iv) Corrupt Practices/B. BRIBERY/717. Charitable gifts may constitute bribery.

717. Charitable gifts may constitute bribery.

The distribution of genuine charitable gifts to voters has always been allowed¹. On the other hand what are called charitable gifts may be merely a specious and subtle form of bribery². If a gift is charitable, it will not become bribery because of the use made of it, even if political capital is made out of the gift³; it is not possible by any subsequent act to make that which was legal at the time illegal and criminal⁴.

The imminence of an election is an important factor to be taken into consideration in deciding whether a particular act of charity amounts to bribery. A charitable design may be unobjectionable so long as no election is in prospect, but if an election becomes imminent the danger of the gift being regarded as bribery is increased⁵. It has been said that charity at election times ought to be kept in the background by politicians⁶.

The question is one of degree. An isolated small donation on the occasion of a birth or death may not be bribery although such gifts on an extensive scale would lead to the inference that they were given to influence voters⁷. It is legitimate for a member of Parliament to benefit his constituency and the court will not therefore draw any adverse inference from the fact that he confines his charity to his constituency⁸. The care with which charity is dispensed by a candidate or his agents is also likely to be a factor to be considered⁹. An agent may turn what was intended by the candidate to be a charitable gift into a corrupt gift¹⁰.

It was similarly held in Carrickfergus Borough Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 90. In a later case, however, Pollock B and Bruce J disapproved of Windsor Case, Herbert v Gardiner supra, and said that the court must take all the facts into consideration and must then answer the question whether the motive of the act in question was true charity, or whether it was done in order to corrupt the minds of the voters: St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case (1895) 5 O'M & H 89 at 93-94. Taking a burdensome share in a building society in order to relieve a voter and thereby to induce him to vote has been held to be bribery¹, as also has a promise that the voter 'shall be no loser' by his coming to vote², paying a man's debts to release him from prison so that he could vote³, and paying a man to personate a voter⁴.

A corrupt agreement to vote for a certain candidate the benefit of which is afterwards taken over and adopted by another candidate has been held to be bribery for which the latter may be held liable⁵.

An agreement to forgo payments of rent has been considered corrupt on the facts of the particular case⁶.

719. Time of bribe.

In order to constitute the offence of bribery¹ it does not matter how long before an election a bribe is given provided the bribe is operative at the time of the election². Time is, however, material when considering the question of evidence; it is obvious that where a considerable time elapses between a bribe and an election the difficulty of proving bribery is much increased. If the act of bribery is committed shortly before the poll, the act will be assumed to be bribery until the contrary is shown³. If the act of bribery is committed after the voter has voted, it must be shown to have been done corruptly and for this purpose it is at least important to see whether it was done in pursuance of an antecedent promise⁴.

3 Limerick Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 260.

4 Bribery after the election is a difficult charge to establish (Norwich Case (1859) Wolf & B 58 at 62), but if clearly made out it is sufficient to avoid the election (Harwich Borough Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 61 at 70). Where a corrupt expectation on the part of the voter was followed by payment on behalf of the candidate, that voter's vote was struck off by a parliamentary committee (Dublin Case (1836) Falc & Fitz 88 at 204); and 'head money', 'market money' and 'dinner money' paid after the election to voters in pursuance of an understanding avoided the election (Newcastle-under-Lyme Case (1842) Bar & Aust 436 at 453; Durham City Case (1843) Bar & Arn 201 at 215). Whether an antecedent promise must necessarily be proved was left undecided in Northallerton Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 167. In Caldicott v Corrupt Practices Comrs (1907) 21 Cox CC 404, the court declined to convict in the absence of an antecedent promise; but in Cheltenham Case, Smythies and Claridge v Mathias, Davies' Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 194 at 212, the court did not accept this view but agreed that it was important to see whether there was an antecedent promise or not. It is not necessary that the person to whom the money is paid should be the person who is intended to expend it in bribery; the payment of money into a bank to be expended in bribery would come within this provision³.

The provisions relating to the payment of bribes at an election¹ do not extend and must not be construed as extending to any money paid or agreed to be paid for or on account of any legal expenses incurred in good faith at or concerning an election². This has been interpreted as meaning that the provisions in question do not extend to any money paid or agreed to be paid for or on account of any expenses incurred in good faith at or concerning any election, provided those expenses are not illegal on some other ground. For instance, the payment of expenses of committee rooms and advertisements is not unlawful, even though they are incurred with a view to inducing the person receiving the payment to vote³. A public subscription for defraying a candidate's expenses is not illegal⁴; nor is it illegal for one candidate to pay the election expenses of another, unless the former intends by so doing to purchase any influence which the latter may have with the electors⁵.

722. Offence of receiving bribe.

A voter is guilty of bribery if, before or during an election¹, he directly or indirectly by himself or by any other person on his behalf receives, agrees or contracts for any money, gift, loan or valuable consideration, office, place or employment for himself or for any other person for voting or agreeing to vote or for refraining or agreeing to refrain from voting². A person is also guilty of bribery if after an election he directly or indirectly by himself or by any other person on his behalf receives any money or valuable consideration on account of any person having voted or refrained from voting or having induced any other person to vote or refrain from voting³. Merely asking for a bribe has been held not to constitute an offence under these provisions⁴.

The corrupt receipt of a bribe is a separate offence and distinct from that of which the briber is guilty⁵.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113 has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. This provision concerns voters who receive bribes before or during, but not after, an election. As to votes struck off for bribery see PARA 840 post.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 113(6); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 78(7); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 77(6); and see note 1 supra. This provision concerns voters and non-voters who receive bribes of money or valuable consideration, but not an office or employment, after an election. The provision has little practical significance now because it is unlikely to matter so much whether a particular person votes or abstains from voting since no constituency or electoral area consists of so few voters as was formerly the case.

723. Proof of bribery.

Due proof of a single act of bribery by or with the knowledge and consent of the candidate or by his agents, however insignificant that act may be, is sufficient to invalidate the election¹. The judges are not at liberty to weigh its importance², nor can they allow any excuse, whatever the circumstances may be, such as they can allow in certain conditions in cases of treating or undue influence by agents³. For this reason, clear and unequivocal proof is required before a case of bribery will be held to have been established; and suspicion is not sufficient⁴. The confession of the person alleged to have been bribed is not conclusive⁵.

A corrupt motive must in all cases be strictly proved⁶. For this purpose a corrupt motive in the mind of the person bribed alone is not enough; the question is as to the intention of the person who bribes him⁷.

Where the evidence as to bribery consists merely of offers or proposals to bribe, stronger evidence will be required than in the case of a successful bribe because of the greater likelihood of there having been some misunderstanding⁸. A general conversation as to a candidate's wealth and liberality is not evidence of an offer to bribe⁹. General evidence may, however, be given to show what the character of particular acts has presumably been¹⁰.

C. TREATING

724. Treating.

A person guilty of treating at an election¹ is guilty of a corrupt practice². The following persons³ are guilty of treating: (1) any person who corruptly⁴, by himself or by any other person, either before, during or after an election, directly or indirectly gives or provides, or pays wholly or in part the expense of giving or providing, any meat, drink, entertainment or provision to or for any person⁵: (a) for the purpose of corruptly influencing that person or any other person to vote or refrain from voting⁶; or (b) on account of that person or any other person having voted or refrained from voting, or being about to vote or refrain from voting⁷; (2) every elector or proxy for an elector who corruptly accepts or takes any such meat, drink, entertainment, or provision⁸.

725. Treating must be corrupt.

The essence of the offence of treating is that it should be corrupt¹. Treating, in fact, is often innocent; and prima facie it will be taken so to be². The statutory provision against treating does not in general apply to mutual treating between equals or to treating in connection with business matters, but it applies to the treating of an inferior by a superior, otherwise than in return for services rendered, with a view to securing the goodwill of the particular person treated and to influencing the vote³. The alleged offender's previous and habitual conduct will be considered⁴. No man is bound to abstain from customary and harmless hospitality because an election is pending⁵.

Where refreshments are a mere incident of a political meeting there is no offence, but if persons are gathered together merely to gratify their appetites and so influence their votes, then it is corrupt treating⁶. The gift or promise of refreshments may amount to both treating and bribery⁷. It is not necessarily corrupt, however, to attract people to meetings by offering refreshments of a moderate kind⁸. The giving of refreshments to persons employed at the election, if done honestly and in good faith, is not illegal⁹.

The time at which the act is done is also a relevant consideration, for the treating must have reference to some election and must be for the purpose of influencing the vote of the person treated¹⁰, and must have a continuing operation on the elector at the time of the election¹¹.

A candidate at a general election may be guilty of treating even though the treating took place before the dissolution of Parliament and consequently before he came within the statutory definition of 'candidate'¹². A corrupt act is not the less corrupt because it is done a long time before the election, but in determining whether it is reasonable to conclude that an act is done with a view to influencing votes, the element of time becomes a very material one¹³. Treating after an election, to be illegal, must be done under such circumstances as to lead to the inference that it was done in pursuance of an antecedent agreement¹⁴.

Custom is only relevant as having some bearing on the intent of a particular individual¹⁵.

A candidate who is reported by an election court guilty by his agents of treating may be excused from the consequences in certain circumstances¹⁶.

But treating intended to secure general popularity, and so to influence votes, is corrupt treating: Bradford Case (No 2) (1869) 19 LT 723, 1 O'M & H 35; Wigan Case, Spencer and Prestt v Powell (1881) 4 O'M & H 1; Ipswich Case (1886) 54 LT 619, 2 TLR 477.

6 Rochester Borough Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 156 at 157, where a threepenny ticket entitled the holder to partake of food and various wines. The practice of political associations giving entertainments, picnics, suppers, teas, sports etc has been judicially described as 'a practice dangerously akin to corrupt treating', and one which, 'if indulged in by a candidate, would certainly amount to corrupt treating' (Northumberland, Hexham Division Case, Hudspeth and Lyal v Clayton (1892) 4 O'M & H 143 at 150); but this is 'not an intimation that any of the transactions referred to are to be taken alone as amounting to corrupt treating'. It is always a question of intention, and the court looks to the whole of the circumstances in each case: Rochester Borough Case supra.

If you give drink to a man with the intention of confirming his vote and keeping up the party zeal of those believed to be already supporting your candidate, that is corrupt treating: Cornwall, Bodmin Division Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 225 at 231. Where a candidate is in the midst of people who are drinking and the worse for drink, it will not necessarily be inferred that because there was drinking there must have been treating: Southampton Borough Case (1895) 5 O'M & H 17.

The question of corrupt treating must be in each case a question of fact. If the refreshments provided were excessive, if the occasions were numerous, and if there were other circumstances calculated to excite suspicion, a corrupt intention might be inferred: St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case supra.

D. UNDUE INFLUENCE

726. Undue influence.

A person guilty of undue influence at an election¹ is guilty of a corrupt practice². A person³ is guilty of undue influence: (1) if he, directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person on his behalf, makes use of or threatens to make use of any force, violence or restraint⁴, or inflicts or threatens to inflict, by himself or by any other person, any temporal⁵ or spiritual injury⁶, damage, harm or loss upon or against any person in order to induce or compel that person to vote or refrain from voting, or on account of that person having voted or refrained from voting⁷; (2) if, by abduction, duress or any fraudulent device or contrivance, he impedes or prevents⁸ the free exercise of the franchise of an elector or proxy for an elector, or so compels, induces or prevails upon⁹ an elector or proxy for an elector either to vote or to refrain from voting¹⁰.

A candidate who is reported by an election court guilty by his agents of the corrupt practice of undue influence may be excused from the consequences in certain circumstances¹¹.

8 In the case of a parliamentary or local government election, it is specified that a person is also guilty of undue influence if he intends to impede or prevent a voter: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 115(2)(b) (amended by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 39(1)(a)). See R v Rowe, ex p Mainwaring [1992] 4 All ER 821, [1992] 1 WLR 1059, CA, where the court refused to construe the words 'calculated to impede or prevent' from the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 115(2)(b) (as originally enacted) but advised its amendment by reference to the less blatant and less easily detected but no less effective methods of exerting influence which are available and are worthy of attracting a penalty. In R v Rowe, ex p Mainwaring supra at 826 and 1064-1065, Farquharson LJ explained that the difference between 'impeding' and 'preventing' lies in the effect on the voter's choice of candidate and that the operative time for the offence is the moment of voting: an improper influence which is brought to bear on the mind of a voter and causes him to vote as the person exercising that improper influence intended (when otherwise he would not), 'prevents' the free exercise of his franchise; a voter who, though influenced by the impropriety, is not thereby caused to vote in the way intended (either because he was going to vote that way anyway, or because the device did not cause him to change his allegiance), is 'impeded' in the free exercise of his franchise. See further R v Rowe, ex p Mainwaring supra at 830 and 1068-1069 per Nolan LJ.

9 In the case of a parliamentary or local government election, it is specified that a person is also guilty of undue influence if he intends so to compel, induce or prevail upon an elector: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 115(2)(b) (amended by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 39(1)(b)). See also note 8 supra.

In Spencer v Huggett [1997] 30 LS Gaz R 30 (cited in PARA 668 ante), it was held that the court had jurisdiction to grant an injunction to restrain a breach of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 115(2)(b) (as originally enacted), where a candidate was alleged to be telling untruths about himself in nomination papers.

It is the undue influence on individual voters and not general rioting or violence which constitutes the corrupt practice¹. In order to constitute undue influence a threat must be serious and intended to influence the voter². A threat may amount to undue influence even though the person using the threat has no power to carry it out³. An unsuccessful threat has been held to amount to undue influence⁴. It has been held to be an offence where a voter's sister was told that he would be hurt if she did not keep him at home⁵.

728. Temporal influence.

The law cannot strike at the existence of influence; it cannot take away from a man who has property, or who can give employment, the influence he has over those whom he can benefit¹. A landlord is therefore entitled to use influence with his tenants if he does so legitimately². He has a perfect right to choose a tenant who agrees with him in politics rather than one who does not³. A suggestion to a tenant to vote for a particular candidate and a request that, if the voter could not do so, he should stay at home and not vote against that candidate has been held not to exceed the bounds of legitimate influence⁴; but the threat of eviction of a tenant, who then votes under the influence of that threat, is undue influence⁵.

If an employer dismisses an employee, he may be called upon to prove that he has good grounds for the dismissal apart from political grounds⁶, and if the dismissal were for political reasons it would amount to undue influence⁷.

Where workmen for political purposes ill-treated certain of their fellow workmen and expelled them from a common place of employment, they were guilty of undue influence⁸.

It has been laid down that to withdraw, or to threaten to withdraw, one's custom in order to induce a voter to vote or to abstain from voting amounts to undue influence⁹. On the other hand, it has been said that it is open to a man to say that he chooses to deal with another, not in accordance with the merits of the commodities he sells, but according to his politics on one side or the other¹⁰. A letter written by a lady withdrawing her custom from a voter, who occasionally looked after puppies for her, on the ground of his political views has been stated to be not sufficient to justify a criminal charge of undue influence¹¹. It appears that the loss, or threat of loss, must be so serious that a judge could direct a jury in a criminal court to find the individual guilty of the statutory offence¹².

A promise to take no proceedings on a bill of sale if a voter voted as required might amount to undue influence¹³.

Ministers of religion may legitimately address their congregations upon the candidates' conflicting claims, but in this connection must not hold out hopes of reward for the hereafter, or threaten to excommunicate or to withhold the sacraments, or denounce the voting for any particular candidate as a sin¹.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(iv) Corrupt Practices/D. UNDUE INFLUENCE/730. Fraudulent device or contrivance.

730. Fraudulent device or contrivance.

A candidate who has adopted a name which closely resembles that of another candidate standing at the same election may be held to contravene the statutory provisions aimed at preventing undue influence¹.

It is not clear whether matters relating to the secrecy of the ballot come within the statutory provisions or not. In one case a newspaper article distributed in a constituency alleged a plan by which it would be possible to ascertain after the election how each voter had voted; on a prosecution for undue influence, the judges were divided in opinion, the senior judge holding that it was not within the provisions because it was impossible to specify or ascertain the individuals affected by it, the junior judge holding that it was within the provisions because it was a contrivance interfering with the free exercise of the franchise². Where a number of voters who could read and write had been induced to vote as illiterates and so to disclose unnecessarily for whom they voted, the court held that, although the facts were suspicious and might be relevant on the question of intimidation, illegal intent had not been established and there was no proof of a contrivance³.

A fraudulent scheme by which an elector is prevented from receiving a candidate's election literature may constitute undue influence, as his freedom of choice has been impeded⁴.

Watching voters at polling stations in the hope that by so doing they might be induced to vote for a particular candidate, or at all events not to vote against him, has been held to be a legal, although an objectionable, practice⁵.

An agreement by two voters to pair and not vote has in the absence of fraud been held not to come within the provisions even though one voter as the result of false information thought the other had voted and in consequence voted himself⁶.

1 See Lyell v Hayward (also known as Lyell) (15 April 1997, unreported) (defendant's use of claimant's name on nomination papers was calculated to induce electors in the constituency to believe that he was in fact the claimant and constituted a fraudulent device or contrivance to impede or prevent the free exercise of the franchise of such electors). As to the offence of undue influence see PARA 726 ante.

A previous case of similar fact had been decided on the basis that the effect of a candidate adopting a name which was likely to mislead members of the electorate was an abuse of the electoral process and that this abuse allowed the court to exercise its powers to prevent an abuse of its own procedure: see R v Returning Officer for the Parliamentary Constituency of Barnet and Finchley, ex p Bennett v Thatcher (3 June 1983, unreported), CA (where a male candidate changed his name by deed poll to 'Margaret Thatcher' (who was then prime minister) and styled his address as 'Downing Street Mansions'; it was held that his nomination paper was designed to confuse the electorate and to make a farce of the electoral process and that, accordingly, his application for the discretionary remedy of judicial review of the returning officer's rejection of the nomination paper was refused without needing to determine whether or not the returning officer acted lawfully in so rejecting it). Where a nomination paper is an obvious unreality (eg if it purported to nominate a deceased Sovereign), it has been suggested, as an obiter dictum, that it ought to be rejected: Harford v Linskey [1899] 1 QB 852 at 862, DC, per Wright J (but that case concerned the right of a validly nominated, but disqualified, candidate to bring an election petition). This suggestion was cited in Hobbs v Morey [1904] 1 KB 74 at 78, DC, but to support the proposition that, in the event of such a nomination being accepted, no notice of disqualification (as to which see PARA 273 ante) need be published by an opposing candidate.

731. Acquiescence by official in face of undue influence.

A mere passive outsider who owes no duty to interfere or prevent undue influence cannot be made responsible for it; but a person in a position of authority and responsibility who, without being personally guilty of any overt act, nevertheless does nothing to prevent the undue influence becomes responsible for the undue influence if it is clear that he could have prevented it if he had chosen to do so¹.

733. Personation.

A person¹ is guilty of a corrupt practice if he commits, or aids, abets, counsels or procures the commission of, the offence of personation at an election or referendum². A person is deemed to be guilty of personation if he: (1) votes in person or by post as some other person, whether as an elector or as proxy, and whether that other person is living or dead or is a fictitious person³; or (2) votes in person or by post as proxy for a person whom he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing to be dead or to be a fictitious person⁴; or (3) votes in person or by post as proxy when he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing that his appointment as proxy is no longer in force⁵.

A person who has applied for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person or who has marked, whether validly or not, and returned a ballot paper issued for the purpose of voting by post, is deemed to have voted⁶.

Mens rea is an essential ingredient in personation⁷, and an agent who honestly believes that the person whom he is instigating to vote is the person whose name is on the register is not guilty of a corrupt practice, although the person whose vote is in question may know that he is not the person whose name is on the register⁸. On the same principle, if a person innocently votes in the name of another this does not amount to personation⁹.

736. Interference with the duties of registration officer.

If any person fails to comply with any requisition of a registration officer¹ to give information required for the purposes of that officer's duties in maintaining registers of parliamentary and local government electors², that person is liable on summary conviction to a fine³.

If any person without lawful authority destroys, mutilates, defaces or removes any notice published by the registration officer in connection with his registration duties or any copies of a document which have been made available for inspection in pursuance of those duties, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine⁴.

1 le any such requisition as is mentioned in the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 23 (as amended) (see PARA 157 ante). As to electoral registration officers see PARA 154 et seq ante. By virtue of reg 13(6), (7), reg 23 (as amended) applies to registration in pursuance of a European parliamentary overseas elector's declaration as it applies to registration in pursuance of an overseas elector's declaration: see PARA 116 note 7 ante.

2 As to the duty of registration officers to maintain, prepare and publish registers of electors see PARA 156 ante.

3 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 23(3). The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: see reg 23(3). The 'standard scale' means the standard scale of maximum fines for summary offences as set out in the Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 37 (as amended): see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1 (definition added by the Criminal Justice Act 1988 s 170(1), Sch 15 para 58); and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 142. At the date at which this title states the law, the standard scale is as follows: level 1, £200; level 2, £500; level 3, £1,000; level 4, £2,500; level 5, £5,000: Criminal Justice Act 1982 s 37(2) (substituted by the Criminal Justice Act 1991 s 17(1)). As to the determination of the amount of the fine actually imposed, as distinct from the level on the standard scale which it may not exceed, see the Criminal Justice Act 2003 s 164 (as amended); and SENTENCING AND DISPOSITION OF OFFENDERS vol 92 (2010) PARA 144.

4 Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 11; National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 145; European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 10, Sch 2 para 13. The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 3 on the standard scale: see the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 11; the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 145; and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 10, Sch 2 para 13. Although Sch 2 makes provision for the purposes of a European parliamentary election with respect to absent voting in particular, its general purpose is to make provision with respect to the manner of voting at such elections (see PARA 370 et seq ante) and the prohibition set out in Sch 2 para 13 appears to have a general effect. The Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 11 applies, by virtue of reg 13(6), (7), to a European parliamentary overseas elector's declaration and registration as it applies to an overseas elector's declaration and registration (see PARA 116 note 7 ante) and, for the purposes of the registration of relevant citizens of the Union as European parliamentary electors, as it applies for the purposes of the registration of parliamentary and local government electors, subject to any modification and exceptions specified in relation to those provisions in the European Parliamentary Elections (Franchise of Relevant Citizens of the Union) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1184, reg 9, Schedule (see PARA 117 note 5 ante). The Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 11 has also been applied and modified for the purposes of a local authority referendum, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 4 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 4. A person who inspects the full register¹ and makes a copy of it or records any particulars included in it otherwise than by means of handwritten notes² is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine³. A person who inspects the copy of the full register that is held by the British Library⁴ or by the National Library of Wales⁵ or the copy that is supplied to the Office for National Statistics⁶ or any copy that is supplied to a public library or a local authority archives service⁷, or who inspects a copy of any information which would be included in the postal voters lists⁸, the list of proxies⁹ or the proxy postal voters lists¹⁰, whether a printed copy or in data form¹¹, and makes copies of any part of it or them (as the case may be), or records any particulars included in it or them (as the case may be), otherwise than by means of handwritten notes, is guilty of an offence¹² and is liable on summary conviction to a fine¹³.

A person is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine if he contravenes any of the following provisions¹⁴ relating to disclosure of the full register or associated records¹⁵:

- 19 (1) a returning officer¹⁶ or counting officer¹⁷ to whom the registration officer¹⁸ supplies, together with the copy of the register (or any part thereof), a copy of the record of anonymous entries¹⁹ (or any part thereof) may not supply to any person a copy of the record or disclose information contained in it or make use of any such information, otherwise than for the purposes of an election or referendum (as the case may be)²⁰;

740. Breaches of official duty.

If any of the following persons is, without reasonable cause, guilty of any act or omission in breach of his official duty, he is liable on summary conviction to a fine¹: (1) the Clerk of the Crown at a parliamentary election² or any member of staff of the National Assembly for Wales at a Welsh Assembly election³; (2) any registration officer⁴, returning officer⁵ or presiding officer⁶; (3) any other person whose duty it is to be responsible after a parliamentary or local government election⁷ or a Welsh Assembly election (as the case may be) for the used ballot papers and other documents (including returns and declarations as to expenses)⁸; (4) any official designated by a universal postal service provider⁹; (5) any deputy of a person mentioned in any of heads (1) to (4) above or any person appointed to assist or in the course of his employment assisting¹⁰ a person so mentioned in connection with his official duties¹¹; (6) (as from a day to be appointed¹²) a CORE keeper¹³.

'Official duty' is to be construed accordingly¹⁴, but it is not to include duties imposed otherwise than by the law relating to parliamentary or local government elections or Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary elections or the registration of parliamentary or local government electors¹⁵. None of the persons mentioned above is to be liable for breach of his official duty to any penalty at common law, and no action for damages lies in respect of the breach by such a person of his official duty¹⁶. Where a returning officer for a parliamentary or local government election is guilty of an act or omission in breach of his official duty, but he remedies that act or omission in full by taking steps in accordance with the provision which allows for the correction of procedural errors¹⁷, he is not guilty of an offence of breach of his official duty¹⁸, except in relation to any conviction which takes place, or any penalty which is imposed, before the date on which the act or omission is remedied in full¹⁹.

1 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(1) (s 63 substituted by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 19); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(1). The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(1) (as substituted); the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(1); and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(1). As to the standard scale see PARA 736 note 3 ante.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63 (as substituted and amended) is applied with modifications by the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 13(4), Sch 4, in relation to peers who are registered to vote at a European parliamentary election (see PARA 116 note 7 ante) and by the European Parliamentary Elections (Franchise of Relevant Citizens of the Union) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1184, reg 9, Schedule, in relation to relevant citizens of the Union who are registered to vote at a European parliamentary election (see PARA 117 note 5 ante).

2 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(a) (as substituted: see note 1 supra). For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante. 'Clerk of the Crown' means Clerk of the Crown in Chancery: s 202(1). As to the Clerk of the Crown see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 921.

3 National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3)(b). For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

4 As to electoral registration officers see PARA 154 et seq ante.

5 As to returning officers for parliamentary elections see PARA 355 et seq ante; as to returning officers for local government elections see PARA 359 et seq ante; and as to returning officers at Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 362 et seq ante. In relation to a European parliamentary election, a local returning officer is also specified: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(3)(a). As to the designation of returning officers and local returning officers at European parliamentary elections see PARA 365 et seq ante.

6 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(b) (as substituted: see note 1 supra); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3)(a); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(3)(a). As to the appointment of presiding officers and their clerks see PARA 398 ante.

7 For the meaning of 'local government election' generally see PARA 10 ante. The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63 (as substituted and amended) has effect as if any reference in it to a local government election included a reference to any other election under the Local Government Act 1972: Representation of the People Act 1983 ss 187(2), 203(1) (s 187(2) amended by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 64(b)).

8 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(c) (as substituted: see note 1 supra); and amended by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 41(8)); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3)(c).

The amendment effected by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 41(8) has no effect in relation to any documents which have been or must be forwarded to the Clerk of the Crown on or before 2 May 2007, in accordance with the Representation of the People Act 1983 Sch 1 r 55 (as amended) (see PARA 494 ante) or the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 91 (as amended) (see PARA 495 ante): see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (Commencement No 2, Transitional and Savings Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3412, art 6, Sch 2 para 4.

9 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(d) (as substituted (see note 1 supra); and amended by the Postal Services Act 2000 (Consequential Modifications No 1) Order 2001, SI 2001/1149, art 3(1), Sch 1 para 57(1), (2)); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3)(d); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(3)(b). For the meaning of 'universal postal service provider' see PARAS 417 note 3, 479 note 4 ante.

10 As to local authority staff who may assist at an election see PARA 355 et seq ante.

11 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(e) (as substituted: see note 1 supra); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3)(e); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(3)(c).

12 The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(ba) is added by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 7 as from a day to be appointed under s 77(2). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

13 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3)(ba) (prospectively added: see note 12 supra). For the meaning of 'CORE keeper' see PARA 185 note 4 ante.

14 In so construing 'official duty', it is clear from the list of persons specified that duties after an election in connection with the retention of documents used at an election fall within the expression. Where there are gross discrepancies in the counting of the votes, the clerks responsible for them might be guilty, in the absence of reasonable cause, of a dereliction of duty and liable for the offence now set out in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63 (as substituted and amended): see McWhirter v Platten [1970] 1 QB 508 at 516, [1969] 1 All ER 172 at 176, DC, per Lord Parker CJ. As to inspection of the ballot papers for the purposes of prosecution for such an offence see PARA 849 post.

15 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(3) (as substituted: see note 1 supra); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(3). Certain peers resident outside the United Kingdom may be included in a register for use only at European parliamentary elections: see PARA 115 ante.

16 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(2) (as substituted: see note 1 supra); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 30(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 25(2). Unlike the provision which the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(2) (as substituted) replaced as respects parliamentary elections (ie s 63(2) as originally enacted), it provides no exemption from penalties under any enactment and accordingly the persons listed in the text could be prosecuted for statutory offences done in connection with the election (if any are relevant). The actions at common law in respect of which this provision provides protection were actions for damages against the returning officer: see Ashby v White (1704) 2 Ld Raym 938, HL. It is for consideration whether the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(2) (as substituted) provides protection in respect of the tort of misfeasance in public office, where there is a deliberate act or omission which is intended to harm the person at whom it is directed: see Bourgoin SA v Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food [1986] QB 716, [1985] 3 All ER 585, CA. In addition, a returning officer at a parliamentary election might be liable to be punished by the House of Commons if he acts corruptly or with partiality: see Great Grimsby Case (1803) 1 Peck 59 at 74; Middlesex Case (1804) 2 Peck 1 at 28. However, since those cases were decided, the jurisdiction in respect of controverted elections has been transferred from the House of Commons to the courts by the Parliamentary Elections Act 1868. Furthermore, detailed provision as to the conduct of elections is now made by legislation and breach of duty in connection therewith is an offence under the statutory provision set out in the text.

18 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(4) (s 63(4), (5) added by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 46(6)); Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 46(3).

The amendments effected by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 46 have no effect in relation to an election for which the date of the poll specified in the notice of election issued in relation to that election is on or before 2 May 2007: see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (Commencement No 2, Transitional and Savings Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3412, art 6, Sch 2 para 1.

19 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 63(5) (as added: see note 18 supra). As to the effect of this provision see note 18 supra.

As to the appointment of presiding officers and their clerks see PARA 398 ante.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66 (as amended) applies at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting by virtue of s 187(1) (as amended) and the Local Government Act 1972 s 99, Sch 12 paras 18(5), 34(5) (as amended): see PARA 388 ante. See also the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 6(a). At such a poll any reference to an election agent or the proxy for an elector is to be omitted: r 6(e). The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66 (as amended) has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. The mere communication by the returning officer of the numbers on the backs of ballot papers given out after the close of the poll so that there might be a record of such papers is not an offence if it does not in fact lead, and is not intended to lead, to any disclosures of the names of voters or of the persons for whom they voted: Islington, West Division Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 120 at 126. 4 Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43(1)(b); Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66B(1)(b) (as added: see note 2 supra). For these purposes, appropriate steps are such steps as it was reasonable for the appropriate supervisor to take to secure the operation of procedures designed to prevent, so far as reasonably practicable, the occurrence of a failure to comply with the conditions: Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43(4)(b);

Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66B(4)(b) (as so added). As to the effect of these provisions see note 2 supra.

6 Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43(3); Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66B(3) (as added: see note 2 supra). As to the effect of these provisions see note 2 supra.

7 Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43(5); Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66B(5) (as added: see note 2 supra). The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43(5); and the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 66B(5) (as so added). As to the standard scale see PARA 736 note 3 ante. As to the effect of these provisions see note 2 supra.

748 Offences regarding access to or control of election or referendum documents

NOTE 2--The Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 43 now has effect in relation to Authority elections: SI 2007/3376.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(vi) Offences/749.
 Contravention of prohibition on officials acting as candidates' agents.

749. Contravention of prohibition on officials acting as candidates' agents.

If any returning officer at a parliamentary election¹, local government election², Welsh Assembly election³ or European parliamentary election⁴ or any officer or clerk appointed⁵ under the parliamentary elections rules⁶ or rules for the conduct of local elections⁷ or rules for the conduct of Welsh Assembly elections⁸ or the European parliamentary elections rules⁹, as the case may be, or any partner or clerk of any such person, acts as an agent of a candidate¹⁰ in the conduct or management of the election¹¹, he is guilty of an offence¹². This does not, however, prevent a candidate from acting as his own election agent¹³.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable on summary conviction to a penalty¹⁴.

1 As to returning officers for parliamentary elections see PARA 355 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante.

2 As to returning officers for local government elections (including elections for the return of a local authority mayor) see PARA 359 et seq ante. For the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. For these purposes, in relation to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, the returning officer at an election under the local government Act is also specified and references to an election under the local government Act are deemed to include a reference to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting: Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 6(d), (g). See also the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 187(1) (as amended); the Local Government Act 1972 s 99, Sch 12 paras 18(5), 34(5) (as amended); and PARA 388 ante. As to the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish meeting on a question involving appointment to office see PARA 361 ante; and as to the returning officer at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting on any other question see PARA 593 ante.

3 At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is to any constituency or regional returning officer at a constituency election and to any constituency or regional returning officer at a regional election: see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(1). For the meanings of 'Assembly election', 'Assembly constituency election' and 'Assembly regional election' in the case of a Welsh Assembly election see PARA 3 note 1 ante; and for the meanings of 'constituency returning officer' and 'regional returning officer' see PARA 18 note 2 ante.

4 At a European parliamentary election, any returning officer or local returning officer is specified: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(1). As to the designation of returning officers and local returning officers at European parliamentary elections see PARA 365 et seq ante. As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

5 As to the appointment of such officers and clerks see PARA 398 ante.

6 As to the parliamentary elections rules see PARA 388 ante.

7 I.e. the rules under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 388 ante).

8 I.e. the rules in the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 16(1), Sch 5 (as amended) (see PARA 388 ante).

9 For the meaning of 'European parliamentary elections rules' see PARA 388 ante.

10 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante. At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference in the text is to a constituency candidate (at a constituency election) or to an individual candidate or a group of party list candidates (at a regional election): see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(1). For the meaning of references to a group of party list candidates and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' for these purposes see PARA 237 note 23 ante. At a European parliamentary election, the reference is to a registered party which has submitted a list, a candidate on that list or an individual candidate: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(1).

For the meanings of 'list' and 'registered party' in relation to European parliamentary elections see PARA 237 note 30 ante; and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a European parliamentary election see PARA 237 note 32 ante. As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante; as to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante; and as to the appointment of the election agent of a registered party or for an individual candidate at a European parliamentary election see PARA 246 ante.

11 It is not necessary that the agent should be an agent for the management of the whole election; it is sufficient if he is agent for part of the election. He must be not simply an agent who might be employed to such an extent as might make the candidate answerable for corrupt or illegal practices committed by him, but employed in the way of managing a portion of the election: North Norfolk Case, Burton's Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 236 at 239.

13 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 99(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(1). At a Welsh Assembly election, the prohibition set out in the text does not prevent an individual candidate from acting as his own election agent or a party list candidate from acting as election agent for the candidates on the list: see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(1). At a European parliamentary election, the prohibition set out in the text does not prevent an individual candidate from acting as his own election agent: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(1).

14 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 99(2) (substituted by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 23, Sch 3 para 4); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(2). The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 99(2) (as so substituted); the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 70(2); and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 69(2). As to the standard scale see PARA 736 note 3 ante.

750. Illegal canvassing by police officers.

No member of a police force¹ may by word, message, writing or in any other manner endeavour to persuade any person to give, or dissuade any person from giving, his vote, whether as an elector or as proxy, at any parliamentary election² for a parliamentary constituency³, at any local government election⁴ for any electoral area⁵, at any constituency election⁶ for a Welsh Assembly constituency⁷, at any regional election⁸ for a Welsh Assembly electoral region⁹ or at any European parliamentary election¹⁰ for a European parliamentary electoral region¹¹, wholly or partly within the police area¹². A person acting in contravention of this provision is liable on summary conviction to a penalty¹³. A member of a force, however, is not to be subjected to any penalty for anything done in the discharge of his duty as a member of the force¹⁴.

UPDATE

750 Illegal canvassing by police officers

NOTE 12--SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(2) IRREGULARITIES AND OFFENCES/(vi) Offences/751. Failure to display details on election publications.

751. Failure to display details on election publications.

In relation to a parliamentary or local government election¹, no material which can reasonably be regarded as intended to promote or procure² the election of a candidate³ (whether or not it can be so regarded as intended to achieve any other purpose as well)⁴ may be published⁵ unless the following requirements are complied with⁶:

- 47 (1) where the material is a document consisting (or consisting principally) of a single side of printed matter, the names and addresses of the printer⁷ of the document⁸, of the promoter⁹ of the material¹⁰ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹¹ (the 'relevant details') must appear on the face of the document¹²;
- 48 (2) where the material is a printed document other than one to which head (1) above applies, the names and addresses of the printer of the document¹³, of the promoter of the material¹⁴ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁵ (the 'relevant details') must appear either on the first or the last page of the document¹⁶;
- 49 (3) where the material is an advertisement contained in a newspaper or periodical, the name and address of the printer of the newspaper or periodical must appear either on its first or last page¹⁷ and there must be included in the advertisement the names and addresses of the promoter of the material¹⁸ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁹;
- 50 (4) in the case of any other material, the name and address of the promoter of the material²⁰ and the name and address of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)²¹ must be included in the material in accordance with requirements imposed by regulations which may be made for these purposes by the Secretary of State after consulting the Electoral Commission²².

Where any material is published in contravention of these requirements, the promoter of the material and any other person by whom the material is so published (and, in the case of material falling within heads (1) to (3) above, the printer of the material) are guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty²³. It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the contravention of the requirements arose from circumstances beyond his control and that he took all reasonable steps, and exercised all due diligence, to ensure that that contravention would not arise²⁴. A candidate or his election agent who would be guilty of such an offence is instead guilty of an illegal practice²⁵.

In relation to a Welsh Assembly constituency or regional election²⁶ or at a European parliamentary election²⁷, a person must not print or publish, or cause to be printed or published²⁸, any bill, placard or poster²⁹ having reference to an election or any printed document³⁰ distributed for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of a candidate³¹ (or, in the case of a Welsh Assembly election, of promoting or procuring a particular result at the election), or post or cause to be posted any such bill, placard or poster, or distribute or cause to be distributed any printed document for that purpose, unless the bill, placard, poster or document bears on its face the name and address of the printer³² and publisher³³. Any candidate or election agent³⁴ who acts in contravention of this provision is guilty of an illegal practice³⁵ but any other person who contravenes it is liable on summary conviction to a penalty³⁶.

1 ie a parliamentary election, an Authority election or an election under the local government Act: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 202(1); and PARA 3 note 1 ante. For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante. For the meaning of 'Authority election' see PARA 10 ante; and for the meaning of 'election under the local government Act' see PARA 10 note 2 ante.

2 As to the meaning of 'promoting or procuring' see PARA 277 note 2 ante.

3 For the meaning of 'candidate' generally see PARA 237 ante.

4 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110(1) (s 110 substituted by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 138, Sch 18 paras 1, 14). For the purpose of determining whether any material is material such as is mentioned in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110(1) (as substituted), it is immaterial that it does not expressly mention the name of any candidate: s 110(14) (as so substituted).

The substitution made by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 18 paras 1, 14 has no effect in relation to any election for which the date of the poll specified in the notice of election issued in relation to that election is on or before 2 May 2007, and in relation to any such election the Election Publications Act 2001 s 1(1), (2)(a) continues to have effect: see the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (Commencement No 3 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3416, arts 3(b), 4, 5. The Election Publications Act 2001 continued the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110 (as amended) in the form in which it had effect immediately before the day originally appointed for the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 Sch 18 paras 1, 14 to come into effect, ie 16 February 2001 (the 'commencement date': see the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (Commencement No 1 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/222, art 2, Sch 1 Pt I). See further the Election Publications Act 2001 ss 1-3. As to the case law which attached to the previous form of wording of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110 (as amended) see notes 26-36 infra. Section 110 (as amended) was applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante. As to the conduct of referendums see PARA 557 et seq ante.

5 For these purposes, 'publish' means make available to the public at large, or any section of the public, in whatever form and by whatever means: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110(13) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

6 Ibid s 110(2) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

7 For these purposes, 'print' means print by whatever means; and 'printer' must be construed accordingly: ibid s 110(13) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

8 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(a), (4) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

9 For these purposes, the 'promoter', in relation to any material which can reasonably be regarded as intended to promote or procure the election of a candidate at an election (whether or not it can be so regarded as intended to achieve any other purpose as well), means the person causing the material to be published: ibid s 110(13) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

10 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(b), (4) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

11 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(c), (4) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

12 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (4) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

13 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(a), (5) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

14 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(b), (5) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

15 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(c), (5) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

16 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (5) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

17 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (6)(a) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

18 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(b), (6)(b) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

19 Ibid s 110(2)(a), (3)(c), (6)(b) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

20 Ibid s 110(2)(b), (7)(a) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

21 Ibid s 110(2)(b), (7)(b) (as substituted: see note 4 supra).

22 Ibid s 110(2)(b), (7) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). Such regulations may in particular specify: (1) the manner and form in which such details must be included in any such material for the purpose of complying with any such requirement (s 110(8)(a) (as so substituted)); (2) circumstances in which any such requirement does not have to be complied with by a person of any description specified in the regulations or in which a breach of any such requirement by a person of any description so specified is not to result in the commission of an offence under s 110 (as substituted) (see the text and note 25 infra) by that person or by a person of any such description (s 110(8)(b) (as so substituted)); (3) circumstances in which material is, or is not, to be taken for the purposes of the regulations to be published or (as the case may be) published by a person of any description so specified (s 110(8)(c) (as so substituted)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such regulations had been made. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante. As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante.

23 Ibid s 110(9), (10) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). The penalty is a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see s 110(9), (10) (as so substituted). As to the standard scale see PARA 736 note 3 ante. Liability for an offence which arises out of the requirement set out in head (4) in the text is subject to regulations made by virtue of s 110(8)(b) (as substituted) (see note 22 supra).

24 Ibid s 110(11) (as substituted: see note 4 supra). See DPP v Edwards [2002] EWHC 636 (Admin), [2002] All ER (D) 314 (Mar) (as it stood at the time of the offence, the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110 (as amended) was an absolute offence and so it could not be contended that the omission of details from election leaflets had been inadvertent and that the defendant had taken immediate steps to rectify the situation).

25 See the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110(12) (as substituted); and PARA 706 ante. As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante. As to the consequences of illegal practices see PARA 886 et seq post.

26 For the meanings of 'constituency election' and 'regional election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

27 As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante. In relation to a European parliamentary election, where any act or omission would be lawful by reason of the act being done in compliance with, or the omission being made in reliance on, any provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 110 (as substituted) if it were substituted for the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(1)-(3) (see the text and notes 28-36 infra) with the modification that for references to 'candidate' there were substituted references to 'individual candidate or a registered party', the act or omission is deemed to be lawful: reg 74(4)-(6).

28 Where a candidate's brother gave the instructions for the printing of an address, not bearing the printer's name and address, to be done for the candidate, and the cost was debited to the candidate but not paid by him, it was held that the candidate had not been proved to have printed or caused to be printed the address, even though the document purported to be signed by him: Bettesworth v Allingham (1885) 16 QBD 44, DC.

29 'Bill' is a word of very wide application: Barrow-in-Furness Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 76. A circular on paper of notepaper size to be sent by post or by hand to voters has been held not to be a bill, placard or poster: Re Essex County Councillors, Barstow Division, Election (1888) 5 TLR 159, DC; Re Shrewsbury County Councillors' Election (1888) 5 TLR 160, DC; Re East Suffolk and Eye Borough County Councillors' Election (1888) 5 TLR 170, DC; Cheshire, Knutsford Division Case (1888) 5 TLR 170; Re Election of Common Councillors for the Ward of Farringdon Without in the City of London (1925) 161 LT Jo 26, DC; see also Cumberland, Cockermouth Division Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 155; cf Alcott v Emden (1904) 68 JP 434, DC (where a circular headed with the complainant's name and the words 'Shall he be our new Mayor' and sent to the complainant, the town clerk and four councillors in August 1903, it being known that the complainant intended to stand as candidate for that post at the next election on the following 9 November, was held to have reference to the election and to be a bill). Circulars will, however, be 'documents': see note 30 infra. Postcards reading 'You did not forget me a year ago. I shall not forget you' were held not to be bills, placards or posters: Oxford Borough Case (1924) 7 O'M & H 49 at 84. A poster is something that is stuck up: Alcott v Emden (1904) 68 JP 434, DC. Official poll cards do not appear to fall within this provision, but official notices of the election may come within it: see also note 33 infra.

30 A duplicated personal letter is a 'document': Re Shipston-on-Stour RDC Election (1953) Times, 9 June; Re Liverpool City Council Election (1964) Times, 16 May, DC. See also Alcott v Emden (1904) 68 JP 434, DC

(circular); Oxford Borough Case (1924) 7 O'M & H 49 at 73, 93 (document printed before the election without any intention of using it for election purposes, in fact used for propaganda purposes in the election).

31 At a European parliamentary election, the reference is to the election of a registered party or an individual candidate: see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 75(1). For the meaning of 'registered party' in relation to European parliamentary elections see PARA 237 note 30 ante; and for the meaning of 'individual candidate' in relation to a European parliamentary election see PARA 237 note 32 ante.

32 Any process for multiplying copies of a document, other than copying it by hand, is deemed to be printing; and 'printer' is to be construed accordingly: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 75(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(2). See also Re Shipston-on-Stour RDC Election (1953) Times, 9 June (a duplicated personal letter to electors).

33 National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 75(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(1). It has been argued that by the 'custom and comity of the printing trade' the name of a printer appearing on a placard means that he is also the publisher: Re County Councillors' Elections (1889) 5 TLR 195, DC. However, a distinct statement as to who is the publisher as well as to who is the printer may be required: see Re County Councillors' Elections supra; Ex p Jessel (1910) Times, 21 January; Re Berry [1978] Crim LR 357 (name of printer and publisher not on election leaflets). The returning officer would presumably be the publisher of official notices.

34 As to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante; and as to the appointment of the election agent of a registered party or for an individual candidate at a European parliamentary election see PARA 246 ante.

35 See, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 75(3) and, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(3); and PARA 706 ante.

36 National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 75(3); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(3); and see note 33 supra. The penalty for such a person is a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale: see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 75(3); and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 74(3). It would appear that such a person cannot claim relief: Re County Councillors' Elections, De Wette's Case (1889) 5 TLR 173, DC: and see PARA 696 ante.

752. Failure to display details on election material published by third parties in national election campaigns.

No election material¹ may be published² unless the following requirements are complied with³:

- 51 (1) where the material is a document consisting (or consisting principally) of a single side of printed matter, the names and addresses of the printer⁴ of the document⁵, of the promoter⁶ of the material⁷ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)⁸ (the 'relevant details') must appear on the face of the document⁹;
- 52 (2) where the material is a printed document other than one to which head (1) above applies, the names and addresses of the printer of the document¹⁰, of the promoter of the material¹¹ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹² (the 'relevant details') must appear either on the first or the last page of the document¹³;
- 53 (3) where the material is an advertisement contained in a newspaper or periodical, the name and address of the printer of the newspaper or periodical must appear either on its first or last page¹⁴ and there must be included in the advertisement the names and addresses of the promoter of the material¹⁵ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁶;
- 54 (4) in the case of any other material, the name and address of the promoter of the material¹⁷ and the name and address of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁸ must be included in the material in accordance with requirements imposed by regulations which may be made for these purposes by the Secretary of State after consulting the Electoral Commission¹⁹.

Where any material is published in contravention of these requirements, the promoter of the material and any other person by whom the material is so published (and, in the case of material falling within heads (1) to (3) above, the printer of the material) are guilty of an offence²⁰ and liable on summary conviction to a penalty²¹. It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the contravention of the requirements arose from circumstances beyond his control and that he took all reasonable steps, and exercised all due diligence, to ensure that that contravention would not arise²².

1 For these purposes, 'election material' has the meaning given by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 85(3) (controlled expenditure by third parties in national election campaigns: see PARA 318 note 4 ante): s 143(11).

The Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 143 (as amended) has no effect in relation to any election for which the date of the poll specified in the notice of election issued in relation to that election is on or before 2 May 2007, and in relation to any such election the Election Publications Act 2001 s 1(1), (2)(a) continues to have effect: see the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (Commencement No 3 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3416, arts 3(a), 4, 5. Under the Election Publications Act 2001 the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 143 (as amended) was deemed not to have come into force on the day originally appointed, ie 16 February 2001 (the 'commencement date': see the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 (Commencement No 1 and Transitional Provisions) Order 2001, SI 2001/222, art 2, Sch 1 Pt I). See further the Election Publications Act 2001 ss 1-3.

2 For these purposes, 'publish' means make available to the public at large, or any section of the public, in whatever form and by whatever means: Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 143(11). See note 1 supra.

3 Ibid s 143(1). See note 1 supra.

5 Ibid s 143(1)(a), (2)(a), (3). See note 1 supra.

6 For these purposes, the 'promoter', in relation to any election material, means the person causing the material to be published: ibid s 143(11). See note 1 supra.

7 Ibid s 143(1)(a), (2)(b), (3). See note 1 supra.

8 Ibid s 143(1)(a), (2)(c), (3). See note 1 supra. For the purposes of s 143(2)(c), election material which can be reasonably regarded as promoting, procuring or enhancing the electoral success or standing of two or more candidates standing in the name of a party or included in a list of candidates submitted by the party in connection with the election is not to be regarded as being published on behalf of a candidate merely because it can be regarded as promoting, procuring or enhancing his electoral success or standing, but may be regarded as being published on behalf of the party: s 143(2A), (2B) (added by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 66(2)). Any amendment effected by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 66(2) has no effect in relation to an election for which the date of the poll specified in the notice of election issued in relation to that election is on or before 2 May 2007: see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (Commencement No 2, Transitional and Savings Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3412, art 6, Sch 2 para 1.

Such regulations may in particular specify: (1) the manner and form in which such details must be included in any such material for the purpose of complying with any such requirement (s 143(7)(a)); (2) circumstances in which any such requirement does not have to be complied with by a person of any description specified in the regulations or in which a breach of any such requirement by a person of any description so specified is not to result in the commission of an offence under s 143 (see the text and note 20 infra) by that person or by a person of any such description (s 143(7)(b)); (3) circumstances in which material is, or is not, to be taken for the purposes of the regulations to be published or (as the case may be) published by a person of any description so specified (s 143(7)(c)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such regulations had been made. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante. As to the Electoral Commission see PARA 31 et seq ante.

20 Ibid s 143(8), (9). See note 1 supra. Liability for an offence which arises out of the requirement set out in head (4) in the text is subject to regulations made by virtue of s 143(7)(b) (see note 19 supra).

753. Failure to display details on referendum material.

No material wholly or mainly relating to a referendum¹ to which the general framework provisions apply² is to be published³ during the referendum period⁴ unless the following requirements are met:

- 55 (1) where the material is a document consisting (or consisting principally) of a single side of printed matter, the names and addresses of the printer⁵ of the document⁶, of the promoter⁷ of the material⁸ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)⁹ must appear on the face of the document¹⁰;
- 56 (2) where the material is a printed document other than one to which head (1) above applies, the names and addresses of the printer of the document¹¹, of the promoter of the material¹² and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹³ must appear either on the first or the last page of the document¹⁴;
- 57 (3) where the material is an advertisement contained in a newspaper or periodical, the name and address of the printer of the newspaper or periodical must appear either on its first or last page¹⁵ and there must be included in the advertisement the names and addresses of the promoter of the material¹⁶ and of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁷;
- 58 (4) in the case of any other material, the name and address of the promoter of the material¹⁸ and the name and address of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter)¹⁹ must be included in the material in accordance with requirements imposed by regulations which may be made for these purposes by the Secretary of State after consulting the Electoral Commission²⁰.

Where, during the referendum period, any material is published in contravention of these requirements, the promoter of the material and any other person by whom the material is so published (and, in the case of material falling within heads (1) to (3) above, the printer of the document) are guilty of an offence²¹ and liable on summary conviction to a penalty²². It is a defence for a person charged with such an offence to prove that the contravention of the requirements arose from circumstances beyond his control and that he took all reasonable steps, and exercised all due diligence, to ensure that that contravention would not arise²³.

Offences related to contravention of the controls imposed on expenditure incurred during election and referendum campaigns.

754. Offences related to contravention of the controls imposed on expenditure incurred during election and referendum campaigns.

A person commits an offence:

- 59 (1) if he knowingly or recklessly makes a false declaration as to the value of notional election campaign expenditure¹ incurred by or on behalf of a registered party² or as to the value of notional controlled expenditure³ incurred by or on behalf of a third party in a national election campaign⁴, or as to the value of notional referendum expenses⁵ incurred by or on behalf of an individual or body during the referendum period⁶;
- 60 (2) if, without reasonable excuse and in contravention of the restrictions, he incurs any election campaign expenditure without authority by or on behalf of a registered party⁷ or he incurs any controlled expenditure without authority by or on behalf of a recognised third party⁸ or he incurs any referendum expenses without authority⁹;
- 61 (3) if, without reasonable excuse, he makes any payment in contravention of the restrictions on payments made that apply in respect of election campaign expenditure¹⁰ or that apply in respect of controlled expenditure incurred by or on behalf of a third party¹¹ or that apply in respect of referendum expenses¹² or if he contravenes the requirements imposed on such a person regarding delivery of notification and evidence¹³;
- 62 (4) if, without reasonable excuse he pays any claim which by virtue of being statute-barred is not payable or if he makes any payment in respect of a claim after the end of the period allowed for the payment of claims in respect of election campaign expenditure¹⁴ or in respect of controlled expenditure incurred by or on behalf of a recognised third party¹⁵ or in respect of referendum expenses¹⁶;
- 63 (5) if he, as treasurer or deputy treasurer of a registered party, authorised election campaign expenditure to be incurred by or on behalf of the party during the specified period, and he knew or ought reasonably to have known that the expenditure would be incurred in excess of the statutory limitation that applies during that period¹⁷ or if he (or the responsible person, if the third party is not an individual) incurred controlled expenditure in the United Kingdom by or on behalf of a third party during a regulated period (whether that third party was a recognised third party¹⁸ or not¹⁹) and he knew or ought reasonably to have known that the expenditure would be incurred in excess of the statutory limitation that applies during that period²⁰;
- 64 (6) where a permitted participant²¹ or a body or individual who was not a permitted participant at a referendum incurred referendum expenses during the referendum period, and he²² knew, or ought reasonably to have known, that the expenses were being incurred or would be incurred in excess of the statutory limitation that applies during that period²³;
- 65 (7) where, at a local authority referendum, any referendum expenses are incurred in excess of the referendum expenses limit²⁴, and he knew or reasonably ought to have known that that limit would be exceeded, or if he, without reasonable excuse, authorised another person to exceed that limit²⁵;

- 66 (8) if, without reasonable excuse, he: (a) fails to deliver a required return as to expenditure to the Electoral Commission²⁶; or (b) delivers such a return which does not comply with the requirements as to the statements contained therein or as to the accompanying evidence²⁷; or (c) fails to report late payments²⁸, in respect of election campaign expenditure²⁹ or in respect of controlled expenditure incurred by or on behalf of a recognised third party³⁰ or in respect of referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of a permitted participant³¹;
- 67 (9) if he knowingly or recklessly makes a declaration as to election campaign expenditure falsely or if the requirements as to such a declaration are contravened at a time when he is treasurer of the registered party to which the return relates³² or if he knowingly or recklessly makes a declaration as to controlled expenditure falsely or if the requirements as to such a declaration are contravened at a time when he is the responsible person in the case of the recognised third party to which the return relates³³ or if he knowingly or recklessly makes a declaration as to referendum expenses falsely or if the requirements as to such a declaration are contravened at a time when he is the responsible person in the case of the permitted participant to which the return relates³⁴.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty³⁵.

A person also commits an offence if he accepts the office of deputy treasurer of a registered party when³⁶ he is not eligible to be so appointed³⁷; and a person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty³⁸.

A person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty⁹. At a referendum¹⁰, if a person without reasonable excuse fails to comply with the provisions which require principal donors¹¹ and agents acting on behalf of donors¹² to give the required details of each relevant donation¹³ made to a permitted participant¹⁴, he commits an offence¹⁵. A person guilty of such an offence is liable to a penalty¹⁶.

At an election, if a donation made by a person who is not a permissible donor at the time of its receipt by a registered party¹⁷ or by a recognised third party¹⁸ (as the case may be) is not sent back as required, the candidate or his election agent (in relation to the registered party) or the responsible person or the party itself (in relation to the recognised third party) is each guilty of an offence¹⁹; and if the required steps are not taken in relation to a donation where the registered party²⁰ or recognised third party²¹, as the case may be, is unable to ascertain the identity of the person offering it (whether because it is given anonymously or by reason of any deception or concealment or otherwise), the candidate or his election agent (in relation to the registered party) or the responsible person (in relation to the recognised third party) is each guilty of an offence²². In either case, a person found guilty of the offence is liable to a penalty²³. Financial penalty for sitting or voting in office where no financial returns or declarations are transmitted.

758. Financial penalty for sitting or voting in office where no financial returns or declarations are transmitted.

If, in the case of any candidate at a parliamentary election¹, the return² and declarations³ as to election expenses are not delivered before the expiration of the time limited for the purpose, that candidate must not after the expiration of that time sit or vote in the House of Commons as the member for the constituency⁴ for which the election was held⁵ until either that return and those declarations have been delivered⁶, or until the date of the allowance of an authorised excuse⁷ for the failure to deliver the same⁸, and if he sits or votes in contravention of this provision, he forfeits £100 for every day on which he so sits or votes⁹.

Similarly a candidate at a local government election¹⁰ must not, after the expiration of the expiration of the time limited for the purpose, sit or vote in the council for the local government area for which the election was held¹¹ to which he has been elected until the appropriate return and declaration or declarations¹² have been delivered or until the date of the allowance of an authorised excuse¹³, and, if he does so, he forfeits £50 for every day on which he so sits or votes¹⁴.

At a Welsh Assembly election¹⁵, if the appropriate return and declaration or declarations¹⁶ are not delivered before the expiry of the time limited for the purpose, the candidate must not, after the expiry of that time, sit or vote in the National Assembly for Wales as member for the Assembly constituency¹⁷ or Assembly electoral region¹⁸ for which the election was held until either that return and those declarations (or that declaration, as the case may be) have been delivered¹⁹ or the date of the allowance of an authorised excuse for the failure to deliver that return and those declarations or, as the case may be, that declaration²⁰, and if he sits or votes in contravention of this provision he forfeits £100 for every day on which he so sits or votes²¹.

Civil proceedings for a penalty under these provisions must be commenced within the period of one year beginning with the day in respect of which the penalty is alleged to have been incurred²². In respect of a candidate at a local government election²³, instead of civil proceedings for a penalty, summary proceedings may be instituted²⁴ in a magistrates' court and he is liable on conviction to a fine of an amount not exceeding the amount of the penalty that would be recoverable in civil proceedings²⁵.

(i) Method and Regulation of Procedure

759. Questioning parliamentary elections.

No parliamentary election¹ and no return to Parliament² may be questioned except by a petition (a 'parliamentary election petition')³ complaining of an undue election or undue return, which is presented in accordance with the statutory provisions⁴.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 does not define what is meant by an undue election or undue return, but a number of the provisions of that Act provide that a parliamentary election may be avoided for corrupt or illegal practices or similar offences⁵. The occurrence of these offences may form the ground for bringing an election petition. Further, certain persons are disqualified from being candidates at parliamentary elections⁶, and if such a person is elected, his election can only be questioned by an election petition⁷. A returning officer's decision that a nomination paper is invalid can be questioned on an election petition⁸. Other objections to a candidate's nomination can also be considered on an election petition⁹. When the result of the poll has been ascertained it is the returning officer's duty forthwith to declare the candidate to whom the majority of votes have been given to be elected¹⁰. If it is alleged that there has been a miscount, a petition may be brought demanding a recount¹¹; if it is contended that votes were wrongly admitted or rejected, a petition may claim the seat for an unsuccessful candidate on the ground that he had a majority of lawful votes¹². No parliamentary election is to be declared invalid by reason of any act or omission by the returning officer or any other person in breach of his official duty in connection with the election or otherwise of the parliamentary elections rules if it appears to the tribunal having cognisance of the question that the election was so conducted as to be substantially in accordance with the law as to elections and the act or omission did not affect the result¹³.

A petition complaining of no return is deemed to be a parliamentary election petition, and the High Court may make such order on the petition as it thinks expedient for compelling a return to be made or it may allow the petition to be heard by an election court¹⁴ as provided with respect to ordinary election petitions¹⁵.

1 For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante.

2 The distinction drawn by the statute between a petition questioning a parliamentary election and one questioning a return to Parliament does not appear in relation to a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 760 post.

760. Questioning local elections.

An election under the Local Government Act 1972¹ may be questioned on the following grounds: (1) that the person whose election is questioned was, at the time of the election, disqualified²; or (2) that the person whose election is questioned was not duly elected³; or (3) that the election was avoided by corrupt or illegal practices⁴; or (4) that corrupt or illegal practices or illegal payments, employments or hirings, committed with reference to the election for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of any person, have so extensively prevailed that they may be reasonably supposed to have affected the result⁵; or (5) that the candidate or his election agent personally engaged, as a canvasser or agent for the conduct or management of the election, any person whom he knew or had reasonable grounds for supposing to be subject to an incapacity to vote at the election by reason of his having been convicted of certain corrupt or illegal practices⁶. An election under the Local Government Act 1972 must not be questioned on any of these grounds except by an election petition⁷. A returning officer's decision that a nomination paper is invalid⁸ can be questioned on an election petition⁹. Other objections to a candidate's nomination have also been considered on an election petition¹⁰. An election under the Local Government Act 1972 can be declared invalid on the ground of irregularities on the part of election officials if it appears to the court that the election was not so conducted as to be substantially in accordance with the law as to elections or that the irregularities affected the result¹¹.

Application of provisions relating to questioning parliamentary and local elections to other polls.

761. Application of provisions relating to questioning parliamentary and local elections to other polls.

The statutory provisions relating to parliamentary and local election petitions¹, so far as they apply to the election of parish or community councillors or of the chairman of a parish or community council², have effect subject to such adaptations, modifications and exceptions as may be made by rules made by the Secretary of State³. The statutory provisions relating to the questioning of elections⁴ apply also to the election of the chairman of a parish meeting, and to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting relating to appointment to any other office, as though they were polls for elections of parish or community councillors, subject to certain modifications and adaptations⁵.

No return of an elected mayor or elected executive member at an election⁶ is to be questioned except by an election petition under the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983⁷ as applied by or incorporated in regulations made for the purpose⁸.

The provision made for the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 is applied and modified also for the purpose of questioning a local authority referendum⁹.

The reference in the text is to rules under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 36 (as amended) (see PARA 388 ante). The only modifications so made under the current rules are, in the case of parish or community elections, a reduction in the amount of the security which a petitioner must give for costs (see PARA 794 post) and the substitution of references to the returning officer for references to the proper officer of the authority: see the Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, r 6. As to the returning officer at a parish or community council election see PARA 359 ante. As to the Secretary of State see PARA 2 ante.

The provisions referred to in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 187(1) (as amended) are applied to such an election and to such polls as are mentioned in the text subject to the modifications that: (1) references to the proper officer of the authority for which the election was held are to be taken as references to the returning officer (Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987 r 6(b)); (2) references to the authority for which the election was held are to be taken as references to the parish and references to the area thereof are to be construed accordingly, except in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 130(6) (place of trial of petition: see PARA 804 post) (Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987 r 6(c)); (3) the amount of security for costs is reduced (see PARA 794 post) (r 6(f)); and (4) references to an election under the local government Act are to be deemed to include a reference to a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting (r 6(g)). As to the rules for polls consequent on a parish or community meeting generally see PARA 388 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the local government Act' see PARA 10 note 2 ante.

Although all polls consequent on a parish or community meeting must be conducted by ballot (see the Local Government Act 1972 Sch 12 para 18(5), 34(5) (as amended); and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 638), not all such polls relate to the election of officials, to which alone the statutory provisions as to the questioning of elections apply and the provisions do not apply to polls on a question other than a question of appointment to an office: Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987 r 6(a). As to the election of the chairman of a parish meeting see the Local Government Act 1972 ss 15(10), 88(3), Sch 12 paras 17, 33; and see PARA 207 ante. Although Sch 12 para 17(3) refers to the appointment of the chairman of a parish meeting and Sch 12 para 17(2) to the chairman being chosen, it is submitted that it is not intended to draw a distinction between his election and his being appointed or chosen: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 187(1). A parish or community meeting may have the right to elect to other offices, such as that of a charity trustee: see CHARITIES vol 8 (2010) PARA 265.

6 For the meanings of 'elected executive member' and 'elected mayor' see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 320. As to elections for the return of a local authority mayor see PARA 205 et seq ante. At the date at which this volume states the law, no provision had been made in relation to the return of executive members in England and Wales.

7 See note 1 supra.

8 See the Local Government Act 2000 s 44(4); and LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 320. Accordingly, for the purposes of s 44(4), the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt III (as amended) has effect in relation to the questioning of an election for the return of an elected mayor as it has effect in relation to the questioning of an election under the local government Act: Local Authorities (Mayoral Elections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2002, SI 2002/185, reg 6.

762. Questioning elections to the National Assembly for Wales.

No Welsh Assembly election¹ and no return² to the National Assembly for Wales may be questioned except by a petition complaining of an undue election or undue return (an 'Assembly election petition')³ presented in accordance with the statutory provisions⁴.

A petition complaining of no return is deemed to be an Assembly election petition and the High Court may make such order on the petition as it thinks expedient for compelling a return to be made⁵ or may allow the petition to be heard by an election court⁶ as provided with respect to ordinary Assembly election petitions⁷. A Welsh Assembly election can be declared invalid on the ground of irregularities on the part of election officials if it appears to the court that the election was not so conducted as to be substantially in accordance with the law as to elections or that the irregularities affected the result⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

2 For these purposes, the expression 'return' as the context requires refers to a return following an Assembly election or to a return under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 9 (election to fill a vacancy in an electoral region seat: see PARA 222 ante): National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 85(3). The provisions of the Government of Wales Act 1998 are superseded by the Government of Wales Act 2006 immediately after the ordinary election held in 2007 under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 3 (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS): see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 161(1), (4), (5). As to the provision that applies for these purposes after that date see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 11; and PARA 222 ante.

3 'Assembly election petition' includes a petition complaining of an undue return under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 9 (election to fill a vacancy in an electoral region seat: see PARA 222 ante): National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 85(1). 6 For these purposes, 'election court' means the judges presiding at the trial of an Assembly election petition: ibid art 2(1).

763. Questioning European parliamentary elections.

No European parliamentary election¹ and no declaration of the result by the returning officer² may be questioned except by a petition complaining of an undue election or undue declaration (a 'European parliamentary election petition') presented in accordance with the statutory provisions³.

A petition complaining that no declaration of the result has been given by the returning officer is deemed to be a European parliamentary election petition and the High Court may make such order on the petition as it thinks expedient for compelling a declaration of the result to be made⁴ or it may allow the petition to be heard by an election court as provided with respect to ordinary European parliamentary election petitions⁵.

No European parliamentary election petition may be brought on the grounds of the commission of corrupt or illegal practices, except on grounds of personation or other voting offences⁶, or where an application may be made⁷ for a declaration that a person who purports to be a member of the European Parliament ('MEP') for a particular electoral region is disqualified or was so disqualified at the time when, or at some time since, he was returned as an MEP⁸. A European parliamentary election can be declared invalid on the ground of irregularities on the part of election officials if it appears to the court that the election was not so conducted as to be substantially in accordance with the law as to elections or that the irregularities affected the result⁹.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(i) Method and Regulation of Procedure/764. Questioning local authority referendums.

764. Questioning local authority referendums.

A local authority referendum¹ may be questioned by petition (a 'referendum petition'): (1) on the ground that the result of the referendum was not in accordance with the votes cast²; (2) on the ground that the referendum was avoided by corrupt or illegal practices³; (3) on the grounds that corrupt or illegal practices or illegal payments, employments or hirings, committed with reference to the referendum for the purpose of promoting or procuring a particular result in the referendum, have so extensively prevailed that they may be reasonably supposed to have affected the result⁴; or (4) subject to head (3) above, on the ground that a payment of money or other reward has been made or promised since the referendum in pursuance of a corrupt or illegal practice relevant to local authority referendums⁵. Certain provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983⁶ which apply to the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁷ have effect, subject to minor modification, in relation to the questioning of a local authority referendum⁸.

Where a referendum petition is presented on any of the grounds specified in heads (1) to (3) above (or where leave is granted for the presentation of a referendum petition) in relation to a local authority referendum at which the question asked relates to proposals involving a leader and cabinet executive⁹ and in which the majority of the votes cast are 'yes' votes¹⁰, then: (a) if the petition is presented before the authority has passed the resolution required enabling it to operate the executive arrangements that were the subject of the referendum¹¹, the authority must take no further steps in consequence of the referendum until the election court has certified its determination in the matter of the referendum petition¹²; and (b) if the petition is presented after the authority has passed the resolution so required¹³, the authority must continue to operate the executive arrangements that are the subject of that resolution¹⁴.

Where a referendum petition is presented on any of the grounds specified in heads (1) to (3) above (or where leave is granted for the presentation of a referendum petition) in relation to a local authority referendum at which the question asked relates to proposals involving either a mayor and cabinet executive¹⁵ or a mayor and council manager executive¹⁶ and in which the majority of the votes cast are 'yes' votes¹⁷, and without an election for the return of an elected mayor having taken place in consequence of the referendum¹⁸, the local authority must take no further steps in consequence of the referendum until the election court has certified its determination in the matter of the referendum petition¹⁹. Where leave is granted for the presentation of a referendum petition at which the question asked relates to proposals involving either a mayor and cabinet executive²⁰ or a mayor and council manager executive²¹ and in which the majority of the votes cast are 'yes' votes²², and after an election for the return of an elected mayor has taken place in consequence of the referendum²³, the elected mayor must continue in office²⁴.

Where a referendum petition is presented on any of the grounds specified in heads (1) to (3) above (or where leave is granted for the presentation of a referendum petition) in relation to a local authority referendum in which the majority of the votes cast are 'no' votes²⁵, and where the local authority's outline fall-back proposals²⁶ are based on the executive or alternative arrangements²⁷ which it was operating at the date of the referendum²⁸, it must continue to operate those arrangements²⁹. However, where a referendum petition is presented on any of the grounds specified in heads (1) to (3) above (or where leave is granted for the presentation of a referendum petition) in relation to a referendum in which the majority of the votes cast are

'no' votes³⁰: (i) if the petition is presented before the local authority has passed the resolution required enabling it to operate either the executive arrangements that were the subject of the referendum³¹ or the existing alternative arrangements³², the local authority must take no further steps in consequence of the referendum until the election court has certified its determination in the matter of the referendum petition³³; and (ii) if the petition is presented after the local authority has passed either such resolution³⁴, the local authority must continue to operate the executive arrangements or, as the case may be, the alternative arrangements that are the subject of that resolution³⁵.

TEXT AND NOTES--SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(i) Method and Regulation of Procedure/765. Election petition rules.

765. Election petition rules.

The authority having power to make rules of court for the Supreme Court may make rules for the purposes of election petitions¹. The power is exercisable by statutory instrument² which is subject to annulment in pursuance of a resolution of either House of Parliament³.

Subject to the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983⁴ (and, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the rules provided as to the conduct of elections for the return of Assembly members⁵ and, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European parliamentary elections rules⁶) and subject to the rules governing the procedure for petitions⁷, the practice and procedure of the High Court apply to a petition as if it were an ordinary claim within the High Court's jurisdiction, notwithstanding any different practice, principle or rule on which the committees of the House of Commons used to act in dealing with such petitions⁸.

1 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 133(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 120(1). Rules of court mean either election petition rules made or rules having effect as if made under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182 (prospectively amended) or rules of the Supreme Court made or having effect as if made under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 84 (as amended) (see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 577-578): see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1.

As from a day to be appointed under the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 148(1), the reference in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182(1) to the Supreme Court is replaced by a reference to the Senior Courts: see s 182(1) (prospectively amended by the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(5), Sch 11 para 28(1), (3)(a)). At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

2 For the purposes of the Statutory Instruments Act 1946 (see STATUTES vol 44(1) (Reissue) PARA 1503), this power is to be treated as if conferred on a Minister of the Crown: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182(2)(a); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 133(2)(a); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 120(2)(a).

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182(2)(b); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 133(2)(b); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 120(2)(b). As respects parliamentary elections (see PARA 759 ante) and elections under the Local Government Act 1972 (see PARA 760 ante), the current rules are the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543 (as amended). Those rules have effect in relation to a Welsh Assembly election petition (as to which see PARA 762 ante) as if made in the exercise of the power conferred by the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 133(1), subject to the modifications set out in Sch 9: art 133(3). The Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543 (as amended) also have effect in relation to a local authority referendum petition (as to which see PARA 764 ante) as they have effect in relation to a local election petition within the meaning of those rules subject to the modifications set out, in relation to England, in the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, Sch 7 (see reg 19(9)) and, in relation to Wales, in the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, Sch 6 (see reg 15(9)). As respects European parliamentary elections (see PARA 763 ante), the current rules are, by virtue of the Interpretation Act 1978 s 17(2)(b), the European Parliamentary Election Petition Rules 1979, SI 1979/521 (as amended).

4 Ie including those provisions applied and modified for the purposes of a local authority referendum (see PARA 764 ante).

Where the day or last day on which anything is required or permitted to be done by, or in pursuance of, the provisions governing the questioning of elections and referendums¹ is a Saturday or Sunday, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, Good Friday, a bank holiday² or any day appointed for public thanksgiving or mourning, the requirement or permission is deemed to relate to the first day after that which is not one of those days³. In computing any period of not more than seven days, any of those days is to be disregarded⁴.

Any period of time prescribed by the rules governing the procedure for petitions⁵ for the purposes of: (1) applications made by the petitioner to fix the amount of security for costs which he is to give⁶; (2) service by the petitioner on the respondent⁷ and on the Director of Public Prosecutions of a notice of the presentation of the petition and of the nature and amount of the security which he has given⁸; and (3) service by the respondent on the petitioner of any notice of his objection to a recognisance⁹ and the issue and service on the petitioner of an application notice to determine the validity or otherwise of the objection¹⁰, must be computed in accordance with the provisions set out above¹¹ and must not be varied by order or otherwise¹². Accordingly, there is no scope available for a court to order service out of time under these provisions whose mandatory nature cannot be avoided¹³ despite the draconian regime as regards time for service to which this gives rise¹⁴.

Otherwise (that is, except for the purposes set out in heads (1) to (3) above) the relevant provisions of the Civil Procedure Rules¹⁵ apply to any period of time prescribed by the rules which govern the procedure for petitions as if it were prescribed by the Civil Procedure Rules¹⁶.

In the latter case, Laws J at 670, 136-137 cited Carter v Griffiths (28 July 1981, unreported) (rejecting a submission that the predecessor provisions to the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 136 were directory only), and noted that Ralph Gibson J in Carter v Griffiths supra cited Devan Nair v Yong Kuan Teik [1967] 2 AC 31 at 44-45, [1967] 2 All ER 34 at 40, PC, in a case concerning similar rules in respect of election petitions in Malaysia, where Williams v Tenby Corp'n supra was stated to be 'plainly rightly decided'. Devan Nair v Yong Kuan Teik supra was considered to be highly persuasive in Ahmed v Kennedy, Ullah v Pagel supra, which also overruled Young v Figgins, The Shrewsbury Petition (1869) 19 LT 499 (in which a failure to serve a respondent was characterised as a 'formal objection' to be ignored under a rule in the Election Petition Rules 1868 (no equivalent to which survives in the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543)). Where a notice has been timeously served by a petitioner but it does not satisfy all the requirements of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 136(3) (as substituted) (see PARA 796 post), the court will regard it as a complete failure to give the required notice within the prescribed time, and the petition will be struck out as being a nullity: Ahmed v Kennedy, Ullah v Pagel [2002] EWCA Civ 1793, [2003] 2 All ER 440, [2003] 1 WLR 1820, approving and applying Absalom v Gillett supra. Minor defects (such as those arising from typographical errors or mistakes in photocopying) might be remediable but the question of which errors are fatal, and which are remediable, will depend on the facts of each case: see Ahmed v Kennedy supra at [28] per Simon Brown LJ (obiter). Ahmed v Kennedy supra was applied in Saghir v Najib [2005] EWHC 417 (QB), [2005] All ER (D) 353 (Mar), where the petitioners' failure to place an amended petition on the court file was held to constitute a failure to serve properly notice of the petition together with a copy, and their failure to state, in the notice as to the nature and amount of security, the date on which security had actually been given also constituted a failure properly to serve that notice. In Hussein v Khan [2006] EWHC 262 (QB), [2006] All ER (D) 348 (Feb), a request for an extension of time was determined by considering not only the reasons for the delay but also the strength and merit of the case which the petition disclosed, an approach which was justified on the basis that two competing public interests were considered to be in play: firstly, that of ensuring the propriety and freedom from corruption of elections; and, secondly, that of ensuring that election petitions were dealt with speedily. On the facts of the case, however, the application was dismissed as disclosing no cause of action and because, given the time the petitioners had already had, it would not have been appropriate to permit them even more time to produce an amended petition.

767. Constitution of the court.

A parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition¹ is tried by two judges on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions². The judges to be placed on this rota in each year are to be selected, in such manner as may be provided by rules of court, from the judges of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court exclusive of any who are members of the House of Lords³. A judge on the rota is eligible again in the succeeding or any subsequent year⁴. Notwithstanding the expiry of the year for which a judge has been placed on the rota he may act as if that year had not expired for the purpose of continuing to deal with, giving judgment in, or dealing with any ancillary matter relating to, any case with which he may have been concerned during that year⁵.

The judges for the time being on the rota try the election petitions standing for trial according to their seniority unless they otherwise agree⁶.

The judges presiding at the trial of an election petition are called 'the election court'⁷.

UPDATE

768 Appointment of masters

NOTE 3--Appointed day is 1 October 2009: SI 2009/1604.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(ii) Election Court/A. PARLIAMENTARY, NATIONAL ASSEMBLY FOR WALES AND EUROPEAN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS/769. Jurisdiction, status and practice of the election court.

769. Jurisdiction, status and practice of the election court.

Subject to the relevant provisions governing elections¹, the election court has the same powers, jurisdiction and authority as a High Court judge; and the election court² is a court of record³. Subject to those provisions and the rules made thereunder⁴, the principles, practice and rules on which committees of the House of Commons used to act in dealing with election petitions are to be observed, so far as may be, by the High Court and election court in the case of parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election petitions⁵.

Where the petition alleges the commission of corrupt or illegal practices, the election court has quasi-inquisitorial as well as judicial duties, as the court must investigate and report whether any corrupt or illegal practices have been committed by, or with the consent of, the candidate, or by any other person, or whether they have extensively prevailed⁶.

1 I.e., in relation to a parliamentary election, the Representation of the People Act 1983 or, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284 (as amended) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293.

2 For the meaning of 'election court' for these purposes see PARA 767 ante.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 123(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 88(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 91(2). It is uncertain whether judicial review is available as respects the determination of an election court. In R v Election Court, ex p Sheppard [1975] 2 All ER 723 at 725, [1975] 1 WLR 1319 at 1323, DC, Lord Widgery CJ said (obiter) that 'it is quite clear that the election court which deals with parliamentary elections, consisting, as it will do, of a Queen's Bench judge, is a superior court and it is clear that no question of the prerogative orders could be available'. In R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon [1984] QB 68 at 88, [1983] 3 All ER 72 at 83, DC, Robert Goff LJ left open this question but doubted (obiter) whether the fact that the court consists of a High Court judge was conclusive of the question; however, on appeal, this question was left open (see [1984] QB 686 at 698, [1984] 2 All ER 705 at 712, CA, per Sir John Donaldson MR). See also PARA 777 note 3 post.

4 As to the current rules see PARA 765 note 3 ante.

5 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 157(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 106(2). As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; and as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante. There is no equivalent provision for the purposes of European parliamentary election petitions because corrupt and illegal practices may be cited in such petitions only when they are related to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(ii) Election Court/A. PARLIAMENTARY, NATIONAL ASSEMBLY FOR WALES AND EUROPEAN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS/770. Jurisdiction of judges on rota and master.

770. Jurisdiction of judges on rota and master.

An application for leave to pay claims for election expenses sent in too late¹, and an application for an injunction to restrain the publication of false statements about a candidate², must, in so far as application is made to the High Court, be heard by one of the judges on the rota or by a master³. An application to amend a parliamentary election petition⁴ and an application for the remission of incapacities on the ground that the evidence was perjured⁵ must be heard by one of the judges on the rota or by a master. Certain other matters may, in so far as application is made to the High Court⁶, be heard only by one of the judges on the rota and not by a master. They are as follows: an application for relief in respect of failure to make the return and declaration as to election expenses⁷; and an application to except an innocent act from being an illegal practice, payment, employment or hiring⁸. In all the foregoing cases the jurisdiction is subject to rules of court⁹.

If practicable, any jurisdiction conferred on a judge by the Election Petition Rules 1960¹⁰ or the European Parliamentary Election Petition Rules 1979¹¹ is to be exercised by a rota judge, and, if not, by some other judge of the Queen's Bench Division¹², and any jurisdiction conferred by those rules on a master is to be exercised by the prescribed officer¹³ or in his absence by some other master of the Queen's Bench Division¹⁴. If practicable, matters relating to the trial of a petition, and most questions of an interim nature, should be heard by one of the judges on the rota¹⁵.

1 See PARA 281 ante.

2 See PARA 669 ante.

3 As to the rota see PARA 767 ante. Application may be made to the county court instead: see PARAS 281, 669 ante.

4 See PARA 792 post.

5 As to the mitigation and remission of incapacities see PARA 907 post.

6 As to applications to the county court in these matters see PARAS 691, 693 ante.

7 See PARA 691 ante.

8 See PARA 693 ante.

9 Rules of court mean either election petition rules made or having effect as if made under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 182 (prospectively amended) (see PARA 765 ante), or rules of the Supreme Court made or having effect as if made under the Supreme Court Act 1981 s 84 (as amended) (see COURTS vol 10 (Reissue) PARAS 577-578): see the Interpretation Act 1978 s 5, Sch 1. The rules of the Supreme Court provide that proceedings in the High Court under the Representation of the People Acts are to be assigned to the Queen's Bench Division (CPR Sch 1 RSC Ord 94 r 5(1)) and the jurisdiction of the High Court under those Acts in matters relating to parliamentary and local government elections is in general to be exercised by a Divisional Court (CPR Sch 1 RSC Ord 94 r 5(2)), but this does not take away from a single judge or master any jurisdiction under those Acts which would be otherwise exercisable by a single judge or, as the case may be, by a master (CPR Sch 1 RSC Ord 94 r 5(3)). Where the jurisdiction of the High Court is by a provision of any of those Acts made exercisable in matters relating to parliamentary elections by a single judge, that jurisdiction in matters relating to local government elections is also to be exercisable by a single judge: CPR Sch 1 RSC Ord 94 r 5(4). For the meaning of 'the Representation of the People Acts' see PARA 3 note 1 ante.

As from a day to be appointed, the Supreme Court is renamed the Senior Courts, and the Supreme Court Act 1981 is renamed the Senior Courts Act 1981: see the Constitutional Reform Act 2005 s 59(1), (5), Sch 11 para 1. At the date at which this volume states the law, no such day had been appointed.

B. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS AND LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUMS

773. Constitution of the court.

A petition questioning a local authority referendum¹ or an election under the Local Government Act 1972² is tried by an election court consisting of a person qualified and appointed as follows³.

A person is not qualified to constitute an election court⁴: (1) unless he has a 10-year High Court qualification⁵; or (2) if the court is for the trial of an election or referendum petition (as the case may be) relating to any local government area⁶ in which he resides⁷.

The judges for the time being on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions⁸, or any two of those judges⁹: (a) may annually appoint as many qualified persons, not exceeding five, as they may think necessary as commissioners for the trial of petitions questioning a local authority referendum or elections under the Local Government Act 1972 (as the case may be)¹⁰; and (b) must from time to time assign the petitions to be tried by each commissioner¹¹.

If a commissioner to whom the trial of a petition is assigned dies, or becomes incapable of acting or declines to act, the rota judges (or two of them) may assign the trial to be conducted or continued by another of the commissioners so appointed¹².

A shorthand writer must also attend the trial of a local election or local authority referendum petition⁵. This officer is appointed by the commissioner to whom the trial is assigned and he is entitled to be paid expenses on the same scale as a shorthand writer attending the trial of an action in the Queen's Bench Division⁶. The commissioner may also appoint a proper person to act as his clerk for the purposes of the trial⁷.

775. Court accommodation and attendance; repayment of expenses.

The proper officer¹ of the authority for which the local government election² or local authority referendum³ was held (or, in the case of a parish or community election, the returning officer at that election⁴) must provide suitable accommodation for holding the election court⁵, and any expenses incurred by him for this purpose must be paid by that authority⁶.

The election court appointed for the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum or an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁷ may, in its discretion, order that the expenses incurred by the proper officer of the authority in receiving the election court, be repaid wholly or in part to the proper officer⁸: (1) by the petitioner, if in the opinion of the election court the petition is frivolous and vexatious⁹; or (2) by the respondent, when in the opinion of the election court he has been personally guilty of corrupt practices at the election or referendum (as the case may be)¹⁰. Such an order may be enforced as an order for payment of costs¹¹, but a deposit made or a security given¹² is not to be applied for any such repayment to the proper officer until all costs and expenses payable by the petitioner or respondent to any party to the petition have been satisfied¹³.

All constables and bailiffs must give their assistance to the court in the execution of its duties¹⁴.

The remuneration and allowances to be paid to the commissioner for his services in respect of the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum¹ or an election under the Local Government Act 1972², and to any officers, clerks or shorthand writers³ employed in relation to the trial, are fixed by a scale, which is made and may be varied by the judges on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions⁴, with Treasury approval⁵. The remuneration and allowances are paid in the first instance by the Treasury, but they must be repaid to the Treasury on its certificate by the authority for which the election or referendum (as the case may be) was held⁶.

The election court appointed for the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum or an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁷ may, in its discretion, order that the remuneration and allowances payable to the commissioner in respect of the trial of an election or referendum petition (as the case may be), and to any officers, clerks or shorthand writers be repaid wholly or in part to the Treasury⁸: (1) by the petitioner, if in the opinion of the election court the petition is frivolous and vexatious⁹; or (2) by the respondent, when in the opinion of the election court he has been personally guilty of corrupt practices at the election or referendum (as the case may be)¹⁰. 776-777 Remuneration of commissioner and staff; repayment of expenses, Election court's jurisdiction

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(ii) Election Court/B. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS AND LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUMS/777. Election court's jurisdiction.

777. Election court's jurisdiction.

For the purposes of the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum¹ or an election under the Local Government Act 1972², the election court has the same powers and privileges as a judge on the trial of a parliamentary election petition³. However, it is probable that these powers are inapplicable once the trial has been concluded⁴.

Where the petition alleges the commission of corrupt or illegal practices, the election court has quasi-inquisitorial, as well as judicial, duties, as the court must investigate and report whether any corrupt or illegal practices have been committed (and by whom) or whether they have extensively prevailed⁵.

Any jurisdiction conferred on a judge by the Election Petition Rules 1960⁶ should, where practicable, be exercised by a judge on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions⁷ and, if not, by some other judge of the Queen's Bench Division⁸. Any such jurisdiction conferred by those rules on a master is exercised by the prescribed officer⁹ or, in his absence, by some other master of the Queen's Bench Division¹⁰.

Subject to the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 and of the rules made under it¹¹, the principles, practice and rules on which committees of the House of Commons used to act in dealing with election petitions must be observed, so far as may be, by the High Court and election court in the case of petitions questioning elections under the Local Government Act 1972¹².

1 le a referendum, in relation to England, under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, and, in relation to Wales, under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870. For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante.

2 As to the questioning of an election in England and Wales under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 130(5); and see note 1 supra. As to the trial of parliamentary election petitions see PARA 767 et seq ante. It was on the basis of this provision in an earlier enactment that it was held that the local election court was a court of record: R v Maidenhead Corpn (1882) 9 QBD 494 at 500, CA, per Jessell MR. That case was not referred to in the judgment in R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon [1984] QB 68, [1983] 2 All ER 72, DC, where it was held that the election court was an inferior court subject to judicial review by the High Court; however, on appeal, this point was left open since, on the facts of the case, the High Court could exercise jurisdiction anyway in respect of an order as to costs, and it was said that it was 'unnecessary to reach any decision as to the jurisdiction of the Divisional Court in relation to the work of a local election court. That jurisdiction depends on the local election court being an 'inferior court' and not a 'superior court of record' (see [1984] QB 686 at 698, [1984] 2 All ER 705 at 712, CA, per Sir John Donaldson MR). More recently, it has become accepted that the decision of an election commissioner sitting as a local election court is susceptible to judicial review: see eg R v Rowe, ex p Mainwaring [1992] 4 All ER 821, [1992] 1 WLR 1059, CA (a case on appeal from the Divisional Court which had judicially reviewed the decision of an election commissioner); and see R (on the application of Afzal) v Election Court [2005] EWCA Civ 647, [2005] LGR 823.

4 R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon [1984] QB 686 at 697, [1984] 2 All ER 705 at 712, CA, per Sir John Donaldson MR. These remarks were in the context of the exercise of the 'slip rule' power of the High Court which, in the view of the Court of Appeal, had been imported by virtue of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 130(5). But the variation in the order as to costs which the commissioner had purported to make after the trial of the local election petition in that case had been concluded did not in any event fall within the slip rule because it made a substantial alteration and did not correct an ambiguity. The Court of Appeal pointed to a judge's power to reconsider or vary prior to the conclusion of a trial apart from the slip rule: R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon supra at 695 and 710 per Sir John Donaldson MR. However, 'once the order has been perfected the trial judge is functus officio and in his capacity as the trial judge has no further power to reconsider or vary his decision whether under the slip rule or otherwise': R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon supra at 695 and 710 per Sir John Donaldson MR.

778. Form and contents of election petition.

A parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition¹ must be in the prescribed form², and must state: (1) in which capacity the petitioner or each of the petitioners presents the petition³; (2) the date and result of the election to which the petition relates, and, in the case of a parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election petition, the date on which the return was made to the Clerk of the Crown or to the National Assembly for Wales (as the case may be) of the member declared to have been elected⁴; (3) in the case of a petition alleging corrupt or illegal practices⁵, the date from which the time for the presentation of the petition is to be calculated⁶; and (4) the grounds on which relief is sought, setting out with sufficient particularity the facts relied on but not the evidence by which they are to be proved⁷. It is sufficient for the petition to allege the grounds generally, and a petition alleging that the respondent and his agents are charged with bribery, corruption and undue influence, and also with illegal practices, would in form be sufficient⁸. A general allegation in a petition must not, however, be so worded as effectively to include acts not committed until after the presentation of the petition, and if the petitioner proposes to proceed upon charges of any such acts, he must amend the petition⁹. The petition must conclude with a prayer setting out particulars of the relief claimed¹⁰, and must be signed by the petitioner or all the petitioners if more than one¹¹.

Who may present an election petition.

779. Who may present an election petition.

A parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition¹ may be presented by any one or more of the following persons: (1) a person who voted as an elector, or who had a right so to vote, at the election to which the petition relates²; or (2) a person claiming to have had a right to be returned or elected at the election³; or (3) a person alleging himself to have been a candidate at the election⁴.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante; and as to European parliamentary election petitions see PARA 763 ante.

2 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 121(1)(a); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 86(1)(a); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 89(1)(a). The reference in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 121(1)(a) to a person who voted as an elector at a parliamentary election or who had the right so to vote does not include a person who had an anonymous entry in the register of electors: s 121(1A) (added by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 10(2), Sch 1 paras 2, 11). For the meaning of 'anonymous entry' in relation to a register of electors see PARA 174 ante.

The words set out in head (1) in the text prima facie include a person who has voted without being entitled to do so. In Harford v Linskey [1899] 1 QB 852, DC, at 859 and 862, Wright J (quoting the Municipal Corporations Act 1882 s 88 (repealed), the words of which are, as regards this point, substantially the same) expressed the view that those words would cover the case of a voter who had no right to vote. The point seems never to have been decided. The fact of the mention of the alternative in the section tends to show that such a case is included, as otherwise, it is submitted, it would have been sufficient to say merely 'some person who had a right to vote'. The question was raised but not decided in Walsall Case (1892) cited in Day 1.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 121(1)(b); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 86(1)(b); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 89(1)(b). A person who is incapable of being duly elected because he is too young could not be a person claiming the right to be elected for the purposes of this provision: Hobson v Fishburn (1988) Times, 21 November, DC (but see note 4 infra). In relation to a Welsh Assembly election, it is provided that a person claiming to have had a right to be returned under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 9(6) (vacancy in electoral region seat: see PARA 222 ante) also may present a petition: National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 86(1)(d). The provisions of the Government of Wales Act 1998 are superseded by the Government of Wales Act 2006 immediately after the ordinary election held in 2007 under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 3 (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS): see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 161(1), (4), (5). As to the provision that applies for these purposes after that date see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 11(6); and PARA 222 ante.

4 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 121(1)(c); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 86(1)(c); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 89(1)(c). For the meaning of 'candidate' see PARA 237 ante. As to the nomination of a candidate see PARA 262 et seq ante. In Hobson v Fishburn (1988) Times, 21 November DC, a person who was too young to be duly elected but who had been nominated as a candidate could have brought an election petition under the provision set out in head (3) in the text (but see note 3 supra). See also Harford v Linskey [1899] 1 QB 852 at 859 per Wright J (who said, quoting the Municipal Corporations Act 1882 s 88 (repealed) (the words of which are, as regards this point, substantially the same), that the words of the statute seem designed to express something wider than absolutely valid candidature).

NOTE 2--SI 2004/293 reg 89(1A) added: SI 2009/186.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(iii) Petitions/A. PARLIAMENTARY, NATIONAL ASSEMBLY FOR WALES AND EUROPEAN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS/780. Respondent.

780. Respondent.

The respondent to a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition¹ is the member of Parliament or Welsh Assembly member or member of the European Parliament ('MEP') whose election or return is complained of². Where, however, a parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election petition complains of the conduct of a returning officer³, he is deemed to be a respondent for the purposes of the provisions⁴ as to election petitions⁵. The allegation against the returning officer need not necessarily be one of wilful misconduct, and he may be joined as a respondent where the acts or omissions or negligence complained of are not personal but are those of his subordinates⁶.

An unsuccessful candidate cannot be made a respondent to an election petition against his will⁷. However, a petition may be presented complaining of the election or return of a member who has since died⁸.

² Representation of the People Act 1983 s 121(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 86(2); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 89(2).

If it is proposed to give evidence at the hearing of an election petition to implicate the returning officer, he should be made a respondent: Tamworth Case, Hill and Walton v Peel and Bulwer (1869) 20 LT 181, 1 O'M & H 75 (it being proposed to offer evidence implicating the returning officer, Willes J refused leave to have him called as a witness, as no charge had been made against him in the petition). It seems that a returning officer who is so deemed to be a respondent is entitled to the same notices as to presentation of the petition, the proposed security, etc, as an ordinary respondent: see Young v Figgins (1868) 19 LT 499.

⁶ Islington, West Division Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 120; Drogheda Borough Case (1874) 2 O'M & H 201; Warrington Case, Crozier v Rylands (1869) 19 LT 812, 1 O'M & H 42; but see, contra, Harmon v Park (1880) 6 QBD 323, CA; Cirencester Case (1893) cited in Day 3. In the latter case, on a summons being taken out by a respondent for leave to serve the petition on the returning officer, Mathew J refused it on the ground that it was unnecessary, as by the fact of the returning officer's conduct being complained of he was already deemed to be a respondent; but on a summons being subsequently taken out by the returning officer for particulars of the charges against him, Cave J held that he was not a party, as wilful misconduct was not alleged against him. It is submitted that the view expressed by Mathew J is the correct view of the position of a returning officer against whose conduct of the election complaint is made in the petition. Cf the judgment of Lord Selbourne LC in Harmon v Park supra at 328-329; and see Haverfordwest Case, Davies v Lord Kensington (1874) LR 9 CP 720, DC; Athlone Borough Election Petition (1874) 2 O'M & H 186; Clare, Eastern Division Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 162.

The reason for this is that the proceeding is not of a personal nature against a dead man. It is the assertion of a right in rem: Tipperary County Case supra. Where it is alleged that the votes given for the successful candidate were votes thrown away (see PARA 843 post), there might be advantages in proceeding with the petition.

781. Notice of respondent's intention not to oppose.

Not less than seven days before the day fixed for the trial¹, a respondent who does not intend to oppose a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition² must serve notice to that effect on the petitioner and the Director of Public Prosecutions³. The giving of notice by a respondent of his intention not to oppose the petition does not of itself cause him to cease to be a respondent⁴.

782. Mode of presentation of election petition.

A parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition¹ must be presented to the High Court if the constituency² or the electoral region³ to which it relates is in England or Wales⁴. The petition is presented by delivering it to the prescribed officer⁵ or otherwise by dealing with it in the prescribed manner⁶, that is by filing it in the election petitions office⁷ and at the same time leaving three copies there⁸. It is the duty of the prescribed officer to send a copy of the election petition to the returning officer of the constituency or electoral region (as the case may be) to which the petition relates⁹, and the returning officer must forthwith publish it in that constituency or electoral region¹⁰.

Time for presentation of election petition.

783. Time for presentation of election petition.

In general, a parliamentary election petition¹ must be presented within 21 days² after the return of the member to whose election it relates has been made to the Clerk of the Crown³. The return of a member at a parliamentary election is not made until the writ with the returning officer's certificate endorsed on it reaches the Clerk of the Crown so that he may act on it⁴, and the period of 21 days does not begin to run until then⁵. In general, a Welsh Assembly election petition⁶ must be presented within 21 days after the day on which the name of any member to whose election or return the petition relates has been returned⁷. In general, a European parliamentary election petition⁸ must be presented within 21 days after the day on which the relevant result was declared in accordance with the European parliamentary elections rules⁹.

If, at a parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election, the return or the election is challenged on an allegation of corrupt practices¹⁰, and the petition specifically alleges a payment of money or other reward¹¹ to have been made by the member or on his account or with his privity since the time of the return in pursuance or in furtherance of the alleged corrupt practice, it may be presented within 28 days after the date of such payment¹². A parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election petition questioning a return or an election upon an allegation of an illegal practice may, so far as respects the illegal practice, be presented not later than the expiration of 21 days after the specified day¹³. The specified day for this purpose is the tenth day after the end of the time allowed for delivering to the returning officer returns as to election expenses at the election or, if later¹⁴: (1) that on which the returning officer receives the return and declarations as to election expenses by the member to whose election the petition relates and his election agent¹⁵; or, (2) where the return and declarations are received on different days, the last of those days¹⁶; or (3) where there is an authorised excuse for failing to make the return and declarations, the date of the allowance of the excuse or, if there was a failure as regards two or more of them and the excuse was allowed at different times, the date of the allowance of the last excuse¹⁷. Moreover, if the petition specifically alleges a payment of money to have been made or some other act to have been done since the specified day by the member or an agent of the member, or with the privity of the member or his election agent, in pursuance or in furtherance of the illegal practice alleged in the petition, the petition may be presented within 28 days after the date of the payment or other act¹⁸.

9 European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 90. For the meaning of 'European parliamentary elections rules' see PARA 388 ante. The text refers to the day on which the result of the election was declared under reg 9(1), Sch 1 para 56 (see PARA 491 ante).

10 This includes a petition complaining that corrupt or illegal practices, or illegal payments, employments or hirings, have extensively prevailed even though the alleged offences are or include offences other than corrupt practices: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 122(7); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 87(7). There is no equivalent provision for the purposes of European parliamentary election petitions because corrupt and illegal practices may be cited in such petitions only when they are related to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante.

11 'Payment' includes any pecuniary or other reward; and 'pecuniary reward' and 'money' include any office, place or employment and any valuable security or equivalent for money and any valuable consideration: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 185; National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 136.

As to European parliamentary election petitions see note 10 supra. The payment, unlike a payment in furtherance of an illegal practice, may have been made at any time since the election. However, in Kidderminster Case (1874) 2 O'M & H 170 at 172, Mellor J (on the previous, but similar, statutory wording) expressed the opinion that the case must be confined to payments made within the 28 days and may not embrace those made within the 21 days after the return. There is nothing in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 122(2) corresponding to the words 'so far as respects that illegal practice' in s 122(3) (see the text and note 13 infra). It would seem, however, that the corresponding limitation is to be implied: see Kidderminster Case supra at 172 per Mellor J; Brecon Borough Case, Watkins and Watkins v Holford (1871) 2 O'M & H 43.

It would seem that extended time would not be allowed if another petition had already been heard and dismissed: see PARA 856 post; and cf paras 791, 859 post. This would seem to be the case where the petition was against a candidate first declared to be successful on the hearing of a petition against another candidate: cf Taunton Case, Waygood v James (1869) LR 4 CP 361.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(iii) Petitions/A. PARLIAMENTARY, NATIONAL ASSEMBLY FOR WALES AND EUROPEAN PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS/784. Amendment of election petition.

784. Amendment of election petition.

If a parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election petition¹ has been presented within the period of 21 days from the making of the return or, where the petition contains an allegation of corrupt practice and a specific allegation of payment, within 28 days after that payment², then, for the purpose of questioning the return or the election upon an allegation of an illegal practice, the petition may be amended with the leave of the High Court³ within the time within which a petition questioning the election upon the allegation of that illegal practice could be presented⁴. The provisions as to the time of presentation of a petition alleging an illegal practice⁵ or the amendment of such a petition⁶ apply whether or not the act constituting the alleged illegal practice amounted to a corrupt practice, and they apply also to the corrupt practices of incurring or aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the incurring of certain expenses not authorised by the election agent, or making a false declaration about such expenses⁷, as if they were illegal practices⁸. An affidavit in support of the application is desirable⁹.

The High Court has no jurisdiction to allow an amendment of a petition after the time prescribed by statute by the introduction of a fresh substantive charge¹⁰; nor to allow a petitioner to change the grounds on which he claims he has capacity to bring the petition¹¹; nor to convert an offence charged under one statutory provision into an offence against another related provision, although the facts might support the latter offence¹². It is submitted that there is no jurisdiction to allow an amendment introducing a fresh charge, whether the charge sought to be added is one of a fresh nature, or whether it is one only of a fresh instance not covered by the allegations in the petition as standing¹³.

The objection to adding a charge after the time for presenting a petition has elapsed does not apply to withdrawing a charge, and it would seem that this may be done. The withdrawal of that portion of a petition which claims the seat cannot, however, be effected by way of amendment because the rights of the electors would be affected by their not having the opportunity of substituting another petitioner¹⁴.

Allegations which disclose no offence or which are otherwise immaterial may be struck out¹⁵.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; and as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante. There is no equivalent provision for the purposes of European parliamentary election petitions because corrupt and illegal practices may be cited in such petitions only when they are related to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante.

The petition must state: (1) (except in the case of a local authority referendum petition) in which capacity the petitioner or each of the petitioners presents the petition⁴; (2) the date and result of the election or referendum (as the case may be) to which the petition relates⁵; (3) in the case of a petition alleging a corrupt or illegal practice at an election⁶ or in the case of any referendum petition, the date from which the time for the presentation of the petition is to be calculated⁷; and (4) the grounds on which relief is sought, setting out with sufficient particularity the facts relied on but not the evidence by which they are to be proved⁸.

The petition must conclude with a prayer setting out particulars of the relief claimed⁹, and must be signed by the petitioner¹⁰.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(iii) Petitions/B. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS AND LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUMS/789. Who may be respondent.

789. Who may be respondent.

A person whose election under the Local Government Act 1972¹ is questioned by a petition may be made a respondent to it². Additionally, in the case of such an election, or in the case of any local authority referendum³, any returning officer of whose conduct a petition complains may be made a respondent to the petition⁴. Two or more candidates (in the case of an election) or two or more persons (in the case of a referendum) may be made respondents to the same petition, but the petition is deemed to be a separate petition against each respondent⁵. A petition may be presented complaining of the election of a person who has since died⁶.

Where the ground on which a petition seeks to avoid the respondent's election applies equally to another candidate elected at the same election (but who is not a respondent to the petition), it is not a necessary condition to the hearing and determining of the respondent's petition that the other candidate should be joined as a respondent⁷, the underlying premise being that a petition is not competent for the purpose of obtaining relief whose effect would be to unseat an elected candidate unless the person whose election is being questioned has been joined as a respondent to the election petition⁸.

1 For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. As to the questioning of an election in England and Wales under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante.

2 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 128(2). However, an unsuccessful candidate cannot be made a respondent to an election petition against his will: Maidenhead Case, Lovering v Dawson (No 1) (1875) LR 10 CP 711; Yates v Leach (1874) LR 9 CP 605.

4 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 128(2); and see note 3 supra. In Absalom v Gillett [1995] 2 All ER 661, [1995] 1 WLR 128, it was held that the presiding officer may be presumed to be the returning officer for the purposes of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 128(2) in relation to an uncontested election. However, this case may have application only to City of London elections (within which context the point arose), as such elections are governed by local Acts which do not provide an equivalent remedy to that contained in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 35 (as amended) (returning officers for local elections in England and Wales: see PARA 359 ante).

5 Ibid s 138(3); and see note 3 supra. The petitions are tried together: see PARA 803 post. The court in Pease v Norwood (1869) LR 4 CP 235 seemed to doubt whether the provision by which the petition is deemed to be a separate petition against each respondent had any substantial effect. 8 Absalom v Gillett [1995] 2 All ER 661 at 671, [1995] 1 WLR 128 at 138 per Laws J, in the context of a petition questioning a City of London election, applying Line v Warren (1885) 14 QBD 548 at 552-554, CA, per Brett MR. Common justice dictates that a successful candidate whose election and status as a democratic representative is impugned by litigation ought to be heard; because the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 128(2) defines the potential respondents to a petition under s 128(1), the subjunctive 'may' is a word of limitation rather than permission and the requirement to serve a petition is mandatory: Absalom v Gillett supra. In Absalom v Gillett supra at 670-671 and 137, Laws J noted that Copeland v Jackson (July 1933, unreported) supported the view that a successful candidate cannot be unseated without his being a party to the petition.

Time for presentation of petition.

791. Time for presentation of petition.

In general, a petition questioning a local authority referendum¹ or an election under the Local Government Act 1972² must be presented within 21 days³ after the day on which the election or referendum (as the case may be) was held⁴.

If the petition complains of the election or referendum (as the case may be) on the ground of a corrupt practice⁵ and specifically alleges that a payment of money or other reward⁶ has been made or promised either since the election by a candidate elected at the election or since the referendum by any person (as the case may be), or on his account or with his privity, in pursuance or furtherance of that corrupt practice, it may be presented within 28 days⁷ after the date of the alleged payment or promise, whether or not any other petition against that person has been previously presented or tried⁸.

A petition complaining of the election or referendum (as the case may be) on the ground of an illegal practice and specifically alleging a payment of money or other act made or done either since the election by the candidate elected at the election (or by the candidate's agent or with the privity of the candidate or his election agent⁹) or since the referendum by any person (as the case may be), in pursuance or in furtherance of that illegal practice, may be presented at any time within 28 days¹⁰ after the date of that payment or act, whether or not any other petition against that person has been previously presented or tried¹¹.

A petition complaining of an election where election expenses are allowed on the ground of an illegal practice may be presented at any time before the expiration of 14 days¹² after a specified day¹³, this day being: (1) that on which the appropriate officer¹⁴ receives the return and declarations as to election expenses by the candidate to whose election the petition relates and his election agent¹⁵; or (2) where the return and declarations are received on different days, the last of those days¹⁶; or (3) where there is an authorised excuse for failing to make the return and declarations, the date of the allowance of the excuse, or, if there was a failure as regards two or more of them and the excuse was allowed at different times, the date of the allowance of the last excuse¹⁷.

The provisions as to the time within which an election petition alleging, either originally¹⁸ or by amendment¹⁹, an illegal practice may be presented apply whether or not the act constituting the alleged illegal practice amounted to a corrupt practice, and they apply also to the corrupt practices of incurring certain election expenses not authorised by the election agent or making a false declaration about such expenses²⁰ as if they were illegal practices²¹. Similarly, the provisions as to the time within which a referendum petition alleging, either originally²² or by amendment²³, an illegal practice may be presented apply whether or not the act constituting the alleged illegal practice amounted to a corrupt practice²⁴.

Any enlargement of the time limit prescribed for the purposes set out in the text is absolutely prohibited under the rules relating to election petitions, which have primacy over the Civil Procedure Rules in this respect: Ahmed v Kennedy, Ullah v Pagel [2002] EWCA Civ 1793, [2003] 2 All ER 440, [2003] 1 WLR 1820, applying Williams v Tenby Corp (1879) 5 CPD 135 (service of notice within the prescribed time was a condition precedent to the trial of an election petition) and approving Absalom v Gillett [1995] 2 All ER 661, [1995] 1 WLR 128 (incompetent petition served in relation to a City of London election could not be amended and served again out of time, despite the draconian effect). In the latter case, Laws J at 670 and 136-137 cited Carter v Griffiths (28 July 1981, unreported) as being to like effect (rejecting a submission that the similar provisions that preceded the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 136 were directory only), and noted that Ralph Gibson J in so holding cited Devan Nair v Yong Kuan Teik [1967] 2 AC 31 at 44, [1967] 2 All ER 34 at 40, PC (a case concerning similar rules in respect of election petitions in Malaysia, where Williams v Tenby Corp supra was stated to be 'plainly rightly decided'). Devan Nair v Yong Kuan Teik supra was considered to be highly persuasive in Ahmed v Kennedy, Ullah v Pagel supra, which also overruled Young v Figgins, The Shrewsbury Petition (1869) 19 LT 499 (in which a failure to serve a respondent had been characterised as a 'formal objection' which could be ignored under a rule in the Election Petition Rules 1868, no equivalent of which survives in the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543 (as amended)). See Saghir v Najib [2005] EWHC 417 (QB), [2005] All ER (D) 353 (Mar) (the petitioners, in leaving an unamended copy of the petition on the court's files and in purporting to serve amended copies to the respondents, had failed within the prescribed time to serve notice of the presentation of the petition or to serve a copy of the petition, and their failure to state, in the notice as to the nature and amount of security, the date on which security had actually been given constituted a failure to serve, within the time prescribed, any notice of the nature and amount of the security which they had given). See also Ali v Haques [2006] All ER (D) 113 (Oct) (regarding the interaction between the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543, r 6 (as substituted and amended) and the European Parliamentary Election Petition Rules 1979, SI 1979/521, r 6 (as substituted and amended) and the more generalised provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 184 (as amended) (as to which see PARA 802 post)). IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/ (iv) Service of Notices and Security for Costs/797. Objections to recognisances.

797. Objections to recognisances.

A respondent to an election or referendum petition¹ may object in writing to any recognisance as security for costs² on the ground that any surety is insufficient³ or is dead or cannot be found or ascertained for want of a sufficient description in the recognisance, or that a person named in the recognisance has not duly acknowledged it⁴. Within 14 days⁵ after service on him of the notice of presentation of the petition and of the nature of the proposed security⁶, a respondent who intends to object to a recognisance on any of those grounds must serve on the petitioner notice of his objection, stating his grounds, and issue and serve on the petitioner an application notice to determine the validity or otherwise of the objection⁷.

1 As to respondents see PARAS 780, 789 ante. As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; as to the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante; as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante; and as to European parliamentary election petitions see PARA 763 ante. 2 As to recognisances as security for costs see PARAS 795-796 ante.

3 A security given by a petitioner is not invalid in itself, but is liable to rejection as insufficient: Pease v Norwood (1869) LR 4 CP 235.

As to the possibility of objecting to a recognisance on grounds other than those set out in the text see Cobett v Hibbert (1868) 19 LT 501; however, the contrary view is that the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 136(4) (as amended) is exhaustive as to the grounds of objection.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/ (iv) Service of Notices and Security for Costs/798. Hearing of objections.

798. Hearing of objections.

An application notice to determine the validity, or otherwise, of an objection to a recognisance as security for costs pursuant to an election or referendum petition¹ must be heard in chambers by a master, subject to an appeal to a judge within five days² after the master's decision³. If the objection is allowed, the master or judge having cognisance of the matter must at the same time determine what sum of money will make the security sufficient, and the petitioner may within five days thereafter remove the objection by deposit of that sum⁴.

The costs of and incidental to hearing and deciding objections made to the security given on the presentation of an election petition are in the court's discretion⁵.

799. Time when petition is at issue.

An election or referendum petition¹ is at issue²: (1) where the petitioner gives the security for costs as required³ by a deposit of money equal to the amount of the security so required, at the time when the security is so given⁴; and (2) in any other case, on the expiry of the time limited for objections to a recognisance as security for costs⁵ or, if an objection is made, on that objection being disallowed or removed⁶, whichever happens last⁷.

(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing

A. JURISDICTION AND SERVICE

800. In general.

With respect to an election or referendum petition¹ and the proceedings on it, and subject to the provisions which regulate the conduct of elections and referendums², the High Court has the same powers, jurisdiction and authority as if the petition were an ordinary claim within its jurisdiction³.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; as to the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante; as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante; and as to European parliamentary election petitions see PARA 763 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante.

2 I.e., in relation to a parliamentary election or election under the Local Government Act 1972, the Representation of the People Act 1983 (including those provisions as applied and modified for the purposes of a local authority referendum: see note 1 supra), in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284 (as amended) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293.

801. Notice of interim application.

At least two clear days before the making of any interim application to the High Court, notice of it should be given at the election petitions office¹ and to the other side².

1 For the meaning of 'election petitions office' see PARA 766 note 12 ante.

2 This is the practice. See also Day's Election Cases 23.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing/A. JURISDICTION AND SERVICE/802. Service of documents.

802. Service of documents.

Any notice, legal process or other document required to be served on any person with reference to any proceeding respecting an election¹ or referendum² for the purpose of causing him to appear before the High Court, the county court or any election court, or otherwise, or of giving him an opportunity of making a statement, or showing cause, or being heard by himself before any court for any purpose of the provisions governing legal proceedings in relation to election or referendums³, may be served⁴: (1) by delivering it to that person or by leaving it at, or sending it by post by a registered letter or the recorded delivery service to, his last known place of abode in the parliamentary⁵ or Welsh Assembly constituency⁶, the area of the authority⁷, the voting area⁸, or the Welsh Assembly⁹ or European parliamentary electoral region¹⁰ (as the case may be) for which the election or referendum was held¹¹; or (2) if the proceeding is one before any court, in such other manner as the court may direct¹². In proving such service by post it is sufficient to prove that the letter was pre-paid, properly addressed, and registered or recorded with the postal operator concerned¹³.

1 Ie a parliamentary election, election under the Local Government Act 1972, Welsh Assembly election or European parliamentary election. For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

2 Ie a referendum, in relation to England, under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, and, in relation to Wales, under the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870. For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante. The provision made for the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 is applied and modified for the purpose of questioning a local authority referendum: see PARA 764 ante.

3 Ie, in relation to a parliamentary election or election under the Local Government Act 1972, the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt III (ss 120-186) (as amended) (including that Part as applied and modified for the purposes of a local authority referendum: see note 2 supra), in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Pt IV (arts 85-137) (as amended) and, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, Pt 4 (regs 86-122) (as amended) (see PARA 759 et seq ante).

4 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 184(1) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 138, Sch 18 paras 1, 19(5)); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 135(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 122(1); and see note 2 supra. The appropriate procedure for the service of the petition, the notice of presentation of the petition and of the amount of the security for costs is that laid down by the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543, r 6 (as substituted and amended) or, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European Parliamentary Election Petition Rules 1979, SI 1979/521, r 6 (as substituted and amended) (see PARAS 766, 796 ante), and thus they prevail over the more generalised provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 184 (as amended) regarding the service of those particular documents: see Ali v Haques [2006] All ER (D) 113 (Oct).

B. ORDER, PLACE AND TIME OF TRIAL

803. List of petitions.

The prescribed officer¹ must, as soon as may be, make out a list of all parliamentary² or Welsh Assembly election petitions³ or all referendum petitions⁴ (as the case may be) at issue in the order of their presentation⁵; the petitions questioning elections under the Local Government Act 1972 must be in a separate list⁶. The list of petitions at issue must be conspicuously displayed in the election petitions office⁷ and be available for inspection by the public during office hours⁸. Where there are two or more petitions relating to the same parliamentary election or to elections under the Local Government Act 1972 or to the same Assembly election or return to fill a vacancy in an electoral region seat⁹ or to the same referendum or to referendums (as the case may be) held at the same time for more than one electoral area in the same local government area¹⁰, they are to be bracketed together in the list of petitions and dealt with as one petition, but they are to take their place in the list where the last of them would have stood if it had been the only petition, unless the High Court directs otherwise¹¹.

6 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 138(1) (amended by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 ss 137, 158(2), Sch 17 paras 1, 4, Sch 22).

9 Ie under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 9 (election to fill a vacancy in an electoral region seat: see PARA 222 ante). The provisions of the Government of Wales Act 1998 are superseded by the Government of Wales Act 2006 immediately after the ordinary election held in 2007 under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 3 (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS): see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 161(1), (4), (5). As to the provision that applies for these purposes after that date see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 11; and PARA 222 ante.

11 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 138(4); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 93(3); and see note 4 supra. Two or more candidates (in the case of an election) or two or more persons (in the case of a referendum) may be made respondents to the same petition, but the petition is deemed to be a separate petition against each respondent although the petitions may be tried together: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 138(3) (including that provision as applied and modified for the purposes of a local authority referendum: see note 4 supra); and PARA 789 ante. Whether two election petitions, of which one claims the seat while the other does not, may properly be tried together seems doubtful (Maldon Case (1853) 2 Pow R & D 143); but in Cashel Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 286, where there were two petitions against the same respondent, of which one claimed the seat, Fitzgerald B decided that he would allow them to be opened together, but reserved his decision as to the further course. In York County West Riding, Southern Division Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 213, there were two petitions, one against two respondents, which also claimed the seat, and the other claiming the seat against one of these two respondents; they appear to have been treated as two separate cases. In Stafford Borough Case (1869) 21 LT 210, 1 O'M & H 228, there were two petitions, in each of which the petitioner and the respondent were different; they were treated as two different cases, although at 232 Blackburn J said that he would treat the evidence in the one case as applicable to both, except where application was made to examine or re-examine witnesses. In Poole Case, Hurdle and Stark v Waring (1874) 2 O'M & H 123, two petitions against the same respondent were heard together.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing/B. ORDER, PLACE AND TIME OF TRIAL/804. Time and place of trial.

804. Time and place of trial.

So far as convenient, election and referendum petitions¹ are to be tried in the order in which they stand in the list of petitions². Within 28 days³ after the first day on which a petition is at issue⁴ the petitioner must apply by application notice to a rota judge to fix the time and place of trial and if the petitioner fails to do so, any respondent may, within a further period of 28 days, apply in the same manner as the petitioner could have done⁵. If no application is made in accordance with these provisions, the prescribed officer⁶ must refer the matter to a rota judge who must thereupon fix such a time and place⁷.

In general, the place of trial must be within the parliamentary⁸ or Assembly constituency⁹, the area of the authority¹⁰, or the Welsh Assembly electoral region¹¹ (as the case may be) for which the election or referendum was held¹². If, however, the High Court is satisfied that special circumstances exist which render it desirable that the trial should be held elsewhere, the court may appoint some other convenient place for the trial¹³.

The special circumstances which must exist in order that the court may exercise its power of changing the venue of the trial must be such as to render the trial of the petition elsewhere not merely more convenient but more conducive to the ends of justice, and convenience or inconvenience is not in itself a special circumstance¹⁴. Without such special circumstances the High Court has no power to change the place of trial¹⁵. Applications for a change of venue should be made to the High Court and not to a judge in chambers¹⁶. If the petition is tried outside the constituency, area or region for which the election was held without the High Court's consent, the proceedings may be void¹⁷.

The provisions of the Government of Wales Act 1998 are superseded by the Government of Wales Act 2006 immediately after the ordinary election held in 2007 under the Government of Wales Act 1998 s 3 (see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS): see the Government of Wales Act 2006 s 161(1), (4), (5). Although the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 91 is headed 'constitution of election court and place of trial', explicit provision for the place of the trial is not made therein. 805. Notice of time and place of trial.

Notice of the time and place of trial of election and referendum petitions¹ must be given in the prescribed manner, in the case of a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition, not less than 14 days before the day fixed for the trial² and, in any other case, not less than seven days before the day fixed for the trial³. The prescribed officer⁴ must cause notice of the appointed time and place of the trial to be displayed in a conspicuous place in the election petitions office⁵ and sent by post to the petitioner, the respondent⁶, the Director of Public Prosecutions and, except in the case of a European parliamentary election petition, the returning officer⁷.

On receipt of the notice, the returning officer must forthwith publish it in his constituency, the electoral region or, as the case may be, the local government area to which the petition relates⁸.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing/C. PARTICULARS/806. Particulars of petition.

C. PARTICULARS

806. Particulars of petition.

Where the allegations in the petition itself are quite general it is the practice to order immediately particulars of the nature of the alleged offences¹. Further particulars will be ordered of the circumstances of each charge, the order usually directing the petitioner to furnish particulars of the names of the different persons² in regard to whom the offences are alleged to have been committed, together with their addresses and numbers on the register, or, failing that, their occupation. Similarly, particulars will be ordered of the persons³ by whom the offences are alleged to have been committed, of the time and place of the commission of each offence and of its precise character, and, in the case of charges of bribery or treating, of its degree⁴.

The question of the length of time before trial in which particulars will be ordered depends on the circumstances of each case, such as the character, area and population of the electoral area and the number of witnesses whom it is proposed to call⁵, and also on the number of charges alleged in the petition⁶. The fact that witnesses may be tampered with is not a ground for diminishing the time for giving particulars⁷.

If the particulars are not served within the time ordered, they may be struck out at the trial⁸. If the particulars do not comply with the order in respect of which they were given, an order for further and better particulars may be obtained, or the particulars may be struck out. Previous notice of the intention to strike out the particulars should be given to the other side; but the proper course is to make objection during the trial as and when evidence is tendered which is not covered by the particulars⁹.

A party giving particulars in pursuance of an order or otherwise must file a copy within 24 hours after serving the particulars to the party requiring them¹⁰.

See also Lancaster County, Lancaster Division Case (1896) 5 O'M & H 39; Shoreditch, Haggerston Division Case, Cremer v Lowles (1896) 5 O'M & H 68. Application is usually made by summons to a judge on the rota (see PARA 767 ante); as a general rule the exercise of the judge's discretion will not be interfered with: Barrow-in-Furness Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 76, DC.

2 In Maude v Lowley (1874) LR 9 CP 165 at 167 (a municipal case), the court added the words 'so far as known'. In Lenham v Barber (1883) 10 QBD 293, DC (also a municipal case), the court refused to order the words to be added, Pollock B stating that it was his practice to omit them on the ground that they might be taken to warrant undue limitation; but in Willes v Horniman (1898) 14 TLR 343, CA, Grantham J inserted in his order the words 'if known', and the Court of Appeal refused to strike them out, A L Smith LJ stating that if omitted in this particular case they would probably have to be read in. The practice now is to leave them out on the ground that the person who gives the particulars can only give them so far as is known and the words are therefore implied: see Cork, Eastern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 318 at 320.

3 Londonderry Case (1868) 19 LT 573; Bristol Case, Brett v Robinson (1870) 22 LT 487 at 488 (in the latter case, the Christian names not having been given in the particulars as delivered, an order was made for giving them); Hastings Case, Stafford Case (1869) 20 LT 180. In Hexham Case (1892) cited in Day 14, per Cave J, it was held to be insufficient to give the name of a political association as being that of the person by whom the offence charged was alleged to have been committed: the particulars should specify the name of the guilty member or members. In Bradford Case (1869) 19 LT 661, particulars of persons bribed and treated lumped together, not saying which was which, were held sufficient; but in Horsham Case (1869) 20 LT 180, Willes J considered that there should be separate lists of the persons bribed, treated, and unduly influenced.

4 For examples of particulars which have been ordered by judges in chambers, otherwise unreported see Parker's Election Agent and Returning Officer (3rd Edn).

5 Rushmere v Isaacson [1893] 1 QB 118, DC, where an order for delivery of particulars within seven days was, on appeal, enlarged to ten days.

6 Cirencester Case (1893) (cited in Day 12). In the early cases of election petitions the time allowed was generally three days: Anderson v Cawley (1868) 19 LT 500; Tamworth Case, Hill v Peel (1868) 19 LT 527; Hereford Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 194 at 196; Beal v Smith (1869) LR 4 CP 145. Later the time ordered was longer, usually seven days: see Furness v Beresford, York City Case [1898] 1 QB 495 at 498, CA, per A L Smith LJ; Oxford Borough Case, Green v Hall [1889] WN 146, DC; Clark v Wallond (1883) 52 LJB 321; Lenham v Barber (1883) 10 QBD 293, DC (a municipal case). If there are special circumstances, an affidavit setting them forth ought to be filed. In East Manchester Case, Munro v Balfour [1893] 1 QB 113 the time ordered was 10 days. In Cirencester Case supra the following sliding scale was adopted by Cave J: 10 days if charges under 80, 15 days if charges under 160, 20 days if charges above 160. In St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case (1896) 5 O'M & H 89, and Southampton Borough Case (1895) 5 O'M & H 17, a sliding scale of 10 days if charges under 80, and 12 days if over 80 was adopted. In Grimsby Case (1903) cited in 2 Rogers on Elections (18th Edn) p 225, and in Shrewsbury Case (1903) cited in 3 Rogers on Elections (18th Edn) p 304, the scale was 5 days if the charges were not over 50; but if they were over 50, 7 days; and if they were over 80, 10 days. In Shoreditch, Haggerston Division Case, Cremer v Lowles (1896) 5 O'M & H 68, particulars of the general charges were ordered within seven days of the order and particulars of the specific charges within ten days of the trial. Where a charge was made against a returning officer of misconduct both personal and through his deputy, stringent particulars were ordered to be delivered within six days of the order: Warrington Case, Crozier v Rylands and Neild (1869) 19 LT 572. In Clark v Wallond supra (a municipal case), the Divisional Court considered seven days the usually proper time, and refused to alter an order prescribing that time.

7 Drogheda Borough Case (1869) 19 LT 528.

8 York County West Riding, Southern Division Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 213; but cf Brecon Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 212, where an objection made to the admission of particulars on this ground was overruled by Martin B. The first-named case was one alleging a majority of legal votes and claiming the seat on a scrutiny.

807. Particulars where general corruption charged.

Where a charge of general corruption is made¹, the particulars which are ordered are necessarily wider than usual², and the names of particular persons alleged to have been bribed or treated will not be ordered³. A petitioner will, however, be ordered to specify the character and extent of the corruption alleged⁴.

As to a distinction made between bribing and treating see Wigan Case, Spencer and Prestt v Powell supra at 2 per Grove J, where he said that the particulars of bribery must be more specific than those of treating, as one did not bribe hosts of people generally. See also Manchester, Eastern Division Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 120, where under a charge of general corruption the court refused to admit evidence of treating at a public house which had not been mentioned in the particulars. In Hexham Case (1892) cited in Day 14, and in Worcester Borough Case, Glazzard v Allsopp (1892) cited in Day 12, the particulars ordered were those only of time and of place; but see, contra, King's Lynn Case, Armes and Holditch v Bourke (1869) 1 O'M & H 206 at 207 per Martin B, in which he objected to receive evidence of general treating from a person who had been treated whose name was not in the particulars, although he did not think that it was necessary to give the name of the public house involved.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing/C. PARTICULARS/808. Amendment of particulars.

If a party wishes to give evidence of any circumstances not mentioned, or insufficiently mentioned, in his particulars¹, leave to amend the particulars may be asked for before or at the trial². The court's practice in dealing with such an application has not been absolutely uniform, but the course generally pursued has been to allow instances not mentioned or insufficiently mentioned in the particulars to be given in evidence if the matter is substantial and if it appears that the failure to furnish the particulars or the sufficient particulars in due time was in good faith³. An affidavit to that effect should be filed⁴.

In granting leave for the petitioner to amend his particulars, the court will consider whether the respondent will be prejudiced by such leave, and if it is of opinion that the respondent ought to have time to be enabled to meet such evidence the court will grant an adjournment for that purpose⁵, and may also in its discretion award the respondent the costs entailed by such evidence in any event⁶. Particulars which are fishing or grossly insufficient will be struck out at the trial⁷. It is not usual to order particulars to be struck out before the trial merely on the ground of being insufficient. If the petitioner obtains further information by the time of the trial, he may, with leave, supply the deficiencies in the particulars served; if not, the insufficient particulars will be struck out at the trial⁸.

The court will not allow an amendment of particulars at the trial where such amendment really amounts to an amendment of the petition⁹. On the other hand, a count which discloses no valid ground of objection may be struck out¹⁰ and clerical errors in the wording of the count may be amended¹¹.

1 As to the particulars generally see PARAS 806-807 ante.

2 See, however, St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case (1896) 5 O'M & H 89, where the application for leave to amend had been made to a judge in chambers and had been referred by him to be made to the judges at the trial; Pollock B considered the course a very inconvenient one, pointing out that an appeal would have lain from the judge at chambers to the Court of Appeal.

3 This seems to be the position which may be deduced from the various cases where the point has arisen. In Wigan Case, Spencer and Prestt v Powell (1881) 4 O'M & H 1 at 4 per Bowen J, an order for particulars drawn up in a form that the petitioners could be precluded at the trial from going into any case of which particulars have not been delivered 'can be modified at any time, and I confess I should not hesitate myself at any moment to disregard that prohibition, and to amend the order by stating that further cases might be gone into if the justice of the case required it, and if there was no danger of surprise upon the sitting member'. This statement was approved in Cork, Eastern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 318 at 320. See also Belfast Borough Petition (1869) 19 LT 574, where Keogh J said that parties would not be excluded from giving evidence of instances coming to light before the trial, as had, likewise, been the custom of the House of Commons, and the court should investigate all such cases; Bewdley Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 16; Carrickfergus Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 264; Coventry Case, Berry v Eaton and Hill (1869) 1 O'M & H 97; Dublin City Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 270, where Keogh J said he would allow the utmost latitude to amend unless it were evident that the party had kept back information available at the time of delivery of the particulars; Longford Case (1870) 2 O'M & H 6; Harwich Borough Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 61; Evesham Borough Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 94 at 95, where Hawkins J drew attention to the fact that the court could, in its discretion, after the close of the hearing, call and examine any witness, and he said that the respondent might exercise his option, subject to such power in the court, of having the evidence of charges not included in the particulars excluded during the hearing. On the other hand see Bodmin Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 117; King's Lynn Case, Armes and Holditch v Bourke (1869) 1 O'M & H 206 at 207; Manchester, Eastern Division Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 120 (where evidence was refused); and as to these cases see also PARA 848 post.

See also Cheltenham Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 62; Wigan Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 188 (in each of which cases, the petition being part heard, Martin B said he could only allow the particulars to be amended by the addition of a name on an application by summons supported by affidavit). For a form of affidavit see Longford Case (1870) 2 O'M & H 6 at 10n; Manchester, Eastern Division Case (1892) cited in Day 153.

D. DISCLOSURE OF DOCUMENTS

809. Disclosure and inspection of documents.

The rules of court relating to the disclosure and inspection of documents¹ apply to an election or referendum petition as if it were an ordinary claim within the High Court's jurisdiction².

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(v) Matters Preliminary to Hearing/D. DISCLOSURE OF DOCUMENTS/810. Production and admittance of documents at trial.

810. Production and admittance of documents at trial.

Notices to produce and admit documents at the trial of a petition are in the ordinary form¹. If a notice to produce merely asks generally for the production of all documents relating to the matter in question, it will entitle the party giving it to the production of every document which ought to be filed and ought to be delivered to the returning officer, but it will not entitle him to the production of other specific documents unless he has named them in his notice to produce².

1 As to the general rules as to the production of documents at trial see CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARAS 538 et seq, 876 et seq. The practice of the election committees appears to have regarded a general notice as sufficient, if it indicated clearly to the party on whom it was served the particular document it called for: see Rogers v Custance (1839) 2 Mood & R 179; Jacob v Lee (1837) 3 Mood & R 33. A notice to produce 'all public books, documents etc relating to voters of the borough' was held to include the charter of the borough in Youghal Case, Brown's Case (1838) Falc & Fitz 385. See also Bradford Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 30 at 31 per Martin B (the petitioner may call for any document in the respondent's possession, and on being produced it becomes evidence as being a document in the respondent's possession produced by him; notice to produce must be served so as to allow the party on whom it is served reasonable time to comply with it).

2 Westminster Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 89 at 93 per Martin B (where the petitioner called for the production of certain canvassing returns, his notice to produce saying 'all documents, books, and papers whatsoever and in anywise relating to the matters in question in this case' was held to be too general to entitle him to the production of the documents asked for). In the same case it was held (at 94) that a party was not entitled to call for and look generally at the canvassing sheets of the other party; but in Northallerton Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 167 at 168-169, Willes J held that a petitioner was entitled to ask for any particular entry in the respondent's canvass book.

Application for permission to withdraw petition.

E. WITHDRAWAL OF PETITION

811. Application for permission to withdraw petition.

A petitioner may not withdraw an election or referendum petition¹ without the permission of the election court or the High Court² on application made by application notice to the election court or a Divisional Court at such time and place as the court may appoint³. If there is more than one petitioner, all must consent to the making of the application⁴. Not less than seven days⁵ before the day so appointed, the petitioner must serve the application notice on the respondent, the returning officer and the Director of Public Prosecutions and lodge a copy in the election petitions office⁶, and must also publish notice of the intended application in at least one newspaper circulating in the parliamentary⁷ or Welsh Assembly constituency⁸, local government area⁹, or Welsh Assembly¹⁰ or European parliamentary electoral region¹¹ (as the case may be) to which the petition relates¹². The application notice must state the grounds on which the application to withdraw is made and contain a statement to the effect that on the hearing of the application any person who might have been a petitioner in respect of the election or referendum may apply to the court to be substituted as a petitioner¹³. The application to withdraw a petition must not be made until notice has been given in (as the case may be) the parliamentary or Welsh Assembly constituency, local government area or Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary electoral region to which the petition relates¹⁴. On receipt of the notice the returning officer must forthwith publish it in his constituency, the electoral region or, as the case may be, the local government area¹⁵.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; as to the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante; as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante; and as to European parliamentary election petitions see PARA 763 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante.

2 Leave to withdraw so that another petitioner could be substituted was refused in circumstances when the petitioner who withdrew did not have capacity to bring an election petition (as to which see PARA 779 ante) and the petitioner who would be substituted would have such capacity: Hobson v Fishburn (1988) Times, 21 November, DC. In that case, a candidate who was too young to be duly elected was refused leave to amend the petition (see PARA 784 note 11 ante) and was refused leave to withdraw since that would allow him (and a substitute petitioner) to achieve what the court had refused by way of amendment. As to other circumstances when leave might be refused see Halifax Case (1893) 4 O'M & H 203; North Meath Case (1892) Day 141. Since corrupt and illegal practices cannot now be prosecuted before an election court (see the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 58), the Director of Public Prosecutions would no longer appear to have any interest in whether or not the petition is withdrawn: cf Shoreditch, Haggerston Division Case, Cremer v Lowles (1886) 5 O'M & H 68 at 88.

As to the application and modification of the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543 (as amended) for the purposes of Welsh Assembly election petitions and for the purposes of a local authority referendum petition see PARA 765 note 3 ante.

Where on the opening of the trial of an election petition it was announced that the petitioner had decided to withdraw, the hearing was adjourned in order that the statutory notice should be given: Hartlepool Election Petition (1869) 19 LT 821. In Devonport Case (1886) 54 LT 733, 2 TLR 345, an application for permission to withdraw the petition was made to a Divisional Court consisting of two judges neither of whom was on the rota. See also Nichol v Fearby [1923] 1 KB 480 at 493-494 per McCardie J; Shaw v Reckitt (Pontefract Election Petition) [1893] 2 QB 59, CA.

If it is sought to withdraw a parliamentary election petition, not in the prescribed manner, but by offering no evidence at the hearing, the court will make a special report to that effect to the Speaker of the House of Commons: Hartlepool Election Petition supra at 822 per Blackburn J. If the withdrawal of a petition is effected by fraud or collusion between the parties, or if material facts are withheld and there is any deception of the court, it is possible that the court might be able to recall its permission to withdraw or the House of Commons might be petitioned to direct a fresh trial: see Taunton Case, Waygood v James (1869) LR 4 CP 361 at 369, 372-373; Nottingham Case (1879) (reported in Cunningham on Elections (3rd Edn) p 644); and see Dungarvan Borough Case (1854) 2 Pow R & D 300 at 318; but in Norwich Case (1853) 108 Commons Journals 282, 364, and in Pontefract Case (1859) 114 Commons Journals 357, the point was left undecided. Notwithstanding the statutory provision and the rules relating to the withdrawal of a petition, cases are reported to have been 'withdrawn' on an application made on or during the hearing without apparently complying with the statutory and prescribed requirements, but it seems that the procedure described as a withdrawal was, in fact, a dismissal of the petition on the petitioner's application: see eg Pembroke Boroughs Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 135 (application for leave to withdraw granted by the court after the court had decided a question of the conclusiveness of the register against the petitioner); Christchurch Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 147 (application after recount and after filing of affidavits and after giving notice to Director of Public Prosecutions). See also York City Case, Furness v Beresford (1898) 5 O'M & H 118. Cf Halifax Case (1893) 4 O'M & H 203 (application to withdraw refused on the ground of insufficiency of affidavits); St George's Division, Tower Hamlets, Case (1896) 5 O'M & H 89 at 116 (after the result of the hearing of the petition and recriminatory case was determined, the parties agreed to drop further proceedings in the prayer for recount and scrutiny; the court consented to the agreement and the petition stood dismissed).

F. CONTINUATION, STAY OR DISMISSAL OF PETITION

812. Continuation of trial despite the occurrence of certain events.

A petitioner who, after the presentation of his parliamentary election petition¹, becomes a member of the House of Lords, may apparently proceed with the petition². The death of a respondent does not abate the petition³. A parliamentary election petition drops by the fact that Parliament is dissolved while the petition is pending⁴, but it proceeds notwithstanding a prorogation of Parliament or the acceptance by the respondent of an office vacating his seat in Parliament⁵. The trial of a Welsh Assembly election petition⁶ proceeds notwithstanding a respondent having resigned his seat or if he becomes disqualified from being an Assembly member⁷ so that his seat is vacant⁸; and the trial of a European parliamentary election petition⁹ is to be proceeded with notwithstanding that one (or more) of the respondents is no longer an member of the European Parliament ('MEP')¹⁰. The trial of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972¹¹ proceeds notwithstanding that the respondent has ceased to hold the office his election to which is questioned by the petition¹².

2 Belfast Borough Case (1842) Bar & Aust 553 at 554, where a motion before the House of Commons for the dismissal of a petition on this ground was, after argument, dropped. It seems that a person who has been returned for one place is not for that reason debarred from petitioning in another (see Orme's Election Laws p 261); and a person petitioning in one place is capable of being elected and returned for another, although apparently he must make his choice for which of the places he will sit if and as soon as the controverted return is altered in his favour (21 Commons Journals (1728) 135).

813. Application for stay or dismissal of petition.

Before the day fixed for the trial¹, a respondent² may apply for the stay or dismissal of an election or referendum petition³. The application must be made by application notice to the election court or a Divisional Court at such time and place as the court may appoint⁴. Not less than seven days⁵ before the date so appointed the respondent must serve the application notice, stating his grounds, on the petitioner, any other respondent, the returning officer and the Director of Public Prosecutions⁶, and he must lodge a copy at the election petitions office⁷. An application may similarly be made to the High Court to take off the file a petition that is bad on the face of it⁸.

In Halifax Case (1893) 4 O'M & H 203, a recount having already been granted, and having shown a majority of votes for the respondent, the petitioner, on the petition coming on for hearing, applied to the election court for leave to withdraw it, which was refused, and the respondent applied for a certificate that he had been duly elected, but his application was refused; Hawkins J said the court could not dismiss the petition without hearing it, and he differentiated the case from the Renfrew County Case (1874) 2 O'M & H 213 on the ground that in the latter case the petitioner had been heard, inasmuch as the recount had taken place in open court.

In Re Counter's Petition, Buckingham v Counter as reported in [1938] 2 KB 90, CA, an application was made to strike out a petition on the ground that it was presented out of time.

Petition proceeding by way of special case stated rather than by trial.

G. PROCEEDING BY WAY OF SPECIAL CASE STATED

814. Petition proceeding by way of special case stated rather than by trial.

If it appears to the High Court, on the application made in the prescribed manner of any party to an election or referendum petition¹, that the case raised by the petition can be conveniently stated as a special case, it may direct the case to be stated accordingly and the special case will be heard before the High Court². The only additional material that should be appended to a special case should be material which the parties are agreed that the court should take full account of³. Only one counsel has a right to be heard on either side, although as a matter of exceptional indulgence the court may hear two⁴. The Divisional Court's decision on a case thus stated to it is final unless that court gives special leave to appeal on a question of law⁵. The Divisional Court may give special leave to appeal on any question of law⁶, and if, accordingly, an appeal is made, the Court of Appeal's decision is final and conclusive⁷.

In the case of a parliamentary election petition, the High Court's decision on the special case must be certified by it to the Speaker of the House of Commons⁸. In the case of a petition questioning either an election under the Local Government Act 1972 or a local authority referendum, a statement of the decision on the special case must be sent by the High Court to the Secretary of State⁹ and must also be certified by the High Court by the signature of two or more of its judges to the proper officer of the authority for which the election or referendum (as the case may be) was held¹⁰. In the case of a Welsh Assembly election petition, the High Court must certify to the presiding officer of the Assembly¹¹ its decision on the special case¹²; and, in the case of a European parliamentary election petition, the court's decision must be certified by it to the Secretary of State¹³.

1 The application must be made by application notice to a Divisional Court: Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543, r 11 (amended by SI 1985/1278; SI 1999/1352); European Parliamentary Election Petition Rules 1979, SI 1979/521, r 11 (amended by SI 1999/1398; SI 2004/1415). For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. As to the application and modification of the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543 (as amended) for the purposes of Welsh Assembly election petitions and for the purposes of a local authority referendum petition see PARA 765 note 3 ante.

A. IN GENERAL

815. Mode of trial and procedure and practice in general.

An election or referendum petition¹ must be tried in open court and without a jury². Subject to the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983³ (and, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the rules provided as to the conduct of elections for the return of Assembly members⁴) and subject to the rules governing the procedure for petitions⁵, the principles, practice and rules on which committees of the House of Commons used to act in dealing with election petitions must be observed, so far as may be, by the High Court and election court in the case of parliamentary and Welsh Assembly election petitions or referendum petitions⁶. In particular, the principles and rules with regard to agency⁷ and evidence⁸, and to scrutiny⁹, and to declaring any person elected in place of any other person declared not to have been duly elected¹⁰, must be observed, so far as may be, in the case of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972 as in the case of a petition questioning a parliamentary election or return¹¹. It is provided by election petition rules¹², however, that subject to those rules and subject to the provisions of the Representation of the People Act 1983¹³ (and, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, the rules provided as to the conduct of elections for the return of Assembly members¹⁴ and, in relation to a European parliamentary election, the European parliamentary elections rules¹⁵), the practice and procedure of the High Court are to apply to an election or referendum petition as if it were an ordinary claim within the High Court's jurisdiction notwithstanding any different practice, principle or rule on which the committees of the House of Commons used to act in dealing with election petitions¹⁶.

816. Attendance of shorthand writers.

The shorthand writer of the House of Commons or his deputy must attend the trial of a parliamentary election petition¹ and the National Assembly for Wales requires a shorthand writer to attend the trial of an Assembly election petition². The shorthand writer that so attends must be sworn by one of the judges of the election court faithfully and truly to take down the evidence given at the trial and from time to time, as occasion requires, to transcribe that evidence or cause it to be transcribed³. Accordingly, the shorthand writer must take down the evidence and from time to time transcribe it or cause it to be transcribed, and a copy of the evidence must accompany the certificate given by the election court (at the trial of a parliamentary election petition) to the Speaker of the House of Commons or (at the trial of an Assembly election petition) to the presiding officer of the Assembly⁴.

In the case of the trial of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁵ or a local authority referendum⁶, the shorthand writer who is to attend the trial must be appointed by the commissioner to whom the trial is assigned and must be sworn by the election court faithfully and truly to take down the evidence given at the trial⁷. He must take down the evidence at length and, if the election court so directs, a transcript of the notes of the evidence taken down by him must accompany the court's certificate⁸.

B. ADJOURNMENT OF TRIAL OF PETITION

817. Power to adjourn.

The election court for the trial of a parliamentary election petition¹ may adjourn the trial from one place to any other place within the constituency². The election court for the trial of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972³ or local authority referendum⁴ may in its discretion adjourn the trial from any one place to any other place within the local government area or place where it is held⁵. At the trial of a Welsh Assembly election petition⁶, the election court may adjourn the trial from one place to another within the Assembly constituency or electoral region⁷.

The election court for the trial of any election petition⁸ may in its discretion adjourn the trial from time to time, but the trial must, so far as is practicable consistently with the interests of justice in respect of the trial, be continued from day to day on every lawful day until its conclusion⁹.

C. DUTIES OF PARTIES AND OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS

818. Duty of parties and court.

There is no obligation on the petitioner's counsel to pursue charges, even though there may be good foundation for them, if by the establishment or admission of other charges he has already attained the avoidance of the election¹.

When the issue between the parties has been decided, there is no duty cast on either of them to continue the inquiry in the public interest for the purposes of ascertaining to what, if any, extent corrupt or illegal practices have prevailed; the object of the petition being gained, there is an end of the inquiry so far as the parties are concerned².

The court will only require such further evidence to be called as is necessary to enable it to report whether corrupt or illegal practices have extensively prevailed or not and also to see whether, in respect of offences with which particular individuals have been charged, it ought to report those individuals³.

As to the items that must be stated in the report of an election court (including whether corrupt or illegal practices have extensively prevailed at the election) see PARA 857 et seq post. It has been suggested that the election court has a duty to investigate any allegation of corrupt or illegal practices brought to its notice and that the trial cannot be shortened by concessions made by the parties: see Ipswich Case, Packard v Collings and West (1886) 54 LT 619, 4 O'M & H 70; Louth, Northern Division Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 103; Monmouth Boroughs Case (1901) 5 O'M & H 166; Maidstone Borough Case, Cornwallis v Barker (1901) 5 O'M & H 149 at 151; Worcester Borough Case, Harben and Cadbury v Williamson, Olds' Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 212 at 215. However, it is for consideration whether these views remain correct since persons can no longer be prosecuted for corrupt and illegal practices before election courts: see the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 58.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vi) The Hearing/C. DUTIES OF PARTIES AND OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS/819. Duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions in relation to trial of election petition.

819. Duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions in relation to trial of election petition.

The Director of Public Prosecutions¹ may, and if the election court so requests, must attend the trial of every election petition² by himself or by his assistant or by a representative, who must be a barrister or a solicitor nominated by him to be his representative for this purpose³.

If it appears to the Director that any person is able to give material evidence as to the subject of the trial, it becomes his duty, without any direction from the election court, to cause that person to attend the trial, and, with the court's permission, to examine that person as a witness⁴. The Director has no right to cross-examine witnesses called by either party on the hearing, although he may call witnesses⁵. With the court's leave he may examine witnesses called by the parties at the trial, but he ought not to ask for leave to do so without substantial cause⁶. It is no part of his duties to call evidence with respect to matters at issue between the parties, although if there should be, in his opinion, a collusive withholding of evidence it would be his duty to call that evidence himself⁷. He is not concerned with the proof of agency as affecting a party to an election petition, and the court will not give him leave to cross-examine witnesses for that purpose, but he is concerned with proving to the court that the witnesses themselves have been guilty of offences⁸.

Where information is given to the Director of Public Prosecutions that any offence has been committed in relation to an election, it is his duty to make such inquiries and institute such prosecutions as the circumstances appear to him to require⁹.

In the application of reg 119(2), (3) to elections that have taken place in the combined region (as to which see PARA 76 ante), the reference to the Director of Public Prosecutions is to be construed as a reference to the Attorney General for Gibraltar: reg 119(7). See also PARA 822 note 3 post. This provision is applied also for the purposes of trying a petition questioning a local authority referendum: see PARA 764 ante. Generally speaking, the Director's duties are confined to assisting the court at the conclusion of the hearing of the petition in considering whether any particular individual has been guilty of corrupt or illegal practices: Rochester Borough Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 156 at 158.

6 See note 5 supra.

7 The court ought, however, to be very cautious in allowing such evidence to be called by him: Rochester Borough Case (1892) 4 O'M & H 156 at 158 per Cave J.

Where, after the hearing was closed and before judgment was delivered, the Director, under the court's direction, called a person who was said to have been bribed, and the petitioner claimed the right to cross-examine that person, he was not allowed to do so, on the ground that if he had wanted to ask the witness questions he should himself have called him: Maidstone Borough Case, Evans v Viscount Castlereagh (1906) 5 O'M & H 200 at 211 per Grantham J; but see Worcester Borough Case, Harben and Cadbury v Williamson, Olds' Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 212, where, after the respondent had abandoned his opposition to the petition, the petitioner was allowed to cross-examine a witness called to show cause why he should not be reported. In Northumberland, Hexham Division Case (1892) cited in Day 29, both the petitioner and the respondent were allowed to cross-examine a witness called by the Director on matters gone into by the court; the question of the right to cross-examine on other matters which were in the particulars was raised but not decided. As to cross-examination on behalf of the parties after a witness has been examined by the court see also PARA 822 post.

UPDATE

819 Duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions in relation to trial of election petition

TEXT AND NOTE 3--Such representative may alternatively be an authorised person, meaning a person (other than a barrister or solicitor) who, for the purposes of the Legal Services Act 2007, is an authorised person in relation to an activity which constitutes the exercise of a right of audience (within the meaning of that Act) (see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 65 (2008) PARA 512): Representation of the People Act 1983 s 181(3), (3A) (s 181(3) amended, s 181(3A) added, by Legal Services Act 2007 Sch 21 para 51).

820. Member of House of Commons may not appear at trial of parliamentary election petition.

A barrister who is also a member of the House of Commons may not appear as counsel on the trial of a parliamentary election petition¹.

¹ See Re Lord Kinross [1905] AC 468 at 471-472, HL, per Lord James. The objection appears to be founded on the fact that a court trying a parliamentary election petition has the duty of reporting to the House of Commons, and therefore a barrister practising before it would be practising before a tribunal of which he is a member: Re Lord Kinross supra; and see LEGAL PROFESSIONS vol 66 (2009) PARA 1113. D. WITNESSES AT ELECTION COURT

821. Attendance and swearing of witnesses at election court.

At the trial of an election or referendum petition¹, witnesses are summoned and sworn in the same manner as nearly as circumstances admit as in a claim tried in the High Court². On the trial, a member of the election court may, by order signed by him, require the attendance of any person, as a witness, who appears to him to have been concerned in the election³ or referendum in question, and any person who refuses to obey the order is guilty of contempt of court⁴.

It is not illegal to offer a reward for evidence⁵.

822. Examination of witnesses by election court.

The election court may examine any person required to attend the trial of an election or referendum petition¹ as a witness² or who is in court, even though he is not called and examined by any party to the petition³. After any witness has been examined by the court he may be cross-examined by or on behalf of the petitioner and the respondent⁴, or either of them⁵. Except in so far as the common law rules of evidence, practice and procedure have been applied to election petitions in pursuance of statute or by rule⁶, they are not, as such, binding on judges presiding at the trial of an election petition⁷.

The common law does not admit of this being done except by the parties' consent: see Re Enoch and Zaretsky, Bock & Co [1910] 1 KB 327, CA. The court appears to have discretion in the matter. As long as the parties are at arm's length it does not seem usual for the court to call (as between petitioner and respondent) a witness whom both sides have abstained from calling, although after the conclusion of the parties' cases this is often done: see Hartlepool Case (1910) Times, 4 May; and cf Montgomery Boroughs Case supra.

Election courts are required to observe the principles, practice and rules on which the committees of the House of Commons used to act on dealing with election petitions: see PARA 815 ante. The common law rules of evidence were, in general, observed by committees of the House of Commons in trying election petitions, but it was stated that election committees had greater latitude in questions of evidence than courts of law: see Bedford Case (1838) Falc & Fitz 429 at 436. See also Galway County Case (1872) 2 O'M & H 46 at 51-52, where Keogh J, admitting, on a charge of spiritual intimidation, evidence of references made outside the trial of the petition since its opening, observed that in Mayo County Case (1857) Wolf & D 1 the election committee had received evidence of what was passing in the county pending the very hearing of the petition, and that, except where a special alteration had been made by statute, the election court must be guided, as far as possible, by the practice of Parliament; but see the cases dealing with the cross-examination by a party of his own witnesses cited in PARA 826 post. There is power to order a commission for the examination of a witness at an election court who is dangerously ill¹. Evidence on commission has also been taken in the case of a witness about to leave the country². If the order is made at the trial, the practice is to have the examination taken before the court registrar³. The shorthand writer must attend, and counsel may attend⁴.

In Bewdley Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 16 at 17, the same judge allowed a leading question to be put to a witness by the party calling him, observing that the rule was that a previous statement by a witness differing from what he stated on oath in court might be proved to shake his evidence, but could not be used as evidence in chief; in that case the previous statement by the witness had been taken down in writing, and he stated in court that he did not remember the substance of it. As to whether the hostility which occasions the leave must be shown on the trial itself, or may be deduced from inconsistency with a previous statement by means of the consideration by the court of such previous statement see Bradford Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 30 at 31, where Martin B disallowed a question as to the making of such previous statement, put by a party to his own witness, with a view to supplying evidence on which the court might consider the witness to be hostile, and the judge ruled that when he saw that the witness was hostile he would deal with him accordingly but, meanwhile, he saw nothing adverse in him. As to the examination of witnesses see generally CIVIL PROCEDURE vol 11 (2009) PARA 1036 et seq.

As to the practice followed by election committees see Nottingham Case (No 2) (1843) Bar & Arn 192 at 196-197, where, on a witness failing to give the evidence expected by the party calling him, that party was allowed to ask him if he had been intimidated. In Leicester Borough Case (1853) Report of Select Committee, Minutes of Evidence 52, the petitioner's counsel, on objection having been taken to his calling evidence contradicting that of one of his own witnesses, asked the chairman if the committee had ruled that petitioners might not call a witness to contradict another whom they had called to prove their case. The chairman intimated to him that in the peculiar circumstances of that particular case he could not see how the inquiry could proceed without an opportunity being given of testing the character of the witnesses who had been called; accordingly he was allowed to call such evidence. See, however, Cockermouth Case (1853) Report of Select Committee, Minutes of Evidence 100, where it was resolved that evidence which the petitioners sought to obtain from one of their witnesses of an admission by a previous witness called by them that he had been bribed was not admissible; but where the evidence which a party sought to call in contradiction of one of his own witnesses was on a point in itself material and he sought to call such evidence in order to establish that point, the evidence was admitted (Bury Case (1859) Wolf & B 40 at 41; Kingston-upon-Hull Case (1859) Wolf & B 84 at 85).

828. Duty to answer questions.

A person who is called as a witness respecting an election or referendum before any election court¹ is not excused from answering any question relating to any offence at, or connected with, the election on the ground that the answer may incriminate, or may tend to incriminate, that person or that person's spouse or civil partner². Furthermore, he may not refuse to answer any such question on the ground of privilege³. Whether a witness may be asked or will be bound to answer questions seeking to show that he has been guilty of an offence at a previous election or referendum seems never to have been directly decided⁴.

An answer by a person to a question put by or before an election court is not, except in any criminal proceedings for perjury in respect of the evidence, admissible in evidence against that person or that person's spouse or civil partner in any civil or criminal proceedings⁵.

E. EVIDENCE

829. Proof of corrupt practices before agency proved.

On the trial of an election petition¹, unless the election court otherwise directs, any charge of a corrupt practice² (and, in the case of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972, any charge of an illegal practice³) may be gone into, and evidence in relation to it may be received, before any proof has been given of agency on behalf of any candidate in respect of the corrupt or illegal practice⁴. A candidate is liable, to the extent of his election being avoided, for the corrupt acts of his agent, even though he may have expressly forbidden such acts⁵. It follows accordingly that, in order to give in evidence the commission of such acts by an agent, it is not necessary to prove that they were authorised or sanctioned; it is merely necessary to prove at some stage of the trial that the person committing them was an agent⁶. The court has a discretion to admit evidence of a corrupt practice before proof of agency has been given or to insist on agency first being proved. If a case of agency has been opened by the party seeking so to give such evidence, the court will generally admit evidence of a corrupt practice before proof of agency⁷, but the evidence should not be given unless the party calling it has a reasonable expectation of being able to prove agency⁸.

830. Proof of agency.

What constitutes agency on the trial of a petition¹ is a question to be decided on the circumstances of each case². Statements, as distinguished from acts, by an agent are not prima facie evidence on the hearing of an election petition against a party for whom he had acted as agent at the election in question³. It may, however, be proved that a person is such an agent as to make his statements evidence against the party for whom he has acted⁴, and directions given by an agent may be evidence⁵.

Evidence should be confined to the charges alleged in the petition⁶.

Statements and admissions by parties to the petition¹ are admissible in evidence against them, and the admissions of an original respondent may be given in evidence by the petitioner where the petition is being proceeded with against a substituted respondent².

2 Tipperary County Case (1875) 3 O'M & H 19 at 34. It was there argued for the respondent that the admission by the deceased respondent as to his nationality was not admissible, on the ground that the authority of the cases decided before the election committees was against the reception of such evidence, and that questions of evidence arising in election petitions should be decided according to such authority and not according to the ordinary law of evidence, and Keogh J decided the point in favour of the petitioner entirely on the authority of the cases decided before the election committees. 832. Statements by voters.

Statements by voters to third parties may be given in evidence before an election court for the purpose of invalidating their votes in the event of a scrutiny; but, unless agency is proved or admitted¹, they do not constitute evidence against the opposite party². Where the question of personation is raised³, declarations and admissions of the person who voted that he is not the person on the register⁴, or of the person on the register that he is not the person who voted, are admissible⁵.

The balance of authority under the decisions of the old election committees is in favour of the admissibility in evidence of such statements by voters: see Ipswich Case (1835) Kn & Omb 332 at 387; Leominster Case, Weaver's Case (1796) 2 Peck 391 at 395; Sudbury Case, Black Boy Case (1842) Bar & Aust 237 at 245. A book embodying the reports of the regular canvassers kept by the witness to whom the reports have been made is not strictly admissible; the canvassers should first be called to prove their returns: King's Lynn Case, Armes and Holditch v Bourke supra. See also Westminster Borough Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 89 at 94, where a question to a witness called on behalf of the respondent, who had been employed by a canvassing association, as to the total number of promises received, which was asked with the object of showing that it was such that he, acting as respondent's agent, would have been less likely to resort to bribery, was allowed. Where, on behalf of a petitioner, evidence was tendered of a conversation between a witness and certain voters with regard to their votes, on the petitioner's counsel stating that he was prepared to prove a criminal transaction between the respondent's agents and certain parties whom he had named in his opening as having been bribed, and that this evidence was tendered for the purpose of establishing such allegation, the evidence was admitted: Nottingham Town Case, Hutchinson's Case (1843) Bar & Arn 192 at 195-196.

The election court will not necessarily discard the evidence of a witness who has signed a statement to the opposite side contrary to what he had originally said, as his evidence may be corroborated by circumstances so as to lead the court to believe it, or his demeanour may give credibility to his evidence¹.

F. RECRIMINATORY CASES

835. When recriminatory evidence may be offered.

On the trial of a petition¹ complaining of an undue election and claiming the seat or office for some person, the respondent may give evidence to prove that that person was not duly elected, in the same manner as if he had presented a petition against the election of that person². Such a case is called a 'recriminatory case' and the evidence given by the respondent is called 'recriminatory evidence'. If the respondent intends to give recriminatory evidence, not less than seven days³ before the day fixed for the trial of the petition he must file⁴ a list of the objections to the election of that person on which he intends to rely, and serve a copy of the list on the petitioner and the Director of Public Prosecutions⁵. Any party to the petition may inspect and obtain an office copy of any list so filed⁶. Except by the election court's leave, no evidence may be given by a respondent of any objection to a person's election which is not specified in such a list⁷.

If the seat at an election is not claimed, the respondent may not call recriminatory evidence⁸. In such cases, the respondent may not give evidence as to the election expenses of an unsuccessful candidate, and may not set up such evidence by cross-examination⁹. It seems that where the petition claims the seat, recriminatory evidence may be offered notwithstanding that the prayer for the seat is abandoned at the trial¹⁰.

On the trial of a referendum petition¹¹, the respondent may give evidence in the same manner as if he had presented a petition against the referendum¹².

10 The authority of the cases before the election committees supports this view: Coventry Case (1803) 1 Peck 93 at 99; New Windsor Case (1804) 2 Peck 187 (where the point was argued at considerable length on either side); Clare County Case (1860) Wolf & B 138 at 143; and see also Aldridge v Hurst (1876) 1 CPD 410 at 416 (where these cases were reviewed by the Court of Common Pleas in its judgment, given by Grove J). In the last-named case the court refused to allow a petitioner to amend his petition by striking out the prayer for the seat, one of the reasons for so refusing being that, otherwise, the right of giving recriminatory evidence would be lost to the respondent. The court pointed out that the petitioner might give notice to the respondent of his intention not to claim the seat, so as to enable the respondent to avoid the costs of meeting such a claim without, on the other hand, preventing the possibility of recriminatory evidence being given. Thus it would appear that in the court's opinion the abandonment of the claim at the trial would not preclude the offering of such evidence; but see Gravesend Case (1880) 44 LT 64, 3 O'M & H 81, where a grave doubt was expressed by Denman J and Lopes J as to whether, when the claim for the seat had been abandoned, with the consent of the respondent and of the court, the respondent might proceed with the recriminatory case.

836. Allegation of charges against subsequent election.

If a recriminatory case¹ is abandoned owing to the petitioner abandoning his claim to the seat, and if the matters alleged in the recriminatory case are such as would disqualify the petitioner on a subsequent election, but, owing to the abandonment of the claim for the seat, they are not tried and there is no adjudication on them by the election court, these matters may be alleged in a petition against such subsequent election².

See, however, the doubt expressed in Stevens v Tillett supra at 171 per Willes J as to whether, if such matters were known to the respondent in the former petition, so as to have been capable of being offered in evidence on the recriminatory case, and were not so offered, they might be alleged in the petition against the subsequent election. In that case, however, the recriminatory case had been opened and, three of the charges made in it having failed, it was abandoned before the claim to the seat was abandoned.

G. SCRUTINY

837. Object of and provisions as to scrutiny generally.

On a petition complaining of an undue election, the petitioner may claim that the successful candidate was not elected by a majority of lawful votes and demand a scrutiny¹. The object of a scrutiny is to ascertain by striking off votes or adding votes which candidate had the majority of lawful votes².

The statutory provisions which govern the conduct of elections do not expressly state that a scrutiny may be demanded nor, if it can be demanded, the grounds on which votes allowed or disallowed at an election may be disallowed or allowed at the scrutiny. Those provisions do, however, provide for certain votes being struck off on a scrutiny for bribery, treating or undue influence³, and they contain a provision which contemplates, although it does not expressly authorise, the rejection of votes on a scrutiny on the ground of the voters being disqualified from voting⁴. There is also statutory authority for the inspection of ballot papers for the purposes of an election petition⁵. It is also provided that, subject to the statutory provisions and the rules made thereunder, the principles and rules on which committees of the House of Commons used to act with regard to a scrutiny must be observed, so far as may be, by the High Court and election court, and that such principles and rules apply equally to all petitions⁶.

2 As to the striking off of votes see PARA 839 et seq post. At a local election in 1974 a scrutiny was held so as to enable votes which had been lawfully cast, but overlooked at the count, to be counted: see the Times (2 July 1974), concerning the local election at Barnet.

838. History of scrutiny.

To understand the scope of scrutinies it is necessary briefly to relate the previous law on this subject. Before the Reform Act of 1832¹ there was no system of registration for voters and the returning officer from the very necessity of the case was obliged to hold a scrutiny of the voters at the time of the poll², but committees of the House of Commons subsequently considered the validity of votes given at the election³. That Act established a register of voters⁴ and restricted the inquiry at the time of polling to the right of any person to vote to the asking of three questions relating to the identifying of the voter with the person named in the register, to whether that person had already voted and to whether he still possessed the same qualification which had entitled him to be registered⁵. The correctness of the register could be questioned after the election on an election petition⁶. By the Parliamentary Voters' Registration Act 1843 the register of voters was made conclusive evidence, for the purpose of inquiry at the time of polling, of the voter's retaining the same qualification as that with which he was registered, and the inquiry was restricted to the remaining two questions⁷. Owing to doubts as to how far the qualifications of voters could be inquired into by a committee of the House of Commons appointed to hear an election petition, the register of voters was declared to be conclusive evidence of the right to vote except when an objection had been raised before the revising barrister appointed to revise the register and he had given an express decision, and except where there was at the time of voting either a legal incapacity which arose subsequent to registration or a legal incapacity under an Act of Parliament⁸.

The provision declaring the powers of inquiry on the hearing of an election petition was repealed by the Ballot Act 1872⁹, which in turn provided that every person whose name was on the register was entitled to be given a ballot paper, although this did not entitle any person to vote who was prohibited from voting by any statute or by the common law of Parliament¹⁰. The effect of this provision of the Ballot Act 1872¹¹, and the unrepealed provision of the Parliamentary Voters' Registration Act 1843¹² as to the inquiry at the time of polling, was held to make the register conclusive as regards the returning officer and the election court except in the case of persons who were prohibited from voting¹³. This did not mean persons who from failure in the incidents or elements of the franchise could be successfully objected to on the revision of the register, but persons who from some inherent or for the time being irremovable quality in themselves had not the status of parliamentary electors either by prohibition of statutes or at common law¹⁴. Examples of such persons were peers, aliens, minors and persons holding certain offices¹⁵. These provisions of the Parliamentary Voters' Registration Act 1843¹⁶ and the Ballot Act 1872¹⁷ have been repealed and are now replaced by similar provisions¹⁸. Although there is no longer any direct mention of the grounds on which a vote may be struck off on a scrutiny, it is assumed that an election court would follow the principles previously established except in so far as the present statutory provisions as to persons entitled to vote or disqualified from voting differ from the previous provisions¹⁹. Accordingly it would appear that the votes of persons who were not entitled to be registered because they did not have a residence, service or other²⁰ qualification would not be questioned on a scrutiny²¹.

839. Votes by persons under legal incapacity to vote.

It would appear that any person who, being subject to a legal incapacity¹ to vote, votes at an election will have his vote struck off on a scrutiny².

A vote given by an alien may be struck off on a scrutiny³. In order to prove the validity of a vote given by a person who states that he has now ceased to be an alien by having been naturalised, the certificate of his naturalisation or a certified copy of it must be produced, and his own mere statement in evidence that he has been naturalised is insufficient⁴.

A person not of voting age⁵ on the date of the poll is not entitled to vote⁶. It would appear that, if such a person votes, his vote may be struck off on a scrutiny⁷.

1 For the meaning of 'legal incapacity' see PARA 110 note 8 ante.

It is submitted that Oldham Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 151 at 159, which decided that a minor who voted could not have his vote questioned on a petition because no objection had been taken before the revising barrister, would not be followed in view of the implication in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 49(5), that such a vote could be struck off on a scrutiny: cf Petersfield Case, Stowe v Jolliffe (1874) LR 9 CP 734; and see PARA 838 ante.

840. Votes struck off for bribery, treating and undue influence.

Where, on a parliamentary¹ or Welsh Assembly election petition² claiming the seat for any person, a candidate is proved to have been guilty by himself, or by any person on his behalf, of bribery, treating or undue influence in respect of any person who voted at the election, one vote for every person who voted at the election and is proved to have been so bribed³, treated or unduly influenced must, on a scrutiny, be struck off from the number of votes appearing to have been given to the candidate⁴. It is not necessary for this purpose to go into the question of how the person bribed had actually voted⁵. If, however, on a scrutiny, it is proved that, although the voter entered the polling station and received a ballot paper, he did not vote but deliberately spoilt his ballot paper, the election court may order the ballot paper to be produced and examine it and, if it appears that no vote was in fact given, may refuse to strike off a vote on a scrutiny⁶. In a case of bribery it appears necessary to prove not only the giving of the bribe with a corrupt motive, but also that the person receiving the bribe acted corruptly⁷.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante. The wording of the provision impliedly excludes petitions questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972. For the meanings of 'individual candidate' and 'party list candidate' in relation to a Welsh Assembly regional election see PARA 237 note 23 ante. For the meaning of 'registered political party' for these purposes see PARA 263 ante. There is no equivalent provision for the purposes of European parliamentary election petitions because corrupt and illegal practices may be cited in such petitions only when they are related to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante.

841. Votes struck off for corrupt and illegal practices.

If any person who is guilty of a corrupt¹ or illegal practice² (or of illegal payment, employment or hiring at an election³) votes at a parliamentary⁴ or Welsh Assembly election⁵, his vote⁶ is void⁷, and accordingly may be struck off on a scrutiny⁸. If any person who is subject, under any enactment relating to corrupt or illegal practices, to an incapacity to vote at a parliamentary or Welsh Assembly election or an election to any public office votes at that election, his vote is void⁹, and accordingly may be struck off on a scrutiny¹⁰.

842. Votes of persons guilty of personation and of persons impersonated.

If a person whose name appears on the register proves that he has not voted at an election but a vote has been given in his name, the vote so given must be disallowed¹. If, however, the person impersonated has voted on a tendered ballot paper², then on a scrutiny³ the tendered ballot paper is substituted for the ballot paper originally issued⁴. The tendered ballot paper will be counted even if the presiding officer does not comply with all the statutory provisions regarding tendered ballot papers⁵; but, if the voter commits a breach of the statutory provisions by putting the tendered ballot paper into the ballot box instead of handing it to the presiding officer, the vote will not be counted⁶. A vote recorded by one person in the name of another who is on the register will be struck off whether the actual offence of personation is committed or not⁷. If, however, a voter was entered on the register under a wrong name and he, having a right to vote, voted in the wrong name, the vote is good⁸.

In order for a vote to be avoided for personation, it has to be proved beyond a reasonable doubt that an offence of personation had taken place because, although the proceedings under a election petition are civil proceedings, the standard of proof that an election offence has been committed is set to the criminal standard⁹.

4 See Cirencester Case (1893) (cited in Day 48), where the first voter had used the ballot paper of the second through an error of the polling clerk. Both votes were allowed, however, the court saying that if the respondent wished to strike off the first vote it should have been included in the particulars of votes objected to. If the presiding officer had erroneously marked the register thinking that the voter had previously voted, but at the scrutiny it is proved that in fact nobody had voted in the name of the person who voted on the tendered ballot paper, the tendered ballot paper will be allowed without a vote being struck off: Berwick Case, McLaren v Home (1880) 44 LT 289 at 290.

A criminal standard of proof has been applied also to find a person guilty of undue influence (which is a corrupt practice): see PARA 726 ante.

843. Votes given to a disqualified candidate at an election.

Votes given for a candidate who is disqualified¹ may in certain circumstances be regarded as not given at all or thrown away, and to decide this a scrutiny is not necessary². The disqualification must be founded on some positive and definite fact existing and established at the time of the poll so as to lead to the fair inference of wilful perverseness on the part of the electors voting for the disqualified person³. Examples of the sort of disqualification that will cause votes to be thrown away are being a peer, an alien or a minor⁴. For the votes given for a candidate to be thrown away, the voters must, before voting, either have had or be deemed to have had notice of the facts creating the candidate's disqualification⁵, and it is not necessary to show that the elector was aware of the legal result that such a fact entailed disqualification⁶.

In Re Bristol South East, Parliamentary Election supra, it was held, inter alia, that where the facts which give rise to the incapacity or disqualification by status of a candidate exist and are made known to the electorate before their votes are cast, and the voters are also made aware that the legal consequence of those facts might be disqualification, votes given to such a candidate are given at the electors' peril, and, where disqualification in law is established, such votes are thrown away and are null and void, the court being bound to declare that the candidate for whom the next highest number of votes was cast has been duly elected. Earlier cases appear to indicate that, where the disqualification is not notorious and depends on legal argument or on complicated facts, votes given for a candidate (even though he might be unseated by reason of his disqualification) would not be thrown away so as to give the seat to the candidate with the next highest number of votes: see Abingdon Case (1775) 1 Doug El Cas 419; Penryn Case (1819) Corb & D 55; Cheltenham (No 2) Case (1848) 1 Pow R & D 224; Clitheroe Borough (No 2) Case (1853) 2 Pow R & D 276; notes to St Ives Case (1775) 2 Doug El Cas 391 at 415; and the note to Radnor Case (1803) 1 Peck 496; but cf Wakefield Case, Blakeley's Case (1842) Bar & Aust 270 at 317; Belfast Case (1838) Falc & Fitz 595; Cork Case (1835) Kn & Omb 274; Tavistock Borough Case (1853) 2 Pow R & D 5; Horsham Second Case (1848) 1 Pow R & D 240 at 258; Leominster Case (1819) Corb & D 1. Where the election petition makes charges of corrupt or illegal practices and recriminatory evidence¹ is offered, the practice is to take the recriminatory case before the scrutiny². The reason is that if both the petitioner and respondent are disqualified it would be a waste of time to go into a scrutiny. Where, however, the petition only claims the seat without alleging any corrupt or illegal practices on the respondent's part, the practice has been to take the scrutiny first³.

848. Particulars on a scrutiny.

Where a petitioner claims the seat for an unsuccessful candidate, alleging that he had a majority of lawful votes, the court has no jurisdiction to order any particulars except those specified¹. Where, however, a petition contains allegations upon which it claims to have the election invalidated and goes on, further, to request a scrutiny and to claim the seat, the ordinary particulars may be ordered² as to the former part of the petition, while as to the latter part of it no further particulars than those contained in the list of objections to votes³ may be ordered⁴. Similar particulars are ordered of votes which are sought to be added⁵. Where no list of the votes to which it is intended to take objection has been delivered within the time specified, the court has no power to allow evidence of the votes objected to or of the objections to them to be given at the trial⁶.

A party to a scrutiny is bound by his particulars⁷. He may not attack votes set out in the other party's particulars which are not set out in his own particulars, and with the objection to which the other party does not proceed⁸. Leave to give evidence as to those votes may, however, be given by the court on good grounds being shown by affidavit, the court making such terms as it thinks right to meet such a case⁹.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vi) The Hearing/G. SCRUTINY/849. Inspection of ballot papers and orders for production of election or referendum documents.

849. Inspection of ballot papers and orders for production of election or referendum documents.

Documents which relate to a parliamentary election or to a local government election for a principal area, parish or community council are kept in the custody of the relevant registration officer¹; documents which relate to a local authority mayoral election or a local authority referendum or poll consequent on a parish or community meeting are kept in the custody of the proper officer of the appropriate local authority²; documents which relate to a London Authority election are kept under the control of the Greater London returning officer³; documents which relate to the election of members to the National Assembly for Wales are kept in the custody of the National Assembly for Wales⁴; and documents relating to European parliamentary elections are retained by the local returning officer⁵. An order may be made for the inspection or production of any rejected ballot papers⁶ or for the opening of a sealed packet of the completed corresponding number lists (in the case of a parliamentary election or local government election for a principal area, parish or community council) or a sealed packet of counterfoils (in the case of any other election) and certificates as to employment on duty on the day of the poll⁷ or for the inspection of counted ballot papers which are kept in such custody or control⁸; and no person is allowed to inspect any rejected or counted ballot papers, or to open any sealed packets of completed corresponding number lists (or counterfoils, as the case may be) and certificates which are kept in such custody or control, otherwise than in accordance with such an order⁹. If satisfied by evidence on oath that the order is required for the purpose of instituting or maintaining a prosecution for an offence in relation to ballot papers or for the purpose of an election or referendum petition, the order may be made by a county court or, in the case of a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition, by the High Court or a county court¹⁰. In the case of a parliamentary election petition, the order may also be made by the House of Commons¹¹; and in the case of a Welsh Assembly election petition, the order may also be made by the National Assembly for Wales¹². An order for the opening of a sealed packet of completed corresponding number lists (or counterfoils, as the case may be) and certificates¹³ or for the inspection of any counted ballot papers kept in such custody or control may be made by an election court¹⁴. The order may be made subject to such conditions as to persons, time, place and mode of inspection, production or opening as the court making the order (or, as the case may be, the House of Commons or the National Assembly for Wales) may think expedient¹⁵. However, in making and carrying into effect an order for the opening of a sealed packet of completed corresponding number lists (or counterfoils, as the case may be) and certificates or for the inspection of counted ballot papers which are kept in custody, care must be taken that the way in which the vote of any particular elector has been given is not disclosed until it has been proved that his vote was given and that the vote has been declared by a competent court to be invalid¹⁶.

Strong grounds for making an order must be shown, and the court must be satisfied that the application for it is made in good faith, and will rarely, if ever, grant it unless a petition or prosecution has been instituted or is about to be instituted¹⁷ and it is shown to be really required¹⁸.

The power to make an order which is given to a county court (or, in the case of a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or European parliamentary election petition, the High Court) may be exercised by any judge of the court otherwise than in open court¹⁹. An appeal lies to the High Court from an order of a county court²⁰.

1 For the meaning of 'relevant registration officer' for these purposes see PARA 494 note 3 ante. As to the retention of parliamentary election documents by the relevant registration officer see PARA 503 ante; and as to the retention of local government documents by the relevant registration officer see PARA 504 ante.

2 As to the retention of local authority mayoral election documents by the proper officer of the appropriate local authority see PARA 504 ante; and as to the retention of documents relating to a local authority referendum or poll consequent on a parish or community meeting by the proper officer of the council see PARA 665 ante. For the meaning of 'proper officer' generally see PARA 155 note 2 ante. For the meaning of 'local authority' for the purposes of a local authority mayoral election see LOCAL GOVERNMENT vol 69 (2009) PARA 23. For the purposes of a poll consequent on a parish meeting involving an appointment to office, the proper officer is specified as being the proper officer of the council of the district in which the parish is situate or the county or county borough in which the community is situate: see the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, r 5, Schedule r 35(1)(a). For the purposes of a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, any references to a proper officer of a council means any officer appointed for the purpose by that council: Schedule r 38(3).

3 As to the retention of documents relating to London Authority elections by the Greater London returning officer see PARA 505 ante. For the meaning of 'Greater London returning officer' see PARA 218 note 7 ante.

4 As to the retention of documents relating to the election of members to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 506 ante. As to the National Assembly for Wales see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

5 As to the retention of European parliamentary election documents by the local returning officer see PARA 507 ante. As to local returning officers appointed for the purposes of European parliamentary elections see PARA 365 et seq ante. As to documents retained after a European parliamentary election held in the combined region (as to which see PARA 76 ante) see the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 9(1), Sch 1 para 60(9).

At the date at which this volume states the law, the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 47(1)-(5), (8) is applied and modified for the purposes set out in the text in the context of a local authority referendum (see PARA 557 ante), in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. In relation to a local authority referendum at which voting is by post only (as to which see PARA 595 et seq ante), the Local Elections (Principal Areas) Rules 1986, SI 1986/2214, Sch 2 r 47 (as applied and modified) is further modified, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 10, Sch 4 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 10, Sch 4. At a local government election or at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting, 'rejected ballot papers' includes ballot papers rejected in part: see the Parish and Community Meetings (Polls) Rules 1987, SI 1987/1, Schedule r 35(1)(a); the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 r 53(1)(a); and the Local Elections (Parishes and Communities) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3305, Sch 2 r 53(1)(a). There is no provision in any context to an order in respect of tendered ballot papers (as to which see PARA 408 ante); however, such ballot papers must be available to the election court so as to indicate how the voter who was entitled to vote would have voted if someone had not voted in his name before him.

The amendment effected by the Electoral Administration Act 2006 s 41(4) has no effect in relation to any documents which have been or must be forwarded to the Clerk of the Crown on or before 2 May 2007, in accordance with either the Representation of the People Act 1983 Sch 1 r 55 (as amended) (see PARA 494 ante) or the Representation of the People (England and Wales) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/341, reg 91 (as amended) (see PARA 495 ante): see the Electoral Administration Act 2006 (Commencement No 2, Transitional and Savings Provisions) Order 2006, SI 2006/3412, art 6, Sch 2 para 4. As to the Clerk of the Crown see CONSTITUTIONAL LAW AND HUMAN RIGHTS vol 8(2) (Reissue) PARA 921.

7 As to certificates of employment on duty on the day of the poll see PARA 402 ante. There are no such certificates at a poll consequent on a parish or community meeting.

Dereliction of duty in counting ballot papers is an offence in relation to ballot papers: McWhirter v Platten [1970] 1 QB 508, [1969] 1 All ER 172, DC. On its true construction, what is now the Local Elections (Principal Areas) (England and Wales) Rules 2006, SI 2006/3304, Sch 2 r 53(1) permits an application to be made before any final decision was taken whether or not to present an election petition provided only and always that: (1) its purpose was to resolve a real doubt as to the correctness of the declared result; and (2) there was a real likelihood that, were the inspection to show the result incorrect, an election petition would follow; an application for a production and inspection order might also be made to establish whether it was worthwhile to present a petition: Gough v Local Sunday Newspapers (North) Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 297, [2003] 2 All ER 456, [2003] 1 WLR 1836, which also cites Re Three Rivers District Council Elections (26 July 1991, unreported) (consent order made by county court for purpose of formal recount; election petition followed).

850. Evidence of vote at election, referendum or poll.

In relation to a parliamentary election petition or a petition questioning a local government election for a principal area, parish or community council¹, the production from proper custody of: (1) a ballot paper purporting to have been used at any such election²; and (2) a completed corresponding number list with a number marked in writing beside the number of the ballot paper³, is prima facie evidence that the elector whose vote was given by that ballot paper was the person whose entry in the register of electors⁴ contained the same number as the number written as mentioned in head (2) above⁵.

In relation to any other election or to any referendum or poll, the production from proper custody or control⁶ of a ballot paper purporting to have been used at any such election, referendum or poll, and of a counterfoil marked with the same printed number and having a number marked on it in writing⁷, is prima facie evidence that the elector whose vote was given by that ballot paper was the person who, at the time of the election, referendum or poll, had affixed to his name in the register of electors the same number as that written on the counterfoil⁸.

851. Petitions following equality of votes at election or referendum.

If it appears that there is an equality of votes between any candidates at a parliamentary election¹ or election under the local government Act² and that the addition of a vote would entitle any of these candidates to be declared elected, any decision by a returning officer at the election, in so far as it determines the question between those candidates, is effective also for the purposes of the petition³. In so far as that question is not determined by such a decision, the court must decide between them by lot and proceed as if the one on whom the lot then falls had received an additional vote⁴.

If, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election petition⁵, it appears that there is an equality of votes between any candidates at a constituency election⁶ or two or more individual candidates or registered political parties at a regional election have the same electoral region figure⁷, and that the addition of a vote would entitle any of those individual candidates or any party list candidate of those parties to be declared elected, any decision in the case of a constituency election⁸ or in the case of a regional election⁹, is, in so far as it determines the question as to who is elected, effective also for the purposes of the petition¹⁰. In so far as that question is not determined by such a decision, the court must decide between them by lot and proceed as if the one on whom the lot then falls had received an additional vote¹¹.

If the petition relates to an election conducted under the European parliamentary elections rules¹² and it appears that there is an equality of votes between any registered parties or individual candidates at the election¹³, and that the addition of a vote would entitle any of those registered parties or individual candidates to be declared elected then any decision as to equality of votes in the European parliamentary elections rules¹⁴, as the case may be, is in so far as it determines the question between those registered parties or individual candidates, effective also for the purposes of the petition¹⁵. In so far as that question is not determined by such a decision, the court must decide between them by lot and proceed as if the one on whom the lot then falls had received an additional vote¹⁶.

Where the petition relates to a referendum¹⁷ as regards which, by reason of an equality of votes found at the count, the result was determined by lot, that determination is effective also for the purposes of the petition¹⁸. However, where the court disallows any vote cast in the referendum, such a determination has no effect and the court must declare the result of the referendum¹⁹. Where the petition relates to a referendum at which no equality of votes was found at the count and the court disallows any vote cast in the referendum and determines that an equality of votes was cast in the referendum, the result of the referendum must be determined by the court by lot²⁰.

H. RECOUNT

853. Application for recount at election.

A petition which asks for a recount and claims the seat is a good petition even if it asks for nothing more¹. The usual practice is for an application for a recount to be made by summons to a judge on the rota for the trial of parliamentary election petitions before the trial on an affidavit showing the grounds on which the application is based². A recount is not granted as of right, but on evidence of good grounds for believing that there has been a mistake on the part of the returning officer³. If there are more than two candidates for more than one seat and a petition is presented against one, claiming as against him a recount and the seat, it is not necessary for the petitioner to claim a general recount, that is as regards the other candidate or candidates as well; on the recount against the respondent resulting in the petitioner's favour, he becomes entitled to the respondent's seat⁴.

1 See PARAS 759 et seq ante; and Day's Election Cases 4.

2 As to the manner of making interim applications see PARAS 800-801 ante, and Day's Election Cases 16. In Stepney Division, Tower Hamlets Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 34, 37 at 50, however, the application was not made until the trial.

3 Stepney Division, Tower Hamlets Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 34, 37 at 50-51.

4 Lord Monkswell v Thompson [1898] 1 QB 479 (a municipal election case). It is not clear whether in such a case it is open to the respondent, except by petition against the other successful candidate or candidates, to claim a recount against him or them. See the judgment of Hawkins J and Channell J in Lord Monkswell v Thompson supra at 484-486. It is submitted that it is not open to the respondent to do so, on the ground that it would be a questioning of the election or return of such candidate or candidates and so could only be effected by petition.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vi) The Hearing/H. RECOUNT/854. Procedure for recount.

854. Procedure for recount.

If an application for a recount is granted¹, the usual practice is to order the recount to be taken before the trial by an officer appointed for the purpose². The order directing it generally directs that it is to be taken at the Royal Courts of Justice³. The respondent's ballot papers are counted by the petitioner and are then handed to the respondent to be checked by him, and those for the petitioner are similarly dealt with by the respondent. If any are disputed, the officer's opinion is sometimes asked and given, and if any paper remains disputed by either party, the officer reserves it for the decision of the election court, setting it out in his report⁴. After the counted ballot papers have been thus disposed of, the rejected ballot papers are dealt with in the same way.

1 As to applications for a recount at an election see PARA 853 ante.

2 Halifax Case (1893) 4 O'M & H 203; but see note 4 infra. The officer appointed is normally the Senior Master.

3 This is the usual practice, but in Stepney Division, Tower Hamlets Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 34, 37 at 51, Denman J himself counted the ballot papers, the parties desiring that he might do so in order to save time and expense, but he stated that this was not to be a precedent. In Renfrew County Case (1874) 2 O'M & H 213, the recount took place in open court. As to the procedure to be followed when, the result of an election having been declared by the returning officer, a parcel of ballot papers is discovered uncounted see Gough v Local Sunday Newspapers (North) Ltd [2003] EWCA Civ 297, [2003] 2 All ER 456, [2003] 1 WLR 1836 (informal count of uncounted ballot papers made in absence of parties). See also Macmanomy v Westley (4 July 1986, unreported) (formal count of votes in overlooked ballot box in presence of parties followed by recount of all the ballot papers cast); Marshall v Gibson (14 December 1995, unreported) (informal recount carried out in absence of parties followed by formal petition).

4 If the statutory requirements regarding the marking of a ballot paper are not substantially fulfilled, the ballot paper is void, and should not be counted; and, if it is counted, it should be struck out on a scrutiny. The decision in each case is upon a point of fact, to be decided first by the returning officer, and afterwards by the election tribunal, on petition: Woodward v Sarsons (1875) LR 10 CP 733. Each voting paper must be looked at on its merits and it is a matter of first impression whether the vote was clearly cast for one candidate or not: Cornwell v Marshall (1976) 75 LGR 676, DC; Petition of Rowe [2001] All ER (D) 329 (Dec), DC.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vi) The Hearing/l. REFERENCE OF QUESTION OF LAW/855. Reference of question of law by statement of case.

I. REFERENCE OF QUESTION OF LAW

855. Reference of question of law by statement of case.

If it appears to the election court, on the trial of an election or referendum petition¹, that any question of law as to the admissibility of evidence or otherwise requires further consideration by the High Court, the election court may postpone the granting of a certificate² until the question has been determined by the High Court, and for this purpose may reserve the question by stating a case for the decision of the High Court³. The case is heard by a Divisional Court⁴.

The election court will not reserve a point about which the court entertains no doubt, even though application is made to reserve it⁵. A point of law may not be reserved unless it is one which would affect the whole result of the trial of the petition⁶.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante; as to the questioning of an election under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante; as to Welsh Assembly election petitions see PARA 762 ante; and as to European parliamentary election petitions see PARA 763 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. The application to reserve a question should be made before the question is decided: Londonderry City Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 96 at 103. Where the election court decides a point, the fact of its being a difficult one does not make it a necessary practice that it should, on the application of one of the parties, reserve it for the Divisional Court: Re Gloucestershire, Thornbury Division, Election Petition (1886) 16 QBD 739 at 740 per Lord Coleridge CJ. Where, on the argument before the Divisional Court of a question of law reserved by a commissioner on the trial of a municipal election petition, the respondent claimed the right to begin on the ground that he was in the position of one appealing from the commissioner's decision, and the petitioner opposed the claim, the court was of opinion that the respondent should begin: Re Gloucester Municipal Election Petition 1900, Ford v Newth [1901] 1 KB 683 at 686, DC. In Re Stepney Election Petition, Isaacson v Durant (1886) 17 QBD 54, on the argument of a question of law reserved by judges trying a parliamentary election petition without deciding the question reserved, the point as to the right to begin was not raised, but the petitioner in fact began. In Re Gloucestershire, Thornbury Division, Election Petition supra where also this point seems not to have been in dispute, the petitioner, who was in the position of an appellant from the decision, began. As to proceeding on a petition by way of special case stated (a much more common procedure than reference of a question of law by statement of case) see PARA 814 ante.

(vii) The Judgment and its Effect

A. PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION PETITION

856. Determination of parliamentary election petition.

At the conclusion of the trial of a parliamentary election petition¹, the election court has to determine whether the member whose return or election is complained of (or any and what other person) was duly returned or elected, or whether the election was void². If the judges constituting the election court differ on the question whether the member whose election or return is complained of was duly elected or returned, they must certify that difference, and the member or representative is deemed to be duly elected or returned³. If the judges determine that the member was not duly elected or returned, but differ as to the rest of the determination, they must certify that difference and the election is deemed to be void⁴. The court must forthwith certify the determination in writing to the Speaker of the House of Commons⁵. On such certificate being given, the determination is final to all intents and purposes⁶.

1 As to parliamentary election petitions see PARA 759 ante.

2 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 144(1). It has been stated that, before upsetting an election, the court ought to be satisfied beyond all doubt that the election is void: Warrington Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 42 at 44 per Martin B.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 144(3)(a).

5 Ibid s 144(2). See PARA 814 note 8 ante.

6 Ibid s 144(1). Thus where an election petition claims the seat for an unsuccessful candidate, and the judges at the trial decide that the candidate was duly elected, a petition against that candidate's return cannot be presented subsequently: Taunton Case, Waygood v James (1869) LR 4 CP 361. If, however, collusion between the respondent and such a successful petitioner was shown, it might be competent for the House of Commons to order a second investigation, even though it might not be within the competency of the court to do so: Taunton Case, Waygood v James supra at 369 per Willes J and at 373 per Brett J (but Brett J thought that the judgment, being a judgment in rem, might not be final if obtained by fraud and deception of the court).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vii) The Judgment and its Effect/A. PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION PETITION/857. Matters to be reported by court hearing parliamentary election petition.

857. Matters to be reported by court hearing parliamentary election petition.

Where a charge is made in a parliamentary election petition¹ of any corrupt or illegal practice having been committed at the election in question, the election court must, in addition to giving a certificate² and at the same time, make a report to the Speaker of the House of Commons³, stating: (1) whether any corrupt or illegal practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with any candidate's knowledge and consent at that election, and the nature of such corrupt or illegal practice⁴; (2) whether any of the candidates has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt or illegal practice in reference to the election⁵; (3) the names of all persons, if any, who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice⁶; (4) whether corrupt or illegal practices have extensively prevailed at the election, or whether there is reason to believe that corrupt or illegal practices have so prevailed⁷. However, before any person who is neither a party to an election petition nor a candidate on whose behalf the seat or office is claimed by the petition is reported by an election court to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, the court must cause notice to be given to him⁸, and, if he appears in pursuance of the notice, the court must give him an opportunity of being heard by himself⁹ and of calling evidence in his defence to show why he should not be so reported¹⁰. At the time of making its report, the election court may also make a special report as to any matters arising in the course of the trial, an account of which in the court's judgment ought to be submitted to the House of Commons¹¹.

Every report sent to the Speaker must be signed by both judges of the election court and, if the judges differ as to the subject of the report, they must certify that difference and make no report on the subject on which they so differ¹². The report of the election court also must be laid before the Director of Public Prosecutions¹³. In order that any person should become subject to any incapacities or disabilities in consequence of the report of an election court¹⁴, the report must contain, or must be equivalent to, a definite finding that he is guilty of the offence or offences entailing such incapacities or disabilities; he does not become subject to them by reason only of a report stating facts from which his guilt may be inferred¹⁵. Unlike its certificate of determination, the election court's report is not final and conclusive as to the matters contained in it¹⁶.

8 Such notice should give the recipient sufficient detail to know the basis on which the court is seeking to name him in its report; there is no requirement for the notice to be in writing, but it would be easier to prove if it is in writing: R (on the application of Khan) v Election Comr [2005] EWHC 2365 (Admin), [2005] All ER (D) 203 (Oct) (applicant had not been named in the election petition and the opportunity afforded him to give evidence on behalf of some of the respondents did not constitute the statutory notice to the claimant required under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 160(1)).

9 If the person on whom the notice is served is desirous of appearing and showing cause against being reported, he can only be heard in person; counsel or solicitor may not be heard on his behalf: R v Mansel Jones (1889) 23 QBD 29, DC. This case must be taken to overrule the decision of Denman J and Cave J in Ipswich Election Petition (1886) cited in the argument on the trial of R v Mansel Jones supra. Blackburn J, in Bewdley Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 174 at 176, was of opinion that a person who had received notice in consequence of charges of bribery being proved against him was entitled to be heard by counsel; but this opinion was given on the wording of the Parliamentary Elections Act 1868 s 45 (repealed), which did not contain the words 'by himself'. It was decided by all three judges in R v Mansel Jones supra at 34-35 that the election court had no discretion to hear counsel on behalf of persons showing cause against being reported.

B. LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTION PETITION

859. Determination of local government election petition and subsequent procedures.

At the conclusion of the trial of a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972¹, the election court must determine whether the person whose election is complained of (or any and what other person) was duly elected, or whether the election was void². The election court must forthwith certify the determination in writing to the High Court³; and the determination so certified is final to all intents as to the matters at issue on the petition⁴. A copy of any certificate made to the High Court must be sent by the High Court to the Secretary of State⁵; and the High Court must by the signatures of two or more of its judges certify such a copy of the certificate to the proper officer of the authority for which the election was held⁶.

Where, on a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁷, the election of any person has been declared void⁸, and no other person has been declared elected in his place⁹, a new election must be held to fill the vacancy in the same manner as on a casual vacancy¹⁰.

Where the election court makes a determination in respect of the election of the Mayor of London¹¹ or in respect of the election of a constituency member of the London Assembly¹² and where: (1) the determination of the election court is that the person whose election is complained of was not duly elected¹³ or that the election was void¹⁴; and (2) the return of that person at that election was taken into account for the purpose of deciding which persons were to be returned as London members of the London Assembly¹⁵, the validity of the return of the London members of the London Assembly is affected neither by the determination of the election court¹⁶ nor, in a case of the election of a constituency member of the London Assembly, by the subsequent return of a person as the constituency member for the Assembly constituency concerned¹⁷. Where the election court has made a determination at the conclusion of the trial of a petition questioning the election of the London members of the London Assembly at an ordinary election¹⁸ and where¹⁹ the proper officer of the Greater London Authority receives the copy of the certificate of the election court's determination in relation to the election which was questioned, he must send notice of the determination to the Greater London returning officer²⁰. If the election is not declared void but the return of a candidate at the election is declared void²¹, and no other person has been declared returned in his place²², the vacancy must be filled (or, as the case may be, remain unfilled) as if it were a casual vacancy²³. If the election is declared void, a new election must be held in the same manner as at an ordinary election²⁴, with the date of the poll at the new election being fixed by the Greater London returning officer²⁵ but falling no later than three months after the receipt by the Greater London returning officer of the notice of the determination²⁶. If the determination of the election court is that the election is void, the Greater London returning officer must inform the returning officer for each Assembly constituency²⁷ of the contents of the notice of the determination²⁸ and of the date fixed for the poll at the new election²⁹. The results of the elections of the constituency members of the London Assembly at the last ordinary election have effect for the purposes of ascertaining the results of the new election³⁰.

860. Matters to be reported by court hearing local election petition.

Where a charge is made in a petition questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972¹ of any corrupt or illegal practice having been committed at the election, the election court must, in addition to its certificate² and at the same time, make a report in writing to the High Court stating: (1) whether any corrupt or illegal practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with any candidate's knowledge and consent at the election, and the nature of such corrupt or illegal practice³; (2) whether any of the candidates has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt or illegal practice in reference to the election⁴; (3) the names of all persons, if any, who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice⁵; (4) whether any corrupt practices have, or whether there is reason to believe that any corrupt practices have, extensively prevailed at the election in the area of the authority for which the election was held or in any electoral area of it⁶. However, before any person who is neither a party to an election petition nor a candidate on whose behalf the seat or office is claimed by the petition is reported by an election court to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, the court must cause notice to be given to him, and, if he appears in pursuance of the notice, the court must give him an opportunity of being heard by himself and of calling evidence in his defence to show why he should not be so reported⁷. At the time of making its report, the election court may also make a special report as to any matters arising in the course of the trial, an account of which in the court's judgment ought to be submitted to the High Court⁸.

A copy of any report made to the High Court by the election court trying a local election petition must be sent by the High Court to the Secretary of State⁹. The report of the election court must also be laid before the Director of Public Prosecutions¹⁰.

Determination of Welsh Assembly election petition and subsequent procedures.

C. WELSH ASSEMBLY ELECTION PETITION

861. Determination of Welsh Assembly election petition and subsequent procedures.

At the conclusion of the trial of an Assembly election petition¹, the election court must determine whether any Assembly member² whose election or return is complained of (or any and what other person) was duly elected or returned³ or, if applicable, whether the election was void⁴. Where, at a constituency election⁵, the election court determines that at a constituency election an Assembly member was not duly elected or returned⁶ or that the election was void⁷, and where the return of the member at that election was taken into account for the purposes of deciding which members were to be returned for the Assembly electoral region⁸ in which the Assembly constituency is situated⁹, neither the determination by the election court¹⁰ nor the subsequent return of an Assembly member for that constituency¹¹ affects the validity of the return of those members for that electoral region¹². Where the election court determines that at a regional election¹³ an Assembly member for an Assembly electoral region was not duly elected or returned, the court in addition must determine that the regional election was void¹⁴. If the judges constituting the election court differ as to whether any Assembly member whose election or return is complained of was duly elected or returned¹⁵, they must certify that difference and the member is deemed to be duly elected or returned¹⁶. Where the petition relates to a constituency election, if the judges determine that an Assembly member whose election or return is complained of was not duly elected or returned but differ as to the rest of the determination, they must certify that difference and the election is deemed to be void¹⁷. The election court must forthwith certify in writing the determination to the presiding officer of the Assembly¹⁸; and the presiding officer must publish any such certificate received by him in this way¹⁹. The determination so certified is final to all intents as to the matters at issue on the petition²⁰.

Where the election court so determines that a regional election was void, the presiding officer of the Assembly must forthwith after receipt of the certificate from the election court²¹: (1) fix a date, which must be no later than three months after receipt of the certificate, for a poll to be held at another election in the Assembly electoral region for which the regional election is determined to be void²²; and (2) send a notice to the returning officer for the Assembly electoral region in which the election was held²³, stating that the election has been determined to be void²⁴, requiring that the election is held again for the purpose of returning the members for that Assembly electoral region²⁵, and stating the date fixed for the poll at the election²⁶. The regional returning officer must, on receipt of notice under head (2) above, inform each constituency returning officer²⁷ for an Assembly constituency in the Assembly electoral region as to the contents of that notice²⁸. The results of the constituency elections in the Assembly electoral region for which the election is held at the last ordinary election have effect for the purposes of ascertaining the results of the regional election²⁹.

Where a charge is made in a Welsh Assembly election petition¹ of any corrupt or illegal practice having been committed at the election in question, the election court must, in addition to giving a certificate³ and at the same time, make a report to the presiding officer of the Assembly⁴, stating: (1) whether any corrupt or illegal practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with any candidate's knowledge and consent at that election, and the nature of such corrupt or illegal practice⁵; (2) whether any of the candidates has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt or illegal practice in reference to the election⁶; (3) the names of all persons, if any, who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice⁷; (4) whether corrupt or illegal practices have extensively prevailed at the election, or whether there is reason to believe that corrupt or illegal practices have so prevailed⁸. However, before any person who is neither a party to an election petition nor a candidate on whose behalf the seat or office is claimed by the petition is reported by an election court to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, the court must cause notice to be given to him, and, if he appears in pursuance of the notice, the court must give him an opportunity of being heard by himself and of calling evidence in his defence to show why he should not be so reported⁹. At the time of making its report, the election court may also make a special report to the presiding officer of the Assembly as to any matters arising in the course of the trial, an account of which in the court's judgment ought to be submitted to the Assembly¹⁰.

Every report sent to the presiding officer of the Assembly must be signed by both judges of the election court and if the judges differ as to the subject of the report, they must certify that difference and make no report on the subject on which they so differ¹¹. The presiding officer of the Assembly must publish any report of an election court so received by him¹² and the report also must be laid before the Director of Public Prosecutions¹³.

863. Determination of European parliamentary election petition.

At the conclusion of the trial of a European parliamentary election petition¹, the election court must determine whether: (1) the member or members whose election is complained of were duly elected²; (2) some other person or persons should have been declared to be elected³; or (3) the election of all members for that electoral region was void⁴. If the judges constituting the election court differ as to any matter which they are required to determine, they must certify that difference and, to the extent that there is such a difference, the result of the election stands⁵.

The election court must forthwith certify in writing the determination to the Secretary of State⁶; and the determination so certified is final to all intents as to the matters at issue on the petition⁷.

Determination of local authority referendum petition and subsequent procedures.

E. LOCAL AUTHORITY REFERENDUM PETITION

864. Determination of local authority referendum petition and subsequent procedures.

At the conclusion of the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum¹, the election court must determine: (1) in the case of a petition presented on the ground that the result of the referendum was not in accordance with the votes cast², whether the result of the referendum was, or was not, in accordance with the votes cast in the referendum³; and (2) in the case of a petition presented on the ground that the referendum should be avoided either on account of corrupt or illegal practices⁴ or on the grounds that corrupt or illegal practices or illegal payments, employments or hirings, committed with reference to the referendum for the purpose of promoting or procuring a particular result in the referendum have so extensively prevailed that they may be reasonably supposed to have affected the result⁵, whether the referendum was void⁶. The election court must forthwith certify the determination in writing to the High Court⁷. A copy of any certificate made to the High Court must be sent by the High Court to the Secretary of State⁸; and the High Court must by the signatures of two or more of its judges certify such a copy of the certificate to the proper officer of the authority by which or in respect of which the referendum was held⁹.

Where the election court makes such a determination under head (1) above, it must, as the circumstances require, either confirm the result of the referendum or reverse the result of the referendum¹⁰; and any reference (in whatever terms) in the timetable¹¹ to the date of the result of the referendum¹² must be construed as a reference to the date on which the election court certifies its determination¹³.

Where an election court certifies, as its determination of a referendum petition specifying any of the grounds involving corrupt or illegal practices¹⁴, that the referendum was avoided, the local authority concerned must hold another referendum, not earlier than two months and not later than three months after the election court has certified its determination in the matter of the referendum petition¹⁵.

On the substantive hearing of a referendum petition for which leave has been granted for the presentation of a referendum petition at which the question asked related to proposals involving either a mayor and cabinet executive¹⁶ or a mayor and council manager executive¹⁷ and in which the majority of the votes cast were 'yes' votes, and after an election for the return of an elected mayor has taken place in consequence of the referendum¹⁸, the election court must either dismiss the petition or allow the petition¹⁹. Where the court allows the petition, it must declare the referendum to be tainted, and order that a further referendum be held²⁰. Where the court makes such an order, the local authority must hold the further referendum as soon as reasonably practicable after the expiration of the period of five years beginning with the date on which the tainted referendum was held²¹. If the majority of the votes cast in a further referendum are 'yes' votes then, where the local authority is operating executive arrangements, it must continue to operate those arrangements unless and until it is authorised or required to operate different executive arrangements or authorised to operate alternative arrangements in place of its existing executive arrangements²². If the majority of the votes cast in a further referendum held in England are 'yes' votes then, where the authority is operating alternative arrangements, it must continue to operate those arrangements unless and until it is authorised to operate different alternative arrangements or authorised or required to operate executive arrangements in place of its existing alternative arrangements²³. If the majority of the votes cast in the further referendum are 'no' votes, the local authority must implement the proposals that were its outline fall-back proposals²⁴ at the time of the tainted referendum²⁵. The further referendum must be conducted in accordance with the provisions which regulate the conduct of local authority referendums generally, with minor modifications²⁶.

On the substantive hearing of a referendum petition for which leave has been granted on any other ground²⁷, the election court must either dismiss the petition or allow the petition²⁸. Where the court allows the petition, it must declare the referendum avoided²⁹.

865. Matters to be reported by court hearing local authority referendum petition.

Where a charge is made in a petition questioning a local authority referendum¹ of any corrupt or illegal practice having been committed at the referendum, the election court must, in addition to its certificate² and at the same time, make a report in writing to the High Court stating: (1) the names of all persons, if any, who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice³; (2) whether any corrupt practices have, or whether there is reason to believe that any corrupt practices have, extensively prevailed at the referendum in the area of the authority by which or in respect of which the referendum was held⁴. However, before any person who is not a party to a referendum petition is reported by an election court to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, the court must cause notice to be given to him, and, if he appears in pursuance of the notice, the court must give him an opportunity of being heard by himself and of calling evidence in his defence to show why he should not be so reported⁵. At the time of making its report, the election court may also make a special report as to any matters arising in the course of the trial, an account of which in the court's judgment ought to be submitted to the High Court⁶.

A copy of any report made to the High Court by the election court trying a local authority referendum must be sent by the High Court to the Secretary of State⁷. The report of the election court also must be laid before the Director of Public Prosecutions⁸.

F. REASONS; CONCLUSION OF PETITION

866. Grounds for judgment.

On the hearing of election petitions it is the practice for the judges, in giving judgment, to give the reasons on which the judgment is founded¹.

¹ Ipswich Case, Packard v Collings and West (1886) 54 LT 619, 4 O'M & H 70 at 71 per Denman J; Norwich Case, Birbeck v Bullard (1886) 4 O'M & H 84 at 90. If the judges differ in their judgment upon the issue, it is the practice for the junior judge to give his judgment first: Great Yarmouth Borough Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 176 at 178.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(vii) The Judgment and its Effect/F. REASONS; CONCLUSION OF PETITION/867. Conclusion of petition.

867. Conclusion of petition.

When the election court has given its judgment and has sent the certificate of its determination, the petition is concluded, and is, therefore, no longer affected by any event which may happen during the time which intervenes between the moment the court has finally parted with the certificate and the moment it reaches the hands of the recipient, even if that event is one which, if it had happened earlier, would have caused the petition to abate or drop¹.

(viii) Costs

868. Application of High Court principles with regard to costs.

The rules of the Supreme Court with regard to costs to be allowed in actions, causes and matters in the High Court are in principle and so far as practicable to apply to the costs of election petitions and other proceedings under the relevant provisions¹. The taxing master must not allow any costs higher than would be allowed in any action, cause or matter in the High Court on a common fund basis².

869. How costs are defrayed.

All costs of and incidental to the presentation of an election or referendum petition¹ and the proceedings consequent on it, except such as are otherwise provided for², are to be defrayed by the parties to the petition in such manner and in such proportions as the election court or High Court may determine³. In particular, any costs which in the court's opinion have been caused by vexatious conduct, unfounded allegations or unfounded objections on the part either of the petitioner or of the respondent, and any needless expense incurred or caused on the part of the petitioner or respondent, may be ordered to be defrayed by the parties by whom it has been incurred or caused whether or not they are on the whole successful⁴.

Where a petition or notice is required to be published by the returning officer, the cost of publication must be paid in the first instance by the petitioner, or, as the case may be, by the person by whom the notice was given, without prejudice to the manner in which such cost must ultimately be borne by one or more of the parties to the petition⁵.

If a petition is withdrawn the petitioner is liable to pay the respondent's costs⁶.

Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. It has been suggested that the discretion of the election court in dealing with costs is absolute and cannot be reviewed by the High Court: Maidenhead Case, Lovering v Dawson (No 2) (1875) LR 10 CP 726. But this view would no longer apply if the election court was subject to judicial review by the High Court; it is not settled whether the election court dealing with petitions under the Local Government Act 1972 is so subject: see PARA 777 note 3 ante. See also PARA 769 note 3 ante (election court dealing with parliamentary election petitions). As respects the local election court, the High Court has jurisdiction to declare and order that its own taxing master should tax the costs in accordance with the formal order of the election court: R v Cripps, ex p Muldoon [1984] QB 686 at 698, [1984] 2 All ER 705 at 712, CA, per Sir John Donaldson MR.

870. General rule as to costs.

The general rule is that costs follow the event¹, but the rule may be displaced by special circumstances², in which case the court will make a special order³. The practice is that if the petitioner is successful and is awarded costs the respondent will nevertheless be awarded costs in respect of charges in which the petitioner was not successful and which involved the respondent in extra expense. The practice used to be to leave the question as to what extra expense has been so caused to be decided by the taxing master, but this practice no longer obtains⁴, and the court settles the question of what costs should be allowed⁵.

871. Grounds for special orders.

There are many grounds of departure from the general rule that costs follow the event¹ on which the court, in its discretion, will award the bulk of costs to a party who has failed on a main issue, or make no order as to costs, or apportion the costs as to the court seems fit. These grounds include failure of the party on the case mainly and primarily relied on, even though he gains his object²; failure of a party on an important charge against the other party, even though he gains his object³; divided success on the main issues⁴; abandonment of a main issue by either side⁵; failure by a party on some of the charges alleged by him⁶; the success of a party on some charge or charges although he fails on the main issue⁷; the judges' disagreement on a main issue⁸ or disagreement on some of the charges⁹; the fact that, although the petition fails, the court is of opinion that an inquiry was called for¹⁰, or that it has been occasioned by the opposite party's conduct¹¹; if there is a scrutiny, the fact that the party who has requested it, although he has not succeeded in establishing a majority of lawful votes, has reduced the number of the opposite party's votes to an equality¹²; the fact that, considering the small majority of votes polled proportionately to the number of voters, the prayer for a scrutiny was reasonable¹³; the fact that a party has made charges recklessly¹⁴, or that his particulars are oppressive¹⁵, or unnecessarily voluminous¹⁶, or that he has not attempted¹⁷ or has failed¹⁸ to substantiate them; the blamable conduct of a party with regard to an election¹⁹; the fact that the petitioners are people of no means, against whom, if defeated, no costs could be recovered beyond those covered by the statutory security²⁰.

Where grounds for making some special order as to costs are afforded by the conduct of one of the parties, the court may still, if dissatisfied with the opposite party's conduct, decline to depart from the ordinary rule²¹.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(viii) Costs/872. Disagreement over costs by judges on trial of petition.

872. Disagreement over costs by judges on trial of petition.

Where the judges trying a parliamentary election petition disagree as to the awarding of costs, no order is made as to them¹. Where, however, the judges, although disagreeing on the issue as to the election being avoided or not, do not disagree as to all the charges made in the petition, they may award costs to the respondent on those charges on which they agree, making no order as to the others².

¹ Great Yarmouth Borough Case (1906) 5 O'M & H 176 at 199. This principle would presumably also apply in the case of trying other election petitions: see PARA 815 ante. In Down County Case (1880) 3 O'M & H 115 at 129, where the judges disagreed as to avoidance of the election, they declined, on that ground, to make any order as to costs. See also Ipswich Case, Packard v Collings and West (1886) 4 O'M & H 70 at 75 per Denman J.

873. Costs against person engaged in corrupt practices.

On the trial of an election or referendum petition¹, where it appears to the election court that a corrupt practice² has not been proved to have been committed, in reference to the election or referendum, by or with the respondent's knowledge and consent, and that the respondent took all reasonable means to prevent corrupt practices being committed on his behalf or in behalf of a particular result in a referendum, the election court may make an order with respect to the payment of the whole or part of the costs of the petition³. Accordingly, if it appears to the court that any person or persons is or are proved, whether by providing money or otherwise, to have been extensively engaged in corrupt practices, or to have encouraged or promoted extensive corrupt practices, in reference to the election or referendum, then, after giving such person or persons an opportunity of being heard by counsel or solicitor and examining and cross-examining witnesses to show cause why the order should not be made, the court may order the whole or part of the costs to be paid by such person or persons or any of them, and may order that, if the costs cannot be recovered from one or more of such persons, they are to be paid by some other of such persons or by either of the parties to the petition⁴. Where any person appears to the court to have been guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice⁵, then, after giving that person an opportunity of making a statement to show why the order should not be made, the court may order the whole or any part of the costs of or incidental to any proceeding before the court in relation to that offence or to that person to be paid by him to such person or persons as the court may direct⁶.

873 Costs against person engaged in corrupt practices

NOTE 3--The extent to which third party orders for the costs of an election petition can be made are limited to the circumstances set out in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 156: Conservative and Unionist Party v Election Commissioner [2010] EWHC 285 (Admin), [2010] All ER (D) 214 (Feb), DC.

874. Repayment of expenses of election court for local election or local authority referendum petition.

The election court appointed for the trial of a petition questioning a local authority referendum or an election under the Local Government Act 1972¹ may, in its discretion, order that the remuneration and allowances payable to the commissioner in respect of the trial of an election petition, and to any officers, clerks or shorthand writers, or the expenses incurred by the proper officer of the authority in receiving the election court², be repaid wholly or in part to the Treasury or to the proper officer, as the case may be³.

1 For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. As to the questioning of an election in England and Wales under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 760 ante.

2 As to these expenses see PARAS 775-776 ante.

3 See the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 133 (including those provisions as applied for the purposes of questioning a local authority referendum: see note 1 supra); and PARAS 775-776 ante. As to the making of deposits or the giving of security for costs see PARAS 794-796 ante; and as to the recovery of costs see PARA 878 post.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(3) QUESTIONING ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS/(viii) Costs/875. Expenses of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

875. Expenses of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

The Director of Public Prosecutions and his assistant or representative are to be paid such allowances as the Treasury may approve for expenses for the purposes of legal proceedings relating to elections¹, other than his general duties of making inquiries into the commission of any offence² which he is informed has been committed and of instituting prosecutions which appear to be required³. The costs incurred in defraying the Director's expenses incurred for those purposes⁴, including the remuneration of his representative, are, in the first instance, to be paid by the Treasury, and they are to be deemed to be expenses of the election court⁵. If, for any reasonable cause, the court thinks it just to do so it must, however, order all or part of those costs to be repaid to the Treasury by the parties to the petition, or such of them as the court may direct⁶.

1 le for the purposes of, in relation to parliamentary and local government elections, the Representation of the People Act 1983 Pt III (ss 120-186) (as amended), in relation to Welsh Assembly elections, the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, Pt IV (arts 85-137) (as amended) and, in relation to European parliamentary elections, the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, Pt 4 (regs 86-122) (as amended).

2 These general duties are specified, in relation to parliamentary and local government elections, in the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 181(1) (as amended), in relation to Welsh Assembly elections, in the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 132(1) and, in relation to European parliamentary elections, in the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 119(1) (see PARA 880 post).

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 181(5); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 132(4); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 119(4).

4 It is submitted that 'those purposes' refer to the purposes referred to in note 1 supra. This would include purposes in connection with relief (see PARA 693 ante) and the withdrawal of petitions (see PARA 811 ante), in addition to attendance at the trial of election petitions. The provision under which Devonport Case, Pascoe v Puleston (1886) 54 LT 733 and Re Lichfield Case (1892) 9 TLR 92 were decided was differently worded and, it is submitted, the decisions no longer apply.

5 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 181(6) (amended by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 28(1), Sch 5); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 132(5); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 119(5). The previous practice which is apparent in the cases cited below has been for the court to refuse to make an order for the payment by a party to the petition of the Director's costs, even though an application for such an order is generally made. However, those cases were decided at a time when the Director was required to attend the trial of every election petition. That requirement no longer applies: see the amendment made by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 24, Sch 4 para 63; and PARA 819 ante. In Norwich Case, Birbeck v Bullard (1886) 4 O'M & H 84 at 91-92, Denman J and Cave J stated that the court will not make an order for the payment of the Director's costs by a petitioner unless a strong case of misconduct is made out, even though the court considered his case to be so terribly overloaded with charges which he failed to prove that, though successful, he was not awarded costs; but see Worcester Borough Case, Glaszard and Turner v Allsopp (1892) 4 O'M & H 153 at 155 where the court made such an order against the petitioner, stating that the petition and particulars contained many charges which, if proved, would have justified the Director of Public Prosecutions in taking steps. Where, however, a petition is utterly unfounded the court will make the order: Lambeth, Kennington Division Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 93 at 95. Where, also, an election is declared void on the ground of bribery by an agent and the court is of the opinion that, although there has not been bad faith on the respondent's part, there has been much carelessness bringing about the result which has caused the election to be avoided, and the court has derived valuable assistance from the attendance of the Director of Public Prosecutions, it may think it right to make an order for the payment of his costs by the respondent on the ground that the respondent has occasioned them:

876. Returning officer's costs.

The general practice as to the costs of a returning officer who has been made a respondent to a petition¹ is that the election court exercises its discretion according to the nature of the reason for his having been made a respondent; he has no general immunity from liability to pay costs occasioned by his negligence in connection with an election². Where the petition claims of an irregularity on the part of a returning officer, he may be ordered to pay the costs occasioned by the irregularity even though there may not have been any actual misconduct on his part³, and in the same way he may be held liable in costs for his deputy's conduct⁴. Although irregularity affecting the result of the election may be proved against the returning officer by the petition, if he has not been made a party to the petition the court cannot order him to pay the costs of the petition⁵. The court may exercise its discretion by leaving the returning officer to bear his own costs⁶.

² Wilson v Ingham (1895) 64 LJQB 775, DC, per Day J (note that Wright J, the other member of the Divisional Court which decided the case, wished to express no opinion as to the class of cases or kind of misconduct for which a returning officer might be liable in costs).

In Rainham Parish Council Case (1919) 83 JP 267, where the returning officer had appointed an experienced deputy who had made a mistake in the counting, the court ordered the deputy to pay costs and made no order against the returning officer.

877. Witnesses' expenses.

The reasonable expenses incurred by any person in appearing to give evidence¹ at the trial of an election or referendum petition², according to the scale allowed to witnesses on the trial of civil actions³, may be allowed to him by a certificate of the election court or of the prescribed officer⁴.

Where witnesses are called and examined by the election court⁵, their expenses are deemed part of the expenses of providing a court; otherwise they are deemed costs of the petition⁶.

1 It would appear that these words are wide enough to include a witness who was summoned to attend but did not give evidence. It was assumed in Trench v Nolan (1873) IR 7 CL 445, and in McLaren v Home (1881) 7 QBD 477, DC, that the words were wide enough. Support for this view is also given by the wording of the provisions cited in PARA 878 post. On the other hand it was thought necessary in King's Lynn Case, Flanders v Ingleby (1911) 6 O'M & H 179, and in Cheltenham Case, Smythies and Claridge v Mathias, Davies' Case (1911) 6 O'M & H 194 at 227, for the election court to make a special order that the registrar should have the same discretion as the master to allow the costs of witnesses who had not actually been called on the ground that the Parliamentary Election Petition Rules (Additional Rules dated 27 January 1875) r 5 (revoked and not replaced by the Election Petition Rules 1960, SI 1960/543), did not give the registrar such power. In the latter case, Channell J said that the registrar was to be given the 'usual discretion'.

878. Recovery of costs.

Where any costs or other sums, under the order of an election court or otherwise under the provisions which govern legal proceedings relating to elections and referendums¹, are to be paid by any person, those costs or sums are due from that person to the person or persons to whom they are to be paid; if payable to the Treasury, they are a debt due to Her Majesty². In either case, they may be recovered accordingly³.

If a petitioner neglects or refuses: (1) in the case of a parliamentary⁴, Welsh Assembly⁵ or European parliamentary election petition⁶, for six months after demand⁷; and (2) in the case of a petition questioning a local authority referendum or an election under the Local Government Act 1972⁸, for three months after demand⁹, to pay to any person summoned as a witness¹⁰ on his behalf or to the respondent any sum certified to be due to him for his costs¹¹, and the neglect or refusal is, within one year after the demand, proved to the High Court's satisfaction¹², every person who entered into a recognisance relating to the petition¹³ is held to have made default in the recognisance and the prescribed officer¹⁴ must thereupon certify the recognisance to be forfeited¹⁵. The recognisance is dealt with as if forfeited by the Crown Court¹⁶.

(i) In general

880. Duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions in relation to offences.

Where information is given to the Director of Public Prosecutions that any offence has been committed under the provisions which govern the conduct of elections or referendums¹, it is his duty to make such inquiries and institute such prosecutions as the circumstances appear to him to require².

A proceeding against a person in respect of any offence under any provision contained in or made under the provisions which govern the conduct of elections or referendums¹ must be commenced² within one year after the offence was committed³.

In the case of summary proceedings⁴ for any such offence, this time limit is substituted for the general time limit that usually applies⁵ for the trial of offences summarily⁶. However, in relation to the prosecution of offences under any provision contained in or made under the Representation of the People Act 1983, a magistrates' court may extend the time within which proceedings must be commenced to not more than 24 months after the offence was committed⁷. The court may so act only if it is satisfied on an application by a constable or Crown prosecutor that there are exceptional circumstances which justify the granting of the application⁸ and that there has been no undue delay in the investigation of the offence to which the application relates⁹. If the magistrates' court so acts, it may also make an order directing the relevant registration officer¹⁰ not to cause the documents retained by him to be destroyed at the expiry of the period of one year¹¹ and extending the period for which he is required to retain them¹² by such further period not exceeding 12 months as is specified in the order¹³. Such an order may be made by the magistrates' court if it is satisfied, on an application by a constable or Crown prosecutor, that documents retained by the relevant registration officer¹⁴ may provide evidence relating to the offence¹⁵. An application for an extension of time either in relation to the commencement of proceedings¹⁶ or in relation to the period for which election documents are required to be retained¹⁷ must be made not more than one year after the offence was committed¹⁸. Any party to such an application who is aggrieved by the refusal of the magistrates' court to extend the time within which proceedings must be commenced¹⁹ or to make an order extending the period for which election documents are required to be retained²⁰ (as the case may be) may appeal to the Crown Court²¹.

885. Punishment of corrupt practices.

A person who is guilty of a corrupt practice is liable on conviction on indictment¹ to a penalty, the nature of which depends on whether it is a case of committing (or aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of) the offence of personation² or an offence at a parliamentary or local government election relating to an application for a postal or proxy vote³, or whether it is a case of any other corrupt practice⁴. On summary conviction, a person who is guilty of a corrupt practice is also liable to a penalty⁵.

If the circumstances warrant such a finding, any person charged with a corrupt practice may be found guilty of an illegal practice (which is for that purpose to be an indictable offence)⁶.

1 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 168(1) (s 168(1) substituted by the Representation of the People Act 1985 s 23, Sch 3 para 8); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284 art 119(1); European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 109(1). As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante. As to corrupt practices see generally para 707 et seq ante; and as to the striking off of a vote of a person found guilty of a corrupt practice see PARA 841 ante.

The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 168 (as amended) has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2. For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante.

The text refers to an offence, in relation to a parliamentary or local government election, under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 60 and, in relation to a Welsh Assembly election, under the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 28 and, in relation to a European parliamentary election, under the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 23 (see PARA 733 ante). The penalty is imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or both: see the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 168(1)(a)(i) (as so substituted and amended); the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284 art 119(1)(a)(i); and the European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 109(1)(a)(i); and see note 1 supra. In R v Brindley [1997] 2 Cr App Rep (S) 353, CA, an offence of personation which was planned and persisted in over a number of days drew a custodial sentence of eight months, one element of which was to serve as a deterrent to those who would interfere with the electoral process, being conduct which was held to be analogous to interference with the course of justice.

3 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 168(1)(a)(i) (as substituted and amended: see note 2 supra). The text refers to an offence under s 62A (as added) (see PARA 734 ante). The penalty is imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or a fine, or both: see s 168(1)(a)(i) (as so substituted and amended). In R v Hussain [2005] EWCA Crim 1866, [2006] 1 Cr App Rep (S) 336, a case which pre-dated the offence under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 62A (as added), a concerted course of action whereby incomplete documents for postal voting in a local election were obtained by deception and completed by, or on behalf of the defendant, had attracted a sentence of three years and seven months' imprisonment on conviction of a charge of conspiracy to defraud; in upholding the sentence, the Court of Appeal approved the deterrent element, having regard to the nature of the offence, and stressed the courts' responsibility in a democratic society to protect the country's electoral system from corruption or fraud, which in the instant case was said to have more dangerous consequences than those which sought to undermine the administration of justice.

Where any corrupt¹ or illegal practice² or any illegal payment, employment or hiring³ or any offence of not having the name and address of the printer and publisher on election documents⁴ is committed by any association or body of persons, corporate or unincorporate, the members of the association or body who have taken part in the commission of the offence are liable to any fine or punishment⁵ imposed for that offence under the provisions which govern the conduct of elections or referendums⁶.

3 As to the offence of illegal payment or employment see PARA 685 ante.

4 As to this offence see PARA 751 ante.

5 This would appear to mean any fine or imprisonment but not to include any incapacities to which an individual might be liable for the offence of which the corporation is guilty.

(iii) Punishment of Offences under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000

890. Summary proceedings for offences under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000.

Summary proceedings for any offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000¹ may, without prejudice to any jurisdiction otherwise exercisable², be taken against any body, including an unincorporated association, at any place at which it has a place of business, and against an individual at any place at which he is for the time being³. Despite the general time limit that usually applies⁵ for the trial of offences summarily, any information relating to an offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 which is triable by a magistrates' court in England and Wales may be so tried if it is laid at any time within three years after the commission of the offence and within six months after the relevant date⁵.

1 As to offences generally see PARA 735 et seq ante.

2 Ie exercisable apart from the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 151(1).

3 Ibid s 151(1).

4 Ie despite anything in the Magistrates' Courts Act 1980 s 127(1) (limitation of time: see MAGISTRATES vol 29(2) (Reissue) PARA 589).

5 Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 151(2). For these purposes, the 'relevant date' means the date on which evidence sufficient in the opinion of the prosecutor to justify proceedings comes to his knowledge (s 151(5)); and a certificate of any prosecutor as to the date on which such evidence as is there mentioned came to his knowledge is conclusive evidence of that fact (s 151(6)). As to offences relating to a European parliamentary election held in the combined region (as to which see PARA 76 ante) which are triable by a magistrates' court in Gibraltar see s 151(4A) (added by the European Parliamentary Elections (Combined Region and Campaign Expenditure) (United Kingdom and Gibraltar) Order 2004, SI 2004/366, art 4(2), Schedule paras 1, 29).

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(4) PUNISHMENT OF OFFENCES/(iii) Punishment of Offences under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000/891. Offences committed by bodies corporate or unincorporated associations.

891. Offences committed by bodies corporate or unincorporated associations.

Where an offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000¹ committed by a body corporate is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of any director, manager, secretary or other similar officer of the body corporate or any person who was purporting to act in any such capacity, he, as well as the body corporate, is guilty of that offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly².

Proceedings for an offence alleged to have been committed under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 by an unincorporated association is to be brought against the association in its own name (and not in that of any of its members) and, for the purposes of any such proceedings, any rules of court relating to the service of documents have effect as if the association were a corporation³. A fine imposed on an unincorporated association on its conviction of such an offence must be paid out of the funds of the association⁴. The statutory provisions which deal with the procedure on charges of offences against corporations⁵ have effect in a case in which an unincorporated association is charged in England or Wales with an offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 in like manner as they have effect in the case of a corporation so charged⁶.

Where a partnership is guilty of an offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 and the offence is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of, any partner, he as well as the partnership is guilty of that offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly⁷.

Where any other unincorporated association is guilty of an offence under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 and the offence is proved to have been committed with the consent or connivance of, or to be attributable to any neglect on the part of any officer of the association or any member of the committee or other similar governing body of the association, he, as well as the association, is guilty of that offence and is liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly⁸.

(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

(i) Avoidance of Election or Referendum

892. Avoidance of election of candidate reported guilty of corrupt or illegal practice.

If a candidate who has been elected is reported by an election court personally guilty or guilty by his agents of any corrupt or illegal practice¹, his election is void².

² Representation of the People Act 1983 s 159(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 108. There is no provision in relation to European parliamentary elections because corrupt and illegal practices relate only to personation and other voting offences in that context: see PARA 763 ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. Avoidance of election by reason of general corruption, bribery, treating or intimidation.

893. Avoidance of election by reason of general corruption, bribery, treating or intimidation.

Where, on an election petition¹, it is shown that corrupt² or illegal practices³ or illegal payments, employments or hirings⁴ committed in reference to the election for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of any person have so extensively prevailed that they may be reasonably supposed to have affected the result, the election of that person, if he has been elected, is void, and he is incapable of being elected to fill the vacancy or any of the vacancies for which the election was held⁵. An election under the Local Government Act 1972⁶ may be questioned on the ground that it is avoided under this provision⁷. An election is not liable to be avoided, otherwise than under this provision, by reason of general corruption, bribery, treating or intimidation⁸.

For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. There is no provision for the purposes of European parliamentary election petitions because corrupt and illegal practices may be cited in such petitions only when they are related to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante.

5 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 164(1); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 115(1). As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante. Where, on a Welsh Assembly election petition, it is shown that corrupt or illegal practices or illegal payments, employments or hirings committed have prevailed in relation to a regional election for the purpose of promoting or procuring the giving of votes for a registered political party at the election, such acts, for the purposes of art 115(1), are treated as having prevailed for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of each candidate on that party's list: art 115(2). For the meaning of 'regional election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'registered political party' for these purposes see PARA 263 ante; and for the meaning of 'party list candidate' in relation to a Welsh Assembly election see PARA 237 note 23 ante. As to evidence given by certificate when the matters set out in the text are prosecuted see PARA 884 ante.

6 As to elections under the Local Government Act 1972 see PARA 11 ante.

7 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 164(3). See Akhtar v Jahan, Iqbal v Islam [2005] All ER (D) 15 (Apr), in which the elections for two wards were declared void on the grounds of widespread corrupt and illegal practices under the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 164 (as well as on the grounds of corrupt and illegal practices by the successful candidates), the Commissioner having found on the evidence that: (1) fraudulent applications for postal votes were made and electors' names improperly entered without their knowledge or consent on the absent voters' list; (2) unused ballot packages were improperly diverted by a wide variety of means; (3) the improperly diverted ballot packages were fraudulently used by completing the ballot papers and declarations of identity (now the postal voting statement) and despatching them to the Elections Office; (4) completed ballot packages were improperly diverted; and (5) improperly diverted ballot packages were opened and the contents fraudulently altered. On appeal, the finding against one councillor was quashed on evidential grounds but the other findings of personal corruption and general corruption were not affected: see R (on the application of Afzal) v Election Court [2005] EWCA Civ 647, [2005] LGR 823.

8 Representation of the People Act 1983 s 164(2); National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 115(3). The provision set out in the text supersedes the common law by which an election might be avoided for general bribery or treating in favour of the successful candidate or general intimidation, whether or not the successful candidate or his agents were responsible for the bribery, treating or intimidation: Bradford Case (No 2) (1869) 19 LT 723, 1 O'M & H 35; and see eg Beverley Case (1869) 20 LT 792, 1 O'M & H 143; Lichfield Case, Anson v Dyott (1869) 20 LT 11 at 14, 1 O'M & H 22 at 26; Guildford Case (1869) 19 LT 729 at 731, 1 O'M & H 13 at 14-15; Bridgewater Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 112 at 115 (bribery); Ipswich Case, Packard v Collings and West (1886) 54 LT 619, 4 O'M & H 70 (bribery and treating); Tamworth Case, Hill and Walter v Peel and Bulwer (1869) 20 LT 181, 1 O'M & H 75; Pontefract Case, Shaw v Reckitt (1893) 4 O'M & H 200 at 201, Day 125 at 129 (treating); Drogheda Borough Case (1869) 21 LT 402, 1 O'M & H 252; Stafford Borough Case (1869) 21 LT 210 at 211, 1 O'M & H 228 at 229; Staleybridge Case, Ogden, Woolley and Buckley v Sidebottom (1869) 20 LT 75 at 78, 1 O'M & H 66 at 72; Dudley Case (1874) 2 O'M & H 115; Durham County, Northern Division Case (No 2) (1874) 2 O'M & H 152; Re Gloucestershire, Thornbury Division, Election Petition (1886) 4 O'M & H 65 at 67; South Meath Case (1892) Day 132 at 140; East Kerry Case (1910) 6 O'M & H 58 (intimidation); Hartlepool Case (1910) 6 O'M & H 1 at 8. The provision does not refer to general personation, and at common law general personation, in the absence of evidence that the candidate or his agent was implicated, does not avoid the election (Belfast Borough, Western Division Case (1886) 4 O'M & H 105), although if a candidate's agent had arranged for voters to be personated, the election would, it seems, be avoided at common law (Coventry Case, Berry v Eaton and Hill (1869) 1 O'M & H 97 at 105). As to the statutory provisions by which personation is a corrupt practice see PARA 733 ante; and as to the avoidance of an election on this ground where an elected candidate has been found guilty see PARA 892 ante.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(i) Avoidance of Election or Referendum/894. Avoidance of election for employing corrupt agent.

894. Avoidance of election for employing corrupt agent.

If, at a parliamentary, Welsh Assembly or local government election¹, a candidate or his election agent² personally engages³, as a canvasser or agent for the conduct or management of the election⁴, any person whom he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing to be subject to an incapacity to vote at the election⁵: (1) by reason of his having been convicted or reported guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice⁶; or (2) by reason of his having been convicted more than once of an offence under the Public Bodies Corrupt Practices Act 1889⁷, the candidate is incapable of being elected to fill the vacancy or any of the vacancies for which the election is held⁸. A local government election may be questioned⁹ on the ground that the person whose election is questioned was, at the time of the election, by virtue of these provisions incapable of being elected¹⁰.

A vote given at a parliamentary or local government election, or at a Welsh Assembly constituency election¹¹ or regional election, for a person who was, at the date of the election, incapable of being elected by virtue of these provisions, is not, by reason of his incapacity on this ground, deemed to be thrown away so as to entitle another candidate to be declared elected, unless given at a poll consequent on an election court's decision that he was so incapable¹². Similarly, a vote given at a Welsh Assembly regional election for a registered political party¹³ where at the time of the election each candidate included on the party's list was by virtue of these provisions incapable of being elected, is not, by reason of that incapacity, deemed to be thrown away so as to entitle another candidate to be declared elected, unless given at a poll consequent on the decision of an election court that he was so incapable¹⁴.

1 For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante. There is no provision in relation to European parliamentary elections because corrupt and illegal practices relate only to personation and other voting offences in that context: see PARA 763 ante.

2 As to the appointment of an election agent for parliamentary and local government elections see PARA 238 ante; and as to the appointment of an election agent for elections to the National Assembly for Wales see PARA 242 ante. At a Welsh Assembly election, the reference is, for an Assembly election, to any individual candidate or his election agent (see the National Assembly for Wales (Representation of the People) Order 2003, SI 2003/284, art 116(1)(a)) and, for a regional election, to any or all of a group of party list candidates or their election agent (see art 116(1)(b)). For the meanings of 'Assembly election' and 'regional election' in this context see PARA 3 note 1 ante; and for the meanings of 'individual candidate' and 'party list candidate', and as to the meaning of references to groups of party list candidates, see PARA 237 note 23 ante.

3 For the canvasser or agent to be personally engaged, it is sufficient for him to be engaged with the knowledge and consent of the candidate or election agent: North Norfolk Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 236 at 238; Norwich Case (1871) 23 LT 701 at 702, 2 O'M & H 38 at 40-41.

4 It is not necessary that the agent should be an agent for the management of the whole election; it is sufficient if he is agent for part of the election. He must be not simply an agent who might be employed to such an extent as might make the candidate answerable for corrupt or illegal practices committed by him, but employed in the way of managing a portion of the election: North Norfolk Case, Burton's Case (1869) 1 O'M & H 236 at 239.

At a Welsh Assembly election, the incapacity imposed by art 116(1) applies, in relation to party list candidates at a regional election, to each candidate on the list (where their election agent engages any person whom he knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing to be subject to an incapacity to vote at the election) or only to that candidate who engages, or those candidates who engage, that person (where their election agent does not engage such a person): art 116(2).

In the case of an election of the Mayor of London, a vote deemed in accordance with the Representation of the People Act 1983 s 165(3) to be thrown away is to be so deemed only to the extent that it is a vote given so as to indicate that the person who was under the incapacity is the voter's first or second preference from among the candidates: s 165(4) (added by the Greater London Authority Act 1999 s 17, Sch 3 paras 1, 36). 895. Avoidance of local authority referendum by reason of general corruption, bribery, treating or intimidation.

Where, on a referendum petition¹, it is shown that corrupt² or illegal practices³ or illegal payments, employments or hirings⁴ committed in reference to the referendum⁵ for the purpose of promoting or procuring a particular outcome in relation to the question asked in the referendum have so extensively prevailed that they may be reasonably supposed to have affected the result, the referendum, if that outcome was achieved, is void⁶. A referendum is not liable to be avoided, otherwise than under this provision, by reason of general corruption, bribery, treating or intimidation⁷.

1 Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante.

896. Other circumstances in which a fresh election or referendum can be ordered.

An election may be overturned, and a new election held, following an irregularity in the way the original election was conducted¹, or following a prosecution for election offences² or where a successful candidate is found to lack one of the qualifications for office³. An election or referendum may be avoided at the conclusion of the trial of a petition questioning such an election or referendum on any of the grounds so allowed⁴.

A fresh local government election can also be ordered in certain circumstances by the High Court if such an election fails either wholly or in part or becomes void⁵ and in other circumstances by the returning officer⁶ or, in the case of parish or community elections, by the district council⁷. Proceedings may be instituted⁸ against any person, on the ground that he acted or claims to be entitled to act as a member of a local authority while disqualified for so acting, even though the time for the presentation of an election petition has passed and the validity of the election itself cannot be challenged by that procedure⁹, and the office in which he acted or claims to be entitled to act may be declared vacant¹⁰.

In 1955 an order was made under the Local Government Act 1933 s 72(2) (repealed) for the holding of a fresh election of the mayor of Hastings because due notice of the holding of the annual meeting at which he was elected had not been given. In a case decided under the Municipal Corporations Act 1882 s 87 (repealed), concerning an election of aldermen which had been so conducted as not to be a lawful election, it was held that the proper remedy was by mandamus and not by an election petition: Re Barnes Corpn, ex p Hutter [1933] 1 KB 668, DC.

Court's duty to report election candidate or agent personally guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice.

(iv) Report of Corrupt or Illegal Practices

899. Court's duty to report election candidate or agent personally guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice.

At the conclusion of the trial of a parliamentary election petition¹, or a Welsh Assembly election petition² or a local government election petition³, the election court must in certain circumstances make a report⁴, which must state whether any corrupt or illegal practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at the election, and the nature of the corrupt or illegal practice⁵. For the purposes of the provisions which impose civil incapacities on candidates personally guilty of such a practice⁶, if it is reported that a corrupt practice, other than treating or undue influence, was committed with a candidate's knowledge and consent, he is to be treated as having been reported personally guilty of that corrupt practice⁷; and if it is reported that an illegal practice was committed with a candidate's knowledge and consent at a parliamentary election, he is to be treated as having been reported personally guilty of that illegal practice⁸.

The report must also state whether any of the candidates has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt or illegal practice in reference to the election⁹. If, however, a candidate is reported guilty by his agents of treating, undue influence or any illegal practice, he is not to be treated, for the purposes of the provisions avoiding an election or imposing civil incapacities¹⁰, as having been reported guilty by his agents of the offences mentioned in the report if the court also reports that the candidate has proved¹¹ to the court: (1) that no corrupt or illegal practice was committed at the election by the candidate or his election agent¹² and the offences mentioned in the report were committed contrary to the orders and without the sanction or connivance of the candidate or his election agent¹³; and (2) that the candidate and his election agent¹⁴ took all reasonable means for preventing the commission of corrupt and illegal practices at the election¹⁵; and (3) that the offences mentioned in the report were of a trivial, unimportant and limited character¹⁶; and (4) that in all other respects the election was free from any corrupt or illegal practice on the part of the candidate and of his agents¹⁷.

The general statutory provisions¹⁸ as to the consequences of the report that a candidate was guilty by his agents of a corrupt or illegal practice have effect subject to the express provisions¹⁹ relating to particular acts which are declared to be corrupt or illegal practices²⁰.

(v) Personal Incapacities

903. Disqualification from being the Mayor of London for failure to make returns as to election expenses.

If, in the case of any candidate at an election of the Mayor of London¹, the return² and declarations as to election expenses³ are not delivered before the expiry of the time limited for the purpose, the candidate must, as respects that election, be disqualified from being elected or being the Mayor of London⁴.

Any application⁵ by such a candidate for relief in respect of a failure to deliver the return and declarations as to election expenses must be made within the period of six weeks following the day on which the time limited for their delivery expires⁶.

The disqualification from being elected or being the Mayor of London does not take effect unless or until the period specified for making an application for relief expires without such an application having been made⁷ or, if such an application is made, unless or until the application is finally disposed of without relief being granted⁸ or is abandoned or fails by reason of non-prosecution⁹.

IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(v) Personal Incapacities/904. Personal incapacity incurred on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a parliamentary, local government election or local authority referendum.

904. Personal incapacity incurred on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a parliamentary, local government election or local authority referendum.

A candidate or other person reported by an election court personally guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice¹, or a person who is convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice², in relation to a parliamentary or local government election³ or local authority referendum⁴, is during the relevant period⁵ incapable⁶: (1) of being registered as an elector or voting⁷ at any parliamentary election in the United Kingdom⁸ or at any local government election in Great Britain or at any referendum⁹; or (2) of being elected to the House of Commons¹⁰; or (3) of holding any elective office¹¹.

If a candidate or other person so reported is already elected to a seat in the House of Commons, or holds any such office, he must vacate the seat or office as from the date of the report¹².

If a person so convicted is already elected to a seat in the House of Commons or holds any such office, he must vacate the seat or office¹³ in question at the appropriate time for these purposes¹⁴, namely the end of the period which is the period prescribed by law within which notice of appeal may be given, or an application for leave to appeal may be made, by him in respect of the conviction¹⁵ or if (at any time within that period) that period is extended the end of the period as so extended or the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction, whichever is the earlier¹⁶. If, before the appropriate time, notice of appeal is given, or an application for leave to appeal is made, by such a person in respect of the conviction, he must vacate the seat or office in question at the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction unless¹⁷: (a) such an appeal is dismissed or abandoned at any earlier time (in which case he must vacate the seat or office at that time)¹⁸; or (b) at any time within that period of three months the court determines on such an appeal that the conviction should not be upheld (in which case the seat or office is not to be vacated by him)¹⁹. Where such a person vacates a seat or office in this way, no subsequent determination of a court that his conviction should not be upheld entitles him to resume the seat or office²⁰.

If a person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice has already been elected to a seat in the House of Commons or to any elective office, he must, in addition to being subject to the incapacities mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above, be suspended from performing any of his functions as a member of Parliament, or (as the case may be) any of the functions of that office, during the period of suspension²¹, being the period beginning with the date of the conviction and ending with the date on which the seat or office is vacated or, where head (b) above applies, the date on which the court determines that the conviction should not be upheld²².

Any incapacities or other requirements applying to a person who is convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice apply in addition to any other statutory punishment that is imposed upon conviction, but they are subject to the court's power to mitigate or remit them in cases where such power is given to the court²³.

1 As to illegal practices (including those which are also offences) see PARA 674 et seq ante; and as to corrupt practices (including those which are also offences) see PARA 707 et seq ante. As to the circumstances in which a candidate is treated as having been reported personally guilty of such practices see PARA 899 ante. The incapacity does not apply where the person is guilty by an agent: Morris v Shrewsbury Town Clerk [1909] 1 KB 342, DC.

3 For the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante.

4 For the meaning of 'referendum' for these purposes see PARA 576 note 2 ante. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 173(1)(a)(i), (2), (3) (as substituted and amended) has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2.

5 For these purposes, the relevant period is the period beginning with the date of the report or the date of the conviction (as the case may be) and ending, in the case of a person reported personally guilty or convicted (as the case may be) of a corrupt practice, five years after that date or, in the case of a person reported personally guilty or convicted (as the case may be) of an illegal practice, three years after that date: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 160(5) (substituted by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 137, Sch 17 paras 1, 8); Representation of the People Act 1983 s 173(3) (s 173 substituted by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 s 136); and see note 4 supra. However, if at any time within that period of five or three years a court determines on an appeal by that person against such a conviction that it should not be upheld, the relevant period ends at that time instead: Representation of the People Act 1983 s 173(3) (as so substituted).

For the meaning of 'Great Britain' see PARA 13 note 1 ante. 904 Personal incapacity incurred on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a parliamentary, local government election or local authority referendum

NOTE 4--SI 2001/1298 replaced: Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2007, SI 2007/2089. SI 2004/870 replaced by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2008, SI 2008/1848.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(v) Personal Incapacities/905. Personal incapacity incurred on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a Welsh Assembly election.

905. Personal incapacity incurred on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a Welsh Assembly election.

A candidate or other person reported by an election court personally guilty of a corrupt practice¹ in relation to a Welsh Assembly election² is for five years from the date of the report incapable³: (1) of being registered as an elector or voting at any Assembly election, election to the House of Commons⁴, election to the European Parliament⁵ or election in Great Britain⁶ to any public office⁷; or (2) of being elected to and sitting in the Assembly, the House of Commons, the European Parliament⁸; and (3) of holding any public or judicial office⁹. If already elected to the Assembly or such other body as is mentioned in head (2) above or holding such office, such a candidate or other person so reported must from that date vacate the seat or office¹⁰. A candidate or other person reported by an election court personally guilty of an illegal practice¹¹ is for three years from the date of the report incapable of being registered as an elector or voting at any Assembly election, any parliamentary election, any European parliamentary election or at any election to a public office held¹²: (a) if the offence was committed in relation to a constituency election¹³, for or in the Assembly constituency¹⁴ for which the election was held, any other Assembly constituency in the Assembly electoral region¹⁵ in which the first mentioned constituency is situated, the Assembly electoral region in which the first mentioned constituency is situated, or any Assembly constituency or electoral region which includes the whole or any part of the first mentioned constituency as constituted for the purposes of the election (or any other Assembly constituency within that Assembly electoral region)¹⁶; or (b) if the offence was committed in relation to a regional election¹⁷, for or in the Assembly electoral region for which the election was held, any Assembly constituency situated in that electoral region, or any Assembly constituency or electoral region which includes the whole or part of the first mentioned electoral region as constituted for the purposes of the election (or any other Assembly constituency in that second mentioned Assembly electoral region)¹⁸. The incapacities imposed by head (a) above or, as the case may be, head (b) above apply only to a candidate or other person reported personally guilty of an illegal practice in relation to voting offences other than personation¹⁹. The provisions as to the consequences of the report that a candidate was guilty by his agents of a corrupt or illegal practice have effect subject to the express provisions relating to particular acts which are declared to be corrupt or illegal practices²⁰.

If a person is reported by an election court personally guilty of a corrupt practice under the Representation of the People Act 1983, in addition to being subject to the incapacities set out therein²¹, he is for five years from the date of that report incapable of being elected to and sitting in the Assembly, and if already elected to the Assembly, he must from that date vacate the seat²². If a person is reported by an election court personally guilty of an illegal practice under the Representation of the People Act 1983, in addition to being subject to the incapacities set out therein²³, he is for three years from the date of the report incapable of being registered as an elector or voting at any Assembly election held²⁴: (i) if the offence was committed in relation to a parliamentary election, in the Assembly constituency which is coterminous with the parliamentary constituency, in any other Assembly constituency in the Assembly electoral region in which the parliamentary constituency is situated, in the Assembly electoral region in which the parliamentary constituency is situated, or in any Assembly constituency or electoral region which includes the whole or any part of the parliamentary constituency as constituted for the purposes of the election (or any other Assembly constituency in that Assembly electoral region)²⁵; or (ii) if the offence was committed in relation to an election under the Local Government Act 1972²⁶, in the Assembly constituency or electoral region which includes the whole or any part of the local government area for which the election was held (or any other Assembly constituency in that Assembly electoral region) or in any Assembly constituency or electoral region which includes the whole or any part of the local government area for which the election was held as constituted for the purposes of the election (or any other Assembly constituency within that Assembly electoral region)²⁷.

A person convicted of a corrupt practice²⁸ is subject to the like incapacities²⁹ as if at the date of the conviction he had been reported personally guilty of that corrupt practice³⁰. A person convicted of an illegal practice³¹ is subject to the like incapacities³² as if at the date of the conviction he had been reported personally guilty of that illegal practice³³. In addition to being subject to these incapacities, a person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice who has already been elected to a seat in the Assembly must be suspended from performing any of his functions as a member of the Assembly during the period of suspension³⁴, being the period beginning with the date of the conviction and ending with the date on which the seat is vacated³⁵ or, where the court determines on appeal that the conviction should not be upheld³⁶, the date on which the court determines that the conviction should not be upheld³⁷. These incapacities are in addition to any other statutory punishment³⁸, but are subject to the court's power to mitigate or remit them in cases where such power is given to the court³⁹. A person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice who has already been elected to a seat in the Assembly must vacate the seat at the appropriate time for these purposes, namely the end of the period which is the period prescribed by law within which notice of appeal may be given, or an application for leave to appeal may be made, by him in respect of the conviction⁴⁰ or, if (at any time within that period) that period is extended, the end of the period as so extended or the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction⁴¹, whichever is the earlier⁴². If, before the appropriate time, notice of appeal is given or an application for leave is made by such a person in respect of such a conviction, he must vacate the seat at the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction unless such an appeal is dismissed or abandoned at any earlier time (in which case he must vacate the seat at that time)⁴³ or at any time within that period of three months the court determines on such an appeal that the conviction should not be upheld (in which case the seat is not to be vacated by him)⁴⁴. Where such a person vacates a seat in this way no subsequent determination of a court that his conviction should not be upheld entitles him to resume the seat⁴⁵.

Subject to the court's power to mitigate or remit incapacities in cases where such power is given to the court but in addition to any punishment duly provided, a person convicted of a corrupt practice under the Representation of the People Act 1983 is subject to like incapacities⁴⁶ as if at the date of the conviction he had been reported personally guilty of that corrupt practice⁴⁷, and a person convicted of an illegal practice under the Representation of the People Act 1983, in relation to a parliamentary election and in relation to an election under the Local Government Act 1972, is subject to like incapacities⁴⁸ as if at the date of the conviction he had been reported personally guilty of that illegal practice⁴⁹. Subject to the court's power to mitigate or remit incapacities in cases where such power is given to the court but in addition to any punishment duly provided, a person convicted of a corrupt practice under the European parliamentary elections rules⁵⁰ is, for five years from the date of the conviction, incapable of being elected to and sitting in the Assembly and, if already elected to the Assembly, he must from that date vacate the seat⁵¹; and a person convicted of an illegal practice under the European parliamentary elections rules is, for three years from the date of the conviction, incapable of being registered as an elector or voting at any Assembly election⁵². The court's power to mitigate or remit incapacities under the Representation of the People Act 1983 applies to any incapacity so imposed as if the incapacity was imposed under the Representation of the People Act 1983⁵³.

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(v) Personal Incapacities/906. Personal incapacity incurred on conviction of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a European parliamentary election.

906. Personal incapacity incurred on conviction of corrupt or illegal voting practices at a European parliamentary election.

A candidate or other person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice¹, in relation to a European parliamentary election², is during the relevant period³ incapable⁴: (1) of being registered as an elector or voting⁵ at any parliamentary⁶ or European parliamentary election in the United Kingdom⁷ or at any local government election⁸ in Great Britain⁹; or (2) of being elected to the House of Commons or the European Parliament¹⁰; or (3) of holding any elective office¹¹.

If a person so convicted is already elected to a seat in the House of Commons or the European Parliament or if he holds any such office, he must vacate the seat or office as from the date of the conviction¹² or at the appropriate time for these purposes¹³, being the end of the period which is the period prescribed by law within which notice of appeal may be given or an application for leave to appeal may be made by him in respect of the conviction¹⁴ or, if (at any time within that period) that period is extended, the end of the period as so extended or the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction¹⁵, whichever is the earlier¹⁶. If, before the appropriate time, notice of appeal is given or an application for leave to appeal is made by such a person in respect of the conviction, he must vacate the seat or office in question at the end of the period of three months beginning with the date of the conviction unless¹⁷: (a) such an appeal is dismissed or abandoned at any earlier time (in which case he must vacate the seat or office at that time)¹⁸; or (b) at any time within that period of three months the court determines on such an appeal that the conviction should not be upheld (in which case the seat or office is not to be vacated by him)¹⁹. Where such a person vacates a seat or office in this way, no subsequent determination of a court that his conviction should not be upheld entitles him to resume the seat or office²⁰.

If a person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice has already been elected to a seat in the House of Commons or the European Parliament or to any elective office, he must, in addition to being subject to the incapacities mentioned in heads (1) to (3) above, be suspended from performing any of his functions as a member of Parliament or member of the European Parliament ('MEP'), or (as the case may be) any of the functions of that office, during the period of suspension²¹, being the period beginning with the date of the conviction and ending with the date on which the seat or office is vacated or, where head (b) above applies, the date on which the court determines that the conviction should not be upheld²².

Any incapacities or other requirements applying to a person who is convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice apply in addition to any other statutory punishment that is imposed upon conviction²³, but they are subject to the court's power to mitigate or remit them in cases where such power is given to the court²⁴.

1 As to the prosecution of corrupt practices see PARA 885 ante; and as to the prosecution of illegal practices see PARA 886 ante.

2 As to European parliamentary elections see PARA 224 et seq ante.

3 For these purposes, the relevant period is the period beginning with the date of the conviction and ending, in the case of a person convicted of a corrupt practice, five years after that date or, in the case of a person convicted of an illegal practice, three years after that date, except that if (at any time within that period of five or three years) a court determines on an appeal by that person against the conviction that it should not be upheld, the relevant period ends at that time instead: European Parliamentary Elections Regulations 2004, SI 2004/293, reg 107(3).

Halsbury's Laws of England/ELECTIONS AND REFERENDUMS (VOLUME 15(3) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 1-343; VOLUME 15(4) (2007 REISSUE) PARAS 344-907)/7. IRREGULARITIES, OFFENCES AND LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(5) CONSEQUENCES OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS/(v) Personal Incapacities/907. Mitigation and remission of incapacities imposed on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at elections.

907. Mitigation and remission of incapacities imposed on proof of corrupt or illegal voting practices at elections.

Where any person is subject to any incapacity by virtue of the report of an election court¹ and on a prosecution he or some other person in respect of whose acts the incapacity was imposed is acquitted of any of the matters in respect of which the incapacity was imposed, the court may order that the incapacity is thenceforth to cease so far as it is imposed in respect of those matters². Where on a prosecution any person who is subject to any such incapacity is convicted of any such matters, no further incapacity is to be taken to be imposed by reason of the conviction, and the court has the like power, if any, to mitigate or remit for the future certain incapacities³ imposed by virtue of a report of an election court as if they had been imposed by reason of the conviction⁴. A court exercising any of these powers must make an order declaring how far, if at all, the incapacities imposed by virtue of the report remain unaffected by virtue of the exercise of the power, and that order is conclusive for all purposes⁵.

Where a person convicted of a corrupt or illegal practice is subsequently reported by an election court to have been guilty of such a practice, no further incapacity is to be imposed on him⁶, by reason of the report⁷.

Where any person is subject to an incapacity by virtue of a conviction⁸ or (alternatively, in relation to a parliamentary, local government or Welsh Assembly election or local authority referendum) by virtue of the report of an election court, and any witness who gave evidence against him on the proceeding for the conviction or report (as the case may be) is convicted of perjury in respect of that evidence, the incapacitated person may apply to the High Court, and the court, if satisfied that the conviction or report (as the case may be) so far as respects that person was based on perjury, may order that the incapacity is thenceforth to cease⁹.

1 le by virtue of reports following the trial of a parliamentary or local election petition (see PARA 904 ante) or by virtue of reports following the trial of a Welsh Assembly election petition (see PARA 905 ante). For the meaning of 'Assembly election' in the context of Welsh Assembly elections see PARA 3 note 1 ante; for the meaning of 'parliamentary election' see PARA 9 ante; and for the meaning of 'local government election' see PARA 10 ante. As to elections in the City of London see PARA 30 ante. There is no provision in relation to the trial of a European parliamentary election petition because in that context corrupt and illegal practices relate only to personation and other voting offences: see PARA 763 ante; and cf, in relation to prosecutions pursuant to personation and other voting offences, the text and notes 8-9 infra. Provision is made for questioning a local authority referendum by applying and modifying the provision made for questioning an election under the Local Government Act 1972: see PARA 764 ante. For the meaning of 'election under the Local Government Act 1972' see PARA 10 note 2 ante. The Representation of the People Act 1983 s 174 (as amended) has been applied and modified for the purposes of local authority referendums, in relation to England, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (England) Regulations 2001, SI 2001/1298, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2 and, in relation to Wales, by the Local Authorities (Conduct of Referendums) (Wales) Regulations 2004, SI 2004/870, reg 8, Sch 3 Table 2.
